Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual and Hand Book for the Afflicted—

Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease, contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities, and everything that would offend the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exhlusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or pirvate nature.

To which is added, receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the Fever and Ague

Testimony of the Prof of Obstetrics in Penn. College, Philadelphia — "Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual."—The author of this work unlike the majority of those works who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats, is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

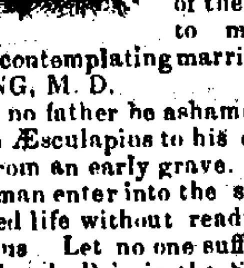
JOSEPH LONGSHORE, M. D

From A Woodward, M. D., of Penn. University, Philadelphia—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the "Medical Manual." Numerous cases of diseases of the Genital Organs some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some instances where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by Self-abuse, or Excess of venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the Author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as a kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one, in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M D.

"This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the class of diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff,' and too little presumption to impose,' he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruits of some 20 years most successful practice."—Herald.

"No teacher or parent should be without the knowledge imparted in this invaluable work. It would save years of pain, mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge."—People's Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, in writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual," says: "Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and their posterity. The constitutions of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled if not broken down, and the do not know the cause or the cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this wide-spread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generations. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks,) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and, believe me, your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."



One copy, (securely enveloped,) will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or 6 copies for $1.—Address (post paid) COSDEN & Co., publishers, Box 196, Philadelphia. 476y

Medicated Inhalation---A New Method,

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (see certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 27th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and advice of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieve the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities best calculated in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficient remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. It exists as a Specific for Female Irregularities, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites of long

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, or Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects: or in cases of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sleeplessness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those complaints which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of is assuring both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthens the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long lists of Recommendations. Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle. (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

THE MARRIAGE STATE;

Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery and Sickness, attend it?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchsafed to them.

Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with perhaps a family of children.

HOW OFTEN IT HAPPENS THAT THE

WIFE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR

In that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhilerating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Thus, day after day, and month after month transpires. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the hope of recovery no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

But a few years ago in the flush of health and youth, and buoyancy of spirits, rapidly, and apparently inexplicably, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame emaciated, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But oftener, by far oftener, to gross and inexcusable ignorance of the simplest and plainest rules of health as connected with the marriage state, the violation of which entails disease, suffering and misery, not only to the wife, but often

Hereditary Complaints upon the Children

"UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION,"

Transmitting CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, HYPOCHONDRIA, INSANITY, GOUT, KING'S EVIL, and other diseases, as a

from the Parents.

And must this continue? Shall we be wise in all that concerns the cattle of our fields, our horses, our sheep, our cows, our oxen, the nature and character of the soil we possess, the texture and quality of our goods and merchandise; but in all that concerns ourselves as human beings, with human functions and passions, subject to great derangement, involving our future peace and happiness—in all that concerns the health and welfare of the wife of our affections, and the mother of our children; in all that concerns the mental and physical well being of those children, we should be immersed in the darkest and most

BENIGHTED IGNORANCE,

AS CULPABLE AS INEXCUSABLE!

How long shall this ignorance prevail so productive of its bitter fruits? How long shall the wife and mother be ignorant of the nature, character and causes of the various womb and sexual complaints, embittering her days by suffering—suffering often prolonged to years, eventuating in a complication of diseases utterly and hopelessly incurable? Shall we for ever close our eyes to the results of physiological science by which we may arrive at an understanding of ourselves as men and women, subject to serious life-long enduring diseases, and perpetuating them to our children.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No husband or wife need be ignorant of what concerns them most to know to secure their health and happiness. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

York, by a certain indenture of mortgage executed and bearing date the third day of September, A, D. 1851, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default of the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county in volume two of mortgages on pages 221, and 222, on the 19th day of September, A. D. 1851, at 8 o'clock A. M. to secure the payment of twelve hundred dollars with lawful interest annually, did duly grant bargain, sell, and convey, to Monroe Hall of said town of Jay, in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in Wilmington and is known as lot one hundred and five in the Jay tract and is bounded as follows.—begining at the south west corner thereof marked on a post and heap of stones 104 and 105 being the corner of those lots standing in the highway running thence north twenty one degrees east fifty one chains and fifty links to the north line of said lot thence south sixty nine degrees east forty five chains to a post and heap of stones marked 105, and 106, being the corner of those lots thence south forty five degrees west fifty four chains to a post and heap of stones in cleared land on the north side of the highway marked 105, and 106, being the corner of those lots thence north sixty nine degrees west twenty five chains and fifty links to the place of begining containing one hundred and eighty one acres and fifty four hundredths of an acre excepting and reserving all the pine timber on said lot fit for sawing being the same premises deeded by said Hall to said Southmayd and the mortgage was given to secure the purchase money.

On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of one hundred ninety three dollars and forty eight cents and there is hereafter to become due on said mortgage the sum of eight hundred and five dollars with interest from the third day of September A. D. 1853, and default having been made in the payment of the said sum of one hundred and ninety three dollars and forty eight cents whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale contained in said mortgage and by virtue of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction on the 8th day of July next at 2 o'clock P. M. at the Inn now kept by Stewart Worden in the village of Ausable Forks, in the County of Essex.

Dated April 8th, 1854.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been made by Dr. Coe in, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to Dr. Curtiss' Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With his new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling so constantly breathing an agreeable healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford" and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated,

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—In how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentlemen, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, a, propriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

An act to amend an act passed June 25th, 1853, entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation of fire insurance companies." Passed April 17, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§1 The sixth section of the act to amend an act to provide for the incorporation of fire insurance companies, is hereby amended, by adding after the word 'company' at the end of said section, the following, to wit:—And no note shall be accepted as a part of such capital stock unless the same shall be accompanied by a certificate of a justice of the peace or supervisor of the town or city where the person making such note shall reside, that the person making the same is in his opinion pecuniarily good and responsible for the same, and no such note shall be surrendered during the life of the policy for which it was given.

§2. The eighteenth section of said act is hereby amended to that it shall read as follows:

§18 Any existing joint stock fire insurance company heretofore incorporated under the laws of this state, and any company organized under this act, may at any time within two years previous to the termination of its charter, after giving notice at least once a week for six weeks successively in a newspaper published in the county where such company is located, of such intention, and with a declaration under its corporate seal, signed by the president and two-thirds of its directors, of their desire for such extension, extend the term of its original charter to the time specified in the twenty-sixth section of this act, by altering and amending the same so as accord with the provisions of this act, and filing a copy of such amended charter with the declaration aforesaid in the office of the Comptroller, whereupon the same proceedings shall be had as are required in the tenth section of this act; and any mutual insurance company heretofore incorporated under the laws of this state or organized under this act, with the consent of two thirds of the corporators or members thereof, and the unanimous consent of the trustees or directors of such company, unless otherwise provided in the charter expressed in writing, after having given notice once a week for six weeks of their intention in the state paper and in a newspaper published in the county where such company is located, become a joint stock company by conforming its charter to and otherwise proceeding in accordance with this act, and every company so extended or charged shall come under the provisions of this act in the same manner as if it had been incorporated originally under this act. Every mutual insurance company heretofore incorporated under the laws of this state, and doing business with a capital in premium notes of at least fifty thousand dollars, may at any time within two years previous to the termination of its charter, without increasing its capital, after giving notice at least once a week for six weeks successively in a newspaper published in the county where such company is located, of such intention and with a declaration under its corporate seal, signed by its president and two thirds of its directors, of their desire for such extension extend the term of its original charter to the time specified in the twenty sixth section of this act, by altering and amending the same so as to accord with the provisions of this act, and filing a copy of such amended charter with the declaration aforesaid, in the office of the Comptroller, whereupon the same proceedings shall be had as are required in the tenth section of this act, except as to its capital which shall be certified to be in accordance with the provisions of this section applicable to the reorganization of mutual insurance companies. Every mutual insurance company so extended shall, except as to the amount of its capital, come under the provisions of this act, in the same manner as if it had been incorporated originally under this act.

§3. The thirteenth section of said act is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§13. All notes deposited with any mutual insurance company at the time of its organization, as provided in section six, shall remain as security for all losses and claims until the accumulation of the profits invested as required by the eighth section of this act, shall be equal to the amount of cash capital required to be possessed by stock companies organized under this act, the liability of each note decreasing proportionately as the profits are accumulated, but any note which may have been deposited with any mutual insurance company subsequent to its organization, in addition to the cash premium on any insurance effected with such company, may, at the expiration of the time of such insurance be relinquished and given up to the maker thereof or his representative, upon his paying the proportion of all losses and expenses which may have occurred thereon during such term. The directors or trustees of any such company shall have the right to determine the amount of the note to be given in addition to the cash premium by any person insured in such company, but in no case shall the note be more than five times the whole amount of the cash premium, and every person effecting insurance in any mutual company, and also their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, continuing to be so insured, shall thereby become members of said corporation during the period of insurance, and shall be bound to pay for losses and such necessary expenses as aforesaid accruing in and to said company in proportion to the amount of his deposit, note or notes. The directors shall, as often as they deem necessary, after receiving notice of any loss or damage by fire sustained by any member, and ascertaining the same or after the rendition of any judgment against said company for loss or damage, settle and determine the sums to be paid by the several members thereof, as their respective portion of such loss, and publish the same in such manner as they shall see fit, or as the by-laws shall have prescribed; and the sum to be paid by each member shall always be in proportion to the original amount of his deposit, note or notes and shall be paid to the officers of the company within thirty days next after the publication of said notice; and if any member shall for the space of thirty days after the publication said notice, and after the personal demand for payment shall have been made, neglect or refuse to pay the sum assessed upon him as his proportion of any loss, as aforesaid, in such case the directors sue for and recover the whole amount of his deposit, note or notes, with costs of suit; but execution shall only issue for assessments and costs as they accrue, and every such execution shall be accompanied by a list of the losses for which the assessment is made. If the whole amount of deposit notes shall be insufficient to pay the loss occasioned by any fire or fires, in such case the sufferers insured by the said company shall receive towards making good their respective losses, a proportional share of the whole amount of said notes, according to the sums by them respectively insured, but no member shall ever be required to pay for any loss occasioned by fire or inland navigation more than the whole amount of his deposito note.

§4. The fifth subdivision of the twenty second section is hereby amended so as to read as follows:—

§5. The expenditures during the preceeding year specifying.

1. The amount of losses paid during the year, stating how much of the same accrued prior and how much subsequent to the date of the preceding statement, and the amount at which such losses were estimated in such proceeding statement.

2. The amount of dividends paid during the year.

3. The amount of expenses paid during the year, including commissions and fees to agents and officers of the company.

4. The amount paid in taxes.

5. The amount of all other payments and expendiatures.

The Comptroller is hereby authorized and empowered to address any inquiries to any insurance company or the Secretary thereof, in relation to its doings or condition or any other matter connected with its transactions, and it shall be the duty of any company so addressed to promptly reply in writing to any such inquiries.

The statement of any company, the capital of which is composed in whole or in part of notes, shall in addition to the foregoing exhibit the amount of notes originally forming the capital, and also what proportion of said notes is still held by such company and considered capital. The statement herein provided for shall be in lieu of any or all statements now required by any existing law or provision. Every fire insurance company organized under any law of this state failing to make and deposite such statement or to reply to any inquiry of the Comptroller shall be subject to the penalty of five hundred dollars; and an additional five hundred dollars for every month that such company shall continue thereafter to transact any business of insurances.

It shall be the duty of the Comptroller to cause to be prepared and furnished to each of the companies and to the attorneys of companies incorporated by other States and foreign governments printed forms of the statement required by this act; and he may from time to time, make such changes in the form of such statements as shall seem to him best adapted to elicit from the companies a true exhibit of their condition in respect to the several points herein before enumerated.

It shall be the duty of the Comptroller to cause the information contained in the statements required by this section to be arranged in a tabular form and prepare the same in a single document for printing, which he shall communicate to the Legislature annually.

Japan.

THE JAPANESE AT AN AMERICAN DINNER.

The London Times publishes a letter from the U. S. steamer Susquehanna, dated, 'Off Yokohama, Bay of 'Yedo, March 24,' from which we make the following extract:

'As for any advantages to be immediately derived from commerce with these people, I am doubtful on that point; we saw no evidence of any wants or of any superfluities, but who can anticipate which commerce can create, the superfluities which she can make necessaries, and the unknown which she can call into existence? But if our first adventurers come here under the impression that the Japanese are ignorant because they are inexperienced in commerce, they will find themselves mistaken, for not even the Chinamen understand the art of making things appear to the greatest advantage with more skill than the Japanese. The presents of fruits and sweetmeats were so arranged in the boxes as to appear of twice the real quantity, and everything is so contrived as to be over-estimated by all but the closest observer. On the 1st of March Capt. Buchanan gave Yzaiman, the Governor of Uraga, and nine of his suite, a dinner on board this ship, the first foreign dinner, perhaps, ever given in Japan.—They enjoyed themselves in perfect confidence, and relished our food and liquors with the taste of gourmands. They had never tasted turkey before and asked permission to take portions of it and of other things on shore to show to their friends, which they did, wrapping them up in paper, very much like Chinese paper, leaves of which constituted their pocket-handkerchiefs. They intuitively accommodated themselves to our custom, especially that of emptying their glasses; and used the knives and forks with nearly as much dexterity as perseverence. They returned thanks for our toasts, and reciprocated them with more than the tact of an Alderman; as, for example, Capt. Buchanan gave; 'May the kind feelings which so happily subsist between our Japanese friends and ourselves prevail throughout both countries.' Governor Yzaiman promptly replied with thanks for the sentiment and assurances of its reciprocity, and hopes that the American and Japanese would soon be enabled to visit each other's countries. Capt. Adams proposed: 'The health of the Emperor, and a long and happy reign.' Gov. Yzaiman immediately replied that he appreciated the compliment to his Emperor; and filling all the glasses himself, drank the 'Health of the President of the United 'States, and a happy Administration.'' Lieutenant Duer, with a few happy remarks, proposed 'The health of 'Governor Yzaiman,' at which he blushed; but with admirable presence of mind, proposed the health of 'Commodore Perry, and all officers of the squadron.'—All this passed, of course, through the interpreters, and each toast was drunk in our manner, with all the honors; the huzzas appeared to divert them very much, and they joined in them with great glee. Lieut. Brown sang a song, which they answered with a verse or two of a Japanese song. I trust the difference of taste did not make our song sound in their ears as their song did in ours, for it was more like the roaring of lions with bad colds than anything else I can compare it to. One of our marines died, and they allowed us to bury him on shore, in a romantic spot, near one of their own cemeteries, with the three volleys and the funeral service by the chaplain. What a difference between people expected and what our guns have realized for us! It was absurd to attempt to treat with these people without a force at command sufficient to answer, by silence alone, all their prevarications and excuses to gain time, which appears to be of no value to them. They were to have dined with the Commodore on board the Powhatan;—I mean the Princes who negotiated the treaty,—on Monday the 27th, and no doubt had a glorious time. We laid down a circular railroad, and the beautiful miniature locomotive and car went round with great velocity and regularity, to the admiration of the Japanese, many of whom made several circuits in the car.

We also set up a mile of magnetic telegraph, which succeeded in spelling Japanese sounds, from one end to the other, of course making them see that it could be done, but they evidently did not comprehend nor fully believe it.

THE RESOURCES OF JAPAN.

Foremost among the resources of Japan are its fisheries. The sea and its productions, we believe, contribute fully as much to the sustenance of the natives, as do the fruits of the earth—rice perhaps excepted. One of their productions has a value which is not confined to the spot, but extends to us—to our enterprise, and to our trade—we mean the whale, or as they call it, kudsuri. There is nothing of which such extensive use is made by the Japanese, both for rich and poor. It is found all around Japan, but particularly in the sea Keumano, which washes the Southern coast of the island Niphon, the most important territory of the Empire; and it also prevails in the Islands of Tussima and Goto, and upon the coast of Omura and Nomo. These whales not only afford oil in great abundance, but their flesh, which is considered very wholesome and nutritious, is largely consumed. No part of them, indeed, is thrown away—all is made available to some useful purpose or another, excepting only the large shoulder bone. The skin which is generally black; the flesh, which is red and looks like beef; the intestines, and all the inward parts; besides the fat or blubber, which is boiled into oil, and all the bone which is converted to innumerable uses—all is made available to purposes of profit. We have gone into these few particulars respecting the whale, because it is that which has brought our countrymen into contact with Japan. Many of our ships have for some considerable time past frequented those seas for capturing the whale, an occupation which it is found, might be pursued with great advantage, under a commercial treaty with the Government of Japan, whose inhuman laws at present, not only prevent any assistance being rendered to shipwrecked mariners, but expose them to positive maltreatment, and even to violent death.—To obtain redress in this respect was the primary object of Commodore Perry's expedition.

Japan abounds in natural and artificial productions of great value. Its mineral riches are enormous, and include metals of various kinds, especially gold, silver, and copper. Sulphur and iron are also found in large quantities;—there is no want of coal, and there are precious stones of almost every variety; agates, sapphires, jaspers, cornelians and even diamonds; while pearls are found in great plenty among the shells upon the coast. Then the fertility of the soil is very great. The mulberry tree grows extensively and affords food for countless myriads of silk worms. The Kadsi, or paper-tree, serves innumerable useful purposes, including the manufacture of cloths, stuffs and cordage. The cerusi, or varnish-tree, is another valuable production of the country, yielding large quantities of a milky juice which the natives employ to varnish, or japan as we call it, various articles. Then there are the bay-tree, the camphor-tree, the fig-tree the cypress tree, with very many more, all more or less valuable, and from which a great variety of useful articles are made; and last, though not least, there is the tea-shrub, from the leaves from which the common drink of the people is brewed, and which is capable of yielding a valuable article of commerce.—Trees growing nuts of various kinds are abundant; the maple is extensive and excellent; bamboos are very plentiful and of great use, as they are everywhere in the Indies; they cultivate as much hemp and cotton as they can find room for in their fields; and as to the rice, which is the main food of the natives, that grown in Japan is considered the best in all Asia, and it can be produced in almost any quantity.—Their corns are of several sorts; besides the komi or rice, there are the oomuggi, a kind of barley; the koomuggi, their native wheat; and the daidsou, a species of bean—all of which abound with superior farina.

The manufactures of Japan have hitherto been confined almost exclusively to their own domestic wants; but many of them are, nevertheless, valuable as articles of export. Our adoption here and throughout Europe of term japan as applied to certain kinds of varnished ware, indicates how well known has been their peculiar excellence in, if not their invention of that useful art. They make various articles from the paper tree, resembling our papier-mache, which they paint and varnish, on paper, very highly—and these might form objects of considerable trade. Their silks, muslins, and cotton goods are most of them very superior, and some of them are calculated to become highly recherche; and their carvings in wood, ivory, pearl, and fish-bone, are most ingenious and elegant. These are but a few of the products of their handicraft; but they are sufficient to show taken in connection with their natural productions, how varied and how valuable are the resources of the Japanese.

HUMORS AT COURT.—The time of the Supreme Court, at Ballston Spa, last week, was mostly taken up with the trial of long and wearysome cases, of interest to but few except the parties themselves, and had it not been for occasional interruptions of a humorous nature, half those in attendance might have died from sheer ennui.—For the benefit of our readers at large, we note one or two of them. On Friday, when the violators of the excise laws were called upon to plead, there was quite a stir in court, caused by the entrance of the prisoners, especially as some of them had been drowning sorrow in a little of the ardent. One who plead guilty and was fined twenty dollars, was in a peculiarly happy state, tried to banter with Judge Hand and get him to take ten dollars, saying that was all he had. His honor mildly put the money back and told him the District Attorney was the one to settle with, but the prisoner preferred to settle at head quarters, so he threw it back to the Judge with the exclamation, "then ye'es pass it till him" Being finally satisfied that he would have to go to the District Attorney, he left and tried to compromise with him. Not succeeding, he returned into Court, and approaching the Clerk throwed down his ten dollars, with the request that the Court would take that and try him for the balance."

On Saturday afternoon the jurors came forward singly to the Judge and begged off from further duty on various sufficient excuses, and the Sheriff commenced making up a jury of "talesmen" from the audience. As there were more members of the bar present than of others, some one suggested that they might be taken. To this the Judge excepted, saying that the statute was express in requiring men of "fair moral character," and he feared that enough could not be found among the gentlemen of the bar.—Saratoga Whig.

SAD CASUALITY.—It is our melancholy duty to announce the sudden death of Mrs. Catharine Adams, wife of George S. Adams Esq., of our village, which occurred on Tuesday last, under the following circumstances:

Mrs. Adams was out on Tuesday afternoon about 7 o'clock, riding in company with her mother, Mrs. Myers, of Ellisburgh Jefferson County, who came to visit her daughter, and had been driving about, passing through the various streets of the village, and had proceeded down Park street, towards Mr. G. M. Sabin's as far as they desired to go, and attempted to turn the wagon around, in doing which, Mrs. Adams gave the lines to her mother, remarking that the mother might feel safer if she guided the horse herself. The wagon, however, was turned too abruptly, so that the near fore wheel was bro't under the body of the wagon, raising it from the fore axle, and tipping it to the right, which threw Mrs. Myers out upon the ground in front of Mrs. Adams, who immediately herself fell out of the waggon, headforemost, striking her chest upon a pile of stones which lay by the road-side, and her face upon the ground—causing her death instantly. The mother, who was uninjured immediately spoke to her, but receiving no answer, turned her over, and raised her head upon her arm, but there was no sign or indication of remaining life. Assistance was promptly on the ground, and every effort was made to restore her to consciousness, but without avail.

Mrs. Adams was a large and very fleshy woman, and it is supposed that the concussion occassioned by the fall, produced the fatal effect; as there is no external mark of injury, except a very slight place on the left temple. A little son of Mrs. Adams was also in the wagon at the time of the accident, and thrown from it, but not injured.

By this unexpected and awfully sudden calamity, the house of Mr. Adams is truly left unto him desolate.—Malone Palladium.

KNOW NOTHINGS.—The following letter was handed us the other day as having been picked up in the railroad depot in our village. Not being able to ascertain the proper owner of it, we publish it for the purpose of putting those concerned on their guard against the disobedience of subordinates, and for public information generally. We will only add that we "Know Nothing" more about it than is stated above:

[BURN.]

I send this by No. 16.

SARATOGA, June 21, 1854.

No. 27:—

You will meet at the old barn tonight to make arrangements for the———. The time fixed upon is the 3d day of July.

Are the subs, initiated to the 3d degree? If not, proceed to do so at once. The password is altered to "Mary Queen of Scots;" to-morrow the password will be "King."

Be very careful and not let a single soul know in Saratoga that there is such an order as we have joined. Know Nothing remember! The Chief Capt. G. P. wrote me these orders this morning from N. Y. Burn this immediately. Yours respectfully.

GOOD WEEK'S WORK.—We are informed by some who profess to know something of lumbering, that Mr. Benoni G. Webb, Esq., of Bellmont, turned out a pretty fair week's work during the last week of May, in his new saw-mill, which he has just got into operation.

Mr. Webb employs four hands—all young men, and Bellmonters, to boot, who, during the time mentioned, sawed and piled 1,476 pieces of market stuff—mostly two inch-plank—exclusive of all culls and refuse stuff. As yet Mr. Webb has only what is called an 'English Gate,' running only one upright saw, and one circular saw, for edging. Mr. Webb tends the circular saw and the boys keep the mill-saw going, to the tune of over 200 pieces a day.

We call this a pretty good week's work, and if any mill, with the same saws and help, in Northern New York, can beat it, we should like to hear from it, and then Mr. Webb's boys will try again.

There is a heap of good lumber in Bellmont, and a host of sturdy men, who know how to fit it for market. We are some in Franklin Co for fast horses and nice young men.—Malone Palladium.

LADIES' FAIR.—The ladies' of Chateaugay will furnish a dinner on the Fourth, to be served up at ——. D. Robert's Hotel. The proceeds of the Festival to be devoted to the cause of the Methodist Episcopal Church in that place. The object is a worthy one—the day appropriate, and the gathering will no doubt be, in all respects, a pleasant one. It is not the first which the ladies of Chateaugay have been engaged in, and when they attempt to do anything, it has to be done—and done well, too. If we can get away from home, we speak for tickets for two at that dinner.—[Malone Palladium.

LOST LUGGAGE OFFICE.—One of the most interesting curiosities in the Crystal Palace, is the collection of specimens preserved in the office for lost articles. All articles picked up by the police, have been ticketed and registered here, from the first, and as few people have been aware of the existence of such a receptacle, the accumulation of personal articles is large and decidedly miscellaneous. About three hundred cambric and lace handkerchiefs, of all grades and shades, up to a fifty dollar article, as many veils, a large stock of gloves, a surprising assortment of babies shoes and stockings, some hundred articles of jewelry, ranging as high as $100 in value, and an indescribable variety of odds and ends, have been collected in this curious omnium gatherum. Human nature, especially female, is also epitomized here. The ladies have scarcely lost any fans, though their handkerchiefs and veils would seem to have been sown broadcast. Locks of false hair interspersed with other wearing apparel, Many spectacle cases were found, but the spectators had universally clung to their spectacles, and doubtless made good use of them. Ladies' beaux (or bows,—the officer did not spell the word, so that it remains ambiguous) have been lost at the Palace in great numbers, leaving the wearers of course more or less disconsolate. A side bottle of brandy was picked up, from which the loser had the misfortune to have extracted most of the contents. In short, every body who has lost anything may rely upon finding it or its counterpart, in the 'Old Curiosity Shop' of the Crystal Palace Police.

GREATNESS AT HOME.

DIALOGUE BETWEEN TWO ROMAN MATRONS.

Licinia. I am the happiest wife in Rome, my Livia!
Livia. I doubt it not:
But there's Flaminius's wife, the other day,
Scarce from the Forum if her house could pass
For gratulations that her husband won
The Consulato.
Licinia. That day my Caius sat
At home with me, and read to me, my Livia:—
Little cared I who won the Consulate!
Livia. And there's Lectorius has obtained a government; His wife will be a queen!
Licinia. Well, let her be so!
My Queendom is to be a simple wife;
This is my government, my husband's house,
Where, when he sits with me, he is entroned Enough. You'll smile, but . . . .
I'd rather see him, with his boy upon
His knee, than seated in the Consul's chair,
With all the Senate round him.
Livia —Yet his greatness
Must needs be thine.
Licinia. I do not care for greatness,
It is a thing lives too much out of doors;
'Tis any where but at home; you will not find it
Once in a week, in its own house at supper
With the family! Knock any hour you choose,
And ask for it; nine times in ten they'll send you
To the Senate or the Forum, or to such
Or such a one in quest of it! 'Tis a month
Since Carus took a meal from home, and that
Was with my brother If he walks,
I walk along with him, if I choose; or if I stay
Behind, it is a race 'twixt him and the time
And when he's back and the door shut on him
Consummate happy is my world within;
I never think of any world without.

"Don't Stay Long."

—'Don't stay long, husband;'—said a young wife tenderly, in my presence one evening, as her husband was preparing to go out. The words themselves were insignificant, but the look of melting fondness with which they were accompanied, spoke volumes. It told all the whole, vast depths of her woman's love—of her happiness when with her husband—of her grief when the light of his smile, the source of all her joy, beamed not upon her.

'Don't stay long, husband!'—and I fancied I saw the loving, gentle wife, sitting alone, anxiously counting the moments of her husbands absence, every few minutes running to the door to see if he were in sight and finding that he was not, I thought I could hear her exclaiming in disappointed tones 'not yet—not yet.'

'Don't stay long, husband.'—And again I thought I could see the young wife, rocking herself nervously in the great arm chair, and weeping as though her loving heart would break, as her thoughtless 'lord and master' prolonged his stay a wearisome length of time.

O, you that have wives who say—'Don't stay long,' when you go forth, think of them kindly when you are mingling in the busy hive of life, and try, just a little, to make their homes and hearts happy, for they are gems too seldom found, and when lost too seldom replaced. You cannot find amid the pleasures of the world, the peace and joy, that a quiet home, blessed with such a woman's presence, will afford.

'Don't stay long, husband!'—and the young wife's look seemed to say—'for here, in your own sweet home, is a loving heart whose music is hushed when you are absent—here is a soft breast to lay your head upon, and here are pure lips, unsoiled by sin, that will pay you in kisses for your coming back.

Think of it, men, when your wives say to you, 'don't stay long,'—and O, don't let the kind words pass unheeded as of little value, for though they may not be to you, the disappointment or the fulfillment of their simple, loving wish, brings grief or joy to them. If you have an 'hour to spare' bestow it upon them, and the pure love, gushing from their gentle, grateful hearts, will be a sweet reward.

A FREAK OF NATURE.—We have been shown a stalk of the spotted or tiger lily from the garden of a resident of this village, formed by the consolidation of twelve single stalks, bearing twenty five full grown lilies, the whole forming a natural and beautiful bouquet of 24 inches in circumference. This must be the lily alluded to in Scripture, which it is said surpassed Solomon in beauty' even when he had his best clothes on.—Rouge Notes, Kinderhook.

A MADE MAN.—A French paper tells of an old soldier who has a false leg and a false arm, both moveable by means of springs; a glass eye, a complete set of false teeth, a nose of silver, covered with a substance perfectly resembling flesh, and a silver plate replacing part of the skull.—He wears on his breast the cross of the Legion of Honor, won in the campaigns of Egypt, Italy and Russia; he was also at Friedland, Jana, Austerlitz, Wagram and Waterloo! What recollections of the past must there not crowd on the old man's memory as he sits in his chair by the fire side and 'fights his battles o'er again.'

The Republican.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, July 1.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands.
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

The true Policy.

☞ Lord Palmerston is reported to have said in Parliament, that "the United States have no foreign policy." The National Intelligencer contradicts his lordship's rather impertinent declaration. We have a foreign policy, says the Intelligencer, the simplest, safest, and wisest which any people ever adopted, namely, "peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all Nations, entangling alliances with none." This is the policy laid down by the Fathers of our Republic, and while it is faithfully practised by our rulers, we have nothing to hear from abroad.—Troy Whig.

"The Fathers of the Republic" laid down "the simplest, safest, and wisest," policy upon all subjects connected with its well being, "which any people ever adopted," and if "our rulers" would but follow their policy, we shobld have "nothing to fear," at home, or "abroad." It is to be regrotted that modern rulers do not esteem it their greatest glory to walk in the footstops of the founders of the republic. The convulsions of the day are directly traceable to a departure from ancient and wise land-marks—which, notwithstanding the sneers of "Young America," are sufficient for all time. Those land-marks should be to our rulers like the "clond by day, and pillar of fire by night" to the Israelites.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD AND THE UNION.—We find in many of his speeches sensible and practical views. In his closing speech against the Nebraska Bill, Gov. S., remarked:

"Commercial interests bind the slave and free States together in links of gold that are rivited with iron, and they cannot be broken by passion or by ambition.—Either party will submit to the ascendency of the other, rather than yield the commercial advantages of this Union together—a common necessity, and not merely a common necessity, but the common interests of empire—of such empire as the world has never before seen. The control of this national power is the control of the great Western, Continent, and the control of this Continent is to be in a very few years the controlling influence of the world. Who is there North that hates slavery so much or who South, that hates emancipation so intensely, that he can attempt with any hope of success to break a Union thus forged and welded together? I have always heard, with equal pity and disgust, threats of disunion in the free States, and similar threats in the slave-holding states. I know that men may rave in the heat of passion and under great political excitement; but I know that when it comes to a question whether the Union shall stand either with Freedom or with slavery, the masses will uphold it, and it will stand until some inherent vice in its Constitution, not yet disclosed, shall cause its desolation."

Gov. Seward, then, admits, substantially, that the 'commercial interests' will prevent the dissolution of the Union. We have always regarded the matter in this light, but we must confess to some surprise at hearing such an admission from the fountain head, the life and soul of nefarious fanaticism. Mr. Seward should have a care or Greely, Parker, Phillips, Garrison, ect., will be barking at his heels.

If Gov. Seward was honest in the enunciation of the foregoing sentiments, he must cease his work of agitation and advise his followers to do likewise, or stand before the world a bad, dishonest man, according to his own showing!—N. O. Com'l, Bulletin.

We are glad our able southern cotemporary has discovered one sensible remark in the various speeches of Gov. Seward, but should also have observed that tho' Gov. Seward is radical on the question of slavery and the rights of men, he is not an "agitator." He is republican and conservative, and would be a safe depository of the national honor as he will be in 1856, according to the "signs of the times."

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

—— The slow progress of thia war has been the subject of severe criticism on all sides. The North British Daily mail of June 5th, for which we are indebted to Mr. Jas. Wilson, of this village, thus replies to those who urge a more active policy—(the actual policy seemingly being ono of "masterly inactivity.)

"We would form a most inadequate opinion of the war, however, were we to confine our attention to positive engagements with the enemy. Russia is checked, awed, and humbled on all sides by the guns and bayonets pointed against her. She cannot leave her own barbours either in the Baltic or the Black Sea. Her ships of war are virtually disarmed, while her merchant vessels are rotting in idleness or falling into the hands of the enemy. Terror reigns round all her coasts. Every effort she has made to help herself out of difficulties has been frustrated. Greece is in the hands of an Anglo-French army. Montenegro has slunk back into a state of quietude; and Austria herself is on the eve of declaring war against her. The Emperor's faith must be great, indeed, if he does not now see the gulf which is yawning before him."

STEAM CARRIAGES IN BRODWAY.—The New York Express says that the Steam Carriage, invented by J. R. Fisher, the artist, had a 'trial trip' on Thursday night, from 26th street, near North River, down to Liberty street, on Broadway, traveling at the rate of 6 miles an hour on the common pavement, and at the rate of 12 miles an hour on the Russ pavement. Mr. Fisher thinks his experiment entirely successful, and means now, that it has been proved, to put it to some practical use as early as practicable.

PERSONAL.—The Northern Gazette is pleaseed to indulge in a wanton and malicious attack upon us, in connection with the Board of Excise. We shall have no contest with that gentleman, on that subject, and only say to our friends, that his insinuations are false in every particular, and no gentleman of honor, will retail his misrepresentations, without first ascertaining the truth from us. Our action meets with the approval of our better judgment, and we should repeat it under similar circumstances to-morrow. The article, however, has ulterior objects, and if any men, especially temperance men, are caught, they must be fools. It is also designed to create a smoke, in which a couple of cowardly minds may escape, and they are welcome to all the glory they can reap from such a source. We have done with the subject through the press, but may meet some men at the ballot box as we have done before.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.—Joseph Carpenter, of Beloit Wisconsin, writing us under date of June 16, says he has been a subscriber to this paper for about 18 years, and consequently commenced about 1836 when it was conducted by Mr. Emmons, and in that year ably advocated the claims of Gen. Harrison to the Presidency. Speaking of the West, he says, "crops look very fine throughout this section of country. Business is good in every department. Our village is thronged every day with strangers from the East. The Rail Road terminates at this place, which will soon move on to Madison, being a branch of Chicago Galena Rail Road. Real estate is getting high in this country."

VALUABLE PATENTS.—We beg leave to call the attention of Mill owners and others to the advertisement of usful patents in another column. The object is not merely for speculation, but amid all the frauds and cheats; to point the people to valuable and useful patents. We shall be happy to afford all the information in our power, and shall serve as Agent till some person more peculiarly qualified shall be found to take our place. We act because we believe the Association an honorable and responsible one, as its objects are worthy of encouragement.

Northern Guide.

'Lake George, Lake Champlain, Montreal Quebec, Green and White Mountains, and Willoughby Lake, with maps and tables of distances. Such is the title of a valuable little pocket volume for the traveller, published by S. B. Nichols, prepared by Zadock Thompson. Such is its fund of information that it is interesting to all. It also contains a business directory of Burlington.

GEORGIA, which is known as the Empire State of the South, and which is certainly one of the most intelligent and thrifty of the Southern States, has within its borders forty-one thousand of free white grown persons who can neither read nor write!—The editor of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, who has State pride enough to be mortified at this result, and character enough, to exert itself manfully to put an end to it as soon as possible, declares 'the evil, great as it is, to be a growing one,' and it charges the Legislature of the State with being immediately responsible for so foul and deep a plot upon the State.—There were in 1840 thirty thousand adults who could neither read nor write, and the number has increased to 41,000 since that time. The increase of ignorance goes beyond the increase of population,—for while the latter has been under 28 per cent., the former has exceeded 34 per cent. Should the evil grow in a like ratio with the few years past, according to a Georgia calculation before us, there will be in forty-six years hence, 170,000 grown up white persons unable to read or write.—N. Y. Express

Yet in the face of facts like the above men of the South are rampant for the spread of such a state of things, and doughfaces are found for a 'mess of pottage' to aid them.

Great Shooting.

The following match has attracted considerable attention. The parties were manufacturers of guns and used rifles of their own make:

THE RIFLE MATCH CONCLUDED—LEWIS BEATEN.—This morning we give the final result of the great rifle match at Fort Plain, at Montgomery County, between Messrs. Lewis, of Troy, and James of Utica. We annex the full report of all the strings fired, as they may be valuable for reference, to our 'sporting' friends. The figures will be found correct, as reported by the Umpires, chosen to decide the result. The first string shot Tuesday, resulted as follows;

FIRST STRING.

Lewis of Troy	20 Shots,	75 3-4 inches.
James of Utica	20 do	40 5 8 do

On Wednesday, two strings were shot, as follows:

SECOND STRING.

Lewis,	20 Shots,	73 3 16 inches
James,	20 do	32 1-16 do

THIRD STRING.

Lewis,	20 shots,	47 5-8 inches.
James,	20 do	63 3-4 do

FOURTH STRING.

Lewis,	20 shots,	53 inches.
James,	20 do	46 do

FIFTH STRING.

James,	20 shots,	60 inches.

Lewis here gave up beat, and did not shoot his twenty shots, to which he was entitled.

RECAPITULATION.

Lewis, 80 Shots measured	250 9 19 inches
Add average measure on fifth string, which he did not shoot—about	62 10 16 do
	313 3 16 inches.
James, 100 Shots, measured	221 7-16 do
Difference in favor of James	91 12-16.

GAS LIGHT IN GLENS FALLS.—A company has been formed, with a capital of $35,000, $25,000 of the stock of which has bean taken, to furnish Glens Falls, Warran county with gas light. Among the directors we notice the names of Messrs. Sebatin, Merrifield and Reynolds of Albany.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.—Gerrit Smith has resigned his seat in Congress. Before doing so he made a speech in favor of taking Cuba, and declared 'if that was Fillibusterism he was a fillibuster, and let the world make the most of it.'

——Pierce has repudiated Douglass.

——The Whig State Central Committee of Massachusetts have issued an able and eloquent Address to the whigs of that State.

——Madame Sontag, died on the 16th ult, of Cholera.

——Winslow C. Watson is the delegate to the Hard State convention from this County. They are selecting their best men.

☞ We call attention to an interesting list of new advertisements this week. They speak for themselves. We have not space to notice each at length.

☞ The people of Plattsburgh are making every effort for a splendid celebration at that place on the 4th.

Curiosities of type setting.—We have been frequently surprised and amused to observe with what exactness oddities in language and pronunciation, can be given in type. The "latest and best," is the following, which must be an extract from a speech of some fillibuster, in that state described as "drunk as an owl."

These dissinctions of race and of creed are precisely she cause af anarchy and weakness so Turey which a juss and soleran Governmens would seek so efface, by placing every class of she population under she prosecsion of she law, common alike so all; and, if is be really she insension of she French as well as she English Governmens so convince she world shas ses power of she Ossoman empire can mainsained and regenerased, is is inconsissens and unwise so humble she Ministers of she Sulsan by demands and shreass which shey cannos eisher resiss or obey wish safest."

MR. EDITOR:—Here is a very graphic and lively description, from the pen of a late Emigrant to the farming land of Iowa, of the state of affairs in his vicinity. I transcribed it for your paper, and for your rural readers who are engaged in agricultural pursuits, to whom it will prove interesting. It reads in this shape:

MAQUOKETA, Iowa, June, 1854

DEAR FRIEND:—Having reached the world's end, I thought I would write a little. After a pleasant journey, we are settled about four miles from Maquoketa, on an improved farm, with forty acres of timber. Land here, ranges in price from 10 to 20 dollars an acre; in Maquoketa it is going at $100 an acre. This is a smart place, outrivaling in trade and business your eastern villages. It contains 8 stores, an Academy, and 3 churches, and houses are going up in every direction—A smart Minister would do well here, for under the present preaching we keep awake with difficulty on the Subbath. This is a yankee settlement, made up mostly from villages in your vicinity, with now and then a Hoosier.

Larger fields of corn I never saw than we have here. I myself take care of 18 acres, not with a hoe, but I take a horse and plough and plough both ways. Horses and cattle are high now; wheat is worth a dollar a bushel, corn twenty cents, oats the same, and potatoes from twenty cents to two shillings. Hogs are as plenty as you please, if you were to come here you couldn't go amiss of pork.

We live on the wide prairie, and are obliged to go some five miles for wood.—Water is plenty and sweet. The prairie is rolling in this place, so that the land is dry in a few hours after the hardest rain.—Summer droughts do not dry up this land so injuriously as they do your eastern farms. The surface soil is black and moist, and wonderfully productive, underlaid at a little depth by a subsoil of clay.

There are no poor ones here; all have land.

Yours in prosperity.

WHEAT AT THE WEST.—The Detroit Advertiser says the Wheat crop in Michigan is in a very unpromising condition.—In some counties of the State the prospect is that an average crop will be harvested, while in many other parts farmers are doubtful whether they shall reap the seed sown.

The Milwaukie Wisconsin, on the other hand, says, information is uniform from every county in that State, that the wheat crop never before promised so bountifully. It is stout and healthy, and with favorable harvest weather, Wisconsin will send to market wheat sufficient to make up all deficiencies in the other States.—[Albany Journal.

☞ The Washington Sentinel gives as a reason for its anxiety to purge the Democratic party, that "it is a great mistake to suppose that numbers give strength and vitality to a party." The Administration will soon have an opportunity to test this theory—[Albany Journal.

☞ The Nebraska men in Warren, Trumbull Co., Ohio, undertook to fire a salute in honor of the bill, on Tuesday last; but they had hardly commenced when every bell in town was manned, and such a doleful tolling as was kept up between the salutes, was never before heard in that vicinity. Another attempt was made at nine o'clock, and almost instantly the bells again rung out a mournful dirge. At noon the Nebraskians rallied again with no better success After supper the shooting was undertaken once more, by this time Warren Brass Band had mounted to the cupola of a church, and between the pauses of the firing, played the Dead March in Saul, the bells all the while tolling a solemn knell.

GRAND CONSOLIDATION

OF THE

Two Largest and most Popular Equestrian Establishments in the world, viz:—the well-known Companies,

Welch's National Circus,

AND HIPPODROME

Of Philadelphia, and

Lent's New York Circus.

Forming two distinct Exhibitions Blended together, and both given under one Immense Pavillion for a Single Price of Admission—reports by inferior companies, to the contrary, notwithstanding. These Consolidated Companies Will Exhibit at Keeseville, Friday July 21st.

Doors open at 2 and 7 o'clock, P. M. Performances will commence half an hour after opening.

ADMISSION 25 CENTS. ☞ NO HALF PRICE.

The great resources obtained by combining these two extensive and well known troupes, will allow of a degree of brilliancy being produced in their Entertainments unparalleled in this country, and unsurpassed in any other. A great variety of Performances new in this country, and peculiar to this establishment, will be found comprised in the bills, and it is confidently believed that the novel, brilliant and exciting representations of the double troupe which form a feature of the amusements in America, will be remembered with gratification for years to come.

The BRIGHT ARRAY OF TALENT attached to the Consolidated Establishment includes a great number of the most distinguished names in the Equestrian Profession, most of whom are as well known in Europe as upon this side of the Atlantic. Among the most prominent of the Equestrian Stars, are MADELLE MINNA, the great Prussian Equestrienne; MAD'LLE ELOISE, the youthful, fearless and fascinating rider; MAD'LLES ANGELINA, SOPHIE, IRENE, and JENNY; WORRELL, the very best Clown of the age; HIRAM W. FRANKLIN, S. P. STICKNEY, H. F. NICHOLS, J. HANKINS, W. KINCADE, B. STEVENS, MASTER WILLE, and numerous others, ALL KNOWN TO FAME, and unequalled in their respective departments. For a full description of the MAGNIFICENT ENTERTAINMENTS to be given, the reader is refereed to the descriptive bills at the principal hotels, as it would be impossible to give an adequate idea of their VAST EXTENT AND VARIETY in the limits of a newspaper advertisement.

Each Afternoon's Exhibition will terminate with the extremely laughable French Equestrian Burlesque entitled LE JOCKEY; while at night, the Performance will conclude with the great Legendary, Hippodramatic Spectacle of ST GEORGE AND THE DRAGON, produced with all the Original Music, Superb Dresses, Appointments and Machinery employed at the National Amphitheatre, in Philadelphia, when it had an unprecedented run. The piece abounds in Grand Combats, Terrible Encounters, and Startling Incidents; concluding with the Grand Procession in honor of the rescue of the Princess, and the TRIUMPH OF THE CHRISTIAN KNIGHT.

This company will exhibit at Port Henry, the 18th, West Port 19th, Essex 20th, Plattsburgh 22d, Chateaugay 24th, Malone 25th, Lawrence 26th, Potsdam 27th, Canton 28th, and Ogdensburgh 29th of July.

BANCKER & HOWES, Agents.

SAMPSON.

THIS celebrated Horse may be found during the ensuing season at the stable of the proprietor, two miles south of Peru, and four miles north of Keeseville, in Clinton County where he can be seen at any time. His character, pedigree and progeny are too well known to require any comment.

Terms made known on request.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome apartments No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLS, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES, President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence, although the public in this swooping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Ruowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent, more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent, less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Rigit, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.

Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel.

Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate, boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 150 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale, and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 30 cents per yard.

5, Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Jones's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price, $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fros & Munroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 10 and 10½ barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9 L. F. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $300

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars.

Effecting a saving of 10 per cent, in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

A VALUABLE GIFT FOR EVERY TICKET.

Each $1 Ticket entitles the holder to One Year's subscription to the Illustrated Family Literary, and Commercial Journal, called 'The Whole World," and to Four Admissions to the Exhibition of the Whole World, and also to one of the 300,000 Gifts, thus insuring every person investing in this stupendous enterprise the full worth of his or her money, and a rare chance to realize a fortune besides. Ticket buyers will also receive, engraved on their ticket, when purchased, an elegant Portrait of Professor Hart, and a correct and elaborate drawing of his splendid Country Seat one of the Gifts, to which a Grand Free Excursion will be given.

When the 300,000 tickets are sold, the property will be placed at the disposal of a Committee appointed by the ticket holders of any place wherein the greatest number have been sold, to be distributed as shall be perfectly fair and satisfactory to all concerned; and judging from the rapidity with which the tickets are being purchased by all classes of people, in every part of the country, it is reasonable to conclude that the enterpriss will soon tarminate in the haspiest style.

It will not be necessary for ticket holders to be present at the distribution of the Gifts, unless they wish to, as they will be duly notified of the time and manner of the partition of the property, and all may safely rely upon the honorable fulfilment of the undertaking, and the perfectly fair and satisfactory disposition of the above named Gifts. When the Gifts are awarded, holdere of tickets shall also be promptly notified as to what Gifts they will receive.

Any information relative to the Gifts may be obtained through the office of the World's Hall, where also may be had any responsible reference desired.

All orders by mail must be addressed post-paid, money inclosed, to Prof J. Woodman Hart, World's Hall, 377 and 379 Broadway, New York, and the tickets, with a copy of the paper, will be promptly forwarded to any part of the world

If any orders are received after the tickets have all been sold, the money will be promptly returned, post-paid, to the persons sending it.

Correspondents will please write directly their name and residence, county and state, to prevent errors.

It is advisable for those desirous of securing a year's subscription to the unique Pictorial Journal called "THE WHOLE WORLD," to remit the money immediately, in order to commence with the beginning of the first volume.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The following notices of Prof. Hart's Whole World are cut from the principal Newspapers of New York:

Prof. Hart's Great Gift Enterprise is taking the City by storm. Almost everybody we meet has either purchased a ticket or is about doing so. The exhibition itself is one of the most interesting instructive and ingenious ever exhibited in this country, and is worth fully one dollar to view it. The Prof. will give a grand Free excurtion to every purchaser of his one dollar tickets to his elegant country seat, which is one of the gifts in his great enterprise, and a year's subscription to his valuable Journal, and also one of the 300,000 gifts.—Atlas.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—This instructive and entertaining exhibition of the Whole World is at Nos. 377 and 379 Broadway.—For one dollar four tickets may be procured for the exhibitiod and one valnable gift, which may be an independent fortune for the receiver, and also one year's subscription to the Illustrated Journal called The Whole World.—Dispatch.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—The success which the extraordinary, ingenius and comprehensive work of art is meeting is commensurate with its merits; it is the first and only one of the kind ever conceived, and it stands forth as a monument of the unwearying patience and perseverance of man, and as a most wonderful developement of mental fertility.—Tribune.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—We hear that this Gift enterprise is going ahead vigorously. It is in energetic hands, and if business capacity will achieve anything, the prospects are all in favor of it. The immense number of gifts to be distributed renders it almost certain that every subscriber will receive something valuable.—Sunday Times. 528-3m.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS Jesse Byam late of Ticonderoga, in the County of Essex and State of New York by a certain indenture of mortgage executed and bearing date the twenty-eighth day of June, A. D. 1845, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default of the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county volume L of mortgages on pages 508 and 509 on the fourth day of August, A. D 1845 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the payment of five hundred and fifty dollars with interest, annually, did duly grant bargain sell and convey to Carlos Bugbee of said town of Ticonderoga, in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: all that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga in the county of Essex and State of New York in a patent of three thousand acres of land granted by letters patent to John Russel, Esquire, and is part of said tract, and is bounded as follows, beginning at a stake standing at the south east corner of the pound and north west corner of Timothy Hunter's garden; thence north eight degrees west thirteen chains and seventy links to a stake and stones, thence south eighty eight degrees and thirty minutes west seven chains to a stake and stones, thence north seven degrees east, nine chains and sixty links to a stake and stones, thence north eighty three degrees west four chains and sixty-six links to a stake, thence north one degree east eight chains and fifteen links to a stake in the south line of Nathaniel Miller's land, thence south eighty nine degrees and ten minutes east, thirty eight chains to the waters of the lake, thence southerly along the said waters up the same as they run to the south west corner of what is called Millers Bay at a stake in what has formerly been called the south east corner of Sutherlands Patent, thence south seventy six degrees and twenty minutes west forty two chains to the place of beginning containing one hundred and twenty acres of land, be the same more or less, excepting and reserving all iron ores and ore beds, with the privilege of free access to and from the same, with teams or otherwise, and of digging and carrying the same away. On which said mortgago there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of six hundred and forty five dollars and ninety three cents and whereas default has been made in the payment of the same according to the tenor of said mortgage and no proceeding in law or equity having been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises herein before described or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage together with the costs and expenses, of foreclosure—will be sold at public vendue at the Hotel kept by James Tefft in the town of Ticonderoga aforesaid, on the 19th day of Sept. 1854, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual and Hand Book for the Afflicted—

Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease, contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities, and everything that would offend the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exhlusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

To which is added, receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the Fever and Ague.

Testimony of the Prof of Obstetrics in Penn. College, Philadelphia —"Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual."—The author of this work unlike the majority of those works who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats, is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

JOSEPH LONGSHORE M. D

From A Woodward, M. D., of Penn. University, Philadelphia—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the "Medical Manual." Numerous cases of diseases of the Genital Organs some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health, in some instances where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by Self-abuse, or Excess of venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the Author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as a kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one, in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M.D.

"This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the class of diseases of which it treats Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff,' and too little presumption to impose,' he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruits of some 20 years most successful practice."—Herald.

"No teacher or parent should be without the knowledge imparted in this invaluable work. It would save years of pain, mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge."—People's Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, in writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual," says: "Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and their posterity. The constitutions of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled if not broken down, and the do not know the cause or the cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this widespread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generations. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks,) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and, believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

One copy, (securely enveloped,) will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or 6 copies for $1.—Address (post paid) COSDEN & Co., publishers, Box 196, Philadelphia. 478y

Medicated Inhalation---A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; mostly at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering that medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it removed the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface and on the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I am willing at present to use it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by B JAYD & PAUL, No 149 Chambers street; C. H. FING, cor of Division street and Broadway, N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person including $3 to BOYD & PAUL, or Curtis & Perkins New York, will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler, in a neat box, by express free to any part of the United States, or four packages for $10. 522 1yr

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs an Roots, which have been found after years of experience by the most scientific physicians, to be possessed of qualities unrivalled in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence when it is presented to the public, as an article, already known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. Its great superiority, Hoosac Bitters, Liver Strengthening Bitters, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, of the arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, after the patient has been confined for some time, to Pregnancy, after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or Loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sleeplessness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it was never equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial is one of the most invaluable Medicines to the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates new life, health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Females would exist, were they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by the use of quack nostrums, which invariably prove worthless, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to health and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

There is a delicacy which attends it to the existence of many men, it is for young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or cause of disease. To those, then, who by excesses have brought on them elves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sexual passions, rendering the necessity of consulting the delicacies of

MARRIAGE,

Impairing both the mental and physical faculties, Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, with a Charm to restore these important functions to a healthy vigor, and I will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general renovator of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE.

It is unsurpassed. We do not put this Cordial on a footing with quack nostrums, and as is customary, append long lists of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Doctor says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial" only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL"

is put up in 8 oz. Patent Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle. Counterfeit which is forgery (as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

THE MARRIAGE STATE;

Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery and Sickness, attend it?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchsafed to them.

Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with perhaps a family of children.

HOW OFTEN IT HAPPENS THAT THE

in that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhilarating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may just be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; or, her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Day after day, and month after month transpires. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the love of her family no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

Put a few years ago in the flush of health and youth, and buoyancy of spirits, rapidity, and apparently inexhaustible, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame emaciated, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But Often, by far oftener, to gross and inexcusable ignorance of the simplest and plainest rules of health as connected with the marriage state, the violation of which entails disease, suffering and misery, not only to the wife, but often

Hereditary Complaints upon the Children

"UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION,"

Transmitting CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, HYPOCHONDRIA, INSANITY, GOUT, KING'S EVIL, and other diseases, as a

from the Parents.

And must this continue? Shall we be wise in all that concerns the cattle of our fields, our horses, our sheep, our cows, our oxen, the nature and character of the soil we possess, the texture and quality of our goods and merchandise; but in all that concerns ourselves as human beings, with human functions and passions, subject to great derangement, involving our future peace and happiness—in all that concerns the health and welfare of the wife of our affections, and the mother of our children; in all that concerns the mental and physical well being of those children, we should be immersed in the darkest and most

BENIGHTED IGNORANCE,

AS CULPABLE AS INEXCUSABLE!

How long shall this ignorance prevail so productive of its bitter fruits? How long shall the wife and mother be ignorant of the nature, character and causes of the various womb and sexual complaints, embittering her days by suffering—suffering often prolonged to years, eventuating in a complication of diseases utterly and hopelessly incurable? Shall we for ever close our eyes to the results of physiological science by which we may arrive at an understanding of ourselves as men and women, subject to serious life-long enduring diseases, and perpetuating them to our children.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No husband or wife need be ignorant of what concerns them most to know to secure their health and happiness. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 23 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, (Author of a work on Self Preservation,) to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious and devastating affections—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and he soon tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization refreshed, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new th rapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter inclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, properly adapted according.

For warded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Laws of New York—By Authority.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

[Every Law so published in the State Paper, may be read in evidence from the paper in which it shall be contained, in all courts of Justice in this State, and in all proceedings before any officer, body or board, in which it shall be thought necessary to refer thereto, until three months after the close of the session in which it became a law, Sec. 8, title 7. chap. 8, part 1, Revised Statutes, and laws of 1845, chap. 209.]

CHAPTER 97.

AN ACT creating the officer of State Superintendent of Public Instruction — Passed March 30, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. There shall be chosen by joint ballot of the Senate and assembly, on the first Tuesday in April next, and every third year thereafter, and as often as a vacancy shall occur in said office, a state superintendent of public instruction, who shall hold his office for three years, and shall be invested with all the powers and perform all the duties, and be subject to all the responsibilities now conferred or imposed by law upon the secretary of state in his capacity of superintedent of common scools.

§ 2. The superintendent so appointed shall enter immediately upon the discharge of his duties, and shall be assigned suitable and convenient rooms in the state hall, to which all books, papers and documents, now in the office of the secretary of state, and pertaining to the common school department, shall be transferred. He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars, payable quartorly by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller; and shall have power to appoint a deputy and as many clerks, not exceeding three as he may deem necessary for the transaction of the business of the department; but the compensation of such deputy and clerks shall not exceed three thousand dollors in any one year, and shall be payable monthly by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller and the certificate of the superintendent.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the state superintendent, as soon as may be practicable after the commencement of his official term, to devise a seal with suitable inscriptions and device, a description of which, together with an impression thereof, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, which shall thereafter be the official seal of said superintendent, and such seal may be renewed from time to time, as often as may be necessary; copies of all papers deposited or filed in the office of said superintendent, and all acts, orders and decisions made by him, may be authenticated under such seal, and when so authenticated shall be evidence equally, and in like manner, with the original.

§3. It shall be the duty of the state superintendent to visit as often as may be practicable, such and so many of the common schools, academies and other literary institutions of the state as he may deem expedient; to inquire into the course of instructiou, management and discipline of such institutions, and to report the result of such visitation and inspection annually to the legislature with such recommendations and suggestions as he may deem suitable.

§ 5. The state superindendent shall be ex-officio a member of the board of regents of the university, and chairman of the executive committee of the board of regents of the State Normal School.

CHAPTER 72

AN ACT to authorise saving banks or institutions for savings to deposit surplus funds in trust companies. Passed March 21, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:—

§ 1. It shall be lawful for any savings banks or institution for savings to make temporary deposits in any trust company incorporated under the laws of this state, and authorized by the supreme court to receive and hold trust funds, and subject to examination by said court.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 73.

AN ACT to confer new powers and duties upon the oyer and terminer of this state. Passed March 31, 1854,

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

§ 1. Whenever at the time appointed for the commencement of any term of the court of oyer and terminer of this state, or at any time during such term, if either of the justices of the peace, designated as members of the court of sessions of the county in which such term or court shall be held, shall not attend such court as a member thereof, the justice of the supreme court holding such court, in the absence of the county Judge of said county, may at such term designate some other justice of the peace of the county to supply the vacancy occasioned by such non-attendence of and such justice until the justice not attending as aforesaid shall attend such court as a member thereof; but such designation by the justice of the supreme court shall not authorise the justice designated by him to supply any such vacancy at any other term than that at which such designation shall be made.

CHAPTER 74.

AN ACT to provide for the punishment of assaults with dangerous weapons.
Passed March 22, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. Any person who, with intent to do bodily harm, and without justifiable or excusable cause, shall hereafter commit any assault upon the person of another with any knife, dirk, dagger or other sharp, dangerous weapon, or who, without justifiable or excusable cause, shall shoot off or discharge at another person, any air-gun, pistol or other fire-arms, although without intent to kill such other person or commit any other felony, shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment in a state prison for a term not more than five years, or by imprisonment in the county prison for a term not exceeding one year.

§ 2. Upon any indictment against any person for an assault with intent to kill, it shall and may be lawful for the jury to find such accused person guilty of an assault according to the provisions of this act.

CHAPTER 26.

An Act to provide for the payment of a judgment recovered against the agent of the Sing Sing prison, by Zalmon J. McMaster, and Jacob T. Merritt. Passed February 21, 1854. three fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Section 1. The Treasurer shall pay on the warrant of the comptroller, out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to Zalmon J. McMaster and Jacob T. Merritt, the sum of eighteen thousand one hundred and thirty-three dollars and twenty five cents, with interest thereon from the eighth day of December, eighteen hundred and fifty two, until this act shall take effect, being the amount of judgment recovered in the Supreme Court of this state by the said Zalmon J. McMaster and Jacob T. Merritt against Munson I. Lockwood, agent of Sing Sing prison, and which was, on the said eighth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, duly docketed in the clerk's office of the county of Westchester, provided that at the time of such payment of said McMaster and Merrit shall deliver to said treasurer a satisfaction piece to discharge said judgment of record, as shall be satisfactory to the attorney general of this state.

§ 2, This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Secretary's Office. } I have compared the preceding with the original laws on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom of the whole of the said original.

ELIAS LEAVENWORTH,
Secretary of State.

David and Goliath,

A BIBLICAL BALLAD.

BY RHYMESLAYER.

In the ancient days of old,
Lived a giant tall and bold—
Lived a giant full of fame
And Goliath was his name.

Goliath was a wicked man,
Six cubits high and eke a span;
Goliath swore and cursed the Lord,
And killed the people with his sword.

Goliath's heart was proud and vain,
And he swore and cursed again;
Goliath had a wicked will,
And he loved to slay and kill.

Those who loved the Lord and prayed,
By his bloody sword were slayed;
He cut off a christians head,
And he killed him very dead.

Christian men and women too,
Did not know what they should do;
For their hearts were sore afraid,
He would kill them if they prayed,

But a youthful shepherd came,
Little David was his name;
And he told the folks to pray
For he would the Giant slay.

Little David went to fight,
With this man of giant might—
Great Goliath quickly said,
He would cut off David's head.

He would take him by the hair,
Give him to the birds of air;
And the beasts that roved the field,
On his limbs should make a meal.

Little David did not fear,
Great Goliath with his spear;
Little David he was brave,
And he did not fear the grave.

So he took a stone and sling,
At Goliath he did fling;
Hit Goliath on the head,
And the giant fell down dead,

Little David took a sword,
And he cried "O praise the Lord!"
Then cut off Goliath's head,
As he lay there stiff and dead.

And the people they were glad,
For they were no longer sad;
And the people creid for joy,
And they kissed the shepherd boy.

Little David lived and grew,
And his days were not a few;
Little David Loved to sing,
And he was the people's king.

For he killed the giant man,
Six cubits high and eke a span;
Who would not let the people pray,
But with his sword would kill and slay.

Report on Survey of Essex Co.

We publish this official and complimentary notice of the labors of Mr. Watson, with a view to extracts from his work.—[ED. REP.

It is admitted, that the first motives to industry are derived from the necessity for sustenance; it follows that accumulation, whether of food, or of any other object, leads to an interchange of commodites and an increase of our desires: these desires stimulate industry, and industry inspires a taste for a more extended enjoyment of civilized life. Hence it may be argued that to render a people industrious, a careful endeavor should be exerted to introduce a moral taste for refinement and luxury. In other words, that we should by all practical methods increase, and freely afford to all, the enjoyments of civilized life by the exercise of knowledge, the arts and learning generally.

It has been argued, though feebly, that happiness is not increased by a departure from rustic simplicity, substituting the addition of an increasing appetite for wealth; that the untaught, being largely supplied with fish from the waters and potatoes from the earth, are as cheerful and truly happy as the most learned or the most wealthy.

We need not argue the question at this time, yet the remark is ready, that with the very dawn of reason we begin naturally to learn, and the desire to improve comes with us into the world; and further, we uniformly find ambition and enterprise to occur in all things, most keen where free dom and prosperity exist.

We all know that our lot is to labor, either with our hands or our minds, or with both; yet we are not always ready to admit that this labor, apart from the wealth it procures for us, is of far greater value than the blessings coveted and produced. Reflection, however and continued series of observations seem to have made it evident and conclusive that the tastes which rise from an interchange of objects, are incentives to industry, causing a demand for an increase of various products from the earth; and they arouse exe tion, giving vigor to the arm and mind

These views are brought vividly before us while pursuing Mr. Watson's able Survey of the County of Essex; a work abounding in facts, closely interwoven not only with the physical condition of man, but including also his social, political and commercial relations, as connected with a portion of the State of New York, which may be deemed classic, because of events and actions both remarkable and interesting, carrying their influences upon our nation, to the present period.

Time has already enveloped historical facts in misty obscurity, in the investigation of which Mr. Watson has happily dispelled the clouds, exhibiting to us treasures of truth and art. In this respect we regard the civil history of Essex as an important link in the records of our country. The division appropriated to the physical history and topography of the county, opens to view wild regions and scenes, tempting the imaginatiou to pass from facts and realities to poetic dreams and fancies The mountain precipice and cataract; the the murky glen and Indian pass are truthfully depicted, while the treasures of ravines, rich in gems and still more valuable mineral deposits, exhibit sources of wealth and commercial exchange, rich beyond our previous hopes.

The discoveries of Mr. Watson claimed from him a perseverance and intrepidity, which in an eminent degree have marked his character; and we think, entitle him to a distinguished rank among the patrons and friends and friends of the State Society, and especially of his much favored county. He has exhibited the industrial resources of Essex county with ability, explaining their commercial economy, their rise and fall, and present progress.

The Agricultural division of the work presents features of interest unexpected to us, and exhibits a climate where the grape has flourished in profusion: the wild apple and plum cover the hill sides, and the wild cherry forms entire groves in the fastnesses of the Adirondacs.

Upon due consideration, we commend Mr, Watson's work as sustaining the desires of the State Agricultural Society, and thus producing for the State and Nation, the continuation of a series of works better adapted to develop our resources than has heretofore been attempted.

While thus presenting the views of your committee upon the manuscript survey of Essex county, we would remark that the chief aim of the State Society in promoting the surveys of the Counties of the State was to develop their agricultural capabilities, systems, modes of practice, and the means for improvement. This object was of sufficient magnitude to enlist science in the enterprise, and to awaken a fond taste for enjoyments springing very naturally from labor applied to the soil, when guided by science. At the very threshold we find a gentleman of high scientific attainments offering his aid to the the society, whose efforts shed a happy influence on the enterprise, at once proving its value, and causing a generous rivalry among the counties of the State for precedence in the order of survey. It may be a matter of congratulation to farmers, that from their own class, men stepped forward to conduct the surveys of the three next counties selected by the Society—a bold undertaking for men devoted to the plow. Yet they are before us, in all their plainness and simplicity, monuments at least of an agricultural soul, and a compilation of facts and observations forming a solid basis for a superstructure of practical improvement. It was soon manifest that no survey could be made with utility or truth, unless based upon the broad geological fesiures of the region under examination; positive knowledge of the soils under cultivation; in order to exhibit to the farmer the material elements of his profession, and enable all just entering upon the virgin soils of the country, to judge more accurately of their power and value.

A positive knowledge of the mineral wealth embosomed in the vast unexamined surfaces of many counties, is important not to the possessor only, but to the revenues of the State. In this respect the examination of Essex county by Mr. Watson is pre-eminently successful.

Thus the county surveys, intended for agricultural advancement, have incidentally and naturally led the way to investigations strictly connected with the earth and its uses, yet resulting in the formation of works exceeding in magnitude the early views of the Society. The committee ask ask attention to this subject because in each survey thus far made, the fear of exceeding a limited number of pages seems to have operated disadvantageously upon the mind of the investigator, and useful facts and suggestions are withheld, which might add wealth to the farmer and revenue to the State. With these views we suggest an extension or withdrawal of the limit. At the same time we would strongly urge a cautious guard against the seductive and dangerous propensities of introducing leading ideas and making facts subservient to them.

These expressions have no bearing on the work before us, and are intended only to suggest wider limits to future surveyors with due caution.

In conclusion we congratulate the Society on the acquisition of the survey of Essex county, and commend it for publication in the Transactions of the Society.

Summer Retreats.

Mr. Hammond of the State Register, has an article about summering, from which we copy the following extract. He has hit the idea exactly, and thousands will sigh for just such a season. He says;

We shall go to no fashionable resort — We shall go among the mountains of Essex, Clinton and Franklin The most beautiful Lakes, the loviest Rivers and streams that God ever threw from his hands, lay out there among the hills, right in the woods, surrounded by ancient forests, and all primaeval things. Deer and trout are there in plenty, and we shall go among them. Yes! yes! we shall go to the Lakes and Rivers and streams of the north; we shall fish and hunt and float all over those Lakes and Rivers, so beautiful, so quiet, so calm, and still. The wild birds will sing merrily in the woods; the loon will loft up his clarion voice on the water, and it will echo like a bugle among the mountains; the patridge will drum on his log; the great grey owl will hoot solemnly from his tree; and the voice of the screach owl come shrill and quavering from his perch; the deep bass of the frog will come up from the reedy shore; all these and a hundred other voices, will be on the air, and to us they are music ten thousand times more glorious, more enchanting in the summer time, than all the instruments invented by human ingenuity and tuned to harmony by the profoundest skill of man.

And then the breeze that comes sighing and moaning from the forest, and sweeping gently over the pure water, loaded with the fragrance of the woods, and the coolness of the Lakes. How sweet its breath is and how pleasantly it fans the cheek, as you sit in your light boat under the shadow of the mountain along the shore in the morning, or under the old forest trees that canopy with their long arms, the little bay in which you float in the heat of a noon. And then as you glide along down one of those pleasant little Rivers, the Raquett for instance, to pause just above where some cold stream puts in, and throw the fly across the 'mouth' of that mountain brook, and to see as it skims like an insect along the surface, a trought weighing may be a pound, may be two, seize it, and when he feels the hook in his jaw, how he will dart in astonishment, here and there and every where, now striving towards the centre of the River, making you reel hiss and your rod bend like a reed, now glancing as you reel him in., along the surface, and now driving toward the bottom, now yielding to his fate, and then as his eyes fall upon you darting away again, with renewed vigor, and strength recuperated by terror, and how at last when his energies are exhausted, you lay him safely in your boat It is glorious sport this trout fishing on the Raquette and the other Rivers that come down from the mountain regions of Essex Clinton and Franklin, and there is plenty of it. There's plenty of those beautiful fish ready to be taken, aye! and willing too, around the mouth of every cold brook that comes down from the springs among the hills

And then to see on one of those natural meadows, bare of timber, but covered with rank grass, and over which the Spring freshets sweep, a noble deer grazing quietly, till he hears the dip of the oars in the water, or scents you in the air and then how wildly he will gaze at you, as he stands with beautiful neck arched and his ears pointed forward, and then how he will hoist his white flag and bound gracefully away. And then go out in your boat, in the night time, with a light in the bow, and paddle silently along just outside the reeds and grasses that grow along the shore, and to see among the ten thousand fires that flash their tiny torches all around you, two mysterious lights, fixed and motionless, as if a couple of stars had come down from the sky, to watch you as you float ever the water. Those lights are not stars; they are not 'jack'olanterns,' the offspring of a marshy pool. They are the eyes of a deer, giving back the light of your torch, as he stands gazing, in bewildered astonishment, at the strange phenomena before him.—You may approach within a dozen feet of him, but do not fire, unless you need flesh for food. Float on till your light passes him, and he falls within the shadow and sees your face, and then notice, aye, laugh and be merry, when you see him dash, in the extremity of his terror, from the water, and go whistling, and snorting, and plunging up the mountain.

THE GREAT WEST.—Minnesota Territory, according to the St. Anthony Democrat, is estimated to contain at present a population of 25,000 inhabitants. in the year 1850 the United States census showed the population to be 6038. The increase this year will be, it is thought, about 10,000, but it seems highly probable that the Nebraska fever, which is now raging in all parts of the Northern States, will detract considerably from this total. New England alone is organizing an emigration of 20,000 persons for Nebraska and Kansas, and Iowa will, it is stated, send thither full 10,000 emigrants. From Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York, many hundreds are already on the route, and these three great States will probably send forth much larger numbers; enough, in fact, to give a political tone to the territories, Judging from present appearances, Nebraska and Kansas will both be rapidly settled, as the feelings of the two great sections of the republic are warmly excited as to whether slavery shall or shall not be recognised and prevail there as a domestic institution,—Comparatively little emigration to the other territories may, therefore, bo looked for for many years to come.

PRINCIPLE ILLUSTRATED.—The late Thomas Hood, who was the wit of his day, had something to say upon the subject of cheap literature, and here it is:—

'A few months since, I was applied to myself to contribute to a new journal, not exactly gratuiously, but at a very small advance upon nothing—and avowedly because the work had been planned according to that estimate. However, I accepted the terms conditionally; that is to say, provided the principle could be properly carried out. Accordingly I wrote to my butcher, baker, and other tradesmen, informing them that it was necessary, for the sake of cheap literature and the interest of the reading public, that they should furnish me with several commodities at a very trifling per centage above the cost price.—It will be sufficient to quote the answer of the butcher: 'Sir; Respectin' your note. Cheap literature be blowed. Butchers must live as well as other people; and if so be you or the readin' publick wants to have meat at prime cost, you must buy your own beastesses, and kill yourselves.

I remain, &c., John Stokes.'

☞ A man in Lockport, N. Y., has a robin, which, till a recent incident, has been a beautiful singer. It was kept in the same room with a prrrot, who escaped from its cage a few days since, flew across the room and alighted on the cage of the robin.—The robin was very much frightened, and since that time has never sung a note, and what is still more singular, its feathers are gradually turning white.—Toledo Republican, June 7.

Sir Charles Napier on the American Eagle.—A letter from Copenhagen, said to have been written by Mr. Badinger, our Charge at that place, gives an account of an interview with Sir Charles Napier at a public dinner. After making us many compliments, the bluff English admiral remarked:

I begin to believe in the description which some one of your orators gave of the American eagle, when he said—"he sits on the top of the Alleghany, dips his beak in the Atlantic, and his tail in the Pacific stretches one wing over Canada, the other over Mexico, and grasps the continent in his claws."

A MAMMOTH FARMER.—Jacob Strawn's homestead in Illinois consists of 10,000 acres. The number of acres of corn he has in this year, is 2,300. This at 40 bushels per acre, a low average for the last season, gives 92,000 bushels. The corn fed to cattle is not husked, but it is cut up and fed to them on the stalk. Another farm owned by the same man, is six miles long and four broad. Last year he paid out $10,000 for fencing materials. He also has large tracts of unimproved lands.—Strawn is an immense dealer in cattle.

Ruptures in the Roman Catholic Church.

Excommunication of the Trustees at the Church of St. Louis, at Buffalo, by Bishop Timmon. Statement from the Trustees—Their Determination not to Yield.

In the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser of Tuesday, a statement appears (under date of June 19th) from the Trustees of the Church of St. Louis, by which it appears that they have been personally excommunicated by Bishop Timon, acting under, and upon special authority from the Roman See. Here is the 'Bull,' in extenso:—

'Whereas, the Trustees of St. Louis Church, though frequently warned of their anti-Catholic proceedings, and duly notified of impending excommunication, cease not their usurpations against church law and discipline; and whereas the National Council, held at Baltimore, in 1852, declares that all who do what said Trustees having been doing are, by the fact, under the sentence of excommunication, pronounced by the Holy Council of Trent against such transgressors of church discipline, and whereas the said Trustees did themselves appeal to Rome, and the Holy See sent a Nuncio to decide that case, who judged and decided that the Trustees were wrong that the Bishop was right, and that 'he could not have acted otherwise than he did.' Whereas, then, the Nuncio exhorted the refractory and the Trustees to obey their Bishop, and said: The congregation of St. Louis Church, by adopting the course indicated, which alone is just and indispensable, will give a noble proof of faith and charity. But if they refuse, I can only see them in persons faithless to their duties, who can never be received as obedient sons of the Church of God.'—The learned Nuncio ending his mission by those words of his last letter to the Trustees:

'Now, then, it becomes my duty to say that your answer is truly painful, especially to an envoy of the Holy Father, to whom you referred your case. The sad conviction forces itself on me that you disregard altogether Catholic principles consequently that if you persist, it only remains for me to deplore the sad position in which you placed yourselves in the face of the church; but the responsibility rests on yourselves.'

The same learned and pious Nuncio writing to the Bishop, says of the Trustees and of their abettors: 'I consider them as not being Catholics at heart, and, Right Rev. Sir, should your Episcopal ministry inspire you to declare so, in order that good Catholics may know who are their brethern and who are not, and that those who are now led astray may no longer be deceived as to right or participation in the benedictions and benefits of the Catholic church, I leave it to your discretion and to your holy inspirations. Finally, whereas the Holy See has since approved the judgment of the Nuncio, though sad and reluctant, the Bishop is bound to fulfill his duty. Alas! an article which the Trustees have just published in the public papers, boasting amid many untruths, of their determination never to comply with the decision of the Holy Father, renders this sad duty more imperative.

I then, declare the said trustees of St. Louis in Buffalo to wit: Messrs. Martin Roth, Alex. Allenbrand, Michael Mesmer, Jacob Wilhelm, George Fisher, Nicholaus Ottentot, J. P. Munschauner, to be excommunicated with the major or greater excommunication, and through the authority given to His Church by Almighty God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, I do hereby, then excommunicate them; declaring, further, that all who may henceforward accept the office of Trustee in St. Louis Church, to continue the present unholy opposition to the church discipline, will ipso facto, that is, by the very fact, incur the same major excommunication.

Pray for their conversion, that they may return to Catholic unity, and that their souls may be saved in the day of judgment.

Given in the Feast of the Octave of Corpus Christi, 22d June, 1854, from our residence in Buffalo.

† JOHN, Bishop of Buffalo."

The Trustees, in their communication to the Advertiser, assure the Editor, that notwithstanding the bull of excommunication, they have not the remotest idea of abandoning their position. They say: 'We admit that the report made by Archbishop Gedini of his mission to the United States had been sanctioned by the Propaganda in Rome, as being in accordance with the rule and statute of the Catholic church; and also that all the transactions of the same prelate, while Governor of Bologna, were sanctioned by the same college. But to prevent any kind of misconception on the part of the public as to having yielded, we take the liberty to state that there is no design whatever on the part of the congregation to accede to the demand made by the Bishop, nor submit to be governed in temporal matters according to the said Art IV; though many not being thoroughly acquainted with our position, may think it a very critical one.

Our opinion is that temporalities have nothing whatever to do with spiritualities, and we have nothing to reproach ourselves with, we not having been the aggressors in this affair. We beg leave to state that there is not the least foundation for the belief that the congregation of St. Louis Church will ever yield to the request made to her, having resolved to remain in the situation in which she is, until it shall please the Bishop to provide her with a good priest, thereby causing that peace which once existed, and which is now so very much needed for the propagation of our holy religion, to be restored.'

☞The Batavia Democrat mentions that Mr Pluto residing a short distance from Batavia drew from home and delivered at the mill in that village, at one load with one pair of horses and upon a common lumber wagon, 198 20-60 bushels of wheat, for which he received the sum of $311 25 or $2 25 per bushel.—Rochester American.

☞The Dunkirk Journal says that a gentleman passed through that village, en route for Cincinnati, with some twelve Chinese tea culturists, for the purpose of testing the practicability of growing tea in the vicinity of Cincinnati.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, July 8.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands.
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

THE 4TH OF JULY.—The glorious 4th was enthusiastically celebrated throughout the valley of Lake Champlain. Notwithstand a pressing invitation to spend the day at Platteburgh, as the special guest of a friend, we decided to take the boat for Ti. With about 1200 persons on the America, we still had a comfortable time with the aid of Capt. Anderson, who furnished us with a state-room, and Capt. Flagg, who provided us an early seat at dinner. Thanks, thanks. Not being willing to receive the entire crowd at Burlington on board the America, the Saranac went express and carried 500. Crowds flocked on board at every port. At Crownpoint a sabbath school came on board, numbering sixty. At Ti, the Norwich Cadets performed a few evolutions and fired a few vollies over the ruins made memorable by Ethan Allen. Returning the whole crowd was turned loose upon the Canada, and such a crowd! Tired out and sick, we went ashore at Port Henry, flattering ourself to find rest and peace, but there we run into a riot noticed elsewhere, and thus ended our 4th of July, A. D. 1854. We say ended—it will be ended when we recover our health lost on the way from Ti to Port Henry.

THE RUPTURE IN THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.—We publish elsewhere the Bull of excommunication of the trustees of the church of St. Louis, at Buffalo. We regard it as important. The facts are briefly these: Land in the city of Buffalo was deeded by a benevolent catholic to trustees for the purpose of erecting a church. The church was erected, and the donor is since deceased. Not long since the Bishop required those trustees to convey the land to him. They declined. The Bishop claimed it in obedience to the rules of the church. The trustees refused on the ground that they held it under the laws of the State for the benefit of that particular church and declined to put it beyond its and their control. If we remember, the power of the courts was invoked in vain—An appeal was taken to the Pope, and he sent his Nuncio (Bedini, who made such a stir recently) over to settle the contest.—He decided in favor of the Bishop. Another appeal was taken to Rome and the Pope decided with the Bishop also. The trustees still proving refractory, they are expelled.

We said we regarded this as an important question. It is so. Do catholics owe an allegiance to the Pope in temporal matters superior to the laws of the land? If so, they are with us but not of us—they reside in America, but they are not Americans. We propound this question in no offensive sense to catholics, but as one worthy of profound enquiry and reflection as well by catholics themselves, as by Americans and Protestants.

☞The same question precisely is being agitated in the French Catholic Church of this place. The decision of the question involves the proposition, whether they are genuine American Repulicans and bound to abide by the laws of the land, or not.

RIOT AT PORT HENRY.—As exagerated reports of this affair have gone out it is well enough to state the facts as they occurred. In the first place, no one was killed, Pease's house was not "riddled," a prominent citizen of this place was not knocked down, nor did a business man at Pt. Henry get 'cornered', or 'crushed,' after knocking three or four down.' He was not touched, nor did he touch any one. So much that did not occur. It was, however, a serious and unprovoked riot. In the afternoon a man from Ticonderoga named Alx Woodard and some Irishmen got into a fight in which Woodard got the worst of it. They met in the evening at Pease's barroom when they fought again and Woodard was victor.—He triumphantly exclaimed that he "was drunk in the afternoon, but now he was sober and he could whip all the Irishmen in Port Henry." Nothing further occurred at that time. Pease was in a distant part of the house and knew nothing of that fight, or it would have been stopped right there.

About an hour later, however, after the first fight was almost forgotten, the room suddenly filled with excited Irishmen to the number of fifty, probably, armed with shillalahs, stones and knives. A row was no long brewing, and Pease still unin[illegible]med. Suddenly the storm commenced with perfect fury. Of the yankees present, but three or four wanted to or would fight under any circumstances, and they fought like heroes, till overpowered by numbers. They were laid out, however, right and left, boys and old decrepit men. Fifteen or twenty probably had severe bruises and ashes, and three or four stabbed with a knife one dangerously in four places. John Locke of Crownpoint a Constable while commanding the peace, was crushed by five or six and dragged out and across the street by the hands and hair, while one pounded him with a shilalah.

The room was of course soon cleared, and about this time Pease was first notified of the fight. He partially pacified the rioters, but after they had retired to the street and found that several of their own men had been badly hurt they became infuriated and again rushed into the house declaring they would go up to the dance. They were met on the stairs by Mr. Pease, and Mr. Goff who kept them back and they again retired, and went off. It may be added that two pair of stairs were by this time lined with resolute men armed with clubs so that not one could have reached the hall alive. Several of the rioters have been arrested and numbers have run away. It is proper to say that had the Irish confined their assault to those with whom they had had the difficulty it would have attracted little or no attention but their assault upon boys, gentlemen and aged men indiscriminately was without excuse, and is just what gives zest to the Know-Nothings, a society so much hated by them.

Political Speculations.—We are advised that at Albany there is an undercurrent which is to work out the following results: 1 That the Adamantine State Convention will not endorse the Nebraska Bill. 2 That the Softs will vote the Hard ticket in great numbers by way of showing Pierce that he has no friends in that state.

AVENGERS ATTENTION!!—The Avenger's Guard will meet for drill on Tuesday and Friday evenings, each week, at 8 o'clock. All Irishmen anxious to put into practice our motto, 'Vengeance,' are invited to join at once, ——, Captain.

The above "call" appears in the last number of Mitchel's Citizen. The Mirror says that as no place is specified, and no name signed, it looks like a weak invention of the enemy. Mitchel's Citizen is given to very weak and very foolish 'inventions.'—[Troy Daily Budget.

The Budget is the organ of the Pierce democracy in Troy and the editor is Post-Master of that city. Thus that party displays its love for the Irish. Just before the coming election we shall see in such papers labored articles headed in flaming capitals, "IRISHMEN READ—WHIG DUPLICITY—THE CATHOLIC RELIGION IN DANGER"!! Pshaw!

New Hampshire Politics by an eye witness.

MR. TARBELL, SIR:—I noticed an editorial article a few weeks ago in the Northern Gazette, wherein the "Emigrant" had made an arithmetical calculation of the majority of the Administration Democrats in the New Hampshire Legislature this year, asserting that the administration party had their usual majority in that body—and at the same time advocating the infamous Nebraska swindle—and representing slanderously, that a majority of the citizens of the State of New Hampshire were in favor of those scandalous acts, perpetrated by the Northern Dough-faces backed up by the executive.

I was present at Concord N. H., at the organization of the present Legislature of that state, which enabled me fully to appreciate the falsey and bare faced perfidy of the Canadian editor. The Democratic candidate for speaker was a very popular man, having many personal friends, who in private, expressed the strongest feelings against the "Nebraska swindle," while in public they felt obliged to sustain the present administration. The Executive, (as in the case of the fugitive Burns,) used his personal influence, in the election of that speaker. Custom House officers from Boston and other places, were on hand with five hundred dollar drafts in their pockets, to confirm the doughtful and wavering members which I was informed they used in divers cases. In addition to this—the administration party made use of trickery and fraud almost as bare faced as the Nebraska bill itself—by which ten members were allowed to vote who were not rightly entitled to a seat in the House. With all this effort they elected their speaker by the majority of two votes. With this wonderful majority and the Custom House officers at their elbows, the Nebraska party made an effort to proceed immediately to the election of the United States Senators, before the committee on credentials should have an opportunity to act and seperate the sheep from the goats, and thereby deprive the administration party of the benefit of those bastard voters who were expecting to be sent out of the house as drones from the hive, as soon as the illegality of their credentials should be acted upon. But in this attempt they were defeated—and on a test vote the Canuck's "usual" majority of two, was turned to five majority against the administration party. Upon this the Custom House officers fled in dismay, fully convinced that the New Hampshire people will disinherit their own children, for the cause of truth and freedom—and that Dough Faced popularity has had its day, and died a premature death.

The representatives of liberty, in the Legislature for intelligence, integrity and intellect will compare with any body of men that has ever assembled in the United States—while on the part of the Nebraskaites, (as might be expected) there seems to be a deficiency in understanding, favoring in a most perfidious cause. A member from the town of L——— made a speech before the house—or rather a most splendid failure, in support of the Nebraska candidate for Senator—Mr. Hibbard—upon which, a friend in the Lobby addressed a Liberty man in the following manner:—

Nebraskite.—'Our side of the house hain't got any tact or ability'—

Liberty.—'Why, friend, you do your friends wrongs, your man from the town of L——— has just made the most wonderful speech I ever heard.'—

Nebraskite—(in an under tone.) 'He is a d——m fool.' Thus ended the dialogue which characterizes in a true manner every opposer of liberty—and also like the inhabitants of Bedlam—each can see the others insanity and deformity.

A TRUE DEMOCRAT of 40 years standing.

News of the week.

A terrible Rail Road accident occurred near Baltimore on the 5th ult., 30 killed, 100 wounded, 40 of whom dangerously.

——The Messrs. Schuylers, the great Rail Road contractors have failed for a large sum. It is likely to produce a panic and make assignments fashionable.

——Hon. Sam'l. G. Huntington of Troy died on the 5th.

——Father Richie, one of the oldest if not the oldest editor in the U. S. died on the 3d inst.

——The Turks have driven the Russians from before Silistra with terrible slaughter. They have also gained several other advantages. The Austrians have at last decided to give Turkey active aid.

——The New Hampshire Legislature has elected an anti-Pierce man State Printer, by a vote of 165 to 153. Hurrah!

☞Another copy of the Autograph and Remarker has come to hand, but our absence during several days past, prevents us from quoting from it till next week.

☞We call attention to our new advertisements and particularly to a notice of the American House Troy.

☞We trust the editor of the Gazette feels relieved. If not, we advise him to go up to Breaus, where he can play cards for the "rot-gut" as formerly, and then we are sure the temperance societies will listen to his advice, or they must be stupid.

MOURNFUL.—The pleasures of the 4th have not been unmixed with pain. The family of G. W. Brownell of this place, while on a visit to his father-in-law's on Grand Isle, met with a sad affliction in the loss of an infant daughter aged one year and three months. The child was placed upon a bed in the evening, while the family and friends went out to view the fire works displayed at Plattsburgh. On returning the child was found dead, having rolled between the bed and wall; her chin catching upon the bed rail by which she was suspended and thus strangled. The house of hearting thus became in an unexpected moment the house of mourning.—'The heart knoweth its own bitterness.'—The grief of the parents none can know but those who have been thus bereaved.

THE TELEGRAPH.—An office at this place is being opened to day. We have delayed our paper in order to have some news by telegraph, but we cannot obtain it without making us late, and we go to press without it.

Hotels in Troy.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE.—This house, situated on the corner of Fulton and Third streets, has been kept by its present proprietors, Messrs. Sheppard & Miller, during the past ten years. With limited room and restricted facilities for the accomodation of guests at the commencement, the steady increase of their business soon rendered an enlargement of the house necessary, and improvements and additions were made to the building from time to time until a year ago, when it was determined to renew and overhaul it thoroughly, besides putting up an addition increasing its size nearly one half. This work has now been completed in the most perfect manner, the outside coated with mastic in imitation of free stone—presenting a very imposing and handsome appearance—the interior finished off in the best style, with a view to the accommodation of guests and to render the house of the first class order in all respects.—The size of the American is as follows:

Height of the House.....5 stories.
Front on Third street.....76 feet.
Front on Fulton street.....103
New wing running from south end of main building.....38 by 103 ft.

The American contains 153 rooms, many of them of the largest class with well furnished parlors and bed rooms off. It will accommodate some 300 guests.

The spacious Dining room, well lighted by windows on each side, is now situated in the new wing of the building, and the room formerly occupied for this purpose on the Fulton street side is divided into convenient and hand-some bedrooms with a portion of the space appropriated also to the Reading Room connected with the office.

The Ladies' Reception Room in the second story is a very beautiful apartment, elegantly carpeted, well furnished, and the walls prettily decorated. Besides this, there are two other large and well finished parlors for Ladies' Sitting Rooms in the same story of the building.

The entrances on Third street are spacious and convenient, with easy and well arranged stairways for access to all parts of the House.

The rooms have been papered in a neat and appropriate style; they are handsomely furnished with every thing desirable to promote comfort and secure enjoyment; they are of much larger average dimensions than usual in hotels and (what every body must appreciate) they are provided with plenty of light and good ventilation.

The American has always been a favorite resort of large numbers of the traveling public, and with the recent large addition and important improvements made to it, the House must become still more popular—No traveller could desire better accommodations or more generous fare than is afforded at the American.

Messrs. Sheppard & Miller have a certificate of capacity to cater satisfactorily for public, in the approval of their efforts by thousands of guests during the past ten years, and in the success they have uniformly realized from their well directed labors.

The American now ranks among the best Houses in this section of the State. It is an ornament to the city, and is justly entitled to the favorable regards of the travelling public.

GRAND CONSOLIDATION
OF THE

Two Largest and most Popular Equestrian Establishments in the world, viz:—the well-known Companies.

Welch's National Circus,

AND HIPPODROME

Of Philadelphia, and

Lent's New York Circus.

Forming two distinct Exhibitions Blended together, and both given under one Immense Pavillion for a Single Price of Admission—reports by inferior companies to the contrary, notwithstanding. These Consolidated Companies Will Exhibit at Keeseville, Friday July 21st.

Doors open at 2 and 7 o'clock, P. M. Performances will commence half an hour after opening.

ADMISSION 25 CENTS. ☞NO HALF PRICE.

The great resources obtained by combining these two extensive and well known troupes, will at once place at the disposal of the public by uniting in their Entertainments so parelleled in this country, and unsurpassed in any other. A great variety of Performances new in this country and peculiar to this notable mid-summer season will be found combined in the bills, and it is a fact beleived that the novel, brilliant and exciting representations of the double troupe which formed a feature of the amusements in America, will be remembered with gratification many years to come.

The BRIGHT ARRAY OF TALENT attached to the consolidated establishment includes a great number of the most distinguished names in the Equestrian Profession, many of whom are as well known in Europe as upon this side of the Atlantic. Among the most prominent of the Equestrians are, MADLLE EMMA the great Parisian Equestrienne; MADLLE LOUISE, the youthful, fearless and fascinating rider; MADL. [illegible] OPHIE IRIN, MISS JENNY; WORRELL, the very best Clown of the age; HIRAM W. FRANKLIN, PATRICK EL. HF NICHOLS, J. BANKS, W. KINCAID, B. STEVENS M. STEWILLE, and numerous others ALL KNOWN TO FAME, and unequalled in their respective departments. For a full description of the MAGNIFICENT ENTERTAINMENTS to be given, the reader is referred to the descriptive bills at the principal hotels as it would be impossible to give an adequate idea of their VAST EXTENT AND VARIETY in the limits of a newspaper advertisement.

Each Afternoon's Exhibition will termin te with the extr mely laughable French Equestrian Burlesque entitled LE JOCKEY; while tonight, the Performance will conclude with the great Legendary, Hippodramatic spectacle of ST GEORGE AND THE DRAGON produced with all the Original Music, Superb Dresses Appointments and Machinery employed at the National American Theatre, in Philadelphia, where it has an unprecedented run. The piece abounds in Grand Combats Terrible Encounters and startling incidents; concluding with the Grand Procession in honor of the rescue of the Princess, and the TRIUMPH OF THE CHRISTIAN KNIGHT.

This company will exhibit at Port Henry, the 18th, West Port 19th, Essex 20th, Plattsburgh 22d, Chateaugay 24th, Malone 25th, Lawrence 27th, Potsdam 27th, Canton 28th, and Ogdensburgh 29th of July.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patent and patent machinery on commission. To effect these objects, the Company have provided the above and the most convenient accommodations for the exhibition of models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale or wish to have in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent in the first scientific and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and a patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall have ably reported as to the utility of the invention and novelty of the object.

A further protection to purchasers, over inventions offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed by the proprietors, giving the Company an equal advantage as claimed for it, for sold, and a like benefit of secrecy demanded.

The Company, and its agents, employ no fee, but all advances or payments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A regular entrance to the rooms, for the convenience of the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau, and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their special attention to the purchase of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. These practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, put engines may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Prof. A. KEATOR, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES HEATH, Jr. Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive humbug inventions, has rendered the beneficial objects of your Patent Laws, and the protection and encouragement of inventive genius almost nugatory, by the odium which attaches to the very name of Patent Right. Hence all such inventions in this receiving house must by some means protect itself from imposition, and will not give countenance to any inventor but, on the contrary, will discourage such, and make it the interest of every inventor to have his invention examined by the Board of Examiners, before he makes application for a patent.

The peculiar value and points of this Establishment consists, whether inventors or not, in giving information, and a correct opinion as to the value of inventions, which will make it an object for every inventor to call at the office, and thus have the opportunity of examining the inventions on exhibition, and of receiving the information sought for.

The terms for examining and reporting upon inventions, will be from $5.00 to $500, according to the extent of the investigation.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The following notices of Prof Hart's Whole World are cut from the principal Newspapers of New York:

Prof. Hart's Great Gift Enterprise is taking the City by storm. Almost everybody we meet has either purchased a ticket or is about doing so. The exhibition itself is one of the most interesting instructive and ingenious ever exhibited in this country, and is worth fully one dollar to view it. The Prof. will give a grand Free excursion to every purchaser of his one dollar tickets to his elegant country seat, which is one of the gifts in his great enterprise, and a year's subscription to his valuable Journal, and also one of the 300,000 gifts.—Atlas.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—This instructive and entertaining exhibition of the Whole World is at Nos 377 and 379 Broadway.—For one dollar four tickets may be procured for the exhibition and one valuable gift which may be an independent fortune for the receiver, and also one year's subscription to the Illustrated Journal called The Whole World.—Dispatch.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—The success which the extraordinary, ingenious and comprehensive work of art is meeting is commensurate with its merits; it is the first and only one of the kind ever conceived, and it stands forth as a monument of the unwavering patience and perseverance of man, and as a most wonderful development of mental fertility.—Tribune.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—We hear that this Gift enterprise is going ahead vigorously. It is in energetic hands, and if business capacity will achieve anything the prospects are all in favor of it. The immense number of gifts to be distributed renders it almost certain that every subscriber will receive something valuable.—Sunday Times. 528-3m

D. 1845, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default in the payment of the sum or sums thereon mentioned or any part thereof which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county volume L of mortgages on pages 508 and 509 on the fourth day of August, A. D. 1845 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the payment of five hundred and fifty dollars with interest, annually, did duly grant bargain sell and convey to Carlos Bugbee of said town of Ticonderoga in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: all that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga in the County of Essex and State of New York in a patent of three thousand acres of land granted by letter patent to John Russel Esquire, and is part of said tract, and is bounded as follows, beginning at a stake standing at the south east corner of the pound and north west corner of Timothy Hunter's garden; thence north eight degrees west thirteen chains and seventy links to a stake and stones, thence south eighty eight degrees and thirty minutes west seven chains to a stake and stones, thence north seven degrees east, nine chains and sixty links to a stake and stones, thence north eighty three degrees west four chains and sixty-six links to a stake, thence north one degree east eight chains and fifteen links to a stake in the south line of Nathaniel Miller's land, thence south eighty nine degrees and ten minutes east thirty eight chains to the waters of the lake, thence southerly along the said waters up the same as they run to the south west corner of what is called Millers Bay at a stake in what has formerly been called the south east corner of Sutherlands Patent, thence south seventy six degrees and twenty minutes west forty two chains to the place of beginning containing one hundred and twenty acres of land, be the same more or less, excepting and reserving all iron ores and ore beds, with the privilege of free access to and from the same, with teams or otherwise, and of digging and carrying the same away. On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of six hundred and forty five dollars and ninety three cents and whereas default has been made in the payment of the same according to the tenor of said mortgage and no proceeding in law or equity having been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises herein before described or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage together with the costs and expenses of foreclosure—will be sold at public vendue at the Hotel kept by James Tefft in the town of Ticonderoga aforesaid, on the 19th day of Sept. 1854, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

"Man Know Thyself."

An Invaluable Book for 25 Cents

"EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE A COPY."

20,000 Copies sold in less than 5 months. A new edition, revised and improved, just issued.

Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual and Hand Book for the Afflicted—containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse; by self abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities, and everything that would offend the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

To which is added, receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the Fever and Ague.

Testimony of the Prof of Obstetrics in Penn College, Philadelphia.—"Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual."—The author of this work unlike the majority of those works who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats, is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

JOSEPH LONGSHORE M. D.

From A Woodward M. D., of Penn. University, Philadelphia—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the "Medical Manual." Numerous cases of diseases of the Genital Organs some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some instances where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by Self abuse, or Excess of venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the Author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as a kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion to recommend him as one, in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M D.

"This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the class of diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technicalterms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hand of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff,' and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruits of some 20 years most successful practice."—Herald.

"No teacher or parent, should be without the knowledge imparted in this invaluable work. It would save years of pain, mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge."—People's Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, in writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual," says "Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and their posterity. The constitutions of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled if not broken down, and the do not know the cause or the cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this widespread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generations. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks,) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Acce pt my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and, believe me, your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

One copy, (securely enveloped,) will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or 6 copies for $1.—Address (post paid) CONDEN & Co., publishers, Box 196, Philadelphia. 47ay

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS'S Hygeian, or Vegetable Inhaling Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity, for whom he has, ever since commencing to administer upon the diseases of the Lungs never failed in effecting a permanent cure, (see certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 2d, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years have suffered terribly and all my powers of description must fail me to describe it; sleep in a bed, get up and walk I could not do in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times that to hold together my friends expected each breath would be my last. During the previous years I have used and taken advice of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeian Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most severe attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than 5 minutes after the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a tea-spoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now (comparatively well. God only knows what amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the sufferers is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Isaac Hicks; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I arrived this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accordingly heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeian, or Inhaling Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. I am after wearing the Inhaler, I found relief from the first use of my lungs and throat were the seat made its appearance up in the surface under the Inhaler. To-day the Cherry syrup as I orderd and continued to use, my cough is daily growing better, and I feel very different, and I now consider myself cured. I do not wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and I believe it strengthens and purifying to the lungs. I feel thankful at present to say this with it. JOHN WOOD.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficacious remedy it is so known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety for the cure of Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Female after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a tonic Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and Happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and boy is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excesses have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. Possessed of rare virtues, as a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE.

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery,) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

THE MARRIAGE STATE;

Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery and Sickness, attend it?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchsafed to them.

Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with perhaps a family of children.

HOW OFTEN IT HAPPENS THAT THE

in that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhilarating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Thus, day after day, and month after month transpire. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the hope of recovery no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

But a few years ago in the flush of health and youth, and buoyancy of spirits, rapidly, and apparently inexplicably, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame emaciated, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But oftener, by far oftener, to gross and inexcusable ignorance of the simplest and plainest rules of health as connected with the marriage state, the violation of which entails disease, suffering and misery, not only to the wife, but often

"UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION,"

Transmitting CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, HYPOCHONDRIA, INSANITY, GOUT, KING'S EVIL, and other diseases, as a

from the Parents.

And must this continue? Shall we be wise in all that concerns the cattle of our fields, our horses, our sheep, our cows, our oxen, the nature and character of the soil we possess, the texture and quality of our goods and merchandise; but in all that concerns ourselves as human beings, with human functions and passions, subject to great derangement, involving our future peace and happiness—in all that concerns the health and welfare of the wife of our affections, and the mother of our children; in all that concerns the mental and physical well being of those children, we should be immersed in the darkest and most

BENIGHTED IGNORANCE,

AS CULPABLE AS INEXCUSABLE!

How long shall this ignorance prevail so productive of its bitter fruits? How long shall the wife and mother be ignorant of the nature, character and causes of the various womb and sexual complaints, embittering her days by suffering—suffering often prolonged to years, eventuating in a complication of diseases utterly and hopelessly incurable? Shall we for ever close our eyes to the results of physiological science by which we may arrive at an understanding of ourselves as men and women, subject to serious life-long enduring diseases, and perpetuating them to our children.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No husband or wife need be ignorant of what concerns them most to know to secure their health and happiness. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS John S. Southmayd and Susan I. Southmayd his wife, now of the town of Jay in the County of Essex and state of New York, by a certain indenture of mortgage executed and bearing date the third day of September, A. D. 1851, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default of the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county in volume two of mortgages on pages 221, and 222, on the 19th day of September, A. D. 1851, at 8 o'clock A. M. to secure the payment of twelve hundred dollars with lawful interest annually, did duly grant bargain, sell, and convey, to Monroe Hall of said town of Jay, in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in Wilmington and is known as lot one hundred and five in the Jay tract and is bounded as follows—begining at the south west corner thereof marked on a post and heap of stones 104 and 105 being the corner of those lots standing in the highway running thence north twenty one degrees east fifty one chains and fifty links to the north line of said lot thence south sixty nine degrees east forty five chains to a post and heap of stones marked 105, and 106, being the corner of those lots. thence south forty five degrees west fifty four chains to a post and heap of stones in cleared land on the north side of the highway marked 105, and 106, being the corner of those lots thence north sixty nine degrees west twenty five chains and fifty links to the place of begining containing one hundred and eighty one acres and fifty four hundredths of an acre excepting and reserving all the pine timber on said lot fit for sawing being the same premises deeded by said Hall to said Southmayd and the mortgage was given to secure the purchase money.

On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of one hundred ninety three dollars and forty eight cents and there is hereafter to become due on said mortgage the sum of eight hundred and five dollars with interest from the third day of September A. D. 1853; and default having been made in the payment of the said sum of one hundred and ninety three dollars and forty eight cents whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale contained in said mortgage and by virtue of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction on the 8th day of July next at 2 o'clock P M at the Inn now kept by Stewart Worden in the village of Ausable Forks, in the County of Essex.

Dated April 8th, 1854.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to the Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—or steadily breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the serial cavity of the lungs, and thus receive the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 16th.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford" and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkle in continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; those who are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent afflictions are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only bereits serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted infirmities, and wasting affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate him self before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and he is at a loss to tell him, that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization retraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may rely implicitly confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's practice will never be divulged

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly be friendly to you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Stictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new th rapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter inclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriately arranged.

To warded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Laws of New York—By Authority.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

[Every Law so published in the State Paper, may be read in evidence from the paper in which it shall be contained, in all courts of Justice in this State, and in all proceedings before any officer, body or board, in which it shall be thought necessary to refer thereto, until three months after the close of the session in which it became a law, Sec. 8, title 7, chap. 8, part 1, Revised Statutes, and laws of 1845, chap. 209.]

CHAPTER 223.

AN ACT to appoint commissioners to investigate and examine into the pecuniary affairs and condition of the several state prisons of this state, and to report thereon, and also such laws as they may deem proper for the better regulation and discipline of said prisons, to the Legislature of this state.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the comptroller of the of state New York to appointthree commissioners with full power and authority to investigate and examine into the pecuniary affairs and conditions of the several state prisons of this state, and it shall futther be the duty of the comptroller to provide, and he is hereby authorized to appoint for said commissioners a clerk and sergant-at-arms, who in all matters pertaining to the duties prescribed by this act, shall be supject to, and controlled by said commissioners; but no person shall be appointed as one of said commissioners or as clerk or sergant-at-arms, who is now or has been, employed as counsel in the prosecution of any claim against the agent of any of the state prisons, or has been in the employ of the stato in defending any such prosecution, or who is now interested, either directly or indirectly, in any state prison contract.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of said commissioners or any two of them, as soon as conveniently may be after the passage of this act, to assemble together at Sing Sing, in the county, of Westchester, and then and there, and at such other times and places as they shall from time to time think proper to appoint for that purpose, proceed to execute the trusts reposed in them by this act.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the agent, clerk, and other officers of the several state prisons of this state to furnish and exhibit to said commissioners, or either of them may require, any paper, voucher, or other document belonging to said prison, which may be in his or their possession, or under his or their control, and the said commissioners, or any two of them, are empowered to visit said prisons, and are hereby authorized and empowered to examine any officer of said prison, or any other person or persons, upon his or their corporal oath or affirmation, concerning any matter or thing which the said commissioners, or any two of them may deem proper, in relation to the pecuniary affairs and condition of said prison, or in relation to the management, police, or discipline of the same, and for that purpose the said commissioners, or either one of them, shall have power to issue from time to time, Subpœnas to compel the attendance of any person before them, or any two of them, to be examined as aforesaid, and either of said commissioners shall have power to administer an oath to any person examined.

§ 4. Said commissioners, or any two of them, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, after the passage of this act, cause a notice of their appointment to be inserted in at least one newspaper printed in each county in which either of the state prisons in this state is located, and in such other papers as they may judge proper, and therein fix the time of their first meeting at the several places where said prisons are located, and requiring all persons having any claims or demands against said prisons, or the respective agents thereof to present the same to said commissioners.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of said commissioners or any two of them, to make out and report to the legislature of this state, at the next annual session thereof, a detailed statement of the pecuniary affairs and condition of said prisons, and of all claims and demands against the said prisons, or the respective agents thereof, together with the nature and origin of each claim or demand, so far as the same may be known to said commissioners, and also such laws as they may deem proper for the better regulation and discipline of said prisons.

§ 6. In case of the refusal to serve, or death of any commissioner, clerk or sergeant at-arms appointed under this act, it shall and may be lawful for the comptroller of this state, from time to time, to appoint another person or persons, as the case may be, to supply any such vacancy.

§ 7. The treasurer from this state shall from time to time pay upon the warrant of the comptroller, to said commissioners, clerk and sergeant at arms respectively such sum or sums as the comptroller shall certify to be a reasonable and proper compensation for their respective services under this act.

§ 8. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York.—In Assembly, April 14, 1854.—This bill was passed, notwithstanding the objections of the governor, a majority of the members elected to the Assembly, and two thirds of all present voting in favor thereof, and three-fifths of all the members elected being present on its final passage. By order of the Assembly.
ROB'T H. PRUYN, Speaker.

State of New York.—In Senate, April 14, 1854.—This bill was passed, notwithstanding the objections of the governor, a majority of all the members elected to the Senate, and two thirds of all present voting in favor thereof, and three-fifths of all the members elected being present on its final passage. By order of the Senate,
S. E. CHURCH, President.

CHAPTER 197.

An act to designate a state paper,—Passed April 11, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:—

§ 1. The Secretary of State, Comptroller and, Treasurer shall enter into contract with the publisher or publishers of a daily newspaper published in the city of Albany, in which shall hereafter be published all legal or other notices and all advertisements now required by law to be published in the state paper by any law of this state, or which may be required hereafter to be published in such paper, at prices not exceeding the rates mentioned in the third section of this act, which paper shall be designated as 'The State Paper;' but this act shall not affect any notice or advertisement required by law to be published in the state paper the publication of which shall have been commenced prior to this act.

§ 2, Within five days after such contract shall have been made, the proprietors of the paper designated as the state paper as provided shall execute a bond to the people of the State of New York, with good and sufficient sureties, approved by the Comptroller of the state, in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of such printing and publishing; and the publication of such notices in the paper herein designated shall have the same effect when given in evidence as has heretofore been given by law to notices published in the state paper.

§ 3. For the publication of all notices and advertisements the proprietors of the paper designated by this act, as the State paper, shall be allowed to charge and collect for the first insertion thirty cents for every folio of one hundred words, and for each subsequent insertion twenty cents for every such folio, and no more: Provided, however, that no charge shall be made for the insertion of any notices required to be published in proceedings before surrogates, where the surrogate shall certify that the property of the deceased is less than five thousand dollars in value.

§ 4. Section four of chapter twenty four of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty-six, and so much of all laws as conflict with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

§ 5. This act shall take effect on the third day of May next.

CHAPTER 50.

AN ACT to authorise the mortgaging of real estate of benevolent, charitable, scientific and missionary societies. Passed March 8, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:—

Section 1. It shall be lawful for the supreme court of this state, upon the application of any benevolent, charitable, scientific or missionary society, incorporated by law, in case it shall deem it proper to make an order for the mortgaging of any real estate belonging to said corporation, and to direct the real application of the money arising therefrom, by the said corporation, to such uses as the same corporation, with the consent and approbation of the said court, shall conceive to be most for the interest of the society to which the real estate belongs.

State of New York, } I have compared

CHARLES MACKAY finds in the European war the wherewithal to inspire his muse to the following spirited stanzas:—

THE FIRST CANNON SHOT.

Hark! over Europe sounding,
The first, the signal gun;
The fire has burst, the blow is struck,
A fatal deed is done.

From north to south it echoes,
From east to west afar;
The insulted nations join their heads,
And gather to the war.

From restless slumbers waking,
The thunder in her ear;
Unhappy Poland starts to life,
And grasps her broken spear,

Old Rome grows young to hear it,
There's mischief in her glance;
And Hungary mounts her battle steed,
And waves her fiery lance.

Not long shall last the combat,
Though Russia laughs to scorn;
The wrongful cause, if up to-day,
Is down to-morrow morn.

When France unites with England,
Beware defeat and shame;
Ye foes of right, who force the fight,
And fan the headless flame.

Hark! over Europe sounding,
The first, the signal gun,
But when the last loud cannon peal,
Shall tell of victory won.

Be sure, ye proud aggressors,
Your hour shall not last long;
They may not, cannot, shall not win,
Who battle in the wrong.

The Duty of Southern Whigs.

The following advice to Southern whigs, from the Baltimore Patriot, is not inappropriate to those of the North and will be read with interest:

What then is the duty of Southern whigs? Is it to abandon their organization and go over to those who have never recanted one of those great republican heresies which the Whig party was founded to correct? By no means. Can they sustain an Administration whose only policy seems to have been, so to dispose of the revenues and officers as to gain most personal or party advantage to the President and his advisers? It would be utterly inconsistent with their doctrines. Ought they to plunge into a sectional conflict—excite the prejudices of the South against the North, and spread the fires of disunion? On the contrary, they should continue to conciliate their northern fellow citizens by liberality and justice. They should, whilst they develope the capacity of their own section, and stimulate every industrial enterprise amongst themselves—cultivate commercial and business relations with every part of the Union. They should especially prosecute great lines of communication to the North-western interior, and draw off its products to the ports of Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, and New Orleans. They should copy from their fellow citizens of the North all those interests and institutions that have given them so much power. They should encourage the introduction of Northern mechanics and farmers, with their capital and skill. In these wise and patriotic duties, they will find ample employment, and full food for any lawful ambition. They should remember that our ancestors have left us few sacrifices to make. Life, opinion, property, are all protected. There are no citadels to storm, no trenches to defend, no privations to endure, but there are duties which require as much courage and as much self denial. They are, to do what we know to be right without regard to gain to give our services wherever required by our duty, careless of the censure or applause that follow; to deem ourselves nothing, and our country all. With this determination the Whig party of the South will be always useful. Their approbation or opposition will command respect. Keeping steadily in view their ancient privileges, they can bestow their aid wherever their principles may require it. When they can effect nothing in that way, there are schools to be founded and to be taught, immigrants to introduce and encourage; railroads to build, and territory to settle. They can be always useful employed, leaving the pursuit of office to those whose souls are set on a salary. Our advice then, to Southern Whigs is; 'stand fast—carry arms.' There will always be a field for their services, and a cause worthy of their swords. It may be rallied at any battle cry against power. Adopt the plan of one of your truest and most valiant soldiers, call a convention to determine upon your future action.

But if the Southern Whig party should be severed, dispersed and disbanded—if its name should be no longer known amongst existing party organizations, its spirit will be consecrated by the purity of its motives. It will have suffered destruction rather than aid in the dissolution of the Union and the subjugation of the South. It preferred death to treason, and oblivion to reward. And the future historian may paraphrase the epitaph of all gallant and loyal men and say; "Here lies the Southern Whig party, which, having struggled for republican principles during a quarter of a century, with little aid and much opposition, sank under the treacherous dealings of its mercenary friends. It died as it had been proud to live, asking nothing—receiving nothing, and—fearing nothing.'

Slavery and its Cure.

MR EDITOR:—In ours, the most Heaven favoured country on earth, men commit the grossest crimes against their fellow men. In a land, where the highest degree of human liberty is so well secured to us that we can understand no more of despotism, than the living know of death is the stronghold of slavery. Nothing furnishes better parallel to the united existence of freedom and slavery in our country flourishing under the same government, in the same state, in the same towns and cities, and within the selfsame household walls, than the history of ancient Sparta. But that glorious little republic hardly stained her national character, in reducing to bondage those whom she esteemed the lowest of mankind; but with slavery America vitiates her republican fame to the hearts core. Sparta withheld principles from her democratic creed, which we have incorporated into ours. Her political philosophers had never proclaimed, that "all men were born free and equal," and to secure the liberty and welfare of Spartan citizens, was the sole aim of her government; but America theorizes in favor of universal liberty against every tyrant that dare invade such rights as she has secured to her own sons, and therein asserts as inalienable from a single descendent of Adam the rights which her people have torn away from millions; and those millions of a race, created so low in natures order that to enjoy the happiness designed for them, they need the widest range of undisturbed personal liberty. But it seems warranted by history, that we should cease to condemn a nations practice on account of its professions. To expect from the people a strict adherence to the latter is unreasonable. In individual relations it is an uncommon virtue, to harmonize actions with good avowals; then is it probable that the individual will pay much regard to national professions, with which he has no practical concern? If the strongest invective against slavery to be found in a Garrisonian oration, should be transfered to the preamble of our Constitution, who would feel less entitled to his slave property? Had Franklin been a citizen of South Carolina, as Jefferson of Virginia, he would have been honored as he deserved, and perhaps slaves would have reared a monument to his memory. The Southern people slavery existing among them, if they thought it a source of benefit to their interests, although birth printed upon their foreheads, "all men are born free and equal would still hold slaves. The people of our country are not likely to enforce Jefferson's incontrovitable saying of universal equality of rights, merely because it is a corner stone in the theory of American institutions.

And in accordance with the motives which prompt the south to preserve it entire among them now, is the truth the abolition of slavery in the United States will never be an act, either of philanthropy or principle. The former is an ideal virtue, and rarely thrives at home. The southern slaveholder, who burns with enthusiasm at the idea of Hungarian liberty, would not cherish the same poetic sympathy for the bondmen of his own estate. It is useless to appeal to men's philanthropy in favor of a class, which they have brought to servitude, which they dislike, and crush with contempt. If Southern benevolence was to liberate the American slave, it had been done long ago. Experience teaches nothing, of an abstract character, more plainly than that it is not in the nature of man, to admit principles to the control of their individual concerns. The world has existed long enough to give to man, in his progress, all the time he would improve for making principles binding and sacred in his own view. To the mass of men mere principle contains nothing satisfactory, and no power except derived from expediency.—To the latter therefore we must look for the consumation of the grand work of liberty, undertaken by our forefathers, who believed and declared with Jefferson that freedom and equal rights belonged to all mankind. When slavery has ceased to be a source of profit, and remains no longer the foundation of southern trade, legislation will easily affect its abolition. Then it will be as readily thrown off as a worn out mantle. Then it will possess nothing to recommend itself. The practical man quickly perceives his own interest, and then does whatever it may direct. An ancient system when not according with it, receives little favor from him. Practical men are conservative only in regard to those things, with which they do not perceive their interests to be connected. Interest is a good remedy for conservatism. So, when it shall be of no further service, the existence of American slavery, descended from each to the succeeding generation, from the earliest fathers of the republic, will not be prolonged on account of ancient origin. It will loose the venerable character, that the southern mind attaches to it now. Then it will be expelled, as a monster evil to the land where it is now strong vigorous, and called "blessed."

For slavery can never be a thing of unavoidable necessity; so, from any region, by the omnipotent hand of law, raised in accordance with popular will, it can be removed. But until slavery interests have reached the last stage of depression, traffic in human beings must remain our chief national sin; half our Union, in morals, in religion, and in the cause of humanity, must be as deeply cursed, as if it had been peopled by the frown of hell; and to seek to remove the curse, will be as vain as to expect the idle wind would blow a deep eclipse from off the sun. Of political breezes, intended to purify our country of its fouler stains, we have had too many, and they hav always brought storms and tempests. Northern judgment is pretty thoroughly convinced, that we must leave slavery to work out its own ruin, and the South its own salvation.

But to claim, that while the South clings tenaciously to her peculiar institutions, Slavery is yet unprofitable, is quite absurd, and I think unsupported by the authority of political economists. But however, the ruling classes of southern society, and enterprising men of wealth, are able to concentrate under their direction, for all industrial purposes of the South, such a power of labor from Slavery that it is the foundation of their prosperity and fortunes. Abolition requires that it should be wholly exhausted as a source of wealth. That it will soon loose the qualities which preserve it now, is not much doubted. If Northern men understand the way in which it is made profitable, they judge with correctness in believing that slave labor will finally become a fearful curse to the interests it now promotes, and of course justly add the conclusion, that the free labor will be substituted, which has made the North rich and powerful. The Old Dominion, (which appellation slavery did much to earn for that once favored State,) plainly manifests, the ultimate effects, and foretells the inevitable destiny of the slave system. She well reminds me of a man once strong and vigorous, reduced to extreme weakness by the noxious weed grown upon her soil, which he once thought as precious to his system, as long hair to Sampson's shoulders. It is not the profit of slave labor, but slave trade which induces Virginia to retain her human property. Such property, when she finds for it an extensive market among her wealthy neighbors, she considers valuable enough, to make it an interest for her to sustain slavery. The condition to which the natural industrial pursuits of Virginia are now reduced, are just such as every slaveholding State will be placed in at some future period. Who doubts that if her slave-dealers were denied markets, Virginia would soon relieve herself of the abominable institution that disgraces her people now? The friends of universal liberty in this country, confidently expect to see that noble State, at no distant day, thoroughly freesoil. The work of emancipation, which Virginia will soon perform, every other slaveholding State will be forced to do at last. Therefore, liberty-loving citizens have only to tolerate the monstrous iniquity practised by our republican brethren; the inhuman system which has usurped a place in their beloved country, and in the only land, which Freedom called her own. It is not their duty to seek a war of extermination against it. Time and the progress of peaceful events will leave no spot in America, where Tyranny can commit a crime:

History of the Congregational Church in Jay.

MR. EDITOR:—I submit a sketch of the Congregational Ch. of Jay, so far as it can be traced from the memories of its oldest surviving members, and from its very imperfect early records. The writer of this sketch spent the summer and autumn of 1801 in Jay, then comprising what now embraces Jay, Keene, and Wilmington, and so far as he knew there was at the time but a single member of a Cong'l. Ch., then residing in the settlement, and that was a female living in what was then called the west branch, now Wilmington. There had been organized a Baptist Ch., previous, which was supplied that season by a preacher whose name was Brown. The writer left in the Autumn of 1801, revisited the place the winter of 1802, and was absent until the summer of 1837, when he removed to the Upper Village in Jay, where he has since resided. The earliest record I find of the members or existence of the Ch., is 1816. The article is headed, "Certificate of re-organization, articles of faith, covenant, &c., of the Cong'l. Ch. in Jay."—The record follows: "in the year 1816 the Cong'l. Ch. in Jay being reduced by deaths and removals, and by several of the members uniting with the Ch. in Keene, consisted of four male and five female members, which by the neglect of duty, and not having preaching and ordinances, had almost lost their visibility; but a revival of religion taking place, and feeling in some measure, the weight of their former vows, were anxious to renew covenant, and be placed in a situation to travel; and as there were two important articles wanting in their confession of faith and covenant, they agreed to and adopted the following confession of faith, and entered unanimously into the following covenant:" Certified, "Cyrus Comstock, Missionary." 'Copied from the original, Isaac Finch Clerk.' Then follows the confession of faith and covenant, and a list of names of members, comprising the resident members, those of the deceased, excluded and dismissed, amounting in all to 121. No date is affixed to the foregoing. The first record in the book headed by date is the following: 'Oct. 26, 1822. 'Agreeable to recommendation observed the fast, sermon by Rev. H. Slater.' There is no signature to the foregoing, but the hand writing is the same as that subsequently subscribed, "Peryton R. Taylor, Clerk." There is no record of the ordination of the Rev. Henry Slater, the first settled minister over the Cong'l. Ch. in Jay, but notice of application to consecration for the purpose in Oct. 1823, his signature, however, to a document in Jan. 1824, appending to his name "Pastor of the Ch," prove him to have been ordained in the interval. His salary was $300. He was a man of sterling worth, and of most exemplary piety; he lived beloved of all, and died in April 1831, of all lamented. During the interval between the death of Mr Slater and the next settled minister the Ch, which was receiving constant and numerous additions, enjoyed the labors of various ministers as supplies. Among them was Rev. E. H. Hazard, who was ordained as Evangelist March 13th 1833, and Rev. O. C. Stevens, * also ordained as such, the 19th Dec. same year. On Sept. 18th, 1839, Rev. Charles Spooner, having labored in the ministry for the churches in Jay and Wilmington more than one year previous, received ordination over those respective churches, salary $300 pr. annum. This pastoral relation was dissolved by counsel mutually agreed upon Nov. 11, 1841. The ministerial services of Rev. Ira Manly were secured as supply by the churches of Jay and Wilmington from March 1843 to March 1847, salary the same as the precedents. On Feb. 28, 1849 the Rev. M. C. Bronson, having labored as supply for the churches of Jay and Wilmington for nearly 2 years was duly installed over them with a salary of $300.—This relation by mutual consent was dissolved by counsel June 14th, 1850. In the Autumn following the Rev. L. Brewster was engaged to labor for the two churches for one year. Since the close of his services no regular preaching of the order has been enjoyed. From what can be gathered from the oldest surviving members of the Ch. it was first organized about the year 1805, by a missionary whose name was Miller, probably sent forth by the then missionary society of Connecticut. The number of members of the Ch. made up from the three foregoing towns, since organized into distinct churches, cannot now be ascertained; but it is recollected that some of the members were of the truly puritanic stamp. It is related particularly of a Dea. Minor of the Ch, that his regard for the strict observance of the sabbath was such, that he invariably commenced his preparation therefor on Saturday morning lest some unforeseen event should cause intrusion on sacred hours. It is also stated that at a certain time there being an extreme scarcity of wheat in the settlement, he was compell'd to borrow bread for a sacramental occasion, and finding a small portion remaining after the communion he scrupulously returned it to the lender. Would God his mantle had fallen on his Church, and community. The Church of Jay and Wilmington at one time placed themselves under the care of Champlain Presbytery, on what is termed the accomodation plan, but have since withdrawn and united with the consociated churches. The churches also of Jay and Wilmington by mutual consent are now distinct. The number of members in the Cong'l. church of Jay have been greatly reduced by deaths and removals, and having had but few additions — The writer cannot with precision ascertain the present number of resident members.— In 1851and 1852 the C. Ch. and society expended about $500 in repairing and adorning their meeting house. During a terrific thunderstorm on June 16, 1853, that house was struck by lightning, and was almost instantaneously in a blaze. All efforts to extinguish the flames proved utterly unavailing. The bell, as if desirous of tolling its own funeral knell pealed forth a few dirge-like notes, and fell forever tuneless, a shapeless mass. On the Nov. 29, 1853, the Cong'l, Church and society, having pursued all the prescribed preliminary steps necessary to illegal existence, proceeded to organize in accordance with the statute made and provided for the purpose, and assumed the name of the Cong'l, Church and Society of Upper Jay, by which to be recognized, measures were immediately set on foot for the erection of a new house of worship; an excellent frame is now up, and the house is in process of completion.

Thus have I given a very brief sketch of the rise and progress of the Cong'l, church in Jay. There is also a Baptist and M. E. Church in the town, the histories of which I hope to see sketched by some member of each of those churches.

MODEST MERIT.—In Benton's 'Thirty Years View,' is an anecdote of Lafayette that on approaching the harbor of New York, he made the unsophisticated inquiry, whether his servant would be able to find a hack at the pier to convey his party to the hotel, so little did he anticipate the national pageant which anxiously awaited his landing.

Anti-Nebraska.

There is a call out for a Convention at Saratoga Springs, to be held on the 28th instant, to give expression to popular sentiment against the Nebraska fraud. If its object is to concentrate popular sentiment we are with it, but if it is to form a new northern and sectional party we are opposed to it. The Whig party is good enough for us. If it is true to itself it will carry this State this fall, and the Presidential Election in 1856, and with that we should be content. But we are opposed to a northern sectional party as to a southern sectional party. We are willing and desire to stand shoulder to shoulder with Benton, Houston, Hunt, Bell, Cullom, and other patriots of the South. A sectional party can only stir up strife and bitterness for a while and then its fires will burn out. The Whig party north is as Anti-Slavery as is practicable under our system of government. In 1844 in particular it occupied a prominent antislavery position, but it was stabbed by professed anti slavery advocates par excellence. They could have saved the country all its subsequent slavery pollution, but they would not.— Because the Whig party would not endorse their abstractions they kicked out of its traces when every vote was needed, and if hugged to their embrace now, Whigs will find they have been "nursing vipers" for when they get strong once more they will kick out again. They were impracticable and bigoted in 1841, and we are not aware that they have since repented of that folly. So far from it, if the Whig organization is thrown up and a new party formed, they will rule or ruin.

In less than a year they will want this new party to endorse some crotchet in religion, woman's rights or morals, and if it refuses they will break it down if they can. The leaders are a set of impracticables whether in State, County, town or school districts, and after fighting the whig party for years we are not willing to be led by them now. If sincere patriots they will support the whig party in its opposition to slavery extension, and if they are unwilling to do that their sincerity is not very deep. But granting their sincerity, only to think of a party made up of such men as John Van Buren, Levi S Chatfield, Wendell Phillips, Jas. G. Birney, &c, is enough to make a whig stop and think a moment at least before he concludes to follow their lead, or to furnish them "aid and comfort."

Sabbath School Celebration.

On Wednesday the Congregational Sabbath School of this place, together with numerous invited guests, for their annual celebration took an excursion to Shelburn Harbor, one of the prettiest places on this beautiful Lake. With the exception of an hour or so in the early morning the day was clear and calm. Upwards of fifty teams filled to excess left the village led on by Wills' Cornet Band, and cheered by the shouts and glees of the countless throng of children. At Port Kent the citizens and youth of that place and elsewhere in large numbers joined the excursion. They were all soon on board the Saltus, chartered for the occasion, and the ride to the Harbor was enlivened by vocal and instrumental music, and not less by the smiles and cordial greetings of Capt. Chamberlain. A strong southern breeze and flying clouds threatened to disturb the pleasures of the party, but it came off fair and delightful.— Landed at the Harbor, the day was spent in rambling along the lovely shore and through the shady groves; and in listening to the stirring notes of the band, and the softer strains of the choir, and the juveniles led by Mr. Pendleton, Mr. Thayer, principal of the Academy was there also with many of his students who repeated appropriate declamations prepared for the occasion. The Rev. Mr. Dobie of Plattsburgh, closed the exercises in his own peculiar and facinating style. We only repeat the universal sentiment when we say that all enjoyed the day to their hearts content. The "little folks" were happy and of course parents could not be otherwise.— Nor were the young folks less so if we are a judge. All endeavored to be agreeable and to make each other as comfortable as circumstances would permit. To the generosity of the ladies the company was indebted for a most bountiful repast spread upon rude tables said to belong to the Unitarians of Burlington. Every thing was there to tempt the taste and tho' in primitive style it was partaken of with a right good relish. On returning to the boat the crowd was formed in procession, and counted and found to contain 603! While crossing the lake on our return Capt. Chamberlain was called out for a song and he was loudly cheered. To take home the party there were gathered at Port Kent 75 teams. Arriving at Keeseville the procession marched through the principal streets with music playing, banners flying, handkerchiefs waving and children shouting. Thus ended a delightful excursion, a happy, and we believe a useful day, and one that will long be remembered.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon William Kingsland, for his exertions in superintending the arrangements.

We should add that a general expression of surprise was manifested at the rapid progress of Will's band. It bids fair to take rank with the best, and as it is composed of citizens of worth, it is worthy of every encouragement. There is one subject to which we have not alluded, and we do so with no little hesitation. We allude to accidents. Occasions of this kind scarce ever pass off without risk of life or limbs, and the anxiety of parents is not without cause. On this occasion however, we have to say that we have heard of only one of a serious character and this by hearsay, and given for what it is worth. It is this: A gentleman after he had partaken heartily of the various delicacies of the table suddenly remembered that he had taken a quarter of nice roast lamb. On making diligent search he could only find what was supposed to be the bones of the missing rarity. This was the most serious and we believe the only accident of the day.

Shelburne harbor is the prettiest place on the Lake for a Pic Nic. The enchanting walks, the lovely bays, steamboats passing upon one side, and the shrill whistle of the Rail Road engine on the other, together with the sounding of the bugles of our own band as they were scattered over the grounds at intervals, and the murmurings of those hundreds of voices as they went up in joyous intercourse, rendered the scene at times a Paradise.

SOREHEADS.—We perceive that the Editor of the Vt. Tribune and others are furious against Burton, and all connected with the Boats on the 4th. It seems to us the crowd should have been pitched into for being such fools as to go on board in such numbers, and not the owners or officers of the boats. All there was of it, there was such a crowd all could not be comfortable, and judging from the venom of Editorials, our neighbor Sampson of Vt., was the most uncomfortable in the lot, and when we state that there were 1700 people on the return boat, it may be inferred that our Vt. contemporary enjoyed the very quintessence of discomfort. It made us sick, and we are not well yet, but really we can't see that we can blame any body but ourself and other fools for crowding on. With 1700 on board, we really don't see why it should be expected that the officers of the boat should personally superintend the condition of every passenger. They must have been endowed with superhuman powers so as to have been every where present, to have done so. On the whole, if a man will be green enough to be caught in such a crowd, he must put up with what he gets. If the crowd keep him back from the water pail, or keep him back to the fourth table, he can blame only himself or the crowd.

The Autograph and Remarker.

This interesting little sheet is at hand again. It seems we were in error in our remarks on a former occasion. We regret it exceedingly and can only say we 'told it as 'twas told to us.' The following quotations will make it all right we hope:

THE TIME HAS COME.—Yes the time has come when all who don't wish to see our as yet free States overrun with slavery, or if not with slavery, so overborne by the slave power as not to be allowed to utter a word against it, must unite in opposing and repelling the tide of southern slaveocratic influence, and let the negro driving nabobs know that we will no longer submit to be dictated by them.

And it seems the people of the Free States generally are awaking to a sense of the importance of such a union as would seem by the resolutions passed at sundry conventions held in various quarters, and more notified to be held, and also in the disposition manifested to concur in the nomination of men irrespective of party who are opposed to the reckless scheme of slavery propagandism apparent in the repeal of the Missouri compromise in the case of Nebraska. This is the right spirit. Unity of action, as well as sentiment, is the way to make our influence felt at head quarters, and teach not only southern slavers, but Frank Pierce, Stephen Arnold Douglass, and the northern traitors who sanctioned the iniquity opening free soil to slavery, that we will not sanction the devilry, and that the day of reckoning is coming when we in turn will prescribe terms to them, which they must abide consequences if they refuse.

NOT EXACTLY THE CASE.—I have to acknowledge the receipt of the Essex County Republican published at Keeseville N Y. which debut was so long delayed that I began to think the editor was either dead or did not think the Autograph worth noticing. As it is he is in error on the point (probably from the disposition in his informant to use a little colo ing) were he states in his editorial notice of the Autograph that I 'was deprived of the advantages of education except what was gathered from children's books.' Now if this is meant to convey the idea that I never had the advantage of a district school (as indeed it would seem to imply,) then I pronounce it a gross mistake at once. for I have been at school several seasons. It is true that I have at the same time been self taught in some things, I entreat therefore that the common district school has it was in the days of my boyhood, save the credit of having had something to do with my education, even if it has not made me a college learned man. or starched up gentleman. And I further more ask of my editorial and other friends, that in speaking of me, and quoting from my communications, that they state matters as they are and not take such liberties in coloring and twisting to suit their own notions as some have done now: And I want when I point out to an editor a mistake to correct, that he should correct it, not let it go so, as if it were a matter of no consequence as some have done

I would like it if friend Tu bell sends another paper in exchange, to forward forthwith, without so much delay. furthermore I would kind o'like to know if the 'Old Settler' is published yet, and what has become of John Ives.

(The Old Settler is published when the Editor can't find anything more profitable to do, like the man who takes a drop when he can't find now to eat.' At present the Old Settler is in Washington where he is snugly ensconced as Clerk of the Post Office Committee at $8, a day and roast beef,' in reward for his hostility to the Canal Enlargement in this state.

John Ives is at Rouse's Point as 'hale and hearty as a buck,' where he takes a walk to Ogdensburgh to breakfast, round to Montreal to dinner and home to tea every now and then.)

LETTER FROM TROY.

A MATTER OF DOUBT.—"I say thar, is this ear the right car wot goes to Albany?" shouted a rough looking customer to one of the "officials" at the 'Union Depot,' standing on the platform of one of the cars of the New York train, and at the same time making an unsuccessful attempt to gain entrance to the car.

"No sir, you can't come in here no how—take the cars on 'tother track," sharply retorted the young dignitary with an air of importance quite equal to his station."—This sudden repulse or something equally potent imbibed before entering the depot so bewildered the brain of the would be passenger that he came near losing his equilibrium. But turning to leave and deeming it incumbent on him to revenge his wounded dignity raising himself to the dignified attitude of an orator, he replied, "wall I didn't know whar yer d——d old cart waz they's so little commodation in this ere biddin that a feller has darned hard work to find out wher hez a goin to h——l or to Beelzebub."

The bystanders pronounced him a "brick." "TROY."

Lines
ON THE DEATH OF JENNIE CLEAVES.

Eyes may weep, and the tears that flow,
May tell of the keenest pain;
Hearts may grieve for one that is gone,
But that grief must still remain;
For sorrow cannot bring to earth,
The soul that is gone above:
Though hearts may break when we alone,
Remain of those we love.

We miss our friend among us now,
Her voice we do not hear;
We listen for her footsteps fall,
And think that she is near;
We wait the loving, beaming glance,
That kindly on us shone;
Life's brittle thread is broken now,
And we are all alone

The mournful mandate was sent forth,
Death's messenger passed by,
(The rider on his death pale steed,)
And she "so young" must die
Her pleasant morning time was come,
She left before its noon;
The golden bowl is broken now,
Alas! how soon, how soon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

SYRACUSE, July 6, 10 P. M.

The following are the resolutions reported to the convention:—

Resolved, that the National Democrats of the State of New York hereby reaffirm their adherance to the doctrine embodied in the resolutions of the National Democratic Conventions of 1848 and 1852, as the great cardinal principles of the democratic party of the Union declaring them to be now as ever the principles which they are fully determined to sustain.

Resolved, That the doctrine of non-intervention by Congress with the right of the territories to make their own regulations and temporary laws subject only to the general government including all the regulations relating to domestic servitude have long been prominent and leading principles of the National Democracy for that the policy indicated in the resolutions introduced by the Hon. D. S. Dickinson, in the U. S. Senate, on the 14th of December, 1847, in which it is declared as follows:

Resolved, That true policy requires that the government of the U. S. to strengthen its political and commercial relations upon this continent by the annexation of such contiguous territory as may conduce to that end and to be justly obtained, and that neither in such acquisition nor in the territorial organization can any conditions be constitutionaly imposed nor institutions provided for or established inconsistent with the right of the people thereof to form a free sovereign state with the powers and privileges of the original members of the confederacy.

Resolved, that in organizing a territorial government for territories belonging to the United States the principle of self government upon which our Federal system rests will be best promoted.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. Tarbell, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure, No. 313 Broadway, called the Pantheon, where all celebrated working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent both in various professions and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to Patents and patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The company and its agents simply negotiate and, hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills, &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Erastus W. Smith, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
Truman Cook, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
Chas. Ehman, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. Ayres, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
Hazard Knowles, Mechanist, (for twelve years in the Patent Office.)
William Sewell, Steam Engineer.
H. L. Stuart, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. Eaton, Analytical Chemist.
Daniel Knowles, President.
James Beattie, Jr. Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficial subjects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it at the same time does injustice to real merit, and deprives itself of many valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt, that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Among the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of these objects is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 313 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowles's Patent Saw mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 40 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no obstruction in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent.; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes shaft, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories, paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacturer yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ritter's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut and cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $500. The right to manufacture and sell to sale and the article furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 20 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute all ready for the truss-hoop, without one medial handling! Price of machine, $500—rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $600.

7. Jarvis's Typographer. A machine which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Useful to all lawyers, merchants, editors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $40.

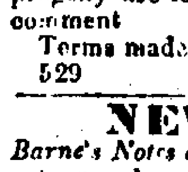
8. The Right for 1 [illegible] and the article furnished at cost.

9. Fitts & Munroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Haynes' improvements. This apparatus covers the main points of this valuable improvement, altogether atmospheric in its working arrangements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the value of this bolt will make 10 and 10 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 10 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No paddles, no dead. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $40.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The celebrated rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful! It is simple, durable, and is regarded with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $3 0.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in a few minutes and the same amount of running or friction. The family size are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries proportional.



12. Waggoner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Gate bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

300,000 Gifts	$300,000

A VALUABLE GIFT FOR EVERY TICKET.

Each $1 Ticket entitles the holder to One Year's subscription to the Illustrated Family Literary and Commercial Journal, called "The Whole World," and to Four Admissions to the Exhibition of the Whole World, and also to one of the 300,000 Gifts, thus insuring every person investing in this stupendous enterprise the full worth of his or her money, and a rare chance to realize a fortune besides. Ticket buyers will also receive, engraved on their ticket, when purchased, an elegant Portrait of Professor Hart, and a correct and elaborate drawing of his splendid Country Seat one of the Gifts, to which a Grand Free Excursion will be given.

When the 300,000 tickets are sold, the property will be placed at the disposal of a Committee appointed by the ticket holders of any place wherein the greatest number have been sold, to be distributed as shall be perfectly fair and satisfactory to all concerned; and judging from the rapidity with which the tickets are being purchased by all classes of people, in every part of the country, it is reasonable to conclude that the enterprise will soon terminate in the happiest style.

It will not be necessary for ticket holders to be present at the distribution of the Gifts, unless they wish to, as they will be duly notified of the time and manner of the partition of the property, and all may safely rely upon the honorable fulfilment of the undertaking, and the perfectly fair and satisfactory disposition of the above named Gifts. When the Gifts are awarded, holders of tickets shall also be promptly notified as to what Gifts they will receive.

Any information relative to the Gifts may be obtained through the office of the World's Hall, where also may be had any responsible reference desired.

All orders by mail must be addressed post-paid, money inclosed, to Prof J. Woodman Hart, World's Hall, 377 and 379 Broadway, New York, and the tickets, with a copy of the paper, will be promptly forwarded to any part of the world.

If any orders are received after the tickets have all been sold, the money will be promptly returned, post-paid, to the persons sending it.

Correspondents will please write directly their name and residence, county and state, to prevent errors.

It is advisable for those desirous of securing a year's subscription to the unique Pictorial Journal called "The Whole World," to remit the money immediately, in order to commence with the beginning of the first volume.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The following notices of Prof. Hart's Whole World are cut from the principal Newspapers of New York:

Prof. Hart's Great Gift Enterprise is taking the City by storm. Almost everybody we meet has either purchased a ticket or is about doing so. The exhibition itself is one of the most interesting instructive and ingenious ever exhibited in this country, and is worth fully one dollar to view it. The Prof. will give a grand Free excursion to every purchaser of his one dollar tickets to his elegant country seat, which is one of the gifts in his great enterprise, and a year's subscription to his valuable Journal, and also one of the 300,000 gifts.—Atlas.

Prof. Hart's Whole World—This instructive and entertaining exhibition of the Whole World is at Nos 377 and 379 Broadway.—For one dollar four tickets may be procured for the exhibition and one valuable gift, which may be an independent fortune for the receiver, and also one year's subscription to the Illustrated Journal called The Whole World.—D spatch.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—The success which the extraordinary, ingenius and comprehensive work of art is meeting is commensurate with its merits; it is the first and only one of the kind ever conceived, and it stands forth as a monument of the unwearying patience and perseverance of man, and as a most wonderful developement of mental fertility.—Tribune.

Prof. Hart's Whole World.—We hear that this Gift enterprise is going ahead vigorously. It is in energetic hands, and if business capacity will achieve anything, the prospects are all in favor of it. The immense number of gifts to be distributed renders it almost certain that every subscriber will receive something valuable.—Sunday Times. 528-3m.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS Jesse Byam late of Ticonderoga, in the County of Essex and State of New York by a certain indenture of mortgage executed and bearing date the twenty eighth day of June, A. D. 1845, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default of the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county volume L of mortgages on pages 508 and 509 on the fourth day of August, A. D. 1845 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the payment of five hundred and fifty dollars with interest, annually, did duly grant bargain sell and convey to Carlos Bugbee of said town of Ticonderoga, in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: all that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga in the county of Essex and State of New York in a patent of three thousand acres of land granted by letters patent to John Russel, Esquire, and is part of said tract, and is bounded as follows, beginning at a stake standing at the south east corner of the pound and north west corner of Timothy Hunter's garden; thence north eight degrees west thirteen chains and seventy links to a stake and stones, thence south eighty eight degrees and thirty minutes west seven chains to a stake and stones, thence north seven degrees east, nine chains and sixty links to a stake and stones, thence north eighty three degrees west four chains and sixty-six links to a stake, thence north one degree east eight chains and fifteen links to a stake in the south line of Nathaniel Miller's land, thence south eighty nine degrees and ten minutes east, thirty eight chains to the waters of the lake, thence southerly along the said waters up the same as they run to the south west corner of what is called Millers Bay at a stake in what has formerly been called the south east corner of Sutherlands Patent, thence south seventy six degrees and twenty minutes west forty two chains to the place of beginning containing one hundred and twenty acres of land, be the same more or less, excepting and reserving all iron ores and ore beds, with the privilege of free access to and from the same, with teams or otherwise, and of digging and carrying the same away. On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of six hundred and forty five dollars and ninety three cents and whereas default has been made in the payment of the same according to the tenor of said mortgage and no proceeding in law or equity having been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises herein before described or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage together with the costs and expenses of foreclosure—will be sold at public vendue at the Hotel kept by James Tefft in the town of Ticonderoga aforesaid, on the 19th day of Sept. 1854, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

"EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE A COPY."

20,000 Copies sold in less than 5 months. A new edition, revised and improved, just issued.

Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual and Hand Book for the Afflicted—Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease, contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities, and everything that would offend the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

To which is added, receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the Fever and Ague.

Testimony of the Prof. of Obstetrics in Penn. College, Philadelphia—"Dr. Hunter's Medical Manual."—The author of this work unlike the majority of those works who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats, is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

JOSEPH LONGSHORE, M. D.

From A Woodward, M. D., of Penn. University, Philadelphia—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the "Medical Manual." Numerous cases of diseases of the Genital Organs some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some instances where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by Self-abuse, or Excess of venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the Author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as a kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one, in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D.

"This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the class of diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff, and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruits of some 20 years most successful practice."—Herald.

"No teacher or parent should be without the knowledge imparted in this invaluable work. It would save years of pain, mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge."—People's Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, in writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual," says: "Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and their posterity. The constitutions of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled if not broken down, and the do not know the cause or the cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this wide-spread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generations. Intemperance, (or the use of intoxicating drinks,) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and, believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

One copy, (securely enveloped,) will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or 6 copies for $1.—Address (post paid) COSDEN & Co., publishers, Box 196, Philadelphia. 478y

Medicated Inhalation---A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 27th, 1853.

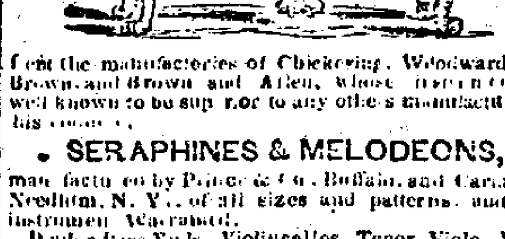
For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; most at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

New York Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieve the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.



Sold by B. YD & PAUL, No 119 Chamber Street; C. H. RING, corner John street and Broadway, N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person by losing $3 to Boyd & Paul, or Curtis & Perkins New York, will receive a package containing a Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler, in a neat box, by express free to any part of the United States or four packages for $10. 522 1yr

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs an Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an effective remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency Hermaphrodites, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the parent has been confined to bed for some time. for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, checks excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which female are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is no young who are most apt to become its victims, from an Ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sexual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the deficiencies of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you It possesses rare virtues, is a general restorer of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE.

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations. Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL,"

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle. (to counterfeit which is forgery.) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞ Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Franklin Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. THE MARRIAGE STATE;

Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery and Sickness, attend it?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchsafed to them.

Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with perhaps a family of children.

HOW OFTEN IT HAPPENS THAT THE

WIFE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR

In that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhilerating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Thus, day after day, and month after month transpire. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the hope of recovery no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

But a few years ago in the flush of health and youth, and buoyancy of spirits, rapidly, and apparently inexplicably, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame emaciated, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But oftener, by far oftener, to gross and inexcusable ignorance of the simplest and plainest rules of health as connected with the marriage state, the violation of which entails disease, suffering and misery, not only to the wife, but often

"UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION,"

Transmitting CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, HYPOCHONDRIA, INSANITY, GOUT, KING'S EVIL, and other diseases, as a

from the Parents.

And must this continue? Shall we be wise in all that concerns the cattle of our fields, our horses, our sheep, our cows, our oxen, the nature and character of the soil we possess, the texture and quality of our goods and merchandise; but in all that concerns ourselves as human beings, with human functions and passions, subject to great derangement, involving our future peace and happiness—in all that concerns the health and welfare of the wife of our affections, and the mother of our children; in all that concerns the mental and physical well being of those children, we should be immersed in the darkest and most

BENIGHTED IGNORANCE,

AS CULPABLE AS INEXCUSABLE!

How long shall this ignorance prevail so productive of its bitter fruits? How long shall the wife and mother be ignorant of the nature, character and causes of the various womb and sexual complaints, embittering her days by suffering—suffering often prolonged to years, eventuating in a complication of diseases utterly and hopelessly incurable? Shall we for ever close our eyes to the results of physiological science by which we may arrive at an understanding of ourselves as men and women, subject to serious life-long enduring diseases, and perpetuating them to our children.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No husband or wife need be ignorant of what concerns them most to know to secure their health and happiness. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs We refer to Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup," With this new method DR. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; is an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion, The Hygeana is for sale at all the drug stores throughout the country. FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly exterminated.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only bears serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered. feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions. In order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply them while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's patient will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often are such fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man might have been an ornament to society has sunk from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter inclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, a proprietary accordingly.

Laws of New York—By Authority.

CHAPTER 327.

An Act to provide for the letting of certain canal repairs by contract. Passed April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Section. 1 The canal commissioners shall, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, and after giving reasonable public notice, let by contract, one, and not more than three, of the superintendents' sections on the Erie canal, as they are now and may hereafter be divided, to such competent person or persons as shall offer to do the same at the lowest price, and who shall give adequate security for the performance of the contract, the work and materials necessary to keep in good repair, and in good navigable condition, under such rules and regulations as the canal board shall prescribe; such contracts to be made for a period not less than three nor more than five years; each of such sections to be designated by the canal board, and not more than one section to be let to any one person or company.

§ 2. An inventory shall be made of all boats, tools and other implements now owned by the state, and belonging to each section so let, with their appraised value, which inventory shall be published with the notice of letting of said sections; and the person or persons taking such contract will be required to take the boats, tools and other implements at their appraised value, as part payment on their said contracts.

§ 3. One copy of each of the contracts so made shall be filed in the office of the canal commissioners, and another in the office of the auditor of the canal department; and the canal commissioner in charge is hereby authorized to make monthly payments on said contracts by drafts on the auditor of the canal department, reserving on each payment fifteen per cent to the end of each year, as a security to the state for the faithful performance of said contract, which fifteen per cent for the previous year shall be paid to him or them, at the expiration of the third month of each succeeding year thereafter, in case the provisions of such contract has been fully complied with, unless the division engineer shall certify to the said canal commissioner that the repairs upon said section are not promptly and properly made, or that unsuitable materials are used, or that the locks are not well and properly attended, or the navigation is not kept free from jams, by boats, timber or other obstructions, or the feeders to said canal are neglected, so that there is not sufficient water for navigation; for all or either of the above causes of neglect by the said contractor, the canal commissioner may withold said monthly drafts from the contractors; and on the canal commissioner filing his certificate with the canal board, stating all or either of the above causes of neglect by said contractor, the canal board may declare the said contract abandoned, and direct the canal commissioner to take charge of the said section, and make the repairs necessary to maintain navigation in the manner now required by law.

§ 4. The canal board may, if they shall deem it for the interest of the state, except from such contract the materials for, and the construction of, any bridge or other specified structure which may fail or require reconstruction within the period of such contract.

§ 5. The person or persons so contracting are hereby impowered to sue and recover for all trespasses upon the canal included in his contract, or upon any structures, connected therewith, and recover the same penalties imposed by law or any existing resolution of the canal board for like offences when prosecuted by a canal superintedent, and the amount of such penalties recovered shall be accounted for to the state by deduction from monthly payments to said contractor; but the contractor may sue in his own name, and recover to his own use, the actual damage he may have sustained in consequnce of such trespass.

CHAPTER 332.

An Act prescribing regulations in regard to the management of the canals, and for other purposes. Passed April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:—

Section 1. The assent of five members of the canal board shall be requisite to the adoption of all questions or resolutions involving the expenditure or appropriations of the public moneys, and all such questions or resolutions shall be taken by ayes and noes, and entered upon the minutes.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the canal board to cause to be published, in the state daily paper at Albany, the minutes of said board as soon as may be after each session.

§ 3. The canal commissioners hereafter to be elected shall be entitled to compensation for their services at the rate of two thousand dollars a year, payable quarterly, instead of all compensation now allowed by law; and there shall also be allowed to canal commissioners all reasonable and necessary traveling expenses by them actually incurred and paid in the discharge of their duties, not exceeding four hundred dollars in any year, of which they shall keep an accurate account by items, and verify the same by their oaths, to be filed with the auditor; all laws allowing traveling fees and expenses to canal commissioners, heretofore existing, are hereby repealed.

§ 4. No superintendent of canal repairs shall be removed by any canal commissioner during the session of the canal board; but either of the canal commissioners, when a recess or adjournment of the canal board shall have been ordered, or shall exist for more than five days, may, during such recess or adjournment, remove any of the superintendents on the division of the canals of which he has charge, and fill the vacancy occasioned by such removal, to continue until the order of the canal board in the matter. And the commissioners making such removal shall, without delay, report the name of the person removed, and the name of the person appointed, to the canal department, with the reasons for making such removal. On receiving such report, the auditor shall immediately give notice the members of the canal board of a meeting of such board to consider such report. And if the canal board shall re appoint the superintendent so removed, he shall not be again removed by a canal commissioner.

§ 5. Before the auditor shall be required to pay any damages that may be awarded, or the amount of any commutation agreed on for the appropriation of land or water, or for the want of a farm bridge, he shall be furnished with a satisfactory abstract of title, and certificate of search as to incumbrances, showing the person demanding such damages or commutation to be legally entitled thereto, which abstract and search shall be retained and filed in his office.

§ 6. No person shall be entitled to demand a farm bridge across any of the state canals or their feeders, in any case when the necessity or convenience of such bridge shall have arisen from the division or acquisition of any property subsequent to the location of such canal or feedor.

§ 7. Chapter two hundrod and seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and thirty nine, and all other existing laws in relation to bridges over the enlarged Erie canal, shall be applicable to bridges over the enlarged Oswego and the enlarged Cayuga and Seneca canals, and the Cayuga inlet.

§ 8 Any person guilty of false swearing to any oath or affidavit which may be lawfully required by any rules and reglations of the canal board, canal commissioners or auditor, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and on conviction he punished the same as in other cases of prejury.

§ 9. Hereafter no street or road bridges shall be constructed by the canal commissioners over any canal of this state, except upon such streets or roads as were laid out, worked and used previous to the construction of the canals by which such streets or roads were obstructed.

§ 10. All laws in force in this state, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

CHAPTER 202.

An Act to provide for the payment of certain labor done and materials furnished on the canals of this state. Passed April 13, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Whenever it shall appear to the auditor or the canal department that labor has been heretofore performed or materials furnished, which has been actually used upon or for any of the superintendents' sections of the canals of this state during the present fiscal year, when the right or title of the superintendency to such section was in conflict, it shall be the duty of the auditor and the canal commissioner in charge of the divisions of the canals upon which such labor is alleged to have been performed or materials furnished and used, to receive the accounts of such claims, and take proof in such form and manner as to them may seem proper of the actual performance of such labor, and of its non-payment, and of the furnishing and use materials, and of the time and place of such use, and the non payment thereof; and if, after a full investigation of any such claim for labor or materials, it shall appear that any amount is equitably due from the state to any party having rendered such labor or furnished such materials, it shall then be the duty of the auditor, upon the certificate of the commissioner to pay to the person performing such labor or furnishing such materials such of said accounts as the said auditor and commissioner shall be and certify that they are satisfied, from such investigation and proof, to be due for labor performed or materials furnished and actually used for the maintenance or protection of the canals or the navigation thereof: Provided, that application for compensation for such labor and materials be made within six months after the passage of this act.

§ 2. Whenever there have been materials furnished, and not used, which are included in any of the accounts referred to in the first section, and which the state has paid for, and no allowance for which is made, the party who furnished the same shall be at liberty, under the supervision of the commissioner having charge of the division, to resume possession of the same.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Secretary's Office. } I have compared the preceding with the original laws on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom of the whole of the said original.

Secretary of State.

The Miner's Ten Commandments.

A man spake these words, and said: I am a miner, who wandered "from away down east," and came to sojourn in a strange land and "see the elephant." And behold I saw him, and bear witness, that from the key of his trunk to the end of his tail, his whole body has passed before me; and I followed him until his huge feet stood still before a clapboard shanty; then, with his trunk extended, he pointed to a candle-card tacked upon a a shingle, as though he would say read, and I read the Miners' Ten Commandments.

I. Thou shalt have no other claim than one.

II. Thou shalt not make unto thyself any false claim, nor any likeness to a mean man, by jumping one; whatever thou findest on the top, above, or on the rock beneath, or in a crevice underneath the rock—for I will visit the miners around to invite them on my side; and when they decide against thee, thou shalt take thy pick and thy pan, thy shovel, and thy blankets, with all that thou hast, and 'go prospecting,' to seek good diggings; but thou shalt find none. Then, when thou hast returned, in sorrow shalt thou find that thine old claim is worked out, and yet no pile made thee, to hide in the ground, or in an old boot beneath thy bunk, or in buckskin or bottle under neath thy cabin, but hast paid all that was in thy purse away, worn out thy boots and thy garments, so that there is nothing good about them but the pockets, and thy patience is likened unto thy garments; and at last thou shalt hire thy body out to make thy board and save thy bacon.

III. Thou shalt not go prospecting before thy claim gives out. Neither shalt thou take thy money, nor thy gold dust nor thy good name, to the gaming table in vain; for monte, twenty one, roulette, faro, lansquenet and poker, will prove to thee that the more thou puttest down the less thou shalt take up; and when thou thinkest of thy wife and children, thou shalt not hold thyself guiltless, but—insane.

IV. Thou shalt not remember what thy friends do at home on the Sabbeth day, lest the rememberance may not compare favorably with what thou doest here. Six days thou mayst dig or pick all that thy body can stand under; but the other day is Sunday; yet thou washest all thy dirty shirts, darnest all thy stockings, tap thy boots, mend thy clothing, chop thy whole week's fire wood, make up and bake thy bread and boil thy pork and beans, that thou wait not when thou returnest from thy long-tom, weary. For in six days labor only thou canst not work enough to wear out thy body in two years; but if thou workest hard on Sunday also, thou canst do it in six months; and thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy male friend and thy female friend, thy morals and thy conscience be none the better for it; but reproach thee, shouldst thou ever return with thy worn body to thy mother's fireside; and thou strivo to justify thyself because the trader and the blacksmith, the carpenter and the merchant, the tailors, Jews, and buccaneers, defy God and civilization, by keeping not the Sabbath day, nor wish for a day of rest, such as memory, youth and home, made hallowed

V. Thou shalt not think more of all thy gold and how thou canst make it fastest, than how thou wilt enjoy it. after thou hast ridden, rough shod over thy good old parent's precepts and examples, that thou mayest have nothing to reproach thee, when thou art left ALONE in the land where thy father's blessing and thy mother's love hath sent theo.

VI Thou shalt not kill thy body by working in the rain, even though thou shalt make enough to buy physic and attendance with. Neither shalt thou kill thy neighbor's body in a duel; for, by 'keeping cool' thou canst save his life and thy conscience. Neithor shalt thou destroy thyself by getting 'tight,' nor 'stewed,' nor 'high,' nor 'corned,' nor 'half seas-over,' nor 'three sheets in the wind,' by drinking smoothly down — 'brandy slings,' 'gin-cockails,' whisky-punches,' 'rum-toddies,' nor 'egg-nogs' Neither shalt thou suck 'mint julips,' nor 'sherry-cobblers,' through a straw nor gurgle from a bottle the raw material,' nor 'take it neat' from a decanter, for while thou art swallowing down thy purse, and thy coat from off thy back, thou art burning the coat from off thy stomach; and, if thou couldst seo the houses and lands, and gold dust, and home comforts, already lying there 'a huge pile'—thou shouldst feel a choaking in thy throat; and when to that thou addest thy crooked walkings and hiccuping talkings, or lodgings in the gutter, of broilings in the sun, of prospect-holes half full of water, and of shafts and ditches from which thou hast emerged like a drowning rat, thou will feel disgusted with thyself and inquire, "Is thy servant a dog, that he doeth these things?" verily I will say, Farewell old bottle, I will kiss thy gurgling lips no more. And thou, slings, cocktails, punches, smashes, cobblers, nogs toddies, sangarees, and julips, forever farewell. Thy remomberances shames me, henceforth, I 'cut thy acquaintance,' and headaches, tremblings, heart burnings, blue-devils, and all the unholy catalogue of evils that follow in thy train. My wife's smiles and my children's merry-hearted laugh shall charm and reward me for having the manly firmness and courage to say no. I wish thee an eternal farewell.

VII Thou shalt not grow discouraged nor think of going home before thou hast made thy 'pile,' because thou hast not 'struck a lead,' nor found a 'rich crevice,' nor sunk a hole upon a 'pooket,' lest in going home thou shalt leave four dollars a day, and go to work, ashamed at fifty cents, and serve thee right; for thou knowest by staying here, thou mightest strike a lead and fifty dollars a day, and keep thy manly self-respect, and then go home with enough to make thyself and others happy.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal a pick, or a shovel, or a pan, from thy fellow miner; nor borrow those he cannot spare; nor return them broken, nor trouble him to fetch them back again; nor talk with him while his water rent is running on; nor remove his stake to enlarge thy claim, nor undermine his bank in following a lead, nor pan out gold from his 'riffle-box,' nor wash the 'tailing' from his sluice's mouth. Neither shalt thou pick out specimens from the company's pan to put them in thy mouth, or in thy purse; nor cheat thy partner of his share; nor steal from thy cabin-mate his gold dust, to add to thine, for he will be sure to discover what thou hast done, and will straightway call his fellow miners together and if the law hinder them not, they will hang thee, or give thee fifty lashes, or shave thy head and brand thee, like a horse thief, with R upon thy cheek, to be known and read of all men, Californians in particular.

IX. Thou shalt not tell any false tales about 'good diggings in the mountains' to thy neighbor, that thou mayest benefit a friend who hath mules, and provisions, and tools, and blankets he cannot sell—lest in deceiving thy neighbor, when he returneth through the snow, with nought save his rifle, he present thee with the contents thereof, and like a dog, thou shalt fall down and die.

X. Thou shalt not commit unsuitable matrimony, nor covet 'single blessedness;' nor forget absent maidens; nor neglect thy 'first love;'—but thou shalt consider how faithfully and patiently she awaiteth thy return; yea, and covereth each epistle that thou rendest with kisses of kindly welcome—until she hath thyself. Neither shalt thou covet thy neighbor's wife, nor trifle with the affections of his daughter; yet, if thy heart be free, and thou love and covet each other, thou shalt 'pop the question' like a man lest another more manly than thou art, should step in before thee, and thou love her in vain, and in the anguish of thy heart's dissappointment, thou shalt quote the language of the great, and say, 'rich is life;' and thy future lot be that of a poor, lonely, despised and comfortless bachelor.

A new commandment give I unto thee—if thou hast a wife and little ones, that thou lovest dearer than thy life—that thou keep them continually before thee to cheer and urge thee onward until thou canst say, 'I have enough—God bless them—I will return.' Then as thou journeyest towards thy much loved home, with open arms shall they come forth to welcome thee, and falling upon thy neck, weep tears of unutterable joy that thou art come; then in the fullness of thy heart's gratitude, thou shalt kneel before thy Heavenly Father together, to thank Him for thy safe return. AMEN—So mote it be!

FORTY-NINE.

Important Movement.

A State Convention of those opposed to the Nebraska bill and in favor of the restoration of the Missouri restriction upon the spread of Slavery has been noticed to meet at Saratoga Springs, on the 16th day of August next. The call is a matter of course is irrespective of party, and will doubtless moet with a hearty response from all honest opponents of the Nebraska iniquity. The number of delegates is to be four times the representation in the Assembly.

We are unacquainted with the objects of the Convention except as they are generally stated in the call. General consultation and specific action, so far as to secure the election to Congress of men imbued with the free spirit of the North, and having the nerve and integrity to withstand the blandishments of power and place, will doubtless be among the first if not the most important duties of the Convention. It is possible that the formation of a new party to resist the encroachments of the Slave power and confine the 'peculiar institution' to the States wherein it now exists may be entertained by some; but such a movement at the present time, so far as this State is concerned, is not necessary, and would be of doubtful propriety. So far as it may be necessary to secure the election to Congress of reliable Anti-Nebraska men, we would be willing to forego party preferences at the coming election; but there are great questions of State policy which cannot be safely confided to other hands than those of the Whig party.

Of the recurrence of another Presidential election, there will very likely be a general breaking up of old party organizations, to be replaced by new ones having more direct reference to the slavery question, but until that time it strikes us that it will be safest and best for the Whig party to stand by its colors and await the progress of events.

Still so far as we understand the objects of this Anti Nebraska gathering we approve of it; and as there are no committees to arrange preliminaries, we trust that the friends of the movement will not be backward in taking the necessary steps to secure a full representation from Steuben, in the convention.—Steuben County Courier.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization both to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, we concur cordially with the "Courier" that it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig Party to stand by its colors,"—Albany Journal.

THE DOBRUDSCHA.—The following is an account of this desolate district, which has suddedly risen into interest and importance and in which, we learn by the last news, the Russians are dismantling and razing their fortresses:

At Tchernavoda the Danube approaches within thirty four miles of the Black Sea, but is seperated from it by a peninsula or tongue of high land, extending north, nearly opposite to Galatz, called Dobrudscha: From Tchernavoda a road runs to Kostendje, on the Black Sea, partly parallel with a stream, or rather a chain of lakes called Karasu.

At Bourlack (four hours,) the stream ceases, and the valley is shut in by hills, crowned with towns, from which the sea is visible. Kostendje (Constatina) a small village on a height above the shore, has a little port, with remains of a Roman mole, now destroyed. From a point a little south of this to Rassova, on the Danube, runs a rampart of earth called Trajan's Wall. It is certain that no branch of the Danube ever flowed into the sea across this tongue of land, which presents on this side of the sea an uninterrupted range of low hills and cliffs.

The district of the Dobrudscha is at most seasons a wilderness, partly owing to its having been deprived of its Tartar inhabitants, after 1829, by the Russians, but partly owing to its subsoil, which, excepting to the north extremity, where rise the hills of Matschin, (granite) consists of porous limestone, which retains no water, and furnishes no springs on the surface. Population is scanty, and villages wide scattered, and drinking water is obtained only through a few deep wells. Corn is scarcely cultivated at all, hay and fodder are very scarce, the scanty herbage dries up early in summer, and flocks of sheep and herbs of buffalo repair to the borders of the Danube.

This desert extends south of the Wall of Trajan nearly as far as Bassarjik and Varna. It is not tenable by troops, unless they carry food, forage and water with them.—A canal was at one time projected between the Danube at Tchernavoda and the Black Sea at Kostendje, but a survey made by a Prussian engineer proved that the head of the valley of Karasu was 164 feet above the sea, and that not a drop of water was to be obtained on the summit level (limestone hills) to feed a canal, if it were made.

IMMENSE SAW MILL.—The last Peterborough Canada Dispatch contains an account of the ceremony of naming a new mill for the manufacture of lumber, recently erected near that place, by C. Perry, Esq., father, we believe, of Robert Perry, Esq., forwarding and commission merchant of this city. A large company of gentlemen were present and after examining the works, a bountiful repast, which had been provided by the Proprietor, was enjoyed by the party The establishment was christened "Nassau Mills" and toasts and speeches were liberally indulged. The mills are said to be the most complete of any in Upper Canada, and can manufacture in 24 hours, of Deal, 100,000 feet, and of 1 inch lumber 70,000. From 100 to 130 saws are constantly at work, the number varying, with the description of lumber to be manufactured.

Team roads running in various directions lead to the piling ground, and every convenience is found to carry on the business.

Another mill of similar dimension is now in process of construction for Mr. Perry, about one mile from the one spoken of, which is to be of the same capacity and perfectness in all respects. Mr. Perry is a man of large means and liberal enterprise.

MYSTERIOUS REMAINS.—A few days ago while a number of workmen were engaged in digging a vault at Baltimore, one of them struck his pick upon a 'hard' substance several feet below the surface of the earth.—Upon removing the dirt, and inspecting the object, it was found to be a piece of plank ingeniously painted on one side to resemble hickory wood, and on the other in imitation of granite. It did not seem to have been buried more than a few weeks, yet it was found to be quite rotten. Traces of obliterated characters were discoverable on the hickory side, but it was impossible to make them out. On the granite side, which had a new appearance, these words were visible under a strong light:

"Resolved, That the Democratic party will resist all attempts at renewing in Congress or out of it, the agitation of the slavery question, UNDER WHATEVER SHAPE OR COLOR THE ATTEMPT MAY BE MADE."

The mysterious relic was handed over to a distinguished antiquarian, who took it to Washington and placed it in the Patent office, Since then it has been visited and examined by President Pierce, Senator Douglas, and all the Heads of Departments, except, perhaps, the Secretary of State. None of them pretend to know anything of its origin, or how it came to be "run into the ground."—Dayton Gazette.

THE CANADIAN BILL.—The proposed bill in the English House of Lords, which is supposed to threaten the future independence of Canada, is simply a bill authorising the election by the people of a Legislative Council—an Upper House corresponding to our Senate. The members must be of a certain age and possess a property qualification. All voters for members of the Lower House are also qualified to vote for members of the Upper one. The House of Lords have passed the bill through Committee by a majority of 24 and nearly a two-third vote. It has yet to be finally acted on before being sent to the House of Commons.

A SONG.—BY RHYMESLAYER.

The morn broke cold and wet, love,
The times were out of tune,
The merry frogs were croaking
Like a bachelor in June;
The fog was on the mountain,
The fox was on the hill,
And the old grey horse was grinding
In Daddy's cider mill.
The hoarfrost decked the meadows,
The trees had shed their leaves,
And the branches bare were humming
'Neath the touches of the breeze.
The sun looks through the clouds with
A sort of drunken stare,
And the earth looked sad and moody
Beneath his dismal glare.
My heart was dull and gloomy
And throbbed beneath my vest,
For I heard the heavy snoring
Of the girl I loved the best.

☞ The True National Democrat, is 'down on low necked dresses for ladies, which fashion, it seems by that paper, has taken a move the present summer in New York upper tendom, a little beyond the pictures. Pshaw! Let the dear creatures do as they please; and, if you don't like the fashion, shut your eyes, as we do.—Chenango Telegraph.

No, Max, we can't do that, for when we shut our eyes, we are honest. But we do think the ladies wear their dresses about five and a half inches too short in the waist. At the top we mean.—True National Democrat

Exactly, John. If they would only take a little off the bottom of the skirt, and put it on the top of the waist, it would look a little more consistent, besides being considerably more modest. And its all stuff about a man's shutting his eyes—men are not apt to do that, nor do one fourth the females who wear dresses so low, think they are. Eh, John?—Troy Family Journal.

AFTER LUCY. Mrs. Swisshelm is after Lucy Stone with a sharp stick. Listen to her;

We have already denied, and we again deny that a woman who steps beyond the regular limits assigned her is pointed and hooted at. We never knew any woman to take up an honorable employment and pursue it zealously but she was honored for her enterprise. We also beg leave once more to express our firm conviction that no virtuous woman ever was driven to a life of shame to get bread for herself and children. Such a declaration is a monstrous libel upon humanity. We agree with the old King of Israel, who said; I have been young and now am old, yet have I never seen the righteous forsaken and begging bread. Begging bread they may be, but they are never forsaken and left to such degredation as Miss Stone speaks of. Poverty could be no extenuation of such a crime and we are sorry to see the leaders of woman's rights movements offer such a plea in palliation. There is always a poor house in which a virtuous woman and her children can be admitted, or if not, there is a river into which she could throw herself and them.

COFFEE IS DETHRONED.—Liebig, (the illustrious German chemist,) says that asparagus contains, in common with tea and coffee, a principle which he calls 'taurine,' and which he considers essential to the health of those who do not take strong exercise. Taking the hint from Baron Liebig, a writer in the London Gardener's Chronicle, was led to test asparagus as a substitute for coffee. He says: The young shoots I first prepared were not agreeable, having an alkaline taste. I then tried the ripe seeds; these roasted and ground make a full flavored coffee not easily distinguishable from the Mocha. The seeds are easily freed from the berry by drying them in a cool oven, and then rubbing them on a sieve. In good soil asparagus yields seeds abundantly, and if they are charged with 'taurine,' and identical with the seeds of the coffee plant, asparagus coffee may be grown in the United States at less than half the cost per ponud of the article now largely imported.

☞ The editor of the Philadelphia Courier says:—While at the Burning Springs near Niagara, a few days ago we were requested to enter the names of our party in the Visitor's Register, and while complying observed that the registry had been suspended at about two-thirds down on the left hand page and then continued at the top of the right. On seeking the cause, we found the last entry as follows:

Matt F. Ward, Brothers and Servant.

Of course that name has cast a blight upon the page forever; no honest man would add his name beneath that of the Cain branded fugitive, but underneath was written, as by the hand of some recording angel, or crime pursuing Nemesis.—"THE MURDERER!"

☞ In Maine there will be no lack of Gubernatorial candidates at the ensuing election. The 'Wild Cats' have a nominee, the morrill squad another, and on Wednesday the Old Hunkers, so called, nominated a third one. It is presumed that the Whigs and the Liquor Law men will agree on a man, thus making but four candidates for the same office.

☞ The Journals of Congress show that on the fourteenth day of June, 1777, the flag of the Union was adopted in the words following: "Resolved that the Flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in blue field, representing a new constellation."

The famous Ossian E. Dodge was married at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 4th of July, to Miss Ettie Lyon, of Zanesville.

The Republican.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, July 29.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands,
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

Catholics and Temperance.

Though insisting that we are of no account, the Gazette has been pleased to devote three or four columns of personalities to us of late, and while we decline any such disgraceful contest, we yet deem it our duty to state a few points, premising that we are not so blind as not to see that the Gazette is worked at the suggestions of another, whose exposure will occur in due time.

IRISHMEN.

1. We are not a member of the order of "Know-Nothings;" the Republican is not the organ of that order, nor has anything been said in its columns to authorise any such assertion.

2. We have not, to our knowledge advocated "Know-Nothing" sentiments, for we don't know what they are, only as rumor, with her thousand tongues, reports, and probably distorts them. So far as rumor hath it, we are opposed to some and highly in favor of others. If it proposes to proscribe any man or set of men on account of their religion, whether Catholic or Protestant, we are opposed to it. But we are informed that one of the leading features of Know-Nothing-ism is to put down all men who make a business of courting the Catholic vote as such, especially just about election time, like Pierce and his lesser lights, like the Editor of the Gazette, who just before election discover the Catholic religion in danger from the rascally whigs, and put out flaming hand-bills of "IRISHMEN READ!" We are also highly in favor of another sentiment, said to be a Know-Nothing principle, to wit: that no man shall be regarded or proscribed on account of his birth or religion; to break up disgusting, political debasement for foreign votes; to put down cliques and clans on account of religion or birth, and to make all American Republicans at heart and in practice, whether they have been here five years or fifty years, and whether Catholics or Protestants, making worth, and not birth or creed, a stepping stone to preferment. These sentiments we endorse, and if they are anti-Catholic or anti-anything else, make the most of it. Their practical application we know would cut off such feminine ninnies as the Editor of the Gazette, but that we can't help. We know that these sentiments are heartily endorsed by all sensible men and by none more so than by Catholics. They are sick of this everlasting twaddle of political pimps and of this arrogant assumption on the part of many, and of the Editor of the Gazette in particular of a special guardianship over the rights of adopted citizens, and of those annual appeals to their national and religious prejudices. They ask only to be let alone to become American citizens by observation and experience. Only this week, a Roman Catholic Irishman and a total stranger to us, but who has read the Republican, made himself known to us, shook our hand, approved our course and subscribed for our paper. The Republican is read in quarters where the Gazette would not be permitted. The difference between us is, we wish to see Irishmen good American citizens, and to pass upon all parties and all questions on their own judgment, but the Editor of the Gazette wishes them to keep up their national and religious prejudices and be moved by him in a body whenever he issues a handbill headed "Irishmen Read."

In this respect we are a Know-Nothing, and Catholics are too. At the South, Catholics are members of that order, and a democratic paper (an exchange) of the character of the Gazette, and whose editor is about as much of a Catholic as Nelson, is perfectly frantic over the fact, hardly allowing the editor to sleep, for 'fear of harm to the Catholic cause!'—(but to the democracy more.) "Oh git eaout."

3. We have more than once defined our position on all questions of interest to Catholics and foreigners and challenged the editor of the Gazette to do the same, but he declined. He dare not.

4. Native-Americanism was started by democrats. Democrats defeated Catholics in Pennsylvania and Louisiana. The Catholic disabilities in New Hampshire are not removed nor attempted so to be, although a democratic state.

The editor of the Gazette once wrote a a long article filled with reflections upon Catholics, and among other assertions, charged them with a bad, imperfect, and injurious system of education, to which he ascribed the failure of the Canadian Rebellion, and also, that the only good fighting was done by his father, a Protestant.

TEMPERANCE.

1. The remarks of the Gazette are a wilful perversion of truth, designed only to injure us personally, and indirectly the cause of temperance.

2. We have never attempted directly or indirectly to turn Temperance societies to the benefit of the whig party, or to our own advantage, pecuniarily, or politically.—We have always, on all occasions and under all circumstances opposed political action by temperance societies, as every brother can testify.

3. We have offered and again offer, if Nelson will unite with either of the orders in town, to give him all their printing if in our power, making this condition only, that he shall do the work, as we have done it, for less than cost, and contribute in addition out of his pocket for the support of the cause.

4. The labored efforts of the Gazette wont pass even for a good joke. The wish to produce jealousy and division in the ranks of the temperance men is too barefaced, nor will it serve others for whose benefit it is designed. The writer is a bigger fool than knave.

5. The only men who have ever tried to turn those orders to their political benefit have been democrats.

6. Only one man has tried to make the orders in this place turn to his pecuniary advantage, but of him—silence, at present

But lastly, with all the efforts of the Gazette, Irishmen are almost universally Adamantines; of the 60 French voters in this place but 2 or 3 are democrats; and strangest of all, the temperance societies dont seem to appreciate the labors of this new apostle of the cause. Queer isnt' it?—And then too, to receive three or four columns of attention when the Gazette insists we are of no account—but that's of no consequence, let results speak for both.

Gerrit Smith and Nebraska.

This gentleman has resigned his seat in Congress. He refused to aid in 'starving' out the Nebraskaites, and that non-resistant policy having been perfectly satisfactory to the South, but causing severe criticism at the North, Mr. Smith apologises by saying that his "hours of rest are from 9 o'clock P. M. till 5 o'clock A. M." and argued that not himself but Congress was responsible, if he was absent from his seat at its midnight sittings. It will be seen at once, that slavery could desire nothing more. The day could be spent in debate, and at night, while Mr. Smith was at 'rest,' Slavery could run riot. Not so with the whigs. They stood at their posts for 48 hours without shutting their eyes to sleep, and yet while called "whigs" these men are not good enough for anti-slavery leaders, and with them for candidates we presume "third party" nominations would be sustained, as in 1844, though it should result in spreading slavery over the whole continent, or in electing another Polk or Pierce, or a Soule or Douglas to the Presidency. At all events, we hope to see the experiment tried, we want to see whether the scenes of 1844 are to be re-enacted.—As to the masses, we dont believe they will ever be guilty of a like folly, and as to the leaders, who make the credulity of the people on the subject of slavery, means of livelihood, the sooner they are exposed the better, and they can go about some honest calling for a support, and their followers will vote for men for their deeds and not for their high sounding words. No partyism is a humbug. There never was and never will be such a thing. There will be parties, and if the whig party is broken up it will be re-formed under leaders who have heretofore been its bitter foes—men who are governed by impulse and passion and not by judgement—men who live by agiation, without which they can neither buy bread nor be conspicuous. These are the men from whom such honied words flow about political peace, no party—and such like ignis fatuus.

The Riot at Port Henry.

The Editor of the Gazette says a correspondent writes him that our account of this affair was one sided—and for Pease's benefit—that Pease was not uninformed of what was going on—that every body expected trouble and knew it was brewing—that Pease might have prevented the trouble—and that the sheriff was on the ground but could not be found in the hour of need. In the first place, we don't believe any one has written that Editor, but if so the writer has attempted a misrepresentation and dare not make himself known.—The secret assession is the most dishonorable of all characters.

Our account was strictly true in every particular, and the above is all false.—Pease was ignorant of what was going on until the fight was in full blast—no body expected trouble, or dreamed of it—we were with several gentlemen who had children at the party and we know they had no thoughts of such a fight—and the sheriff had gone home with his family who were with him, long before the row, or he would have been there in the midst of it, as every one knows, for he notoriously never dodges any such perils.

The Editor further says that we "deemed discretion the better part of valor and kept at a respectful distance." For once the Gazette speaks the truth of us. We were safely out of harm's way, but not so far off but that we watched closely and carefully all that was going on, and saw more than one man slope, so if any one wishes to brag of his courage and exploits let him step in and give his name, and perhaps we shall be able to state what his peculiar claims to glory are.

But he further says 'Col. Barton of this village and young Mr. McNut of Warren Co. and other gentlemen, rushed in to quell the affray and got some blows." All false.

There were four distinct affrays. The second was the great fight, when the house was cleared. McNut was in this melee fought well, but from compulsion. He did not rush in to quell the affray. He was in the crowd when it begun and fought in self defence only, and fought well, but was glad to get out. Neither did Col. Barton or any other gentlemen rush in to quell the affray. After the second fight there was a cessation of hostilities. The barroom was cleared, and the crowd dispersed as was supposed. At this point of time Col. Barton entered to see the remains, but very soon the Irishmen rushed in again. Co. Barton was hit and he left as quick as he conveniently could, as he ought. In fact Pease advised the yankees to leave and not resist, and as soon as there was no foe in sight he and Mr. Goff secured the attention of the Irish and they left for home.—The riot was serious enough, but there are a thousand and one stories afloat utterly without foundation. We have been perfectly impartial, though if leaning either way, it has been towards the Irish. Their indiscriminate assault was unprovoked, but it would do no good to denounce them in the paper. We have some friends among the Irish there and we can do more good by advising them privately, which we have done and shall do again. In fact so far from publishing the facts "for Pease's benefit and to make the matter look as bad as it possibly could for the Irish." as alleged we have made the matter look as favorable as possible for the Irish, consistent with truth.

We must say that we are sorry Col. Barton's name has been dragged in here, but it is not our fault. It is a piece of toadyism in the Gazette as foolish as inexcusable.

The Saratoga Meeting.

We are quoted as opposed to this meeting. This is a mistake. If it confines itself to its legitimate business, to wit, the concentration of public opinion against the Nebraska Swindle, and to a plan for encouraging emigration to the new territories we are in favor of it. If it goes farther than this, it and its originators, will be 'whistled down the wind' without leaving so much as a trace. If it is a plot of the democracy and abolitionists to break up the Whig party, and if it shall be connived at by Whigs, the latter might as well make their wills, and have their coffins ready—politically, we mean, for the act will kill them stone dead. We are however, in favor of sending deligates from this county, specifically instructed to oppose to the uttermost all attempts (if any shall be made) to break up party lines or to make state nominations, and if persisted in then to withdraw from the convention. As to members of Congress, we are not sufficiently posted to advise. If we were better acquainted in the Districts in question we could tell better. It may be best and it may not, to support all those members of Congress for re election who opposed Nebraska. If Whigs could all be persuaded to acquiesce we should think it would be to their advantage. We should think it would draw votes to the whig party all over the state and add to its permanent strength. We hesitate, however, in going against what seems to be the most settled opinions of esteemed and able Whigs. It would be after looking over the whole ground and after due deliberation which we have not given the subject, before we should conclude to endorse the proposal. At all events, we are in favor of sending delegates to Saratoga to see that the Convention keeps within its legitimate sphere, and if they fail to withdraw. On the face of it the objects of the Convention are fair and we dont think Whigs should hesitate to lend their influence. When the Convention shows the cloven foot it is the time to denounce it.

Quite an excitement was caused at Piqua, says the Cincinnati Gazette, on the 9th inst., by the hoisting of a cross over the American flag on the Catholic Church. The priest was immediately advised to take it down, and he complied with the advice. Had he refused the citizens would probably have torn down the church.—[Ex.

We should like to know whether this is a free country or not? Dont American citizens defend the Angel Gabriel in his street harangues against catholics? If a catholic were to take the stump against Protestants we should like to know if he would not be entitled to the same protection as the Angel Gabriel, or Gavazzi? If American citizens were to mob a catholic declaimer against Protestants would they not belie every profession? And if a catholic chooses to hang the cross over the American flag we should like to know whose business it is? If people dont like it let them not look at it. We dont think the act of placing the cross above the stars and stripes showed a proper American spirit, but then whose business is it? Both the catholics who did that, and the mobocrats who would tear down the church deserve condemnation.

RIVER AND HARBORS.

The bill recently passed the Lower House of Congress appropriates about half a million more to the South than to the North. To the mouth of the Mississippi alone $330,000. For a Steam Dredge on Lake Erie only $7,500. But for the Chesapeake Bay $50,000. So much for Slavery.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, June, 1854.

Sunday in a city has few charms for the lover of Nature—one that admires the green covered hills and the forest robed in its suit of golden verdure, who loves to listen with ears entranced to the soothing music of the meandering rivulet as it comes wandering from its rocky home, adding life and vigor in its course, to flowers of every hue, which bloom upon its banks, and waves gracefully in the cooling breeze, feeling its way with quietness, until it loses its identity in the capacious bosom of some more pretending stream. A city on the sabbath is dullness itself. The business thoroughfares are deserted. The busy hum of machinery in the various workshops is stilled. The millionarie and the beggar rest to day and worship at the same shrine the one in his magnificence of ostentatious wealth—the other, clad in the coarser garments of the sons of toil, worships with the simplicity and meekness of a child of God, pursuing his way with the Christian's hope to the throne of his Eternal Father.

The situation of Cleveland is delightful in the extreme, and a view of it as you approach from the lake, is one of great beauty. Its commodious harbor, filled with the various crafts that whiten Eries waters—joint partners of the rattling steam car in the capacious depots on its docks, in conveying the productions of the giant West to eastern marts, giving evidence of great commercial thrift, as it is, also an evidence of the energy and industry of man in securing temporal wealth—while farther up, upon the elevation, almost hidden from sight by the numerous shade trees, now clothed in their densest foliage, are the homes of those engaged below in the business activities of life, inviting them to quiet repose when the labors of the day shall have closed. And here too, side by side, are the Union spring and the pool of Siloam, their pure waters mingling and swelling up rich treasures for all, paving and lighting the way of erring man to his Eternal Home.

The population of Cleveland, prior to the annexation of Ohio city, was about 32,000. Some two months since the citizens of Cleveland and Ohio city, on the opposite side of the Cuyahoga, voted on the question of annexing the two cities, the result of which has been their union, which increases the population to upwards of 40,000.

Cleveland is fast increasing in wealth and commercial importance. The numerous Rail Roads radiating from this point have been largely instrumental in increasing the prosperity of this city. To them is she indebted, more than to any other cause, for the standing she occupies among the cities of the West. They opened to her a vast country, rich in farming and mechanical interests, that needed but the facilities of communications to make her the centre of their trade; and already is a rich harvest being reaped by her energetic, enterprising citizens, and the different roads in process of construction must add largely to the general prosperity. The fact is irresistible, that Cleveland is destined at no distant day, to be one of the first cities of the West in commercial importance, as it is already the first in location and beauty.

What strikes the stranger in Cleveland most forcibly, is the width and cleanliness of the streets. Superior street, the principal business street, Euclid, on which are the residences of the aristocratic nabobs, we venture to say cannot be surpassed by any city in the States. For two miles in length on either side of Euclid, are the mansions of the wealthy merchants, laid out with all the magnificence that wealth could purchase or cultivated taste suggest; and here, when the business of the day is accomplished, he retires away from the noise and bustle of the business thoroughfares, and in this paradise of his own creation, enjoys the fruits of his well spent energies.

A few days since we had a bit of a "nigger" excitement. Handbills were circulated in great profusion, by the only guardians of civil and religious liberty, the carping, snapping, brawling red mouthed Abolitionists, in staring capitals, as follows: "Freemen of Cleveland, be on your guard! The blood hounds are among you!! Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty!!!" The news spread like a contagion, in a short time groups of "Wooly heads," rather dark colored, might be seen on every corner; the excited manner, the unwonted fire in the eye, plainly exoressing the pitch of excitement under which they were laboring, their envious looks and the significance with which they pointed inside their coats, as they parted, betrayed the result of their conclave. Now the innocent cause of all this excitement, was an inoffensive gentleman from Kentucky, who had been some years ago, a deputy Sheriff, and who was stopping at the "Weddell House." Some of the faithful discovered it, and no doubt deeming it a good opportunity to get up an excitement in favor of the oppressed of "God's green earth," the 'heugag' was sounded, and the poor niggers rushed into a state of excitement, that in the warm weather must have added largely to their usual odoriferousness. It is an ill wind that blows no body good. The dealers in bowie knives and revolvers made a "nice thing" out of it.

JAMIESON, the tragedian, of Consuelo notoriety in the Forest divorce case, has been playing "Uncle Tom as it is," of which he is the author, at the Atheneum. We did not see it played, but were informed by those who did, that it is an excellent portraiture of Southern slavery, that the famed author did "Nothing extenuate,

Nor aught set down in malice."

It was very well received, considering the latitude, but the agitating propensity is so strong, and a certain class so prone to indulge in the fancy drawn pictures of diseased imaginations that it did not meet with that hearty approval, so generously awarded it in the Southern cities. Truth in relation to slavery, has no charms for the venal agitators of this question. Bugbears and aggeration is their stock in trade, by which they excite credulous minds to resist the blows and shed the blood of their fellow men.

Politics in this region are in a state of most glorious confusion. There seems to be a growing disposition among the people to break party lines, and heave overboard the political jobbers, who through their pipe laying practices, packed conventions and bad whisky, are holding the "sovereigns" in a political thraldom, more degrading to intelligent manhood than the most abject slavery. The masses for once seem inclined, in earnest, to assert their rights and maintain them. Present indications are that the political hucksters who have so long controlled the free action of the people by their mendacious proclivities are about to be shorn of their power. A Convention has been called by men of all parties to nominate officers—the best men—to be supported at the next election. The movement gains favor every day.

The "Know-Nothings" or Native American movement, is rapidly growing in favor, and for once secret societies, to promote political action, are popular with the masses, and it seems to be, at the present time, a question of absorbing interest, with aspiring political gentlemen where they will go. If they endorse the 'Know Nothings,' they must of necessity discard the Foreign vote, and proscribe all who are not to the 'manor born.' That loses them the Foreign vote. If they show a patronizing air to foreigners, that kills them with the 'Know-Nothings,' so that either horn of the dilemma is beset with difficulties. An organization appealing merely to race or religion, cannot be of great duration. A platform so narrow, so bigoted and so unjust cannot long meet with the support of the people, it is so contrary in spirit and letter to republicanism—it is too aggressive and after the 'sober second thought' of the people, when reason has resumed her sway, will receive countenance only from political 'sore-heads' and narrow minded, illiberal individuals who are so credulous that they believe the Church and State in danger every time a German full of 'Lager-bier' and Bologna sausages, kicks up some rusty in honor of the 'Fader land,' or a light-hearted Irishmen, mellow with whiskey brimful of patriotism gets up a 'nate fight' for his own amusement.

There is something obnoxious to the American people, in anything that smacks of proscription that 'Native Americanism can never find a permanent abiding place in their hearts. But this opposition to Foreigners is not wholly without cause. The spasmodic efforts of this society, under different names since 1835, were but the result of arrogance & assumptions on the part of our Foreign citizens. To them alone is chargable the resuscitation of the 'Native American' feeling that is abroad in the land. In the large cities where the Irish and German population is numerous, they are too prone to vote for one of their own countrymen, for no other reason than he is an Irishman or a German. This should not be so. The question should be with them, as with all other good citizens, 'is he honest, is he capable, is he just.' Here are the qualifications that should recommend a man, and it should make no difference what particular country may have been his birth place, if he comes endowed with these ennobling requisites, he should not be proscribed by Foreigners or Natives. A large portion of the Foreign population have got a mistaken notion of their importance. As a component part of the Democratic party have always been successful.—victory has perched upon their banners, and as a reward for their faithfulness, the generous Democracy have legislated for them in the most lenient terms, and awarded them a share in the "spoils." Alone they are powerless. They should remember this, and so demean themselves at the polls and elsewhere, that there shall be no good cause for complaint, always remembering that it is in the power of natives if they so will, to deny them any voice what ever in the government, of their adopted country, though such a proceeding would be grossly unjust. Follow the golden rule of doing unto others as you would that others should do unto you,' and 'Native Americanism,' assume what form it may, never will have power to injure, especially when such a rake and conceited ass as Ned Buntline is its head and front—a man without the pale of respectable society,—a moral outcast, a degraded worthless scamp.

The crops about here, and indeed throughout the State, so I am informed are in fine condition, and promise an abundant harvest, though the weevil in some sections is making sad havoc with wheat fields.—We have had copious rains thus far, and vegetation never looked finer.

We should judge from reading the papers that Heaven has not been sparing of her bounties to editors in your vicinity. We congratulate the knights of the 'scissors and quill,' on their good fortune, and should like to be informed how 'Young America' stands on the Nebraska Bill. †

Military.

At a meeting of Company No. one, 31st Regiment Uniformed Militia of the State of New York, at the Court House, in the town of Elizabethtown, on the 24th day of June, 1854. Capt. M. F. Nicholson presiding, Lieut J. W. Steele, Secretary, the following officers were elected, viz:

2d Lieut. C. M. Clark; 1st Sergeant, W. T. Livingston; 2d do. A. L. Finney; 3d do. Wellington Hinds; 4th do. Harry Jones. 1st Corporal, D. C. Jackson; 2d do. Allen Wilson; 3d do. Stephen Stringham; 4th do. John S. Todd.

The company now numbers thirty muskets. In order to make a full Company, ten more men are wanted from any of the following towns, viz: Lewis, Elizabethtown, Keene, Willmington, St. Armand, and North Elba. The compensation will be $1 25 per day, and exemption from the military tax, two days labor on the highway, and jury duty. The whole equipments will cost only $13,00,—come and try us.

M. F. NICHOLSON, Capt.

[Certainly, young men, go and try them. Only ten are wanted, and in those towns must be ten times that number, good and strong, who in time of need, could do yeoman's service. It is an honorable duty, an important duty, young men—a duty of which you should be proud. The Militia is an institution of American birth,—it constitutes the great distinction between us and monarchical governments, and as we prize our liberties, it should be sustained. Certainly young men, go and try them—dont delay—turn out all of you.]—ED. REP.

Items.

——Hon. E. D. Culver, will be in this vicinity about the first of August, and if the people of Keeseville or vicinity, would like to listen to one of his inimitable speeches, they have only to say so, and write him soon at N. Y.

——It is a matter we care nothing about, but there are some people curious enough to enquire whether it was a part of the contract of transfer of its traps, that the the Gazette was to do "dirty work" for the Standard? Or whether this was its "good will?" As "coincidences" are somewhat suspicious, it might be well to explain.

——The Lady's Book for August, is thus early at hand, as fresh, as varied, as useful, as practical as ever. Our better half is particularly obliged to Godey for this exchange.

PAINFUL RUMOR.—There is a report in town that Jacob Mansfield late of this place now of Windsor was murdered recently in, or near Boston.

THE CLOVEN FOOT.—After using the Gazette for its "dirty work" the Standard seizes the first opportunity to join in against the Republican and Whigs. The Gazette has abounded in blistering abuse of Abolition and temperance, but not a lisp from the Standard, We presume it was "named in the bond" as in the contract for the purchase of the Republican. Mr. Lansing stipulated to run it to the satisfaction of whigs! Such is the boasted "Independent" Press. The religion and abolition of such men being only an "outer garment" we take the liberty to tear it off, and let their honest followers look at them. Mr. Lansing has edited the Gazette "behind the scenes" long enough. It is best that he appear in his true character and then no body will be deceived.

The Saratoga Convention.

From the New York Commercial Advertiser.

THE PROPOSED STATE CONVENTION AT SARATOGA.—It is by no means improbable that many Whigs will feel considerable perplexity with respect to the approaching 'anti-Douglas,' anti-Nebraska, anti-Slavery Convention about to be held at Saratoga, inasmuch as the call has been issued with the signatures of leading Whigs of all shades of sentiment.

As Whigs we will not commit ourselves to be guided or controlled by any resolves or nominations emanating from that Convention. There can be no objection to the Convention itself. The freeman of the North have a right to 'assemble without distinction of party' and declare their disapproval of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise; and it is eminently proper in them to exercise such right.

But there are indications that the discussion of other subjects than the Nebraska bill is contemplated by the Convention; that an attempt will be made to commit the Whig party to the platform which the Convention may lay down; and that nominations will be made which the Whig party will be expected to support. If such projects are in contemplation we have no difficulty in 'defining our position' with respect to them. In regard to any resolutions or platform which the Convention may adopt, we shall treat them with that respect to which any declaration emanating from a large and respectable public meeting is entitled, and no further. They can have no authority with us as Whigs. Not a whit. So with regard to nominations, should they assume to make any.

The Convention at Saratoga Springs will be, politically, a mixed body, composed of Democrats of a certain class, and of Whigs, which is a sufficient reason why we should not take from that assembly our rule of political faith and action; and that these Democrats design to make the meeting subservient to their own views, if possible, is plain from their outgivings.

While we have no right, and no disposition to quarrel with freemen for holding such a Convention, there are the most legitimate and powerful reasons of propriety and policy why Whigs and the Whig press should put the meeting in its true light, and deny, in advance if need be, its authority to speak or act in behalf of the Whig party of the State. It will be simply an unofficial gathering, from the camps of both parties, of the opponents of Slavery, and they will take occasion to do, what the Whig press of the free States has almost universally done, viz: denounce the Nebraska bill as a great and monstrous fraud upon the free States. But with such denunciation will also probably be blended the most extreme Abolition sentiments and resolutions. We do not want to see the Whig party of this great State drawn into the vortex, and are therefore somewhat jealous of this meeting at Saratoga."

There is prudence as well as candor in the suggestion of the Advertiser. It but exercises its usual caution in distrusting the possible action of the gathering at Saratoga, and counsels wisely, if that action should be as narrow as it fears.

But we trust there is no reason for such apprehension. The Convention, as we understand its objects, is intended to represent the opinion of all parties in reference to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. Chosen from all parties, it can speak, upon that subject, to all parties. If it adopts resolutions condemnatory of that measure, they will have a weight in some quarters, and especially abroad, which resolutions of a merely party Convention would not have. If it recommends action in regard to the reestablishment of the Compromise its recommendation will be entitled to proportionate respect. If it advises the nomination and reelection of every member of Congress who in good faith and at all times opposed the passage of the bill, it will do what a merely, Whig, or merely Democratic Convention, would perhaps do less effectively. These we take to be the legitimate objects of the Convention.

But above all, the Convention has an important practical duty before it, which does not come within the scope of strictly party or political action. That is, the promotion of Free Emigration to the new Territories, by such means as shall be found on discussion to be accessible and advisable. This was the New York meeting which appointed the committee that has cooperated with an Albany one in issuing the call.

The Delegates, if we understand the call, are to be chosen with reference to their views on this subject alone. They are not to be chosen with reference to their Party affinities, nor with reference to their opinions on Temperance, Prison management, Canal Enlargement, or any of the questions of State policy, which enter into the election of Judges, Governor, Prison Inspector and Canal Commissioner. Manifestly, then, any action they might take in regard to those subjects would be unauthorized. It would receive and deserve, as much respect, and no more, than is due to the action of any other respectable mass meeting.

The Convention is called upon broad Nationol grounds, in reference to broad National issues. We see no reason, as yet, to believe that it is intended or desired that it shall abandon them for narrower ones. While it cannot relieve the Whig, or any party, of any of their responsibilities in mind, and to stimulate action to meet them.—Albany Journal.

☞ One of the primary objects of the movement which has resulted in the call of the Saratoga Convention, was the adoption of measures to facilitate Free Emigration to Kansas and Nebraska. This will doubtless occupy a conspicuous place to the programme of the Convention. While the attempt to subvert existing State politicial organizations—if made—would probably result in discomfiture, practical work will meet with cordial sympathy and co operation from the friends of Freedom of all parties.—[Albany Journal.

NEW YORK July 2½.

There were four deaths from Cholera at the Franklin Hospital during the last 24 hours. Interments from all diseases, in Calvary Cemetery since Saturday, were 226, Cholera interments 42. The total number of deaths this week are expected to be large. The Swan Tavern on Main street, Astoria, with other buildings, were consumed by fire this morning. A sale of eighteen thousand bonds of the N. Y. and H. R. R. Co., was made at auction to-day, at 65 to 75, a decline of 15 per cent from last sale. A sale of 1000 shares of Harlem preferred stock, was also made at 85, a decline of ten per cent. 1370 shares of N. H. stock were offered but not sold. Hon John McKeon entered upon the duties of his office as U. S District Attorney to-day.

The Franklin presents the appearance of a total wreck, she is now going to pieces, about one half her cargo will be saved in good condition, the other half will be damaged. The Captain has little hopes of saving his ship. 160 persons are employed on the beach, getting out the cargo.

MARKETS.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan. 1853 duly mortgaged to Abraham B Van Benthuysen of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 in Pa... Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Hart Burbank, and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysen to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex, on the 8th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the fourteenth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Pencilling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself: it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited number of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug, 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS Jesse Ryam late of Ticonderoga, in the County of Essex and State of New York by a certain indenture of mortgage executed and bearing date the twenty eighth day of June, A. D. 1845, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default in the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county volume ... of mortgages on pages 5... and 5... on the fourth day of August, A. D. 1845 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the payment of five hundred and fifty dollars with interest annually, did duly grant bargain sell and convey to Carlos Rugger of said town of Ticonderoga in said county certain premises described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: all that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga in the county of Essex and State of New York in a patent of three thousand acres of land granted by letters patent to John Rossel Esquire, and is part of said tract, and is bounded as follows, beginning at a stake standing at the south east corner of the pound and north west corner of Timothy Hunter's garden, thence north eight degrees west thirteen chains and seventy links to a stake and stones, thence south eighty eight degrees and thirty minutes west seven chains to a stake and stones, thence north seven degrees east, nine chains and sixty links to a stake and stones, thence north eighty three degrees west four chains and sixty six links to a stake, thence north one degree east eight chains and fifteen links to a stake in the south line of Nathaniel Miller's land thence south eighty nine degrees and ten minutes east, thirty eight chains to the waters of the Lake thence southerly along the said waters up the same as they run to the south west corner of what is called Millers Bay at a stake in what has formerly been called the south east corner of Sutherlands Patent, thence south seventy six degrees and twenty minutes west forty two chains to the place of beginning containing one hundred and twenty acres of land be the same more or less, excepting and reserving all iron ores and ore beds, with the privilege of free access to and from the same, with teams or otherwise, and of digging and carrying the same away. On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of six hundred and forty five dollars and ninety three cents and whereas default has been made in the payment of the same according to the tenor of said mortgage and no proceeding in law or equity having been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises herein before described or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage together with the costs and expenses of foreclosure—will be sold at public vendue at the Hotel kept by James Teff in the town of Ticonderoga afore said, on the 19th day of Sept. 1854, at 12 o'clock in the forenoon.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To effect these objects, the Company have provided the extensive ... rooms at No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer on sale will be examined in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent in their respective professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company ... and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or of his assignee or attorney ... in order to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effect ... the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their ... attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, saw mills, &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders ... every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs an Roots, which have been found after years of experience by the most skilful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in their cases for which it is recommended, and hence while it is presented to the public, as an effectual remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases of Impotency Hysterics, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among women would exist, were they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN,

This solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excesses have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the unusual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL,"

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery,) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞ Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling so atomly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialised out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If the emaciate him off before the practice has done its worst, and ence matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your manhood and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has failed from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. We know and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, properly packed according to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Laws of New York—By Authority.

CHAPTER 328.

An Act making appropriations to provide for deficiencies existing in appropriations for the present fiscal year, to meet claims and demands against the treasury on account of the canals. Passed April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1, The unexpended balance of the fifty thousand dollars, appropriated by chapter three hundred and seventy-four of the Laws of eighteen hundred and forty-nine, for extraordinary repairs and improvements of the canals, being the sum of six thousand four hundred and thirty-five dollars and eighty-two cents, is hereby re-appropriated to the same object. And so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to the payment to Edward Murray of the sum of four thousand and thirty-seven dollars and fifteen cents, the amount awarded to him by the canal board, under chapter two hundred and ninety five of the Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty three, for labor and services performed, money expended, and materials furnished in and about the construction of a weigh-lock at West Troy, and work connected therewith.

§ 2. The sum of four thousand nine hundred and twenty six dollars and sixty-seven cents is hereby appropriated, out of the revenues of the canals applicable to ordinary repairs, to pay Edward Murray the amount awarded him by the canal board, under chapter two hundred and forty-two of the Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-three, for moneys expended, labor performed and materials furnished for constructing the combined locks at Whitehall.

§ 3. The following sums are hereby appropriated to the objects hereinafter expressed, and to be paid out of the moneys which may arise from the sale, by the commissioners of the canal fund, of the bank fund stock held by them for the canal fund:

For the payment of claims upon the treasury for work done and materials delivered to the state, under the direction of the canal commissioners and engineers, in part execution of certain alleged contracts entered into by state officers on the part of the state, in December, eighteen hundred and fifty one, in pursuance of an act passed July tenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, chapter four hundred and eighty-five (but no part of said money shall be paid or applied for any work done or materials delivered under color of any such contract, after the contractor or claimant had notice to quit work from any engineer or canal commissioner, or was otherwise informed that said act had been decided by the court of appeals to be unconstitutional), the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

For the payment of certain drafts drawn on the auditor of the canal department, in favor of Ball and Barto, for work done under a contract for the construction of the Erie basin and the slips connected therewith at Buffalo, the sum of nine thousand nine hundered and twenty-one dollars.

For the payment of damages awarded, or which may hereafter be awarded, for land or water appropriated under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifty-three of the Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty, entitled 'An act to improve the navigation of Seneca river at Baldwinsville in the county of Onondaga,' the sum of fifteen thousand dollars. But no part of such sum, under the award of the canal board made on the 18th day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty three, shall be paid to Harvey Baldwin, and the heirs of Stephen W. Baldwin, until full and sufficient releases and discharges from the other parties entitled to damages shall be filed in the canal department: such award being made, subject to the payment of such damages as may be finally awarded to other persons.

For the payment of damages awarded by the canal appraisers, or which may be awarded by the canal board upon appeal, under various chapters of the Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty three, for damages sustained by reason of the overflow of the waters ice in the Canajoeharie creek on the ninth and tenth of March, eighteen hundred and fifty two, the sum of seven thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents. To Alexis Ward, an award made by the canal appraisers, under section two hundred and fifty-three, Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty-three, the sum of one thousand and niney-six dollars and fifty cents; and to Alexis Ward and Thomas Wilson a like award, to the amount of nine hundred and forty-eight dollars and seventy six cents.

For the payment of extra allowances and arwards to contractors, and canal damages not otherwise specifically provided for, the sum of seventy-nine thousand six-hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty two cents.

§ 4. One hundred and fifty thousand of the premiums which may be received into the treasury upon the loan required to be made by the constitution, to refund to the holders of canal revenue certificates the amount received into the treasury thereon, or so much of such premium as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated towards the payment of claims upon the treasury for extraordinary repairs, work done upon contracts, extra allowances and awards to contractors, and canal damages not otherwise provided for, and which have accrued since the first day of June, eighteen hundred and forty-six, and prior to the adoption of the amendment to the constitution for the completion of the canals.

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 75.

An Act in relation to pleadings in courts of record. Passed March 23, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

Section 1. The verification of any pleading in any court of record in this state, may be omitted in all cases where the party called upon to verify would be privileged from testifying as a witness to the truth of any matter denied by such pleading.

§ 2. This act to take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 330.

An Act making appropriations for the canal debt, and the maintainance, enlargement and construction of the canals for the fiscal year commencing October 1st, 1854. Passed April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact asfollows:—

Section 1. The following sums are hereby appropriated out of the canal fund for the fiscal year commencing October first, eighteen hundred and fifty-four;

For the payment of interest, and to pay the principal of the canal debt as it existed on the first day of June, eighteen hundred and forty-six, out of the revenues of the state canals, the sum of one million three hundred thousand dollars.

And also, for the same purpose, the unappropriated ballance in the treasury belonging to the sinking fund at the commencement of the present fiscal year, being the sum of five hundred and seventy thousand six hundred and eighty-five dollars and seventy-nine cents.

For the payment of interest on loans to be made under the constitution, for the enlargement and completion of the canals, the sum of two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

For the expenses of the collection of tolls, superintendence and ordinary repairs of the public works, salaries of the canal commissioners, state engineer and surveyor, the auditor of the canal department, clerk hire, and incidental expenses of the canal department, and canal appraisers, the sum of one million and eighty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

To pay the general fund, to defray the necessary expenses of the state, the sum of two hundred thousand dollars.

To the enlagement of the Erie, the Oswego, the Cayuga, and Seneca canals, and to the Completion of the Black River and Genesee Valley canals, and for the enlargement of such of the locks of the Champlain canal to the size of the present locks of the enlarged Erie canal, as the canal board shall determine to be necessary to rebuild, from dilapiation or decay, the sum of two million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, Such appropriation to be applied as follows: One million eight hundred and thirty-one thousand dollars thereof to the Erie canal enlargment, and such works connected therewith as shall be directed by the canal board; one hundred and seventy-nine thousand dollars thereof for the enlargement of the Oswego canal; one hundred thousand dollars thereof for the enlargement of the Cayuga and Seneca canal; forty-nine thousand dollars thereof for the completion of the Black River canal; sixty-six thousand dollars thereof for the completion of the Genesee Valley canal, and twenty-five thousand dollars thereof for the expense of enlarging the locks of the Champlain canal, hereinbefore mentioned, beyond the cost of reconstructing them of their present dimensions.

But the canal board may, if in their judgment the public interest will be promoted thereby, order all the unfinished work on the Genesee Valley canal, from Oramel to and including the basin in the village of Olean, to be put under contract during the present season; and may also, in addition to the sum above mentioned, expend upon the said work the further sum of thirty-four thousand dollars, to be taken from the amount above appropriated to the Erie canal enlargement, and in that case such additional sum shall, in the appropriation for the fiscal year commencing the first day of October, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, be refunded to said Erie canal enlargement from the amount in that year due the Genesee Valley canal.

State of New York, Secretary's Office. } I have compared the preceding with the original laws on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom of the whole of the said original.

ELIAS LEAVENWORTH,
Secretary of State.

Reminisence of Washington.

Mr. Willis of the Home Journal, who has a nest at the foot of the Mountain near Newburgh, recently visited Usual Knapp, a surviving soldier of the Revolution who belonged to Washington's Life Guard.—He is 95 years old, and rosides at Little Britain, Orange Co. The interview was highly interesting:—

But the old Sergant's description of the parade of the Life Guard every morning before the mansion of Head Quarters, and the look of the General as he slowly walked up and down the portico, "straight as a dart and noble as he could be," was the most glowing of all. They 'had the three best drummers in the army,' he said, 'and they made such music that it took you right off your feet.' It entirely straightened the old man's spine to talk of it. He sat bolt upright, and the sqeeze of his bony fingers upon my leg could not have been much looser than the one with which he 'charged bayonet' at the battle of Monmouth. He said he remembered a verbal order Washington gave him, at that time—not to present arms or to take notice of him, when he was alone. 'He was a man of few words' he said, 'and never familiar with anybody.' He repeated a story he had once before told to Headley, the historian, of his having seen Washington dodge a spent ball that passed close to his head on the battle field and his smiling immediately as if at his unsoldierlike weakness in doing so, and turning to his officers with the remark, 'Ah the frailty of poor human nature!'

Of the General's dress he gave us a minute description. Mrs. Washington, he said, was with him at Newburg, but 'she was older than the General and not a handsome woman.' Of General Knox, who was stationed at West Point, and of the wonderful beauty of Mrs. Knox, his mention was very enthusiastic. Knox was a 'large, splendid man.' The sergeant was often employed to go with a boat to the Point and bring General and Mrs. Knox to dine with General Washington. He was once ordered by the imperious officer to land at a certain place where he knew it was too shallow. He remonstrated, but Knox insisted. So they obeyed and ran into the mud, and were obliged to sit in the boat till the tide rose to take them off; and the delay was very provoking at the time.

The old soldier gave us a thrilling description of the privations of the army in its forced march to the south. It was the wettest season ever known, and he had not a dry thread on him for weeks, but he never took cold. The rations were next to starvation—often a dried herring a day and no bread. At the battle of Monmouth every man in his company was shot, he himself receiving no wound, then or in the other actions he was in, during the war, except a slight graze of a ball on the back of his left hand. The old man's feelings got the better of him once or twice, in narrating the stirring scenes in which he had borne a part, and he "choked off"—but it evidently gave him great pleasure to recall them. He said he had no memory for things now, but he could remember everything that happened then, as if it were but yesterday. He enlisted at the age of 16, and was in the army six years. Since the disbanding at the Peace, he has been a farmer, taking no part in the war of 1812, His wife died 8 years ago, at the age of 79, and his two only children, daughters, (one of whom assists in the support of her father by dress-making,) live with him. His pension of $10 a month is much too little—for his merits, I should think, as well as his wants.

To see those two men, to whose eyes Washington's living features and form had been familiar—sitting together and talking of him with their eyes bent upon each other's faces, yet each seeing the memory-picture of the great man, as he talked or listened—gave a strange impetus to the imagination, a new one to me, for the conceiving of what Washington was, as he breathed and acted. It was the Present turned back to the Past, in the magician's mirror. As we drove home, I felt as if we were turning from a place where we had seen times gone by—though my horses, by the unusual length of the drive and the delay in their dinners, doubtless thought it more like a stretch into the Future.

☞ HOME.—

There is a spot of earth supremely blest,
A dearer, sweeter, than all the rest;
Where man, creation's tyrant, casts aside
His sword and sceptre, pageantry and pride,
While in his softened look benignly blend
The sire, the son, the husband, father friend,
Here woman reigns, the mother, daughter, wife,
Strew with fresh flowers the narrow way of life;
In the clear heaven of her delightful eye,
An angel guard of loves and graces lie;
Around her knees domestic duties meet,
And fireside pleasures gambol at her feet.
Where shall that land, that spot of earth be found?
Art thou a man? a patriot? look around:
Oh thou shalt find, howe'er thy footsteps roam,
That land thy country, and that spot thy home.

QUOTATIONS FOR THE SEASON

CURING CLOVER HAY.

The New England Farmer gives the following brief and simple directions, on the management of clover hay, which accord with what has been occasionally before published on the subject. A little experience may be necessary in conducting this management in the best manner; hence if not fully successful at the first trial, this mode should not be hastily given up.

In curing clover hay, the principal value of which consists in the heads and foliage, we have observed, that when cut early and cured in "grass cock" as it is called, the hay possessed as much more brilliant and beautiful appearance than the same quality of grass, cut at the same time, and cured in the open air, or under a free exposure often for a protracted period to the sun. By cutting this grass when the crop is in full blossom, allowing it to remain in the swath the first day after mowing, till nearly night, and then turning it carefully with a fork so as to expose a fresh and unwilted surface to the night dews, and cocking it in the afternoon of the second day, in small compact cocks, of about eighty pounds unmade hay, to the cock, it will make evenly and thoroughly, and may be pitched and even trodden down in mow without being deprived of its heads or finer leaves. The color will be a most beautiful green, and the flowers will be almost as fresh in color as when cut. After cocking, let the weather be fair or foul, no opening or turning, (unless in case of a protracted storm) of the "grass cocks" should be allowed. It is unnecessary, as the hay will "cure" completely through, and the outside, when saturated with water, will soon dry off, and effect no harm whatever to the hay. You will never see mouldy hay, if this method is adopted, in "making" or curing it. In forming grass cocks, the fork is preferable to the rake, which is of service only in gathering up the scatterings, and regulating the size and shape of the cocks.

VENTILATING HAYSTACKS.

The Rural New Yorker gives the following as a common mode of effecting the ventilation of haystacks in England and to prevent their heating by fermentation: A large sized English grain-sack, such as will hold some 5 bushels of grain, being 2 feet in diameter and 4 1-2 long, is filled with chaff or cut straw, and placed upright in the centre of the stack, which is built round it. As the stack rises, the sack is drawn upwards, thus leaving a hole or chimney in the middle, for the passage of the heated air. An empty salt-barrel, with an iron rod across the top for a handle, would be likely to suit a Yankee better, and would draw upwards easily if the hay was not built much above the middle or swolen part. This would doubtless be a good contrivance for corn-fodder stacks, which soon often suffer for a want of ventilation.

CULTURE OF BUCKWHEAT.

It is best to be sown by the 10th July—three pecks to the acre, on land well mellowed up—sandy soil suits best. It is a bad crop to continue to sow on the same land, without applying any manure. A dressing of plaster and ashes suits best.—It is a good crop to ameliorate newly drained land. Such ground can be got in better order for this crop than any other, and the yield is great. Sow grass seed with the buckwheat if wanted for pasture; or, as good a way is to sow oats in the spring, and seed down. Never leave the ground bare, as it impoverishes the soil.—Never plant corn after buckwheat, if you expect a crop, and I prefer not to plant it at all; on good land, rye or wheat will do well, as it leaves the land very light and mellow, and clean, with the exception of lots of buckwheat that will come up. By sowing three crops in succession of buckwheat, you will run out every particle of vegetation, and leave the land sour. Would it not be a good crop for Canada thistle ground? G. W. P.

TIME FOR CUTTING BUCKWHEAT.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Will you do me the favor to inform me at what season of its growth, it is best to cut buckwheat. It continues growing and blossoming with us, long after the first grains are ripe, even after the lower part is brown and the leaves dead, (of course I mean the lower leaves,) I am therefore puzzled to know when it should be cut, as it is seldom sown here, though it both grows well and produces well. Do the lower or first ripened grains drop off or do they adhere until cut? I will be glad of any information relative to the harvesting and preparing the grain for use. J. D. L. Aiken, S. C., June, 1854.

It is hard to give a precise rule for the best time to cut buckwheat. The grain continues to ripen successively, and while most of the stalks remain green or succulent, these grains will not drop off. It is therefore best to let the crop remain so long as the amount continues to increase by successively ripening portions. But as soon as the plant loses its fresh appearance, and the first ripened portions are found to separate easily, no time should be lost in cutting. The rule with some farmers in the north, is to allow the crop to stand till the first night frost, and then to cut as quickly as possible, before the shelling process commences. But when frosts do not come early, it is cut before. As soon as the stalks are dead or dry, buckwheat threshes with great ease, but not before; hence the reason that when but partly dried, it is often found so difficult to thresh. At the north, it is usually sown during the early part of summer, sometimes nearly as late as midsummer; if sown too early, the grain does not set so well

The Saratoga Convention.

We do not propose to be included in any political organization, whose character and principles confine it to one quarter of our common country. Such a party cannot be, and ought not to be successful. Its victory, were such a thing possible, would loosen the bonds of the Union, alienate our people, and pave the way to the destruction of the Republic. We should too soon find the forebodings of Washington realized in the facts of our history, and become a by word and reproach among the nations.

We copy, and fully endorse the following flom the State Register:—

"The Whig party is stronger to-day than it has been for years. The dissensions heretofore existing have passed, or are passing away, its ranks are fast closing up. and if it rejects this cunning device to tempt to its destruction it will present a firm and compact front, as of old with renewed strength and augmented numbers. It can carry the election of a Governor and Lieutenant Governor. It can elect a large majority of the Members of Congress. It can elect two State Officers and a large majority of the Assembly. It can do all this under its present organization, and what more can be accomplished by abandoning its organization, and coalescing with the fragments of a scattered Democracy, form a new army of Abolition propagandists. It will be remembered that opposition to the extension of human slavery, opposition to the repeal of the Missouri compromise, opposition to the principles of the Nebraska bill are already primary principles in the Whig creed, but a love for, and observance of all the requirements of the Constitution, and a living faith in its supremacy, are also primary articles in the Whig creed; while a love and veneration for the Union, its harmony, its glorious progress, and perpetuity, thrill in every pulsation in every Whig heart."

The day may come when the people of the free North will be compelled for self-protection to unite in a great political organization against the people of the South, but certainly that day is not yet. There is no overwhelming necessity such as should exist to justify an organization so full of evil, so pregnant with discord and angry contention, so imminently dangerous to the integrity and perpetuity of the Union. If the object of this convention at Saratoga therefore is simply to embody and express the popular sentiment of the State against the Nebraska measures, it is well enough. But if, as we now believe it to be, its object is the abandonment of existing political organizations, and the formation of a new party, a great Northern party, it is all wrong, and we are against it. We regard such a course as the purest madness and folly on the part of the Whigs. As a great wickedness and wrong on the part of all engaged in it. On the part of the Whigs it would be a senseless surrender of position and permanent power for the mere shadow of an obstraction; a substantial inheritance for a mess of pottage. On the part of all it would be sowing the seeds of a useless agitation, the growth of which would be only angry contention and the probable harvest the dissolution of the Union. the wreck of the noblest confederacy that the sun ever shone upon."

The European War.

The N. Y. Courier & Enquirer says;

Our readers may rest assured of certain leading facts; viz: From the rejection of the Protocol of 13th January, the Western Powers have been in earnest and Austria has been thoroughly with them and never doubted by those in authority; during the whole period of her negotiations with Prussia. Once forced into this war, the three great Powers determined to drive the Muscovite back into Besserabia, and by effectually excluding him from the Danubian Provinces, give protection alike to Austria and the Porte. This has been accomplished by the great moral power which the presence of the allied armies gave to the gallant Turk; and already Russia is very effectually humbled, and at the same time disgraced in the eyes of the world, by being whipped single-handed, by the "sick man" whose decease the Despot of the North was so recently anxious to hasten.

Neither England nor France, dare halt in bringing the work in hand to a close; and Austria has more at stake in the final result than any other power. How long the war will last, no man may venture to predict; but the people of Russia once being taught that their Tyrant is not invincible, will compel him to make peace or dispose of him after the manner practised towards PAUL and ALEXANDER.

☞ The Whigs of Massachusetts are to hold a State Convention at Faneuil Hall on the 16th of August next. The call sets forth the object of the meeting to be 'to nominate State officers, and to express the sentiments of the Whigs of Massachusetts upon questions of State policy, and upon the new and momentous issues arising out of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, which opens to slavery a vast territory, dedicated by solemn compact to freedom.' The Freemen of Massachusetts will give a prompt and enthusiastic response to a Call like this.

SABBATH SCHOOL EXCURSION.

MR. EDITOR,—The following sketch of a holiday excursion, possesses at least a local interest; and it began so well, ended so well, and was so satisfactory to all, (except to those that didn't go,) that it seems worthy of record and a place in your paper.

The Fourth of July was suffered to pass by the inhabitants of Westport, with its gun-powder confusion, and intolerable heat—sham patriots, made zealous and fierce by by that worst of tyrants King Alcohol, mostly in silence, while a distant day altogether, outside of the last explosion of cannon, anvil, or fire cracker was chosen, to assemble the different Sabbath Schools, and all others wishing to go on the old Fort ground at Crownpoint.—The chief object being to enlist a larger number in this Heaven-born enterprise of studying the scriptures; to listen also to wholesome sentiment, and "words that burn," uttered by those having the right kind of fire; exchange friendly greetings among members of different denominations, and make a generous draft on the store-house of good cheer and innocent recreation. The morning of the 15th of July found the Methodist Church filled to overflowing with Sunday School children, Teachers and children. The cool and pleasant morning air foretold a beautiful day, which was fully realized. The happy faces, the bright and sparkling eyes of the horde of children gathered in the church, and at the corners of the street, waiting for the boat showed them to have been up early and full of anticipated pleasure.

A band of music not strictly the "brass band" but partaking somewhat of the martial (not forgetting "that fife"), engaged for the occasion, drew out the procession which in numbers and character was worthy the cause they had in view, and presented an imposing appearance. Arriving at the dock, we found a Steamboat of ample dimensions, neat and clean, with the right kind of "tow," tastefully fitted up with arbor, evergreens, seats, &c., carrying also divers baskets, pails, papers, the contents of which were duly unfolded on the spot where Frenchmen first dined, in somewhat of a similar manner one hundred years ago, while the forests resounded with the sound of the axe and the hammar in the erection of fortifications that have withstood wonderfully the action of time.

Well Mr Editor, not to be too prolix in my story, let me briefly say, that a short ride, made doubly pleasant by some charming vocal music, including some of the old "age tunes" which our fathers and mothers sung to us while in our cradles, not forgetting old Lenox. Complaint and kindred other musical noisy things, landed us safely on that interesting "Point" familiar to you but quite new to many. Not wishing to avoid the old primitive way of dining we "sat down on the grass." Rev. C. Spooner asked a blessing,—"the multitude ate and were filled" "and they took up of the fragments that were left—baskets full." This done, the company were properly arranged. Rev. T. Brandt prayed, when the Rev. D. Loveland of Crownpoint circuit proceeded to address the children. His remarks were practical and interesting. Rev. J. F. Yates was next introduced and delivered a masterly oration, applicable to the fourth of July, but like Brandreth's pills, "good at all times."

The eulogy upon Washington was truthful, and seldom surpassed in beauty of thought, expression or delivery.

A brief history of Crown Point was expected from Mr. Brandt but time would not permit,—so that the questions of a little boy who sat near me were not fully answered. With his eye fixed on the walls of the old fort. Oh! says he, what are they btilding here? A boy sitting near, better informed replied "nothing" "that was built one hundred years ago." What for? "To fight in" says the little fellow with the real fire of '76 in his eye. Will they fight any more? A hard question to answer my boy—it belongs to the unwritten history" of our country—may future generations answer it with an emphatic no.

In a short time "all aboard" was sounded and we moved on quietly to our welcome "Port" and [illegible] to our several homes in safety. A few points are worthy of remark. One pleasure excursion on Lake Champlain by Steamer unannoyed by RUM deserves to be long remembered. Capt. Stafford is not in the least wanting in those unaffected attentions, that made such a ride agreeable and pleasant. I suppose my friend meant no disparagement to others, when he said "a Capt. with a soul." Such a company, out all day—no fumes of Tobacco to annoy us, deserves to be remembered and approved—not a solitary cigar, with its accompanying pollution intruded itself into the happy circle. The noisy and unruly too, either staid at home or felt bound for once, to observe the rules of decency and propriety. I am compelled to acknowledge that Sabbath School children are not apt to be found among this class, perhaps this explains it.

I am surprised that Ti. should receive so much attention and Crownpoint so little—the ruins are extensive, and well worth the trouble of a visit from all those who can spare the time. The history of the place is full of intrest, and should be made familiar to all. One suggestion: The many Sabbath Schools in the various towns on this border of the Lake and other organizations and communities will find a day of recreation often very advantageous to their happiness, growth and prosperity, 'all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.". The place I named has the best advantages of any in my acquaintance.

Stand by the Colors.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig party to stand by its colors."

Our paper.

As our readers will perceive, we have begun some improvements upon the Republican. They will be completed in two or three weeks. We shall have a supply of material from N. Y. this week, partly for the paper, but mostly for job work.—After that, improvements will depend upon our patrons. We hope those in arrears will take pleasure in paying up, and that all will take equal pleasure in giving us further business. We trust our friends will accept this as an earnest of what we intend to do and take hold accordingly.

Vermont.

At the Union Convention of the opponents of the Nebraska fraud, held at Montpelier the following nominations were made, which were subsequently ratified by the Temperance and Free Democratic Convention:

For Governor—E. P. WALTON.
For Lieut-Gov.—RYLAND FLETCHER
For Treasurer—MR. BATES.

There are facts connected with the above which are full of significance. Mr. Walton is one of the oldest and most reliable whigs in the State. Mr. Fletcher is whig and abolition. Mr. Bates is the whig nominee on the regular ticket. The regular whig ticket was in the field and on Nebraska and temperance had taken ground as strong as the strongest in the Convention which put forth the above ticket.—

The Democratic Convention had endorsed Nebraska and was essentially anti-temperance. Why then did not the friends of freedom and of temperance rally around the whig party in support of its nominees? Simply because it required some sacrifice of personal ambition—it would not give agitators a chance to make a noise,—it would require them to exercise some degree of patriotism to surrender the privilege of leading—or to use a homely yankee phraze, they could not be "chief cook and bottle washers." This ticket was concocted by democrats, abolitionists, and temperance men of that restless, uneasy, agitating class who are "never content to let well enough alone." A few whigs were there, just enough to observe the proceedings. It is a design simply to break up the whig party; and if the Nebraska ticket should be elected in consequence, it would please them just as well, and some of them no doubt desire such a result. One of the chief actors was "Tom Powers" of Woodstock, a man of no principle except temperance, a headstrong, self-willed, ambitious, impracticible demagogue, who will rule or ruin and in Heaven would have done just as Satan did. We have recently been in Vermont and have these facts from those who know. We also learn that Mr. Walton, like a true man, and a true whig, as he is, will decline the proffered honor in due time. We now ask our readers to read the following:

"VERMONT.—The Watchman and Journal, the leading Whig paper in Vermont, edited by E. P. WALTON, Jr., son of the candidate for Governor nominated by the "Union Convention" at Montpelier, says that the resolutions adopted there are in all essential respects identical with the Whig resolutions adopted at Rutland, and declares its adhesion to the regular Whig ticket. The Watchman adds the following just and judicious comments on the general movement:

True to Freedom, as [illegible] of the people of the free States [illegible] the propagandism of Slavery well understood that there is no way of carrying their point, but by dividing the North. Those men who have fomented divisions; those men who have repelled, and are now repelling, the noble stand taken by the Whigs at Rutland; those men who in the Mass Convention labored incessantly, and to some extent successfully, to prevent the Mass Convention from uniting upon the men as well as upon the principles proposed by the Rutland Convention, and who are now attempting to repudiate the Mass Convention itself, in which they acted and by which they ought in honor to be bound: we say distinctly, that all such men, whether they know it or not, are doing precisely the work desired by the enemies of freedom. The case is clear; if the disorganizers succeed in fomenting divisions in the North, the North will inevitably be defeated. We say then to all the true friends of freedom—let the disorganizers alone. And to those who have agreed in every essential principle, in both the Rutland and Mass Convention, we say—Agree on your candidates. In such an union there will be confidence—positive strength—and an overwhelming victory. It is absurd to split tickets, in the face and to the defeat of principles. In this instance there is no difference of principles to warrant different tickets; there is no ground for disagreement among those who wish to agree."

LATER FROM VERMONT.—All hail! Faction defeated—Gen. Walton declines the 'honor' conferred upon him by the 'Union' convention. We have just received the Burlington Free Press containing his manly declination and will give it to our readers next week.

More Facts for Reflection.

A "Union" Convention has recently been held in Massachusetts. It was run by leading free soil democrats who have made it their special business to oppose the whig party all their life time and never more relentlessly than since they added anti-Slavery to their professed virtues. We ask attention to the following from the Boston Atlas, a paper ever consistently and devotedly opposed to Slavery extension:

THE WORCESTER CONVENTION.—This Convention has turned out very much as we expected, a mere Free Soil movement. It is true that there were a few Whigs present, brought there by the strong feeling on the recent Nebraska outrage, with the expectation that this Convention would be above all party. But these gentlemen will now see that the getters up of this Convention, and the wire pullers at the Convention, were the very men who have been struggling for years, under the various names of Free Soilers, Free Democrats, or Coalitionists, to secure to themselves places of honor and profit. Here were Wilson, and Walker, and Keyes, and Welch, and others well known as the leaders of the Free Soil party. Their attacks upon the Whig party plainly show that their desire of union, of which they have said so much, was mere pretence—their object being to strengthen their own party, rather than unite all men opposed to slavery extension.

These leaders have seen that the whole Whig press at the North was united in opposition to the Nebraska perfidy; that every Northern Whig in the House of Representatives stood up manfully for the right, and that the Whig party were determined to bring all their strength to bear upon the restoration of the Missouri Compromise. Instead therefore of uniting with the Whigs, the only party in the country which could present anything like a serious obstacle against slavery extension, they appear to be fearful lest their own small party should be swallowed up; and hence they call their meeting at Worcester, and attempt to arrogate to themselves all the honor of being opposed to the encroachments of the slave power.—The resolutions which they adopted plainly show that they intended to multiply the issues, so as to prevent all those who are opposed to the Nebraska outrage, from coming in. The time selected for their State Convention has a significancy not to be overlooked. When the resolutions were first written, they selected the 24th of August. But that day was stricken out, and the resolution reported with the day a blank. Mr. Amasa Walker proposed the 17th; but as this would be after the Whig Convention, Mr. Henry Wilson desired them to pause; and after a few words with Walker and others, the 10th was adopted. Wilson knew full well that if they met after the Whigs had held their meeting, they should only be able to repeat in substance what the Whigs had said before them; and hence he was desirous of speaking first.—No one who reflects one moment upon the subject, can doubt the motive which actuated the leaders of this Convention.

The Albany Argus is not over complimentary at Gov. Seymour's appointment of Lorenzo B. Shepard as District attorney of New York, in place of the late N. Bowditch Blunt. It says:—

Of course too, the Atlas lauds Gov. Seymour's superior appreciation of Mr. Shepard's party services, talents, &c—reminding us that he was the 'youngest'—and it might have added the 'greenest'—member of the constitutional convention of '46.

We hope Mr. Shepard will accept this proffer—and thus rid the electors of New York city of his eternal importunities for office at their hands. His empty dish has been held up, at almost every election since we can remember.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.—The Troy Whig well asks:

"We should like to be informed what better Missouri Compromise party is needed than the Whigh party? If the free soilers and democrats are really sincere in their professed opposition to Nebraska, and are not after office and notoriety, why do they not join the Whigs?"

And we may further ask,—if they are sincere in their opposition to slavery, why are they everywhere plotting to break up the Whig party? Their efforts at disorganization are all aimed at Whigs and the democracy left unnoticed. Why is this? The Whig continues;

"Throughout the entire North the Whig party—without the exception of a single journal or public man—opposed the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. Every Northern Whig member of Congress, and many Southern ones, voted against the measure. If the party ever were agreed upon a question it was opposing by all fair means to the Nebraska bill. In their efforts they were unsuccessful. The bill, adopted as an Administration measure, passed and became the law of the land. Believing, as we all must, that that measure is yet to receive the scathing condemnation of the people of the North, and that its authors and abettors are to be rebuked, what ere we asked to do? Not to let the Whig party maintain its integrity, and to make its anti-Nebraska sentiments and efforts the seed of overwhelming Whig victories throughout the North, over the Administration, which has adopted the measure: not this, but to abandon the party, and make terms with its ancient enemies!"

The Saratoga Convention.

From numerous Exchanges all breathing the same spirit, we select the following very excellent remarks from the Ogdensburgh Sentinel, ably conducted paper, and tho' it has never passed through all the isms of the last quarter of a Century, has nevertheless been a faithful Whig Sentinel and as faithfully opposed to Slavery:

We have no taste for coalitions composed of discordant elements, and with but a single bond of union, to hold them together, and that bond one, which makes he party in many respects, a sectional one—We desire no better party in which to defend the principles of freedom, than the Whig party. It is the party of true progress, of peace, and of the Union. It ever has stood, and it ever will stand by the Union, and will defend it, while the Union stands. The proposed convention however, as we understand from the call, is to give expression to the views of men of all parties, who, however much they may disagree upon questions of state and national policy, agree in the broad principle that, the constitution should be protected, and that honor and good faith and mutual confidence should be preserved as the strongest bond of the Union. If the action of the Convention shall be properly conducted to its legitimate end, it will have a happy effect upon all parties, by demonstrating to all that the question of liberty is above party—and upon the South by demonstrating to it that while the North is determined to respect the rights of all parties to the confederacy, it will submit to no haughty dictation, and much less to being made instruments for the spread of an evil they abhor.

"Othello's Occupation's gone."

Those who have calculated on a jolly time this fall seeing the whig party torn to pieces may as well

"Hang their Harps upon the willow."

After being pressed for several days on this point, the N. Y. Tribune now says of the designs of the Saratoga Convention:

"We believe the lead given by Michigan in nominating an Independent State Ticket, composed of Whigs, Free Soilers and Democrats united in hostility to Slavery Extension, under the common appellation of REPUBLICAN, might have wisely and beneficently been followed in all the States. But we have seen no indications that the great body of the Anti Nebraska voters of our State are prepared for this step, and we are very sure that it has not been contemplated by a majority of the signers to the State Call for the Saratoga Convention. We infer, moreover, from the tone of a majority of the journals which have republished and endorsed the State Call that they do not anticipate the formation of a State Ticket or the adoption of a common name at Saratoga."

From the position of the Tribune, we regard it as settled, that there will be no new party formed, nor state ticket nominated at Saratoga. So we say to the agitators: Requiescat in pace.

They are brought down to the raking up of the coals, this forenoon; at half past 11 o'clock. The acts and resolves are appended, so that the people are put in possession of the result of the labors of their Representatives and Senators.

We utter the common opinion at Concord, that in no year of the last quarter of a century have the democrats left town so fully disheartened as at the close of this session. They all evidently feel, and many of them acknowledge, that the Pierce Administration, in forcing the Nebraska swindle through Congress, have imposed a burden upon the party here, under which their destruction is sure. It is a load under which they manfully struggled through their session; but no party could have succeeded with such a burden upon its back.

☞ The Anti-Nebraska convention in Massachusetts seems to have been controlled by very impracticable men. Not content with embodying the almost unanimous sentiment of the People of that State in a series of Resolutions, they have called a State convention for the 10th of August, (a week in advance of the Whig Convention) for the avowed purpose of nominating a State Ticket. This is, as we think every reasonable man must concede, impolite and unwise. The Whigs of Massachusetts are not only in the ascendant in that State, but the action of its Representatives in both Houses of Congress has been in conspicuous and fearless harmony with the free sentiment of the State. Where such is the fact, and where the tone of the dominant party is in exact accordance with the wishes and feelings of the great mass of the People, the attempt to forestall its action is simply mischievious.

If those who assume to be, par excellence, hostile to the extension of slavery, desire to secure practical results, they should, in a State like Massachusetts await the action of existing organizations. If such organizations fall short of their duty in the present crisis, time enough will remain to enter into new combinations to secure the end desired. A different line of policy can only result in embarrassment, if not defeat; for even in Massachusetts there are Doughfaces enough to render the triumph of Slavery possible, if the friends of Freedom are divided.—Albany Journal.

ESSEX CO. AG. SO.—We shall publish the awards of this society for the coming fair, next week, together with something further from Mr. Watson's Survey.

——S. H. Hammond of the Register with a party of friends passed through this place to the Saranac Lakes on Wednesday.

☞ Three tickets have been nominated in Missouri,—the Whig, Benton, and Democratic. The prospect of the success of the Whigs is good.

☞ A brother of "Grace Greenwood," Mr. Clark, is the Whig candidate for Congress in the Keokuk district, Iowa.

——Hon. John R. Thurman, formerly, Judge of Warren County, ex. Member of Congress died at his residence in Chester, Warren County on Tuesday last.

The N. Y. Organ, an excellently conducted family and temperance organ enters upon a new volume greatly improved, both in appearance and contents. It is only $1. a year and is entitled to the aid of friends of virtue.

——Hon. G. A. Simmons will accept our most cordial thanks for several valuable public documents and particularly for Herndon's Valley of the Amazon, with Maps and Illustrations.

We have made some interesting selections from European papers furnished us by Mr. Jas. Wilson, but we are compelled to let them go over to next week, when we now design to crowd politics into a small corner and kick personalities out doors altogether.

☞ The Argus intimates that the reason why GEN. BUTLER declines the nomination for the Governorship of Nebraska, is that he is "unwilling to associate his name with the miserable fortunes of the miserable Administration."

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN begins a new volume this month. Terms of subscription, if paid in advance, $2, $2,50 at the end of the year. We recommend it to the Agriculturist, and hope it will have a liberal support. Published by Luther Tucker, 395 Broadway, Albany.

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE, for July came duly to hand and we are pleased to say that it maintains the high stand it has taken among the Monthlies of the U. S. Its contributors are among the first literary characters, and its contents bare the impress of sound judgment, and good taste.

AUTHUR'S HOME MAGAZINE, for August is received and takes us altogether by surprise in its sprightly, interesting, and useful variety. Few Magazines exceed it in happy and versatile thoughts for all classes.

AN AFFLICTED FAMILY.—We record to-day the decease of Mary A. Weston, a lovely and adored daughter of Abner Weston. It is only about a year since that we were called upon to record the death of a son and a daughter by the same fell disease—consumption. The funeral of Miss Weston took place Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

A "SICK MAN."—Judging from the devoted attention of the Standard to the whigs, to the exclusion of the democracy, we infer that the Abolitionists will have to imitate the precedent of the Whigs and send Lansing back to Wilmington to rusticate again for the dys-phagy.

PUTNAM'S MONTHLY, fully maintains the high position to which it has attained in the ranks of Periodical literature. Its contributions are drawn from minds of the purest intellectual culture. Its merits as a magazine are proeminet—ever lively, attractive and interesting.—Terms $3 per year. Address G. P. Putnam 10 Park Place, New York.

"Let us all go in for the right for once."
—Northern Standard.

We are "in for the right" now. If Mr. Lansing is not, he had better "go in" just as soon as possible. We have been all our life time in for the right too. Mr. Lansing has the follies of 1844 to atone for and he can do so effectually only by going in at once for the Whig party. Thus only can he show his devotion to the cause he professes. Thus only can he demonstrate that he is ought but an adventurous agitator. "For once" too it is time he went "in for the right" lest he "be cut off in his sins."

A NEW DRESS.—The Troy Daily Traveler appeared in a new dress on Saturday last. We are glad to chronicle this evidence of the prosperity of our neighbors, and congratulate Messrs. Fisk & Avery on the spirit and enterprise they evince. By the way it seems to us there is a trifle of old fogyism about the concern, or they never would spell "Traveler" with two l's.
—Saratoga Whig.

We join in congratulations, but pronounce Webster and not the Traveler Old-Fegy.

☞ We have just found out how it happened there were so many "sore heads" at the 4th of July Exoursion. The "dead heads" were so numerous that it wouldn't pay without pinching the company on food and water.—Northern Standard.

And "we have just found out" too "how it happened" that one sore-head was made. He received a free ticket which he gave to a friend. He begged another which he also gave away and then tried to "mouse" his way on shore, but was nabbed and had to fork a dollar. Of course Burton and the officers of the boats were monstrous heathens for suffering a fanatic to hang around the bar till he lost his dinner.

Not So.

The Northern Standard made several mistakes last week, one of which we correct:

The Standard says that with the exceep- of a few—a very few papers the Whig press in this State is favor of a new party at the Saratoga Convention. The contrary is the fact. In truth, not a Whig paper in the State favors a new party.—They generally go in for the Convention to concentrate public opinion and devise ways and means of sending free settlers to Nebraska and Kansas, but not for a new party.

Among those opposed to a new party, we may name the Albany Journal, State Register, Troy Whig, Troy Traveller, Ontario Repository, Ithaca Chronicle, Rochester American, Roch'r Democrat, Whitehall Chronicle, Warren Co. Whig, Clinton Co. Whig, Malone Palladium, Ogdensburgh Sentinel, Hudson River Chronicle, Essex County Republican, &c., &c.

Say, Mr. Standard, what's the use of falsifying your professions of honesty and impartiality?

Crotchets.

Too nice by half.—What matters it whether Sam. Houston opposes the Nebraska Swindle because it will increase the value of slaves to Texas purchasers, or some other ground? Other Southern men opposed it because it was a gross violation of honor and not because they were opposed to the extension of slavery. We were thankful for their votes and hope to co-operate with them in future. So long as they co-operate, we will not question their motives, nor quarrel with them about their reasons for their course. They have their reasons and we have ours—reasons satisfactory to each. It seems that Mr. Lansing is not willing to co operate with Senator Houston in opposition to the Nebraska Scheme, unless he can first convert the Senator into an Abolitinist!

That is only equalled by refusing to vote the whig ticket in 1844, because that party was "wicked" and certain men were so pure they 'eschewed wickedness' and could not "do evil that good might come." Pshaw! Lansing, "you have the shoe on the wrong foot" when you tell us not to mind the "crotchets."

DEATH OF THE HON. D. H. DUSTIN.—The Hon. D. H. Dustin, Attorney General of Minnesota, died of cholera, at St. Paul, on the 13th or 14th inst.—Mr. Dustin was a native of New Hampshire, and was for several years a member of Kings County bar and a resident of Brooklyn.—He removed from Brooklyn in the spring of 1853 to St. Paul, on receiving the appointment of Attorney-General of the Territory of Minnesota. [Ex.

Mr. Dustin was a school-mate as well as class-mate of ours, under the late Capt. Alden Partridge at Norwich, Vt. He was what is called "a glorious good fellow"—one who would divide his last crumb with a friend. He was a wide awake, "hail fellow well met," and withal somewhat brilliant, but not over studious, and we should think would make a capital leader in Tammany Hall. His career in the West we have no doubt would have been a splendid one as in truth he was a splendid fellow. He married a Philadelphia lady by whom he had several children, one of whom was killed by a Rail Road accident about a year ago on the way from N. Y. to Philadelphia, preparatory to removing west. A premonitory warning, perhaps, but alas! unheeded and poor Dustin, noble hearted and generous as he was, has seen the last of earth. Farewell, farewell.

VERMONT.—The Watchman and Journal, the leading Whig paper in Vermont, edited by E. P. Walton, Jr., son of the candidate for Governor nominated by the "Union Convention" at Montpelier, says that the resolutions adopted there are in all essential respects identical with the Whig resolutions adopted at Rutland, and declare its adhesion to the regular Whig ticket.

The motives of men who ask for better or other guarantees for Freedom than the history of the Whig Party furnishes, may well be distrusted. Always right, and ever faithful, the Whigs of Vermont may be trusted with whatever concerns the National welfare.—Albany Journal.

And the Whigs of N. Y. ditto.

Stand by the Colors.

——, July 20, 1854.

SIR:—It seems a duty to urge you again to look well to the course of popular action and to shape your course by it. The leading that is not in entire harmony with what the People believe to be for their highest welfare, will be scouted. The fact is that the doctrine of the Dissolution of Parties is now the popular doctrine, &c., &c.

* * * *

This, with much more "of the same sort," from an ardent Anti-Slavery and Maine Law pen, fails to convince us that any other organization, designed to "crush out" political evil, can be made as efficient as that which connects us with the Whig Party. To its principles and action Education and Improvement are indebted. Its sentiments and sympathies are with and for Progress and Freedom. Its influence is seen and felt in the promotion of all salutary measures—all wholesome reforms.—With this experience of the working, and these convictions of the usefulness, of the Whig Party, we are not likely to change either our party relations or political creed.—[Albany Journal.

Arrival of the Ster. Africa.

NEW YORK, July 27.—10 A. M.

The Africa arrived at half past five o'clock this morning.

The Eastern War. It is said Austria will summon Russia to evacuate the Principalities within a month, and occupy Wallachia without waiting for an answer. The Turks captured the Island of Ramdon, after a battle of 12 hours. The Russians set fire to the vessels in port. Eighteen thousand of the Anglo French force are joined to Omer Pacha Rutschak. The Turks have crossed the Danube at Olenitza.

It is rumored that the whole of Germany will shortly join the Austria Prussian troops.

The capture of the fortress of Shirgero by the Turks, is confirmed. The number of Turks which crossed the Danube on the 8th was forty thousand. They were opposed by the Russians, but the latter were entirely defeated with a loss of nine hundred killed and wounded.

The Allied Fleets were last seen sailing for Sebastopol. They numbered 48 sail, 150 wagons of wounded soldiers had arrived at Bucharest, among the wounded were 80 officers.

A Berlin despatch states that Napier's fleet had joined Admiral Corry's fleet in Barro Sound.

Accounts from Transylvania state that the Russians and Austrians are concentrating their forces on their respective frontiers.

The convents on the frontier of Poland were being destroyed by the Russians.

A small republican rising near Valencia has been put down.

Report from Stockholm, dated July 11th, says that all communication with Finland is forbidden, even the Sweedish mail steamer has been stopped, and ordered back by the British Cruizers. Letters from St. Petersburgh give a gloomy picture of the situation of the working classes.

It is probable the Czar will aid the Hungarians to rise, and if he does, there will be ten years war, during which the treasure and the best blood of Europe will be spilled.—It is said that a special messenger of the Czar is on his way to the U. S. with friendly propositions, and among other things to sell the Russian possessions in America to the U. S.

[On this side of the water, the repose of the country has been disturbed by the sounds of war. It seems that Senator Borland, Pierce's fire and water minister to Central America, received a fansied insult at the hands of the good people of San Juan De Nicaragua. An apology being refused, the town was bombarded and totally destroyed by a U. S. ship of war. The town consisted of about 80 houses and 500 inoffensive and defenceless inhabitants. A pillaging party was sent on shore who after getting drunk, and robbing the houses of valuables, set fire to all not destroyed by shells. Thus perish all enemies of Pierce. Borland's honor is atoned for, the rights of the country defended, and Borland is to be next president. Hurrah for this mighty Republic.]

LIVERPOOL, July 14th.

Wrights Circular says the grain crops are reported to be looking well. In all the growing districts throughout the kingdom. Some fears for the Potatoe crop. The Foreign Market dull. Prices of Wheat and Flour favor buyers who act in reserve.

New York, July 27.

A fight occurred at the foot of Amos-st. this morning, between John Morrisey and Bill Pool, in which the former was badly thrashed, besides its reported losing an eye. The fight was the most brutal ever witnessed. Morrisey is shockingly beaten about the face. His eyes are closed, and cheeks cut in a most frightful manner; it puzzled many of his friends to recognize him. Bill Pool and his party left for Coney Island, to have a jolly time over his success.

Philadelphia, July 27.

It has been ascertained this afternoon, the President of the Reading Rail Road Co is between one and two million dollars behind hand on his account. The development has caused much excitement, and the stock market has considerably declined. He was also interested in the Morris Iron Company. His notes were laid over yesterday for the first.

Nashville, July 27.

Dr. Jane of this city, placed a keg of gunpowder under his house, to-day and blew it up, perishing in the ruins. The fire communicated to four adjoining buildings which were also destroyed.

RUM AND TEMPERANCE

AND

Abolition and Pierce Democracy.

LANSING, NELSON, &Co.

Can accommodate the political world of whatever hue. They propose to issue in connection and from the same press, using the same miscellaneous matter in each, two several papers, the one to do the agreeable to abolitionists, and temperance men, and the other to do the "dirty work" of the concern. They will puff each other on all suitable occasions although one is temperance and the other rum. In fact, these extremes give the concern double strength The rum editor obtaining hints from the temperance editor will endeavor to stir up strife in the temperance orders and that will afford a rare chance for "agitation." It is worthy of special notice that nothing offensive will be allowed in the Abolition organ to the Pierce and Post Office democracy.

Thus it will be seen that this concern possesses rare qualifications for their undertaking. They will keep in view two grand leading ideas, one to break up the whig party, and the other to destroy the whig organ.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan. 1853 duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harman L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County NewYork, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on lake Champlain The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation Dr. Curtis's Hygeian, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most Wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity ever a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witness'd by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 27th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; could not lie down to sleep in a bed, get leg what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my cough, were so great at times that for hours together my friends expected me to soon, would die by my bed. During the past six years I have tried the said and experience of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeian, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak, and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I most fatally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeian, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler I found it relieve the pressure on my lungs, and after while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No 149 Chambers Street; O. H. PING, corner of John street and Broadway, N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person inclosing $3 to BOYD & PAUL, or Curtis & Perkins, New York, will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler, in a neat box, by express free to any part of the United States or four package for $10. 522 1yr

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs an Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skilful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an delicious remedy it is a so known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases se Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cau e, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or la loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Pa p tation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procrea ive Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine required, it will be found equal, if not supperior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhapiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN,

That solitary practice, so fat l to the existence of man and i is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impoleucy, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of these sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of is seeing both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery,) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate him self before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization retraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter inclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, a proprietated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

1st. Premiums will be awarded at the Annual Meeting.

2d. Applicants for Premiums are required to lodge with the Secretary of the Society, by the first of December, a specification particularly describing the manner of cultivating the crop, the expense of the same, and the condition of the land the year previous, with specimens of each crop.

3d. The quantity of land specified for each crop, must be measured in one piece.

4th. The entire crop of wheat, rye, corn, &c., must be measured and one bushel of each weighed. The field crops are to be measured and weighed in the presence of competent disinterested witnesses and weighed by them.

Rules and Regulations.

Competition for premiums is open to all members of the Society. A fee of 10 per cent on the highest premium offered upon the article to be paid on entering any article for competition,

Membership is created by the payment of one dollar, which entitles the member to a ticket for the entire Fair, for himself and members of his family under 21 years.

All entries to be made for articles competing at the Fair, with the Secretary on the first day; articles merely for exhibition, may be entered free of charge at any time, in the discretion of the Executive Committee. All stock and articles to remain on the ground during the Fair. Water and food for all stock and poultry exhibited, will be supplied by the Society, on the grounds, free of charge.

All premiums except those above designated will be announced at the Fair, but will be payable at the annual meeting.

The Society reserves the right of withholding premiums in the absence of competition, or if the judges esteem articles exhibited unworthy of premiums. The Judges are requested to pay particular attention to this rule.

The Society will not be responsible for the payment of the full amount of premiums, but only ratably, if there shall exist a deficiency of funds. They have, however, entire confidence in their ability to meet all the premiums awarded.

Premiums not claimed by the 1st of February will be retained as donations to the Society.

Persons obtaining more than one premium of Volumes of Transactions, will receive different Volumes.

All persons receiving a first premium on horses, cattle, farms, or dairy, will be entitled to a Volume of Transactions in addition thereto.

The judges are requested to report themselves on the first day to the Secretary.

THE FAIR.

Stock and articles for exhibition will be received until 1 P. M. of the first day, by superintendents appointed to receive them, and must remain on the ground until noon of the 2d—with the privilege of making entries on the previous day (the 19th)—Competitors are requested to make their entries on that day if possible. Removal of any articles or stock will forfeit any claim to premiums. The Fair grounds will be under the control of the Marshal, who will act under the directions of the Committee of Arrangements.

Pens will be provided for Sheep and Hogs, and larger animals must be tied.

Visitors will be admitted after 10 o'clock, A. M. Tickets of admission procured at the office; 12 1-2 cents for one admission, $1, for admission during the Fair.

An address will be delivered, and premiums proclaimed the second day, at an hour to be announced.

G. S. NICHOLSON, Secretary.

The Language of Flowers.

Oh! believe me, the language of love
Was never yet spoken in flowers;
'Tis the language of regions above,
And not of a world such as ours.

In the morning of life we all feel
Full keenly, love's magical dart,
But how can the tongue e'er reveal,
What is known alone to the heart?

If the tongue and the lips are too weak,
To express the full force of its power,
If the eye can but look, and not speak,
Oh! what can we say—with a flower?

Frail offspring of earth is the rose,
And to bloom but on earth was it given;
While love, in the heart where it glows,
Is the link that connects it with heaven.

Then believe not the language of love
Was ever yet spoken in flowers;
'Tis the language of regions above,
And not of a world such as ours.

MUSKETS AND SPADES.—A Contrast.—The United States army numbers about 10,000 men, who cost the country last year $8,525,240 for pay, subsistence, clothing, etc. The Illinois Central Railroad army numbers 10,000 men, who receive from the company $3,700,000 per annum. In three years they will make seven hundred miles of road, adding greatly to the wealth of the State and country. In thirty years the United States have spent $200,000,000 for which they have nothing to show but some old forts guns, battered uniforms, and demoralized vetrans.—[N. O. Coml. Bulletin.

ANOTHER MYSTERIOUS ELECTION.—An election took place in Chambersburgh last week for a town councilman. The Whigs and Democrats had their regular candidates in the field. When the votes were counted, however, a gentleman who was not known as a candidate, was discovered to have received nearly all the votes and was declared elected.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY.—The annual commencement of this institution takes place on Thursday, Aug. 10. In the forenoon addresses will be delivered by the President of Geneva College and the Rev. Mr. Shalton of Montpelier Vt., besides a poem before the Philomathic Association by Mr. Stark of Manchester. In the afternoon the graduating class deliver their orations; after which there will be an Infantry and Artillery drill. On Wednesday, Aug. 9th, a concert will be given by Hall's Boston Brass Band.—Platts. Rep.

AGRICULTURAL.

MR. WATSON'S SURVEY OF ESSEX.—Hon. JABEZ D. HAMMOND, of Cherry Valley, says: "I have read it with great pleasure, and I hope some profit. The great variety and grandeur of the natural scenery in Essex is superior to that of any other part of the State, or perhaps U. States. For the first, and last time, I passed through Essex county in 1801.—I was then a young man, but the descriptions now given are so graphic, as well as sublime and beautiful, the feelings I experienced fifty years ago, (as far as a torpid old man can feel,) were renewed. The boilers of ore found, (p. 711.) and the deposit of ore found by the St. Francis Indians, (p. 772.) seem to demonstrate what, in consequence of the lapse of countless ages, has been doubted, that drifts at some period of the world have occurred.—I think the style is admirable, and the arrangement of the report excellent, and is one of the most perfect productions of the age, and ought to be published in a separate volume.—Journal State Society.

RYE.

THOUGH one of the most useful articles, both for man and beast, the raising of rye in the most successful manner, is, with the majority of farmers, an object of but slight regard. This, however, is a great mistake on their part; as, by a little attention to its proper cultivation, and at a comparatively small expense, a crop of rye may be made to pay a handsome profit.

Different Sorts.—The usual designations of spring and winter rye express two different kinds, though, in reality, there is but one variety, with differences in quality arising from climate, soil, situation, and other local causes. The terms above mentioned have reference more to the product of what is sown at the respective seasons than to any marked organic peculiarities.

Culture.—Rye may be successfully grown on an inferior soil to that required for wheat, and with considerable less trouble and cost. It will thrive remarkably well on a sandy soil, but does not flourish so well on land of a clayey description as it does on that which is poor. A light and soil, with a plentifull admixture of sand, is perhaps, as favorable as any. It will yield from twenty to thirty-five bushels per acre, more or less, according to the adaptedness of the land and the thoroughness of the tillage. In Pennsylvania, where it is grown largely for the sake of the straw as litter, the average yield, owing to the want of any special attention to its cultivation, is about fifteen bushels per acre. In Indiana, from fifteen to twenty, though in some instances as high as fifty, as in others as low as six to ten.

Whitefish are used in some sections as a fertilizer, in connection with this grain; and though they tend rather to bake the land and produce sorrel, they also tend to increase the crop of rye very much. It is seldom worth while, however, to expend much time or money in dressing the land expressly for this crop, provided it is in a fair state from previous cultivation.

The time for sowing may be either in the fall or spring, and if sown in dry weather, it will be more likely to escape rot previous to the time of complete germination. The quantity of seed required to the acre varies from one and a half to two and a half bushels, and the ripeness of the grain is indicated by the straw changing from its bright yellow to a paler hue, and the knots of the straw losing their green color.

Rye grows to a greater height than the straw of wheat, and, though thinner in the stem is stronger, as well as hard and wiry, on which account it is not suitable for fodder, but is valuable to brick-makers, and is extensively used in the manufacture of straw hats. For the latter purpose it is sown quite thick, pulled green, and blanched by exposure to the air. It is also used in large quantities—though less than formerly—in the brewery and distillery. Bread made of rye contains a less proportion of nutritive matter than that of wheat, but more than barley or oats, and the husk possesses an aromatic and slightly acid flavor, which renders it quite agreeable to the palate. The bran should not, therefore, be entirely separated from the flour, for if the grain be ground fine, and divested of the husk, the bread will be deprived of much of its pleasant taste.—One-third of rye and two-thirds of wheat flour make a very sweet bread.—Peoples Journal.

SAVING GRASS SEEDS.

We give the following suggestions on this subject from the Ohio Cultivator; they are worthy the attention of every farmer;

"Many farmers neglect to save their own grass seeds because it needs attention at a time when they are most busy with their grain and hay; but if farmers generally would make it a point to save seed for their own use, they would find their account in it, both in prime cost, and not being imposed upon by buying foul seed from another man's farm, who has no interest in keeping their land free of weeds

"Orchard grass is among the first to ripen, and will be ready cut from the 20th of June to the first of July, according to location and soil. This should be either reaped or cradled and immediately put in compact shocks, to stand a couple of weeks. The stubble may then be mowed and hayed, taking care not to disturb the shocks. When dry, the shocks should be moved very carefully to the barn for storage, as the seed shells out easily.

"Kentucky Blue Grass comes in season for harvest about the same time as Orchard Grass. The best method of gathering the seed of this grass is by stripping the heads by hand; the process is rather slow, but no other way will bring the seed in good condition, as it is too light and chaffy to be thrashed and winnowed. At the price for which it sells in market, even this slow way pays well.

"Meadow Fescue (English Blue Grass) is ripe early in July, and having a tolerably heavy seed, can be cut by the cradle or sickle, and when dry, thrashed and winnowed carefully to separate the chaff.

"Foul Meadow Grass ripens its seed in the last of July. We consider this is the best grass that can be raised for meadow swails and marsh lands. It is fine, nutritious and yields a great burden; and like a good natured wife—will bear a great deal of neglect without spoiling. When in head, this grass very nearly resembles red top, and is often mistaken for it. The seed is very fine and sells at a high price—as much by the bushel as clover seed, though much lighter.

"Timothy Seed ripens in July, and as it is contained in strong heads, is very easily harvested and got out, either by reaping, cradling or with such a machine as Wagoner's clover harvester, simply taking off the heads. We wish to bespeak the attention of farmers generally to saving the best seeds of these leading grasses.

CIDER AND CIDER BARRELS.

IT is a very common practice for farmers to purchase old oil barrels to hold their cider, the selection being generally on account of cheapness. They find that though the cider is made to taste a little oily at first, the vinegar into which it afterwards turns is not at all prejudiced.

The presence of oil may be removed immediately if desired, by the use of a little potash, when the two unite chemically, and form common soap. A quantity of wood ashes placed inside the barrel with water, would have a similar effect.

Those who are in a hurry to make vinegar should not put their cider into oil barrels without first removing the oil by some such means as we have indicated, for the presence of the fatty particles retards the fermentation of the cider. It is a fact in chemistry that some vegetable acids when first made, and while still holding vegetable matter in suspension, will first attack and decompose any animal substance that may be present. It is well known, we presume, that cider will longer retain its sweetness when put into fresh oil barrels, than in any other kind of barrel. When it is desired to keep cider sweet for family use, without the disagreeable flavor of whale oil, linseed oil barrels might be employed. These can generally be purchased at the wholesale drug stores about as cheap as the other kind.

We have heard of a farmer away down somewhere, who purposed sending to his particular friend, a barrel of extra fine sweet cider, which was duly made and barreled prior to bottling. The pressure of business prevented our farmer from drawing off the beverage until it had become a lee.le too sour to please his fancy, and so he concluded not to send any, but make it into vinegar. Accordingly the barrel was rolled away and left under an old shed, bung out.

Not many weeks afterwards our farmer was surprised, on tasting for the purpose of ascertaining how the vinegar came on, to find that the liquid had been transformed into sweet cider. He took two or three good swigs, in order to make sure that there was no mistake, and so did the hired men and the rest of the family. But there was no deception. Good cider it really was, and no vinegar about it. The cider was accordingly drawn off, bottled, and dispatched to the friend first intended, and also to others. One and all pronounced it to be ne plus ultra—the best cider they had ever tasted at that season of the year. Subsequently, on removing the head of the barrel, the bleached skeleton of a huge rat was found in the bottom. It is supposed that the unfortunate creature fell a victim to a fatal curiosity, which led him to stick his head too far down the bung-hole, when the barrel rested beneath that old (oak) shed.

It is further added that farmer G., suspecting some connection between the rat and the sweetness of the cider, tried the experiment on the year following, of putting a cleanly dressed chicken into a barrel of the juice. The result was another lot of cider equally as delicious as the former. The excellence of farmer G's cider, has been for a long time celebrated. His secret has never been exposed till now.—People's Journal.

PLANTING FRUIT TREES FOR OTHERS.—The Spanish have a maxim, that a man is ungrateful to the past generation that planted the trees from which he eats fruit, and deals unjustly towards the next generation unless he plants the seed, that it may furnish food for those who come after him. Thus when a son of Spain eats a peach or pear by the roadside, wherever he is, he digs a hole in the ground with his foot, and covers the seed. Consequently all over Spain, by the roadsides and elsewhere, fruit in great abundance tempts the taste and is ever free.

Let this practice be imitated in our country, and the weary wanderer will be blest, and will bless the hand that ministered to comfort and joy. We are bound to leave the world as good or better than we found it, and he is a selfish churl who husks under the shadow, and eats the fruits of trees which other hands have planted, if he will not also plant trees which shall yield fruit to coming generations.—New England Cult.

SAD CASUALTY.—John Wesley, an intelligent and much beloved son of Judge J. T. Everest, of Peru Village, aged 14 years, was drowned in the Little Ausable creek, which runs through that village, on the afternoon of the 21st instant. He had been working in the hay field in the afternoon, was quite warm when he left, to bring in the cows from the pasture. Not returning as was expected, search was made, and his clothing found on the bank of the creek, and about 10 o'clock in the evening, his body was recovered in about six feet water. There was but a very narrow channel where the water was over his head. He could not swim.—[Plattsburg Rep.

ELOPEMENT.—An ugly case of "elopement" took place at Mooers in this county a few weeks since. The guilty parties are a married man of the name of Arctus Stephens, of Swanton, Vt., has a wife and five children; and the woman is the wife of John P. Ames, of Mooers. Ames was absent at the time. Stephens took the woman and boy, about five years old, and $198 belonging to Ames. We have a long letter from the wronged husband, detailing the matter, who we hear is a hard working and very respectable man. Mr. Ames hopes to get his boy back, but is quite willing that the woman should continue her travels with the peddler.—Ib.

Saturday Morning, August 5.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands,
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

Stand by the Colors.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig party to stand by its colors."—Albany Journal.

A COUNTY ANTI-NEBRASKA Mass Meeting,

Without distinction of party, is to be held Elizabethtown on the 12 inst, at 12 o'clock M. The call has been signed by about 150 leading men of all parties. We forego their publication for the want of space.

Vermont Politics.

We gave some particulars last week—According to promise, we present the noble letter of the aged patriot who received the nomination for Gov. at the hands of the union and ism convention, but who declines the honor of aiding to break down the Whig party for no other purpose only that a few particular persons may rule the new party. We find the letter in the Burlington Free Press.

GEN WALTON'S LETTER.

MONTPELIER, July 21, 1854.

SIR,—Your letter of the 18th instant, giving me official notice of my nomination for the office of Governor, has been received. Such a nomination, by a numerously attended Mass Meeting, composed of intelligent freemen of all political parties, and with an unanimity seldom equalled, was as unexpected as it is complimentary, and demands and receives my grateful acknowledgement. It is known to my fellow citizens that I can cheerfully sacrifice mere party names and ties upon the alter of Temperance and Liberty; but principles, moral or political, never. Names are nothing, principles everything. The principles promulgated by the recent Convention at Rutland, and in essence, if not in form, confirmed by the more recent Mass Meeting at Montpelier, are my principles, and in perfect harmony with my long cherished feelings of hostility to Slavery; and it is my purpose, whether in prosperity or adversity, at home or abroad, in public or in private life, to reduce them to practice. At this important crisis in our national and state affairs, had not another candidate been in nomination for the same office, known to cherish sentiments in unison with my own, and in accordance with those adopted at the Mass Meeting, I should have readily accepted the nomination as I now respectfully decline it.—Permit me to express the hope that my declension of the nomination, which honored me altogether beyond my deserts, may lead to a more perfect bond of union in the Brotherhood of Freedom.

E. P. WALTON.

☞ The Detroit Daily Advertiser publishes the following remarkable document from the pen of Hon. Kinsley S. Bingham, the 'Fusion' candidate for Governor in Michigan. The editors of the Advertiser say they have seen it in Mr. B's. 'own handwriting.'

GREEN OAK, Nov. 5, 1842.

My Dear Sir:—Enclosed is an affidavit of declaration of intention, which you will please file.

If you could DATE THE FILING BACK a few days, so that he could become a voter in two years, he would like it. On Tuesday morning there will be some foreigners from this town call up to get their papers perfected, so that they can vote in the afternoon.

If you could have the necessary forms made out, it might not detain them so long. If the judges should come before they arrive, I wish you would mention it as they might adjourn. We shall have a hard some majority in this town.

Yours, truly K. S. BINGHAM.

Does any one suppose Kinsley S Bingham any more honest now than he was when he wrote the above letter? He has failed to be appreciated by his own party, and does any suppose he is Anti Slavery now for any other object than office? We think he is on the right track, but when the whig party is asked to throw up its hat and let such men ride on its shoulders it is asking too much.

——At a meeting in Albany to appoint delegates to the Saratoga Convention, the following among other resolutions was passed.

Resolved, That to the gallant band of southern patriots in the House of Representatives, who maintained the faith and binding force of compacts, although for the benefit of freedom, and spurned the bribe offered by the Arnolds of the North, we tender our warmest thanks, and we will never despair of the Republic, or of our southern brethren, when represented by such fearless, patriotic, and honorable statesmen.

SCHUYLER FALLS.—We have neglected an old friend and a good whig, in not sooner calling attention to the advertisement of Henry Ketchum. We need only say to those having wool to card and cloth to manufacture, that Mr. Ketchum is one of the few strictly honest men to be found in the world.

THE ESSEX COUNTY REPUBLICAN, comes to us much improved in appearance. The Republican under the charge of Col. TARBELL, has become one of the most readable newspapers in the Northern section of t is State, and we have no doubt is commanding the patronage as it most certainly deserves to share the confidence of the whigs of Essex County. Troy merchants and manufacturers, who advertise abroad, can in no way better make their business known at the North than by advertising liberally in the Republican, which is printed at Keeseville.—Troy Whig.

We thank you, Mr. Whig for your very generous notice. We can only reciprocate by saying that the Whig is among the first papers we look at on the receipt of our mail. We generally get the latest news by it, and often a day in advance of other papers. Besides, the Whig is conducted with most decided ability, and we are happy to believe that it is paying our friend Brigham bounteously for his exertions. Long may you wave, neighbor and may your shadow never be less.

——As to advertising, we are proud to say the Republican gives its patrons the worth of their money. Situated as we are on the confines of Essex, Clinton and Franklin Counties, and circulating among all classes, the Republican does afford a superior medium for advertising business of all kinds.

PLAIN TALK.—This is demanded. We have entered upon times when Whigs have got to lay down and be run over by a few democrats who have lost caste with their own party and a few would-be-abolition leaders—or fight—a cowardly and ignominious submission, or determined resistance. We choose the latter. The masses of all parties are right on the Slavery question, and none more so than the abolitionists, but their leaders are not only politically but morally obnoxious. We would not associate with them as leaders any way, and would not let them come in to support the Whig party even, without bonds for their good behaviour. Give us the N. Y. Herald with its open profligacy to the Boston Commonwealth with its contemptible meanness under virtuous professions. Its war upon Whigs is unceasing. So give us Bronson with his known pro-Slavery proclivities to Phillips, Birney and Garrison with their Infidelity and Disunion.

In Essex County the most bitter, unrelenting and unscrupulous opponents of the Whig party have been certain leading abolitionists. To appease them they have received office at the hands of Whigs for several years past, and this has kept them quiet.—They are hated, however, by everbody and their names hooted by the crowd as tickets are circulated with their names on. This is too humiliating for Americans and we are opposed to submitting to it any longer.—We are for taking an appeal from them to the abolition masses. The latter are right and we believe are ready to support any party opposed to slavery extension. Not so their leaders. They are making it a sine qua non to ride on the shoulders or on the ruins of the Whig party. This is plain talk, but it is necessary to defeat the plottings of these men. What their co workers have tried to do in Vt. and Mass. they have been trying to do in this State under the call for the Saratoga meeting. But thanks to an outspoken press their plans are blown to the winds. Of course, they roar like a caged lion. Vide the Standard.

A CORRECTION.—Lest any are misled by the Standard, we state that we had not mentioned Mr. Lansing or his paper in the Republican, nor alluded to either, til he paid his respects to us in several articles. Mr. Lansing has been constant in his labors to persuade Whigs to abandon the party, but not a word for democrats. The Gazette has also indulged in abusive terms of abolitionists and temperance, but not a word from Lansing. He made an attack upon us, however, and then forsooth wished it "understood he was not the assaulting party." Out upon such meanness. A quarrel is sought with us, and only a quarrel, but Mr. Lansing will not be gratified. We are reflecting, however, whether we will not expose Mr. Lansing's attempt to concert a plan of operations by which to defraud his friend Willard Bell of $500 to aid in starting the Standard. All we ask of Mr. Lansing is to mind his own business. If he don't we will determine what can be done to make him.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.—We call attention to the advertisement of this Institution. The last term closed on Wednesday. Prof. Moore and his music class gave a delightful concert Tuesday evening. On Wednesday Eve. Prof. Dann and the young gentlemen entertained the people with original and selected orations. We need not say that the exercises were of the first class order.

—I. N. Gregory is in town on a visit.

—S. H. Hammond and party passed through this village yesterday, from the Saranac Lakes on their way home.

—Hon. H. H. Ross, and Hon. O. Kellogg were in town yesterday, having been up to Ausable Forks on professional business.

GREAT DROVE OF SHEEP.—A drove of sheep numbering 11,000 head passed through Edwardsville, Illinois, on the 8th inst. They were from the State of Tennessee, and are to be wintered in Missouri, when they will be driven to Salt Lake.—Ib.

Correspondence of the Editor.

WESTPORT July 28, 1854.

COL. TARBELL.

DEAR SIR:—Knowing you to be something of a watchman on the walls, I take the liberty to ask if Essex Co. ought not to be represented at Saratoga on the 16th, of August? * * * * * *

Respecfully Yours.

Our views on this subject have been given in the Republican. We repeat them in substance: We think every County in State ought to be represented at Saratoga, for the following purposes:—1. To carry out in good faith the professed objects of the meeting, viz: to concentrate public opinion against the Nebraska fraud, and 2. To prevent the ulterior objects of some, viz: the formation of a new party to destroy the Whigs that a few may rule.

We have had some anxiety on this subject, 1. that there might be a large assemblage and public opinion powerfully directed against the Nebraska iniquity, and 2. that there might not be a State Ticket nominated at that place. We are bound to say, however, that it is now a matter of no sort of consequence whether there is anybody at Saratoga at all or not. It will be a fizzle any way in consequence of the secret determination of anti-slavery demagogues to turn that meeting into a new party, of which they were to be the leaders.

For the Essex County Republican.

MR. EDITOR:—The following lines I (called by some a bachelor,) received through the Post Office, Postage one cent, paid. Hand writing—feminine. Now, how am I to learn who those sympathizing friends are. Now could I find out I might be able to make a trade with some one of them, and be a bachelor no longer. I might not be found so tremblingly fearful in such a dilema as "those who sympathize" fancy.

BACHELOR.

TO A DECIDEDLY CONFIRMED BACHELOR.
BY THOSE WHO SYMPATHIZE.

"Not a laugh was heard, not a joyous note,
As our friend to the bridal we hurried;
Not a wit discharged his farewell shot,
As the bachelor went to be married

We married him quickly to save his fright,
Our heads from the sad sight turning;
And we sighed as we stood by the lamp's dim light,
To think him not more discerning.

To think that a bachelor free and bright,
And shy of the sex as we found him,
Should there at the altar, at dead of night,
Be caught in the snare that bound him.

Few and short were the words we said,
Though of wine and cake partaking;
We escorted him home from the scene of dread.
While his knees were awfully shaking.

Slowly and sadly we marched adown
From the first to the lowermost story,
And we never have heard from or seen the poor man.
Whom we left alone in his glory."

NOTE BY THE EDITOR.—Although the foregoing were submitted to us in the most confidential manner, we shall take the liberty of saying just what we please. In the first place, we shall say of the bachelor, notwithstanding he is our friend, that he is "hit"—his "pheelinks" are most ruefully "worked"—he has got just what he richly deserved. For a long time he has played the bee, flitting from rose to rose, stealing their sweetest perfume, yet with a heart as capable of appreciating maiden worth as ever beat in the human form. In our opinion, "those who sympathize" have adopted the only course to bring him to terms, and when subdued he will be as gentle as the fawn. At the same time, we are bound to testify that if the girls suppose his knees will shake, or his nerves fail him "in that dread hour"—"at dead of night"—they are "awfully" mistaken.

——All we were authorized to say, and we were authorized by the "bachelor" to say, that he is ready to receive any proposition "those who sympathize" may have to make. To obviate any objections to direct communication with him, we are empowered to receive it for him. The utmost secresy will be observed. Should this "passage at arms" result happily to all parties it will be extremely gratifying to us. We almost want to advise the girls to give him 'another of the same sort,' but we know he is ready to "capitulate," and we now earnestly recommend a "cessation of hostilities" with a view to "negotiation. Whatever diplomacy can do, shall be done to bring the "war" to a happy and honorable termination.

PROPOSED LEADERS OF THE "NEW PARTY."—On the Fourth of July, the day so sacred to us all, the abolitionists, numbering some six hundred persons, held a gathering in a grove at Farmingham, Mass.—Among the speakers was Garrison. He made as usual, one of his inflammatory speeches and did one thing which insulted the nation, and every patriotic man in it—he coolly maliciously, and wilfully burnt the Constitution of the United States, at the same time heaping it with curses long and loud! And this on the birth-day of the Nation! So atrocious an act! So painfully outrageous in every phase, we have never known surpassed, performed by an American.

Yet Whigs are asked to throw up their party and take such men for leaders.

☞ The annual parade of the 31st Regt. (Col. Person's.) 14th Brigade, will take place at Westport, Essex Co., commencing on the 6th of Sept. next, and continue three days. Review and inspection on the third day. We understand that it is the intention of GEN. GRAY and staff to be present during the encampment.—Plattsburgh Rep.

The War in Europe.

The following are here supposed to be the future demands of England:

'The abrogation of all ancient treaties between Russia and Turkey;

'The entire freedom of Moldavia, Wallachia and Servia from the Russian protectorate;

'The future freedom of the navigation of the Danube, and the withdrawal of Russia from that part of Bessarabia bordering on it.

'The future freedom of the Black Sea to vessels of war and commerce of all nations;

'The re annexation of the Crimea to Turkey, and the entire freedom of Circassia, with all the Caucasian countries;

'And, in case Sweeden has joined the allies, the re-annexation of Finland to her.'

To these the Czar, humbled as he may now be by the failure of his long cherished plan of conquest in this direction, can never submit. No negotiations can bring it about, nor any intermediation effect it.

GO TO THE COUNTRY!—Men who are willing to work, but who say they cannot find employment at fair wages in the city, go into the country! You are wanted there,—and there you will be well paid.—You need not go far,—you needn't go to Kansas or Nebraska either. In some portions of New England, laborers for the present hay season are so scarce, that we heard of cases where they could not be obtained by the offer of even $3 to $4 per day.—Now, $3 to $4 a day in the country, is equal to at least $4 to $5 in the city.—Besides, you have pure air, wholesome food, and are not likely to be stifled to death, as you too often are by living in over crowded houses. Again, we say, go to the country. Don't stay starving here, when you can live like princes there.

In some sections of Pennsylvania, also, we see, the harvest is likely to go to ruin for want of hands to gather it. $2 per day is readily paid there, for men to help—and the reaping moreover is easy—nearly all of it being done by machinery.—N. Y. Express.

Yes, come to the country. Here is room and to spare, and besides help is wanted and great wages paid. Certainly, come to the country, where peace, plenty and virtue prevail.

CAN'T BEAT THE SHANGHAIS.—A cotemporary has a brag about a shanghai hen that took care of a brood of chickens and laid at the same time. We have heard of several such instances about here, and have one in our possession that commenced laying when her chicks were about four weeks old. One day she laid two eggs to make up for some previous failures. She was shut up in a coop some distance from the other hens, so that there can be no mistake in the matter.—Saratoga Whig

Can't go that neighbor—its too hard—dont want to be too incredulous—but cant believe without an affidavit.

Note to the Editor.

W. C. WATSON,
Pres. Essex Co. Agl. So'y.

Grand Division Eastern New York.

The regular quarterly session was held at Rouse's Point, Clinton County, on Wednesday, the 12th, instant, but owing to mismanagement on the part of the District Deputy, and sickness in several localities, the attendance was small, and it was deemed prudent to omit the public demonstration contemplated for the second day of the session.

The Reports of the G. W. P. and other officers, as well as the several Committees, were of a cheering character, and especially one from H. G. W. P. Mackean, in relation to the doings of the National Division, at its least session. The several amendments to the Constitution, the adoption of degrees, and signs of recognition, together with the introduction of females and youth of sixteen, were hailed as marks of progress long wished and steadily asked for, by those who wished for the permanency of the Order, and the perpetuity of our principles.

A communication was received from the State Temperance Society, asking the appointment of a committee of five, to unite with similar committees from all the temperance organizations, to call a general convention of delegates in some central part of the State and arrange for the coming struggle.

A communication was also received from Marshall Division No 11, asking the return of $200 loaned by them to Grand Division.

The G. T. was authorized to pay $100 as soon as the funds would permit, after paying the current expenses

The G. S. was ordered to procure the Degree work, for Divisions ordering it, they forwarding $6 for the same, that being the price charged.

After introducing and obligating Representatives, the Grand Division proceeded to nominate officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—

For G. W. P.,	HENRY LLOYD, of No.	5
" G. W. A.,	ALEX. CANPBELL, "	4
" " "	H. S. ALLEN, "	223
" G. S.,	T. EDGERLY, "	1
" G. T.,	J. MACKEAN, "	34
" C. Chap,	Rev. T. BRANDT. "	223
" " "	W. H. MEEKER, "	994
" G. Con.,	H. P. GRAVES, "	472
" " "	W. VAN VLECK "	125
" " "	H. N. COLE, "	462
" G. Sen.	G. SARTWELL, "	310
" "	G. N. BULLIS, "	310

Two important amendments were proposed in the by-laws, having for the object, an increase in the revenue, or a reduction of expenses—they were laid over for the usual period.

The Grand Division closed its session the same evening, and the brethren parted with only one regret, viz: the circumstances prevented the carrying out of the arrangements contemplated.—N. Y. Organ

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of, Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Pencilling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same, Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway, called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably declare as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents amply accumulate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their especial attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, fatbes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, (for twelve years in the Patent Office.)
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. ENTON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES, President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of many valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time do service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.

Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no incrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Gear and Vent Water Wheel.

Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories, paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 100 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spira flutes under cut spiral reeds, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of moulds from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 60 staves per minute, all ready for the trussing hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $600—rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Clinchamel's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $6 0.

7. Jones's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Use in schools and families, and by authors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article manufactured at cost.

8. Fros & Mansure's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

The patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolting that the use of this Bolt will make 10 and 10½ barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and most rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $700.

11. Krug's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By the machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries proportion.

12. Warner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armiger's Patent Gate hasp.

Effects a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence when it is presented to the public, as an efficient remedy it is so known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases of Impotency, Hysterics, Incipient sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Female after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and outlay is among ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those complaints which females are liable to are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, without knowing the cause of years of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of reposing the faculties of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, find Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will diagnose to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and as is customary, append long list of Recommendations Certificates, &c., bedaubed with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Panel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle the counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford" and I do not know of any other axe maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr KINKELIN, (As hospital work and self preservation) to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitution weaknesses, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only breeds serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and in a sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the result of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization recreated, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. We know and can continual destroy promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

Instructions for Families with References to the Cholera.—At a meeting of the Hahnemann Academy of Medicine, held July 15, 1854, the Committee on Cholera reported the following instructions for the domestic management of this disease:

1. Avoid crowded assemblies and crowded sleeping apartments, and as much as possible, shun the presence of filthy persons, for the disease is mostly developed in crowded dwellings, ships, prisons, camps, &c.

2. Observe cleanliness of person, and enjoin the same upon your household.

3. Dwellings (especially the sleeping apartments) should in all cases be thoroughly ventilated.

4. Pursue your ordinary course of diet, observing some moderation as to vegetables and fruits. Night meals are to be avoided. Regularity in the hours of eating is very desirable. Alcoholic drinks are objectionable, the intemperate being particularly liable to this disease. Iced-water and ices should be used with extreme moderation. Articles of food known to disagree with the regular action of the bowels should be most scrupulously avoided.

5. Avoid mental or bodily excitement or fatigue. Keep the person warmly clad.

6. Cathartics and laxatives must be wholly avoided. No means should be taken to remove constipation, except such as are prescribed by a physician. The use of laudanum, opium or cholera mixtures of any kind is hazardous.

7. It is better to take no medicine as preventive of cholera, but the slightest derangements of the bowels should be met by appropriate treatment.

8 Should there be oppression or sickness at the stomach, shiverings or dizziness, with or without relaxed bowels, Ipecac of the second or third trituration or dilution, may be taken every two or three hours.

9. If There be watery looseness of the bowels, with or without nausea, pain or cramps, take one drop of Veratum, first dilution, every half hour or hour.

10 If the diarrhea should become profuse, (with or without pain or vomiting,) discharges very frequent, being watery or resembling rice-water, with or without cramps, coldness and blueness, with rapid sinking, take one or two drops of the Spirits of Camphor every five or ten minutes until reaction takes place.

11. From the moment the diarrhea becomes urgent, the patient should go to bed and be well wrapped with blankets. Bottles of hot water should be applied to the feet, and medical aid at once be summoned. No external use of camphor is advisable while other remidies are employed.

Published by order of the Hahnemann Academy of Medicine, New York, July 17, 1854.

☞The Ogdensburgh Sentinel says that a rich vein of lead has been discovered in making excavations on the line of Ogdensburgh, Clayton & Rome Railroad, in the vincinity of Redwood. The vein crosses the track of the road, and where discovered, has been worked out eight feet wide, and still bids fair to be much wider.

The top of the vein where it was first struck was about three or four feet from the ground surface, and the drill denotes that it has considerable depth. The lead is somewhat intermixed with spar and quartz, and the ore is richer than any that has yet been discovered in this section of they country.

Quite Warlike.—We learn from the Chippewa Agency, that Hole-in-the-Day started a few days since at the head of 400 warriors for a war upon the Sioux. He has sworn to drive every Sioux from the North side of the Minnesota, a threat which he may not find easy to fulfill. We apprehend, however, that there will be some blood spilt before he returns, and the scalps of some half dozen squaws and papooses may form trophies of the expedition, which will grace the triumphal march of these brave sons of the forest as they return home flushed with victory and success.

New Wheat and Barley.—New Wheat and Barley raised in the western part of this State was exhibited in market yesterday morning. The sample of Barley offered by Messrs. Grant, Armstrong & Co., consisted of a lot of 14 bushels and 4 bags of four rowed, from Newark, Wayne county, N. Y. The supply of Wheat was forwarded to the same firm in this city by Messrs. M. S. & H. J. Leach, Lyons, Wayne county, and consisted of 223 bushels of prime Genesee.

Poets and Poetry.

(Selected for the Republican).

The first Anglo-Saxon writer of note, who composed in his own language, and of whom there are any remains, is Cædmon, a monk of Whitby, who died about 680. Cædmon was a genius of the class headed by Burns, a poet of nature's making, sprung from the bosom of the common people, and little indebted to education. It appears that he at one time acted in the capacity of a cow-herd. The circumstances under which his talents were first developed, are narrated by Bede with a strong cast of the marvellous, under which it is possible, however, to trace a basis of natural truth. 'We are told that he was so much less instructed than most of his equals, that he had not even learnt any poetry; so that he was frequently obliged to retire, in order to hide his shame, when the harp was moved towards him in the hall, where at supper it was customary for each person to sing in turn. On one of these occasions, it happened to be Cædmon's turn to keep guard at the stable during the night, and, overcome, with vexation, he quited the table and retired to his post of duty, where, laying himself down, he fell into a sound slumber. In the midst of his sleep, a stranger appeared to him, and, saluting him by his name, said, 'Cædmon, sing me something.' Cædmon answered, 'I know nothing to sing; for my incapacity in this respect was the cause of my leaving the hall to come hither.' 'Nay,' said the stranger, 'thou hast something to sing.' What must I sing?' said Cædmon. 'Sing the Creation,' was the reply, and thereupon Cædmon began to sing verses 'which he had never heard before,' and which are said to have been as follows:—

Now we shall praise
the guardian of heaven,
the might of the creator,
and his counsel,
the glory-father of men!
how he of all wonders,
the eternal lord,
formed the beginning.
He first created for the children of men heaven as a roof,
the holy creator!
then the world
the guardian of mankind,
the eternal lord,
produced afterwards,
the earth for men,
the almighty master!

Cædmon then awoke; and he was not only able to repeat the lines which he had made in his sleep, but he continued them in a strain of admirable versification.

Smith Drunk vs. Smith Sober.

Smith, the Razor Strop man, occasionally breaks off from the subject of the very superior quality of the strops, and gives his audience a short lecture on temperance in his own peculiar, droll way,—Here is a short extract:

"Smith's Cat—When I drank grog I owned a cat, a poor, lean, lantern-jawed thing, that was always getting into a scrape. As I had nothing for her to eat she was compelled to take to the highway, and the neighbors were continually crying out, "Cus that Smith's cat, she's drunk all my milk." Poor thing, she had to steal or die; for she could find no pickings at home, for even the poor mice that were left, were so poor and scraggy that it took several of them to make a shadow; and a decent cat would starve to death in three weeks on an allowance of eighteen per day. But when I reformed, things took a different turn. The kitchen being well provided, the crumbs were plenty; and the old cat grew fat and honest together. Even the mice grew fat and oily, and the old tabby would make a hearty supper on two of them, and then lie down and snooze with the pleasing consolation of knowing that when she awoke there would be a few more left of the same sort.

And again: When I was a beer guzzler, mother, father cried, Bill cried, Moll cried, and the cat cried. But when I signed the pledge, father sung, mother sung, wife sung, Bill sung, Moll sung, Bet sung, the cat sung, and the kettle sung, and I bought a new frying pan, and put a nice piece of beef-steak in it, and placed it on the fire, and that sung, and that's the kind of singing for the working man.

And a third: The difference between Smith sober and Smith drunk, is this: Smith drunk was rummy, ragged and riotous—Smith sober is joyous, jovial and jolly. Smith drunk was stuttering, stupid and staggering; Smith sober is cool, clear-headed and cautious. Smith drunk was sick, sore and sorry; Smith sober is hearty, healthy and happy. Smith drunk is ill-read, ill-bred and ill-led, Smith sober is well-saved, well-behaved and well-shaved."

New Haven, August, 25, 1759.

Last Thursday came to Town from New York 100 of the French Prisoners taken at Niagara, consisting of Canadians and Regulars. Almost all of them chose to go to Prison rather than to be hired, the Proposals of which they treated with disdain. The like Number we hear were secured at Fairfield.

We hear by Capt. Burr of Fairfield, that one Mr. Crouch of that Place, had just received a Letter from his Son (who has been several Years in the Service, is a Man of noted Veracity, and good Intelligence, now a Lieutenant in Captain Smedlie's Regiment at Lake Champlain) dated Ticonderoga, the 14th inst., in which Letter is the following Expression: Yesterday our General received an Express from Quebeck, acquainting him that Gen. Wolfe has taken the Place, and 7000 Prisoners. He adds, I believe we shall hardly go on. This Letter was communicated to the Superior Court, then sitting, and from the Character of the writer, People are inclined generally to believe the News.

BOSTON.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer in the Army, dated Albany, August 20, 1759.

"I Arrived here last Night from Crown Point. The Day before a Flag of Truce came from Quebeck, with a letter from M. Montcalm, directed to Gen. Amherst: This letter was dated at Beauville, August 5th; (which place is a little below Quebeck) here Monsieur Montcalm expected General Wolfe would land his Army, it being the most natural place for that purpose; therefore he entrenched here with all his forces, in order to give him a warm Reception; but it appears that General Wolfe out-generall'd him; for he only makes a feint landing, or lands a few Troops upon the North Side of the River, at or near the place before mentioned; but lands the main Body upon Point Levee, the South Side of the River, which is opposite the Town, draws his Boats over the Point to avoid the Cannon of the Town, pushes them in again, and lands upon the North Side, above the town, where Monsieur Montcalm says, General Wolfe has been entrenched; cannonading and bombarding the Town 18 days, till he had almost destroyed it; and seems determined to have it at all events. He futher says, he knows not but he may fall into the hands of the English; and if he should he doubts not he shall be well used, inasmuch as he has always treated the English so well, contrary to the express Ooders from his Master, as he is able to demonstrate by 24 Letters he wears in a Case under his Arm. He further says, his family are gone to Trois Rivieres, doubts not but they will fare well, having the English to guard them on one Side, and the French on the other. While the Flag of Truce was dispatching the Business, one of their men deserted, and came to us the next day; I understood the Sum and Substance of what he said was:—That t'was over with Canada. A large Fort is building at Crown-Point 900 Yards in Circumference; the Trenches to be dug 14 Feet deep, and two thirds of the way in solid Rock; in which they make great progress. We have a most glorious Campaign, Joy and Health appears in every Countenance; tho' the Fatigue and Labour is very hard upon the Soldiers; no Murmuring or wrangling: the General seems to be endowed with almost divine Qualifications for making and keeping up Peace Harmony and Unanimity in the Army.—Plattsburgh Republican.

☞ Ex-Senator Williams, the interloper from New Hampshire, seems anxious to give the country a practical illustration of 'Squatter Sovereignty.' His Senatorial Commission has expired, and no one has exhibited any desire that he should continue in his seat, and yet he unblushingly remains in the Senate, simply because he hasn't self respect enough to appreciate the indecency of his position, and because the Sergeant-at-Arms dosen't like to forcibly eject a man who had once a right to occupy a desk on the floor. If any thing was needed to add to his ignominy, it would be found in the fact that he voted to expel Phelps, of Vermont, who tried to 'hold ovor' under a precisely similar state of facts!

Try It.—"Just before going to bed, eat two pig's feet and a cold pie. In less than an hour you will see a snake larger than a hawser, devouring eight blue-haired children, which have just escaped from a monster with sorrel eyes and a red hot overcoat."

For Costiveness.—a thing that leads to painful and often fatal diseases—there is no better laxative than salt (choloride of sodium) dissolved in water. Take a glass of warm water and dissolve a teaspoonful of salt in it, then cool with ice, and drink it off. To empty the contens of the bowels, it is the safest and best eppharic known. It does not disturb the mucilage of the intestines, and causes no pain or weakness.

Repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

No political measure for many years, has so profoundly agitated the public mind in this country, as the repeal of the Missouri compromise. It has brought out opposition from thousands who never before had deeply interested themselves in political matters. In fact it has absorbed a greater share of attention than the public can well afford to bestow upon one object. When men begin to talk of the "all important thing," even if rational upon that, they have but little judgment upon any other: their few giant ideas make pygmies of the rest. It was not expected by those who were desirous of undoing all of the compromise, not beyond their reach, that the people would remain quiet, while they were executing their purposes; on the other hand they anticipated from the people what they found, that storm of opposition which a free community when enlightened will ever raise against an effort to conquer it with base works of legislation. The scheme which they undertook, and have finally brought to a successful issue, is not one to be subjected to the exercise of mere opinion: it involves questions, or has produced those, which millions answer, as excited sympathies suggest; with passion and prejudice Slavery, when visible in native deformity, is repugnant to the strongest feelings of human benevolence: hence, whatever seems calculated to perpetuate its existence, and augment its power, is more universally and deeply disliked than any other evil of the same magnitude, to which only opinions of policy can be directed. When Senator Douglas first proposed to break down the barriers that excluded Slavery from a portion of our territory, thousands who were accustomed to hold themselves from political discussion, were converted into just such politicians as excited passions make. The worst classes of society at the North, found opportunity to display their better traits of character, and became zealous philanthropists. Slavery met with foes, where all other abominations were held in good repute.

Whether the abrogation of the Missouri Compromise was an act of good motives, on the part of its originator, is easily determined. Some consideration justly belongs to that measure; not inconsistent with laudable designs, in men of fair political character, if by such men the measure had been accomplished. But originated, fostered, and finally perfected by a slaveholder; by an intriguing aspirant to the Presidency; by a man of character notoriously corrupt, it must be regarded as the offspring of selfish wickedness. It is not probable that his own opinions as a constitutional lawyer, would prompt him to overthrow a great compact, which the entire people, for thirty years had thought permanent as our Union, which was framed by the most eminent Statesmen our country ever produced, and which had since remained undisturbed, even by a single discussion. Although to relieve our rising territories of that great restriction upon popular sovereignty were a triumph of the Constitution, yet no man could be righteously censured for ingratitude toward the individual whom it was effected. Men can feel grateful only when good motives accompany the deed. Therefore, I apprehend, that there will not be sufficient gratitude among the American Democracy to move them to reward Senator Douglas with future Presidential honors. It is plainly shown, that he stands justly charged of base, of criminal motives, as chief mover in the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. That was an impolitic act, and he knew it. It did not originate with him as a Statesman. Although it might maintain a principle, and a disputed one, and which the vast majority of the people valued less than others, of which Slavery is the essential violation; although it might maintain such principle, it could not fail to be a source of immense injury. It was perfectly evident in the beginning, perfectly plain before the beginning, that it would destroy the general harmony, and prevailing quietude, absolutely indispensable to the best interests of a Democratic government; that if performed, such agitation would ensue, as our own experience, and examples derived from all republican history, has taught us to fear; which our wisest Statesmen have constantly guarded against, and urged us to avoid. Such agitation among us is like poison mixed with daily food. There were many consequent evils to be foreseen, from the moment the Nebrasea bill was introduced into the United Senate, whatever character the territories upon which that bill was designed to operate, might be made to assume. That any great interests of our country are to be promoted by suddenly turning the legislative land-marks between Freedom and Slavery, except the interests of the latter is not seriously pretended. If the benefit of Slavery was held in view by the Nebraska bill, its object would be the strongest condemnation of its author. He performed that greatest act of his political life uninfluenced by public opinion, and his motives must have originated exclusively in himself. When the people request, half the curse is taken away from an evil act; at least there are fewer to censure.—But that none demanded; none desired it except avaricious slaveholders, among whom undoubtedly, the high priest who presided over the last sacrifices made to Slavery may be numbered. He was well aware that the greater share of the public mind, whose choice it had been, to elevate his party to power, was not expecting, was unwilling to see the principle of popular sovereignty enforced in the manner in which he applied it. That such was the fact may be seen from present action in the Democratic party. To the masses principle are a third issue, unless their objects of application are presented along in them. That the popular voice sustains a political doctrine, is no guarantee that it will also sustain all practical measures deduced therefrom. This may be taken into consideration, in accounting for the great changes sometimes made in our state policy. However, it is perhaps, best for a self-governed people to be rigidly practical. But what must be the character of that party organization, of which a full enforcement of its principles can work such a dissolution, as at the North somewhat threatens the party responsible, for the passage of the Nebraska bill? When any one becomes a Democrat, he should ascertain whither tend the principles he espouses, and what policy they embrace. Whoever voted for Frank Pierce and approved the last Democratic national platform, acts in condemnation of past conduct and in violation of party pledges, by denouncing the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.—That a Democratic Legislature might do. Democrats need not complain of their leaders, for exercise of present power, since they have used it, as the expressed will, at least, of their party has directed; they have led where in a manner they were authorized to go. I could not regard him as consistent in conduct who heartily opposed Douglas and his associates, in their endeavors to change the policy of our government in reference to the territories, until, if he previously belonged there, he had fairly stepped out of the Democratic ranks. At the North, until that party is disorganized, until its members loose themselves from former attachments, no united effectual action can be made against the encroachment of Slavery. Since the South, witout distinction of party are combined to defend all interests that can be promoted by the extension of Slavery, if it can secure the entire Democracy in devotion to avowed principles, only a minority will be left to resist it. But here I apprehend little is to be feared.

The people of the free States have become aroused, whatever may be their party ties, to the welfare of human liberty; and if they remain so sufficiently long to escape the tyrany of demagouges, Freedom will commence a series of triumphs, which shall finally exterminate her natural foe. If anything is to be done for the extinction of Slavery, the people must do it, and do it in defiance of party claims. So long as great political parties exist in our country, between which there is bitter hostility, managed by corrupt leaders, and prostituted to the most selfish purposes, Slavery will prosper. It has always made the existence of political sects a means of working out its own objects. Where party organizations are firmly established, the people are politically educated with narrow views, and selfish reasonings; they loose their independence of mind, and deprave their legitimate character. Under influences so tending all the great evils we have felt, have been caused, but it is the fault of the people. When they wish to work out a great domestic revolution in favor of liberty, they must annihilate parties, even though to be reconstructed in future time. Whether the present is an exigency demanding from them such a course; let not politicians, but the people declare.

COMIN' THROUGH THE RYE.

Gin a body meet a body,
Comin' thro' the rye;
Gin a body kiss a body,
Need a body cry?
Ev'ry lassie has her laddie,
Nane, they say, hae I!
Yet a' the lads they smile at me,
When comin' thro' the rye.
Amang the train there is a swain
I dearly lo'e mysel';
But whaur his hame, or what his name,
I dinna care to tell.

Gin a body meet a body,
Comin' frae the town;
Gin a body greet a body,
Need a body frown?
Ev'ry lassie has her laddie,
Nane, they say, hae I!
Yet a' the lads they smile at me.
When comin' thro' the rye.
Amang the train there is a swain

☞ Very Good.—We find the following very good thing on our table, the paternity of which—having forgotten to credit—we cannot trace further than scissors:

As many writers take the trouble to define what a wife ought to be, we may as well add our idea on the subject to the general fund. A wife should be like a lamb—tender and nicely dressed.

But without sauce.—Albany Journal.

New York Correspondence.

New York, Aug. 10, 1854.

The weather having moderated considerably during the past week, business is beginning to revive and Hotels are receiving accessions to the number of guests.—Nothing is found in the cholera reports to cause alarm. At the Cholera Hospitals, there have been but 30 deaths during the week and two-thirds of them have been disipated women, from the lowest sinks of vice. There were 167 deaths from the cholera last week and there has been a decrease this week. It is surprising that there should not be more deaths from this disease, taking into consideration that this city is the chief port of entrance for the immense imigration (on an average of nearly 1000 per day throughout the whole year) from the old world: and as it contains such a large floating population, with some portions of the city in such a filthy condition. The press of the city are tired of complaining of dirty streets and have stopped, from mere weariness; it having produced no visible effects, except in a few prominent streets.

Money Matters.—Upon good securities, money can be had from banks and money lenders, to almost any extent, yet it is almost an impossibility to collect money due. The cry is that, that epidemic "money tight" has not yet abated and probably will not until after quarter-day. That long looked for day for landlords and the day feared by tenants in expensive stores, with slim custom. There are many tenants on Broadway who would gladly vacate their stores for less expensive ones, making less show and having more substance. Stocks are still depressed, caused by the fear of immense quantities of Rail Road securities being thrown upon the market, when the news of the Schuyler and other frauds shall have reached England and returns received.

The stock markets illustrate the remark of Henry Ward Beecher, that "a man must be endowed with omnicience, to tell which way stocks are going to turn. This is often determined by a clique of brokers who make fictitious sales, at a low figure, to one in the secrets, until stocks are sufficiently depressed and then purchase for themselves, whereupon they immediately go up by the same management. There is more gambling on Wall St. than in all other parts of the city. A great source of abuse in stock companies, is the custom of giving proxies to officers and others. Any stockholder desirous of electing themselves or friends to office, have but to secure the proxies of those who cannot attend the election to be elected and he ever after holds the proxies to keep him in office and uses them ever after unless revoked. There should be some estringent laws enacted to prevent frauds by officers of stock companies.

Flour has advanced about 25 cts. per bbl., and there is a growing scarcity of desirable hands. Pork has improved. The ground formerly occupied by the old Niblo House in Nassau St., has now erected upon it a substantial and elegant marble front building, six stories in heighth. The first story is occupied by four prominent Booksellers and Publishers. It should be called Booksellers Row, Part of the second story is occupied by the Baptist and Foreign Bible Society and the remainder by officers, among which is that of your agents, S. M. Pettingill & Co., who have removed from 122, across the street.

The singular advertisement which appeared in many papers of simply the words "Now-a-Days," causing much enquiry, turns out to be a book of that name which is to be published on the 1st of Aug. We have seen a copy and it looks quite readable. We learn that a Bangor lady is its authoress.

Last night we barely escaped a conflagration. A fire broke out in a boot store, in the Sun buildings, Fulton street. A large volume of flame and smoke burst out into the street presaging another great fire, but in two minutes a stream of water was brought to bear upon it and happily it was extinguished with little loss.

Our public schools closed yesterday for the summer. The boys and girls will soon be pouring into the country in search of fun and nature's rouge. Happy times to them. Don't we wish we were young again?

Foreign Papers.

Through the kindness of Mr. Jas. Wilson we have had the reading of more English papers. We select a few items for the curiosity of our readers.

Kilmarnock, June 22.

Dog and Cat.—A case came before Sheriff Anderson, in the Small Debt Court here to day (Thursday), in which considerable interest was felt by certain parties. The decision is calculated to cause alarm, especially among venerable spinsters who cherish in their lonely attics specimens of the feline race. Mr. John M'Crae, cooper, here, had a favourite grey, which he would not lose for any consideration. On the morning of the 6th of June, while puss was sitting confidently at her master's door dreaming of no harm, she was attacked and cruelly slain by a dog belonging to Mr. James Arbuckle, flesher. On this the owner of grimalkin preferred a claim of 30s as her value to him. Mr. Arbuckle refused to pay such an exorbitant sum for any cat, and the case, came before the court. The pursuer alleged, and said he was ready to prove, that the owner of the dog kept it and trained it for the express purpose of worrying cats. The Sheriff, however, considering that the result had been a merely accidental one, dismissed the case. We hardly think the public will acquiesce in the soundness of his lordship's decision. The cat is a domestic animal, and, as such, as much as an ox or an ass, was the property of the cooper. He might have valued it too highly, but he was certainly entitled to some compensation.

IRELAND.--LOUGHCOOTER CASTLE, GORT, COUNTY GALAWAY.

IMPORTANT TO CAPITALISTS.

It is intended to submit to Public Competition, early in the month of August next, at the Commercial Buildings, in the City of Dublin (unless previously disposed of by Private Contract), the FEE-SIMPLE and INHERITANCE of the CASTLE, OFFICES, and DEMESNE of LOUGHCOOTER, containing about 1260 Acres statute measure, and on which a sum exceeding £80,000 was expended by the late Proprietor, Lord Viscount Gort; together with the LAKE (three miles in length) and ISLAND therein.

LORD JOHN RUSSELL'S ELECTION.—At a meeting held yesterday of the Central and Ward Liberal Electors Committee, the following resolution was passed. and a committee formed to carry it out:—Resolved, 'That this meeting strongly recommends the Liberal electors to unite their efforts in securing the re-election of Lord John Russell as the representative of the City of London in Parliament.'—Globe.

TO the LIVERYMEN of the WORSHIPFUL COMPANY of FISHMONGERS.—In pursuance of a proclamation by the Sheriffs of London, you are hereby required to APPEAR at Guildhall, on Wednesday next, the 4th day of June, by Twelve o'clock at noon, for the purpose of ELECTING a sufficient and discreet CITIZEN to serve for the city of London in the present Parliament in the place of Lord John Russell.

WILLIAM WOOD. Beadlo.

DEANERY OF WINDSOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE Morning Chronicle.

SIR.—The deanery of Windsor, with an income of £2,000 per annum, is vacant. Would this not be a good opportunity to increase the staff of bishops at no expense to the public? All that is requisite is to change the deanship into a bishopric, giving, if advisable, the honorary title of dean to the senior canon. A diocese might easily be formed for the new bishopric by adding the rural portions of Surrey to the border parish of Windsor, and such other parishes as may intervene (they cannot be above one or two) between Windsor and that county. Thus the overgrown diocese of Winchester would be relieved, and the newly-composed one of Oxford very little affected.

The new bishopric might either be left with its income of £2,000, and no seat in the House of Lords, or else it might be gradually raised out of funds at the disposal of the Church to the episcopal standard, and given its rotation; or again, the intermediate step might be taken of raising it to £3,000, still without a peerage.

In any case there are ready a cathedral and a chapter, and £2,000, which may quite as well pay a working bishop of Surrey, as a comparatively sinecure Dean of Windsor.

Yours truly A. CHURCHMAN.

Progress.

The great hobby that seems to animate the young America jehus of our country nowadays is Progress; dash ahead, knock down, and run over Progress as if the matter of going ahead were all, whether it developed any good or not. Now, I sturdily protest against this mad Progress, this eagerness after change and innovation, this whirling one away and leaving behind all that is familiar to us. An occasional improvement in things, suggested by experience is well enough; but innovation in general is not improvement; but the wild prompting of fanciful conceit and thirst for novelty, which, instead of being encouraged ought to be checked. Most of the changes in fashion, &c., which have obtained under this spirit of Progress, are for the worse instead of better; being more inconvenient, unhandy, and unsubstantial than those which are made to supercede them. To my taste and convenience, the use of quill pens instead of metalic ones, and ink-stands instead of ink bottles to write out of, are far preferable. Also in the matter of clothing; the old fashion of coats cut away at the hips, instead of the straight bodied, long or short coats and pantaloons made to button and unbutton with fall flaps before, instead of the whole cut perpendicular slit little boy things, trumped now-a-days. These old acquaintances I prefer, and will not relinquish for the pedantic innovation that would supplant them. Then there is the pesky corruption which have crept into our language in the affected manner of pronouncing words. It is disgusting to me; for instance, the calling h-e-a-r-d hurd, d-e-a-f deff, b-e-a-r-d beerd, w-o-u-n-d wound, n-a-t-u-r-e nachure; together with others that might be named, and which are no more, according to the true chaste English standard, than is the French or German; and I shall not conform to the corruption. In conclusion, I think that the Jehus who are so insane for Progress had better leave the earth and get astride of a comet's tail, and perhaps they can go ahead in a way to suit themselves.

SUPPLYING PAPER.—A circumstance adverted to in some of the papers I have seen, suggests some thoughts worth your consideration. This is the strait to which the paper manufacturers in our country are put to to supply the article for the many printing establishments in operation. It is a thing the possibility of which has occurred to me long before now. And indeed who ought to wonder at it at all? when we consider the enormous quantity used by some of the principal establishments in the cities, and that too in sheets of mammoth size, thrice that of papers published 30 or 40 years ago, and so much larger than need to be. What strikes a considerate mind in this case most, is, that out of all this inordinate consumption of paper, so much of it is used in the printing of fictitious trash and vaunting productions, of no real benefit to the reader, and serving no purpose but the pampering a vitiated taste for novelty. The rage with these publishers seems to be to print just a flood of books &c., to keep themselves busy; no matter, public good needs it or not. By retrenching their issues and curtailing the size of sheets, printing no more than what public benefit calls for, the paper market will be sensibly relieved; and I should advise the Harpers, Gleasons, &c., to hold up and ease off to a reasonable rate in their issues. Otherwise I would be far from sorry to see them run ashore for lack of paper to supply their inflated vanity.

Why is our Vermont delegation in Congress like a shoe in use?

Because it has a (Foote) foot in it.

THE INSTITUTION OF MATRIMONY.—How much is the sober reason and common sense of mankind insulted by the loose, unqualified terms in which the institution of matrimony is recommended by unscrupulous, impertinent newspaper scribblers and talkers! Proper and becoming as the marriage state is for those, who becoming qualified for it are led by inclination to seek the company of the other sex for cohabitation and raising offspring; it derives no honor from the idea of all pressing into it without regard to fitness or capacity.—It being well enough known, that there are many who are physically and mentally disqualified therefor: the injunction to general wedlock is absurd, Nor even does a person being naturally qualified, lay him under obligation to marry. If he is content, and chooses to remain single, he has a right to, and the world has no business to censure him for his choice.

☞ I would like to know, Mr. Tarbell, what the reason is that the second Autograph I sent you, has not been responded to by an exchange? for no Republican have I got in return for it. Is my correcting you about what was told you of my education, such a stunner that you won't send any more? or what is it? Fie, man! Be fair and toe the mark.

(We copied the "Stunner" entire and sent an exchange, or meant to. We are very sorry if we neglected our cotemporary, and regret one exchange was not promptly received.)—[Ed. Rep.

Fire and Railroad Accident.

On Wednesday afternoon last week, as the locomotive Plattsburgh, with Engineer, Fireman and another hand, was running from Sciota to Moores Junction, on the Plattsburgh and Montreal Railroad, to bring down a freight train, they encountered a tremendous fire which was raging in a large quantity of cord wood and other combustibles, in the vicinity of the road. It was the intention of the Engineer to go through the fire, if possible; but when he got into the midst of it, it was found that the rails began to settle, and the Engineer reversed the engine; but, it being a down grade, did not stop it till it had got into the thickest of the fire. The heat became so oppressive and the flames lashing the locomotive on every side, the Engineer and the fireman jumped off, but the former immediately got on again, the latter went in another direction. After a short time, the locomotive was driven back, and the two escaped, but not without being most severely burnt, Lamaire, the Brakeman, was burn in the face, hands and legs, to a blister, as was likewise Hedding, the Engineer, and would, most likely, have perished, were it not that they wet themselves with the water in the tender. Their clothes were almost entirely burnt off them and on their return to Scotia, they presented a most pitiable appearance. One of Lamaire's hands was so badly burnt, that the skin came off like a glove, but he put it on again, where he suffered it to remain.

When the news of the accident reached here, a locomotive was dispatched to the place of the accident, to find the man who jumped off. He was found near the fire with his clothes literally burnt off of him, and his body a perfect blister. He is not expected to live.

There were about seven hundred cords of wood destroyed by the fire, the loss of which, we learn falls upon Messrs. Ransom, merchants of Moores, which cannot be estimated at much less than two thousand dollars.

Since the above was written, we have been informed that the Fireman died on Thursday evening.—Platt's. Whig.

COW OR KEOW?—We are indebted to the correspondent of the New Nork Herald for the following.

WHITEHEAD, (Kansas Territory, July 1, '54.

I have concluded to send you a line from this far-distant region, to let your readers know how matters progress in our entirely new country.

The ammount of immigration in the way of men and cattle is surprising. Thousands and thousands are pouring in from all portions of the Union, but more especially from Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. It seems to be a purpose prepense to have it a slave State. There is a story abroad, that at all the ferries over the Missouri river they have a cow tied, and a committee to watch all immigrants. If the committee ask of each immigrant what auimal that is—if he says "a cow," all well—he goes over; but if he answers "a keow," they turn him back.

The New Haven Register says "there are but two great parties in this country—the Democratic party and the opposition to that party." To which the New Haven Journal replies that "the Register is equal to the fellow who said he knew two tunes—one was Old Hundred and the other wasn't."

☞ "Wild Maggie," one of the popular characters in the "Hot Corn Stories," is said to be a pupil at Miss Levitt's school in West Stockbridge. At the Fourth of July celebration of that town, it is said that she was one of the young ladies who personated the different States of the Union.

The Republican.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, August 12.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands,
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

Stand by the Colors.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig party to stand by its colors."—Albany Journal.

OUR COMPLIMENTS.—We present a copy of the Republican this week to every family in the village, without distinction of nation, creed, politics, or station, and with it our best wishes for their health, happiness, and prosperity. Our recent improvements demand to be signalized in some way and we take this method of commemorating the event. We have now been here nearly four years, but have never asked any person to subscribe for our paper, or patronize our job office. We have, however, labored faithfully for the advancement of the village and if now in return the people wish to help us along we shall be pleased to record their names upon our books.

OUR PAPER.—We have now added over $100, to our materials for our paper and job office. We trust our readers have already observed the improved appearance of the Republican, and hope it will soon be to their taste. Our job office is now, as it always has been, the best north of Troy, It is more complete, however, than it ever has been. We have made some valuable additions, and we are happy to say that they are paid for. Nevertheless, we sadly need what is our due, and require the continued patronage of our friends for our success.

We go to press this week without our usual telegraph news in consequence of some accident to the wires which prevents the line from working.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—MR. R. M. MATTOCKS, the Telegraph Operator at this place being about to leave, we embrace this occasion to tender to him, and through him to the proprietors, our sincere acknowledgments for constant favors. Mr. M. is in every respect a gentleman, and we regret exceedingly his departure. It will be difficult to find a successor who will make our intercourse with the office so invariably agreeable.

MORIAH ACADEMY.—We beg leave to call attention to the advertisement of this institution. We have enquired into its merits and find it worthy of patronage.—The teachers are qualified to take charge of any institution in this section of the State. Mr. Howe is a graduate of Middlebury College and Miss Smith has no superior in music. The building is built of brick, is large and commodious, and was erected several years since expressly for an Academy. Good board, at reasonable rates can be obtained in the village.

SPIRITUALISM.—We are in the receipt of regular monthly numbers of the Sacred Circle, Edited by Judge Edwards, Dr. Dextor and O. G. Warner, the ablest organ of the kind published. N. Y., $2 a year.

GENESEE FARMER.—We have the pleasure to acknowledge the accession of this excellent agricultural paper to our exchange list.

PEOPLE'S JOURNAL.—This Monthly for August is superb, containing no less than 52 engravings. The only wonder is how it can be afforded for the trifling sum of 50 cents a year.

NEW ORE-BED.—Major Wm. H. Brockway of Clintonville, thinks he has discovered a valuable and extensive vein of iron ore near Trout Pond a few miles south of Clintonville. It is easily accessible.

RELIEF.—Congress has adjourned, and there is a spontaneous expression of relief in the fact that no more harm can be done by that body. "Good riddence to bad rubbage."

☞ That sterling Whig paper, the Keeseville Republican, has put on a bran new and beautifully engraved head, and otherwise improved its typographical appearance.—Whitehall Chronicle.

Our friends are very kind in their notices. We ever look over our exchanges with interest and have come to regard them all with high estoem. We are pleased with their prosperity and whatever honors are showered upon them we put down as a testimony in behalf of the power of the 'local press.' These friendly greetings are an assurance that though personally unacquainted our sympathies are reciprocated. We hope to cultivate these kindly feelings, and keep them growing stronger and stronger. There is a mighty power in the "local press," tho' thus far dormant. Mutual acquaintance and interests ought to be cultivated earnestly and systematically. If this were done the local press would very soon assume a position its power entitles it to.

Whig State Candidates.

Daniel Ullman is spoken of for Governor. He was a candidate for Attorney-General in 1851, and defeated by that scamp, Levi S. Chatfield, to the regret of good men of all parties. Tho' a Silver Grey, many a Woolly would take a lively pleasure in giving a spare day to advocate his election.

——Hon. D. S. Wright of Whitehall, is frequently mentioned for Canal Commissioner. We "go in" for the Doctor. He is locally, as well as personally (W) right. There never has been a Northern Canal Commissioner. Northern New York is being appreciated of late and we hope it may result in giving this section its due position in politics. There is apparently a spontaneous rising in favor of Dr. Wright and his nomination we take to be somewhat certain. At least We hope the Northern Counties will present his name in solid column.

——For State Prison Inspector, Hon. J. T. Everest, of Clinton County, has claims which we believe ought not to be overlooked. He has been favorably presented by the Northern Counties to one State Convention, and by a vigorous effort now, his nomination might be effected.

——These speculations are based upon the supposition, that the River and Canal Counties will claim the lion's share as usual—taking all the other offices. If they consent to give Essex County the Governor, this programme would of course be somewhat changed, but conceding the Governor and Lieut. Governor to the South and West, the location of Canal Commissioner at Whitehall, and State Prison Inspector in Clinton Co., would be a fair, reasonable and just arrangement.

CALIFORNIA.—We are indebted to a friend for regular files of papers from the Golden State from which we quote;

The accounts from the mining districts continue favorable. As this is the dry season, there are not so many persons at work as usual; but from all that we hear, we judge that the miners, as a whole, are doing exceedingly well. The improved facilities for obtaining gold are so numerous, that many districts, which have heretofore been considered almost valueless, are now worked to great advantage. Those who have learned the business of mining, and are content to stay in one place and work and save their money, generally do well.

The accounts of the crops and the harvest from all parts of the State are highly favorable. We have everything in the shape of eatables in the greatest abundance. All kinds of provisions, such as beef, flour and vegetables, are plenty and cheap. The difficulty now with the farmers is that we raise too much. Many of the farmers on this account will do little more than make their living the present year. Wheat, barley and all the grains will be sold at low rates, the country having produced all that is necessary forhome consumption.

The city is rapidly improving in every direction. The vexed question of determining the grades has been settled, the streets are being rapidly filled, old buildings are being torn down and new ones erected in their stead. Everywhere the spirit of improvement is visible. The work on the new Custom House and Merchants' Exchange is going forward rapidly. In a few years, San Francisco will be as handsomely built as any city of its size in the Union.

Considerable excitement exists in the ranks of the two Democratic factions in relation to their State Convention, which meets at Sacramento on the 18th inst.—Both sections claim a majority, and two sets of delegates from many of the counties will claim seats in the Convention.—As the Broderickites are much the best political managers, it is thought they will obtain the majority by the contested seats.

Observance of pledges.—The democracy of 1852 pledged themselves to oppose the revival of slavery agitation whenever and wherever started, and Pierce in his inaugural asserted that he would bring the whole power of the administration to bear to keep it down. Yet, in the whole history of the country, this question has never appeared as threatening and dangerous as now, under the encouragement of the administration.

EGGING THE PRESIDENT.—A young blood on a spree the other day met the President in the street whom he asked to "drink," but the latter refusing the former threw an egg at him hitting his hat.

No truer words were ever spoken:

Never was the Whig Party in a better position to rendeb great services to the country than at the present writing.—N. Y. Courier and Enquirer.

Serenade.

Friday evening last—a beautiful moonlight evening—the people of this village enjoyed a universal serenade by Will's Cornet Band. Few were neglected. We were about retiring as we heard the order to "play" and the notes of the full band came pouring into our house in most melodious strains. We are informed by the way that the Serenade was at the expense of W. W. Kingsland, who is very apt to be doing just such liberal things.

☞ The Newburgh Gazette proposes Hon. Daniel Ullmann, of New York city, as the Whig candidate for Governor next fall. Mr. U. was nominated in 1850 for Attorney General, by the Whig Convention, and received a large vote though he was not elected. He is an able popular and worthy man—an eloquent and active advocate of Whig principles, and has been a prominent member of the party from his youth up.—Roch. Am.

THE NEBRASKA INIQUITY.

BY JAMES JOHNS.

Old Satan from the pit below,
Had on our country years ago,
The curse of slavery wrought,
By sending men to Guinea's shore.
To steal the blacks and bring them o'er.
Here to be sold and bought,

And though our independence, we,
From Britain won, and to be free,
A Constitution fram'd,
T'was Satan stuck for slavery still,
Till he at length did get his will,
To spoil our country's fame.

While wiser states their slaves did free,
And thus vouchsaf'd to liberty,
Consistently her due.
Others perverse, and bent on pride,
The boon unto their backs denied,
Who still their bondage rue.

And yet have slavers, not content,
That freedom's line should circumvent
Their institution vile,
Aspir'd to spread its area wide,
Unwilling limits to abide,
Or to respect free soil.

In every territory new,
Which Uncle Sam has had in view,
To take in as a State.
Has Satan sought to push the curse,
And in it waxes worse and worse,
As we have seen of late.

When four and thirty years ago,
Missouri, as we all do know,
Applied for to come in.
He barely let her in with slaves.
Provided the free states should have,
North of her limits then.

How desperate still doth Satan grow,
For Texas next as we do know,
To balance he must get.
To compass round which crav'd intent,
Jim Polk he put in President,
And thus accomplish'd it.

'Tis later since he much was vexed,
That California trying next,
He could not get enslav'd.
So sets our Congress to enact,
A law, the runaways to get back,
Who bondage choose to leave.

A law of Satan's blackest stamp,
One which 'twere good if every scamp,
Who come to execute,
Were tarr'd and feather'd, rode on rail,
With those who help'd it to prevail,
As punishment to suit.

At last with maddest desperation,
All bent for to disgrace the nation,
Did Satan look around.
O'er Congress seats and there did find
A Senator plump to his mind,
And him his helper crowned.

In Arnold Douglas he rejoic'd
A traitor he from Illinois,
Who married a southern slaver.
'Tis he, Nebraska's sacred soil,
Of just protection would despoil,
And show the North no favor.

He'd open the door for slavery there,
And hard task-masters bid repair,
His blacks to oversee.
Congress by bribery overrul'd,
Were hir'd to please the trait'rous fool,
And pass'd the bill we see.

Shame on the wretches who betray'd
Their trust and Arnold's voice obeyed.
We spurn them as a snake.
Be ours to join in firmest league,
All to undo the foul intrigue,
And truer servants make.

Let us withstand the hellish scheme,
Of Slavery's nabobs who would dream,
The North to overbear.
Roll back the car of slavery hence,
And firmly stand in the defence,
Of freedom's cause so dear.

Huntington, Vermont.

(The author of the foregoing, our readers will recognize as the Editor of that interesting little sheet, printed with pen and ink—the Vt. Autograph and Remarker.)—[Ed. Rep.

☞ In the Syracuse Journal of Monday morning, we have the proceedings in full of the Anti Nebraska or "Fusion" Convention held in that city on Saturday last. Amos P. Granger, who presided, is a Whig. In the long list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries we recognize the names of somewhat noted abolitionists and freesoilers in '48.

A. H. Hovey, a prominent free-soiler in 1848, and the democratic Mayor of Syracuse in 1850, offered the following resolution:—

Resolved, That as the only effectual means of attaining the ends proposed in the foregoing resolutions, we reccommend the Convention which is to meet at Saratoga on the 16th inst, the formation of a new political organization and the appointment of a State Committee, for the purpose of calling a State Convention to nominate candidates for State officers in November next.

This resolution led to a long discussion, V. W. Smith, T. T. Davis, the President of the Convention, Gen. Granger, and other prominent Whigs opposed the resolution, while the barnburners and abolition delegates strenuously advocated it. The Convention finally passed the resolution, immedately after which it adjourned. A despatch from Syracuse to the Tribune says:

"The Whigs think the action of the Convention too radical."

Whigs this way think that their brethren in Onondaga have received the treatment they might have anticipated when they consented to go into convention with their old enemies. They proved too much for them in all respects, cooly suggested and insisted upon putting down the throats of the Whigs the resolution recommending the dissolution of the Whig Party.

As this is the first County Convention held to appoint delegates to Saratoga, the result should be noted. It unveils the whole movement. And no one need be at all surprised to find that the tame elements which were powerful enough in the Onondaga Convention to force the obnoxious resolution upon the convention, will be as overpowering at Saratoga. And it only remains for Whigs to decide for themselves what claims such a movement has upon their approval and cooperation.—Troy Whig.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R, of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in be forenoon.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried, The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same, Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, tho former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers, This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour, would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. Godonly knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—try it.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No. 149 Chambers Street; C. H. RING, corner of John street and Broadway. N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person inclosing $3 to BOYD & PAUL, or Curtis & Perkins, New York, will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler, in a neat box, by express, free to any part of the United States; or four packages for $10. 522 1yr

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. Tarbell, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure, No. 343 Broadway called the Pantheon, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Erastus W. Smith, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
Truman Cook, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
Chas. Ehman, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. Ayres, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
Hazard Knowles, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
William Sewell, Steam Engineer.
H. L. Stuart, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. Eaton, Analytical Chemist.
Hazard Knowles, President.
James Beattie, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence, although the public in this swooping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of, the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent, more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent, less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate, boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 30 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Jone's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Frost & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement. These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvement, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 104 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $300.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine, a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent, in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency, Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Floror Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a tonic Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial, a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations. Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery.) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

FRAUD!

ALL who want Axes of the real Collins & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than Twenty-five years since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate him elf before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony, his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Laws of New York—By Authority.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State, on and not before the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

[Every Law so published in the State Paper, may be read in evidence from the paper in which it shall be contained, in all courts of Justice in this State, and in all proceedings before any officer, body or board, in which it shall be thought necessary to refer thereto, until three months after the close of the session in which it be, came a law, Sec. 8, title 7, chap. 8, part 1, Revised Statutes, and laws of 1845-chap. 208.]

CHAPTER 58.

An act to amend the Revised Statutes in relation to agents of State Prisons.—Passed March 13, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section fifty of an act entitled "An act for the better regulation of the county and state prisons of the state, and consolidating and amending the existing laws in relation thereto," passed December fourteenth, 1847, is hereby amended so as to read as follows: All the fiscal transactions and dealings on account of each prison shall be conducted by and in the name of the agent thereof, who shall be capable in law of suing in all courts and places, and in all matters concerning the prisons, by his name of office, and by that name shall be authorized to sue for and recover all sums of money due from any person to any former agent of the prison, or to the people of this state on account of such prison; but it shall not be lawful in any such suit or action for any defendant or defendants to plead or give in evidence any offset, or to recover any judgment against such agent in such suit or action, other than for the costs and disbursements therein.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 59.

An act for the relief of Harvey, Milton and George Brayton. Passed March 13, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:—

Section 1. Harvey Brayton, Milton Brayton and George Brayton may, at any time within three months from the passage of this act, appeal from the decision of the canal appraisers, made March eighteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-two, upon their claim for damages to their lands in Western, Oneida county, by reason of soakage from the Black River canal, and of ditching made necessary thereby, and for lands permanently appropriated; and the canal board are hereby directed to hear and decide said appeal in the same manner and with the like effect as if the same had been brought within the time allowed by the general statute in relation to appeals from the decision of the canal appraisers to the canal board.

CHAPTER 62.

An act to defray the expenses of printing ballots for the extra election. Passed March 16, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The treasurer is hereby directed to pay, on the warrant of the comptroller, such sum of money as shall have been authorized by the order of the secretary of state for printing ballots, pursuant to the joint resolution passed eighteen hundred and fifty-four.

§ 2. The sum of four thousand five hundred dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the above named purpose.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 72.

An act to authorize savings banks or institutions for savings to deposit surplus funds in trust companies. Passed March 21, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. It shall be lawful for any savings bank or institution for savings to make temporary deposits in any trust company incorporated under the laws of this state, and authorized by the supreme court to receive and hold trust funds, and subject to examination by said court.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 73.

An act to confer new power and duties upon the court of oyer and terminer of this state. Passed March 22, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Whenever at the time appointed for the commencement of any term of the court of oyer and terminer of this state, or at any time during such term, if either of the justices of the peace, designated as members of the court of sessions of the county in which such term or court shall be held, shall not attend such court as a member thereof, the justice of the supreme court holding such court, in the absence of the county judge of said county, may at such term designate some other justice of the peace of the county to supply the vacancy occasioned by such non-attendance of any such justice, until the justice not attending as aforesaid shall attend such court as a member thereof; but such designation by the justice of the supreme court shall not authorize the justice designated by him to supply any such vacancy at any other term than that at which such designation shall be made.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 74.

An act to provide for the punishment of assaults with dangerous weapons. Passed March 23, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Any person who, with intent to do bodily harm, and without justifiable or excusable cause, shall hereafter commit any assault upon the person of another with any knife, dirk, dagger or other sharp, dangerous weapon, or who, without such justifiable or excusable cause, shall shoot off or discharge at another, with the intent to injure such other person, any air-gun, pistol or other fire-arms, although without intent to kill such other person or to commit any other felony, shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment in a state prison for a term not more than five years, or by imprisonment in the county prison for a term not exceeding one year.

§ 2. Upon any indictment against any person for an assault with intent to kill, it shall and may be lawful for the jury to find such accused person guilty of an assault, according to the provisions of this act.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 80.

An Act in relation to the Natural History of the State of New York. Passed March 28, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The provisions of the act entitled 'An act concerning the Natural History of the State of New York,' passed May fifth, eighteen hundred and forty six, shall extend and be in force for the term of two years from the passage of this act, for the benefit of all academies already incorporated since the sexteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and fifty-two, or which shall be incorporated within two years from the passage of this act, provided the supply shall have not been exausted.

§ 1. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 97.

An act creating the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Passed March 30, 1854, three fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. There shall be chosen by joint ballot of the senate and assembly, on the first Tuesday in April next, and every third year thereafter, and as often as a vacancy shall occur in said office, a state superintendent of public instruction, who shall hold his office for three years, and shall be invested with all the powers, perform all the duties, and be subject to all the responsibilities now conferred or imposed by law upon the secretary of state in his capacity of superintendent of common schools.

§ 2. The superintendent so appointed shall enter immediately upon the discharge of his duties, and shall be assigned suitable and convenient rooms in the state hall, to which all books, papers and documents, now in the office of the secretary of state, and pertaining to the common school department, shall be transferred. He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars, payable quarterly by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller; and shall have power to appoint a deputy, and as many clerks, not exceeding three, as he may deem necessary for the transaction of the business of the department; but the compensation of such deputy and clerks shall not exceed three thousand dollars in any one year, and shall be payable monthly by the treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller and the certificate of the superintendent.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the state superintendent, as soon as may be practicable after the commencement of his official term to devise a seal, with suitable inscriptions and devise, a description of which, together with an impression thereof, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, which shall thereafter be the official seal of said superintendent, and such seal may be renewed from time to time, as often as may be necessary; copies of all papers deposited or filed in the office of said superintendent, and all acts, orders and decisions made by him, may be authenticated under such seal, and when so authenticated shall be evidence equally and in like manner, with the original.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the state superintendent to visit as often as may be practicable, such and so many of the common schools, academies and other literary institutions of the state as he may deem expedient; to inquire into the course of instruction, management and discipline of such institution, and to report the result of such visitation and inspection annually to the Legislature, with such recommendations and suggestions as he may deem suitable.

§ 5. The state superintendent shall be ex-officio a member of the board of regents of the university, and chairman of the executive committee of the board of regents of the State Normal School.

§ 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Secretary's Office. } I have compared the preceding with the original laws on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom of the whole of the said original.

Secretary of State.

Niagara Falls—Doesticks on a Bender.

Dear Editor: I have been to Niagara, you know—Niagara Falls—big rocks, water, foam, Table Rock, Indian curiosities, squaws, moocasins, stuffed snakes, rapids, wolves, Clifton House, suspension bridge, place where the water runs swift, the ladies faint, scream, and get the paint washed off their faces; where the aristocratic Indian ladies sit on the dirt and make little bags; where all the inhabitants swindle strangers; where the cars go in a hurry, the waiters are impudent, and all the small boys swear.

When I came in sight of the suspension bridge, I was vividly impressed with the idea that it was some bridge, in fact a considerable curiosity, and a considerable bridge—took a glass of beer and walked up to the Falls—another glass of beer and walked under the Falls; wanted another glass of beer, but couldn't get it; walked away from the Falls, wet through, mad; triumphant, victorious, humbug!—humbug! sir, all humbug! except the dabblinoss of everything, which is a most certainty, and the cupidity of every body, which is a diabolical fact, and the Indians and niggers everywhere, which is a Satanic truth.

Another glass of beer—'twas forthcoming—immediately—also another, all of which I drank. I then proceeded to drink a glass of beer, went over to the States, where I procured a glass of beer—went up stairs, for which I paid a sixpence, over to Goat Island, for which I disbursed twenty-five cents, hired a guide, to whom I paid half a dollar,—sneezed four times, at nine cents a sneeze—went up on the tower for a quarter of a dollar, and looked at the Falls—didn't feel sublime any, tried to but couldn't, took some beer, and tried again but failed—drank a glass of beer and began to feel better—thought the waters were sent for and were on a journey to ——— thought the place below was one sea of beer—was going to jump down and get some, guide held me; sent him over to the hotel to get a glass of beer, while I tried to write some poetry; result as follows:—

O thou (spray in one eye) awful, (small lobster in right shoe) sublime (both wet) master piece of (jimmeny, what a lie,) the Almighty. Terrible and majestic art thou in thy tremdous might—awful (orful) to behold, (cramp in my right shoulder) gigantic, huge and nice! Oh, thou that tumblest down and risest up again in majesty to Heaven—the glorious parent of a thousand rainbows—what a huge, grand, awful, terrible, tremendous, infinite old swindling, humbug you are; what are you doing there, you rapids you—you know you've tumbled over the rocks and can't get up again to save your puny existence; you make a great fuss, don't you?

Man came back with the beer, drank it to the last drop, and wished there had been a gallon more—walked out on a rock to the edge of the fall, women on shore very much much frightened—I told her not to get excited if I fell over, as I would step right up again—it would not be much of a fall anyhow—got a glass of beer of a man, another of a woman, and another of two small boys with a pail—fifteen minutes elapsed, when I purchased some more of an Indian woman and imbibed it through a straw; it wasn't good—had to get a glass of beer to take the taste out of my mouth; legs began to tangle up, effect of the spray in my eyes, got hungry and wanted something to eat—went into an eating house, called for a plate of beans, when the plate brought the waiter in his hand I took it, hung up my beef and beans on a nail, eat my hat, paid dollar to a nigger, and sided out on the stepwalk, bought a boy of a glass of dog with a small beer and a neck on his tail, with a collar with a spot on the end—felt funny, sick—got some sodawater in a tin cup, drank [illegible] cup and pieces, the sod[illegible] counter, and paid for the money full of pocket—very bad headache; rubbed it against the lamp post and then stumped along; station house came along and said if I didn't go straight he'd take me to the watchman—tried to oblige the station house—very civil station house, very—met a baby with an Irish woman and a wheelbarrow in it, couldn't get out of the way, she wouldn't walk on the sidewalk, but insisted on going on both sides of the street at once; tried to walk between her; consequence collision, awful, knocked out the wheelbarrow's nose, broke the Irish woman all to pieces, baby loose, court house handy, took me to the constable, jury sat on me, and the jail said the magistrate must take me to the constable; objected; the dungeon put me into the darkest constable in the city; got out, and here I am, prepared to stick to my original opinion—Niagara unus humbug! non excelsus, non indignus admiralconi.

Poets and Poetry.

The subject of last week continued & concluded.

Cædmon thus composed many poems on the Bible histories, and on miscellaneous religious subjects, and some of these have been preserved. His account of the Fall of Man is somewhat like that given in Paradise Lost, and one passage in it might almost be supposed to have been the foundation of a corresponding one in Milton's sublime epic. It is that in which Satan is described as reviving from the consternation of his overthrow. A modern translation into English follows:—

[Satan's Speech.]

Boiled within him
his thought about his heart;
Hot was without him
his dire punishment.
Then spake he words:
'This narrow place is most unlike that other that we formerly knew, high in heaven's kingdom,
which my master bestowed on me,
though we it, for the All-powerful,
may not possess.
We must cede our realm;
yet hath he not done rightly,
that he hath struck us down to the firey abyss
of the hot hell,
bereft us of heaven's kingdom, hath decreed to people it with mankind.
That is to me of sorrows the greatest,
that Adam,
who was wrought of earth,
shall possess
my strong seat;
that it shall be to him in delight,
and we endure this torment,
misery in this hell.
Oh! had I the power of my hands * *
then with this host I——
But around me lie iron bonds;
presseth this cord of chain;
I am powerless!
me have so hard
the clasps of hell
so firmly grasped!
Here is a vast fire
above and underneath; never did I see
loathlier landskip;
the flame abateth not,
hot over hell.
Me hath the clasping of these rings,
this hard polished band,
impeded in my course,
debarred me from my way.
My feet are bound,
my hands are manacled;
of these hell doors are the ways obstructed;
so that with aught I cannot from these limb-bonds escape.
About me lie huge gratings of hard iron,
forged with heat,
with which me God
hath fastened by the neck.
Thus perceive I that he knoweth my mind,
and that he knew also,
the Lord of hosts,
that should us through Adam evil befall,
about the realm of heaven,
where I had power of my hands.'"

The specimen of Cædmon above given in the original language may serve as a general one of Anglo-Saxon poetry. It will be observed that it is neither in measured feet, like Latin verse, nor rhymed, but that the sole peculiarity which distinguishes it from prose is what Mr. Wright calls a very regular alliteration. so arranged, that in every couplet there should be two principal words in the line beginning with the same letter, which letter must also be the initial of the first word on which the stress of the voice falls in the second line.

SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN STOLEN.—The Albany Journal requests papers throughout the Union to copy the annexed description of a girl supposed to be stolen:

A little girl about four years of age; light complexion, blue eyes, prominent forehead, upon which is a slight birthmark, just in the edge of the hair. Was taken from a woman who has formerly traveled through the Western and Southern States, having passed through Mobile, St Louis, Cincinnati and New York.

Further particulars will be furnished at this office.

The Weather—Judge Betts and Chas. O'Connor—New Material for paper—Village Making, &c.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5, 1854.

After a few days of respite, the sun comes out again, hot as ever. So hot that it seems to have burnt a little clothing off of everybody. This prominent lawyer you meet in the street without any coat and his vest unbottoned—that merchant without any vest and his coat thrown wide open. So hot that stiff stand-up collars wilt under the heat, and neck-ties gradually loosening, drop off into the pocket and are seen no more. I read in the morning papers, the official reports of the Cholera and receive every week, letters from anxious country friends, imploring me to get out of the city if possible during the Cholera season. But as I do not know personally of a single case of the Cholera, or even any serious case of the ordinary summer complaints and moreover, as I never felt better than at this particular season. I go on about as usual, eating fruit and vegetables, without fear, seeing only that they are not unripe nor stale. There is no news. What little there was has been spoiled by the heat and rendered unfit for use. We have however, a cool and refreshing letter of Mr. O'Connor's to read, which contains a bet with Betts. Judge Betts holds the U. S. Disirict Court in this city and Mr. Geo. Betts practices therein. The latter though a young lawyer, has already gained a considerable reputation as a very successful practitioner in his father's court. His great success in all cases of United States jurisdiction, has given rise to some jealousies on the part of the profession. In a case of some importance, recently tried before Judge Betts in which Mr. O'Connor was employed as counsel on one side and Mr. Geo. Betts on the other; the Judge and Mr. O'Conner, each of them expressed some dissatisfaction at the course of the other upon the trial and the judge in overruling the motion made by Mr. O'Connor, complained of the unusual length of time which he had consumed in argument of an incidental point, which he said was governed by principles so familiar that he did not doubt that a decision to the same effect as his own in overruling the motion, could be found in every volume of Johnson's Reports. Mr. O'Connor therenpon comes out with an offer of $1,000, which he makes from motives of delicacy to Mr. Geo. Betts, if within six months he can find one such decision in Johnson's Reports, or can obtain a written certificate that his father's decison is correct, from any of a long list of Jndges named by him, including those of the U. S. Supreme Court and the court of Appeals, the Court of Common Pleas, the Supreme Court and the Superior Court of this state. What answer will be given to this semi-challenge, remains to be seen.

A NEW MATERIAL FOR PAPER.—A good many ingenious minds have been at work for sometime to discover some way of making paper without using up cloth.—Several materials promise to supercede rags in this use. There is a gentleman now in the city, who is perfecting a method for making it from straw and grass.—There is a kind of paper called straw paper, but is coarse and flimsy. The stems of grass and grain like those of corn stalks, are coated on the outside with a hard shining surface. This coating is in reality stone. Naturalists call it silex and it is precisely the same substance as the flint of a gun. This coating of silex has been an obstacle to the use of such vegetables for paper of the finer sorts, because it made but a very brittle texture. It is now thought however, that this difficulty is overcome by a new process of removing this silex.

VILLAGE MAKING.—Among the many businesses in our city, one of the queerest and at the same time not the least profitable, is that the village making, and this is the way they make surburban villages about our city. Mr. Moneypenny, Mr. Bangum and Mr. Norceross form themselves into a company and purchase a farm on Long Island at $1,000. This they then divide into three hundred lots, each of them taking fifty lots for himself and leaving the remaining one hundred fifty to be disposed of. The next thing is to open an office, hire an agent, draw plans and maps of the village of "Utopia," advertise to the world the "Utopian village building Company," and wait for the result. Soon a mechanic comes down to the office to look over the plans and talk about purchasing a lot. By frugality and industry he has laid up a thousand dollars and he wishes to buy a convenient spot in the country, where he may build himself a house and live on his own land; on looking over the maps with the agent, who is a very agreeable man and gives much valuable information; he points out one lo, convenient to the depot—not yet built (but this the agent forgets to tell him) and asks his price. "Ah!" says the agent, "that lot is taken by Mr. Moneypenny.—He has also the five adjoining lots. He is talking of building a factory there." Our mechanic knows of Mr. Moneypenny as a shrewd and wealthy real-estate broker, and his confidence in the "Utopian village building company" increases. He points to a lot on the opposite side of the street.

"That" says the agent "is taken by Mr. Bangum." Mr. Bangum has an immense reputation of the community. Was never known to touch anything without its becoming golden. "But the next lot is not yet taken" continues the agent, "and it is just as good; though I half promised the refusal of it to Mr. Noceross who owns the lot on the other side. "Does he own much out there?" asks our friend—"Immensely" says the agent, touching off half a dozen or more of Mr. Noceross' lots, "he knows where real estate is going to rise, he does." The upshot of the affair is that the lot is made over to our friend and his $100 are made over to the company. In this way the spare one hundred and fifty lots are soon disposed of on the faith of Mr. Moneypenny, Mr. Bangum and Mr. Noceross. These gone and the worthy trio sell out their own lots as they had sold out the former ones and before Utopia is really turned from a farm into a village, their interest in it is all sold; they have bought a new farm, created a new company and christened a new village and commenced pocketing the fruits of a new speculation. This is the way N. Yorkers make their fortuness, by selling for $50,000 what cost six months before $1000 and this is the way in which surburban villages are built around N. Y. City.

The snow arch, through which a large stream of water is pouring over the rocks, is 130 feet in length, 84 feet in width and varies from 6 to 40 feet in height. Outside, we find the whole body of snow to extend a distance of 266 feet, with an average width of 40 feet, and varying from 3 to 40 feet thick. Our party estimated the quantity of snow to be not less than a thousand tons at the head of the Ravine. The two last leaps of the caseade before the stream enters the arch, are over 100 feet in height.

Last year, on the 12th of July, I passed under a similar arch at the same point, which although somewhat longer under the arch, did not contain more than half the quantity of snow which I now find here. Last season the snow did not all disappear until about the middle of August. How long it will remain this year, will depend upon the weather. It is a little singular, that this body of snow lies exposed to the direct rays of the sun on the south side of the mountain, and is only in the shadow of the same, after 3 o'clock, P. M. It would not seem possible, that all the snow in the ravine would melt during the next six weeks.

A Bad Excuse for Bachelors.

I do not blame a bachelor,
If he leads a single life;
The way the girls are now brought up,
He can't support a wife.

Time was when girls could card and spin,
And wash, and bake and brew;
But now they have to keep a maid,
If they have ought to do.

I do not blame the bachelor:
His courage must be great,
To think to wed a modern miss,
If small be his estate.

Time was when wives would help to buy
The land they'd help to till,
And saddle Dobbin, shell the corn,
And ride away to mill,

The bachelor is not to blame:
If he's a prudent man,
He now must lead a single life,
And do the best he can,

SINGULAR STOCK.—Robert Scott, Esq., of Woodford county, Ky., who owns one of the splendid farms of that region, has a large pond of water upon his domain, by which he has half domesticated a flock of wild geese. He first procured eleven and cropped their wings, which retained them for the season. They migrate northward in the spring, and return in the fall with their full-fledged young. The flock now numbers two hundred and eighty, and it increases annually.

☞ A sprightly looking little girl passed through Buffalo, Tuesday, in charge of the American Express Co. She was destined for Joliet, Ill. This method of sending children is getting to be common. They are bound to go safely too.

☞ Thirty cart loads of pine lumber were forwarded the present week by railroad from this place to Boston and Lowell, by our enterprising townsman, W. W. Cook. Two boat loads more, destined for the same markets, are soon to arrive. This lumber was manufactured at Mr. Cook's mills in Northern New York and Canada, and is of the very best quality.—Whitehall Chronicle.

Excitement in New Hampshire---Bombardment of Washington proposed.

We learn that a public meeting was held at Lumberville, N. H.,on the 9th inst., to express the indignation of the people at the insult offered to the favorite son of that State, the President, at Washington, on Saturday last, by an egg flung from the hand of a chivalrous Carolinian, whose name is Jeffards. A correspondent has favored us with a report of the proceedings, from which it appears that the principal speech of the occasion was made by Jonathan Peirce, Esq., (no relation of the General's, since his name is spelled differently) and that its eloquence was received with rapt attention and thunderous applause. We give herewith the principal points of this remarkable speech :—

"An egg, fellow-citizens, has been cast upon the Hat of our honored President! By this act, the valuable hat of His Excellency has been seriously damaged, but this insult has a deeper meaning and wider range—the Government itself is insulted, and by whom? I ask, sir, by whom? Will you tell me that the wretch who threw the egg is the party of whom redress should be sought? I scorn the conclusion. How would such proceedings be regarded by foreign potentates? What would the Emperor Nicholas say of it? The city of Washington, sir, is then responsible for this insult. Her inhabitants are guilty of the crime, and shall they escape deserved punishment? No. Let Washington, like Greytown, be blotted out. [Immense applause.] Let the world know that our Government, from the lowest to the highest of its officials, is not to be insulted with impunity. It may be said that some of the people of Washington are American citizens, and innocent of the crime.—So were they of Greytown. Is there anything in the character of the city which calls for mercy? It was said of Greytown that most of its inhabitants were peculators, disorderly persons and niggers. Can that be denied of Washington? I ask, why should Greytown be destroyed and Washington spared? Is the nose of an obscure chap like Borland of higher national importance than the Hat of our honored President? Sir, I offer the following resolution :—

Resolved, In view of the enormity of the outrage offered to President Pierce by the city of Washington, that Secretary Dobbin should be directed to instruct Commander Hollins to proceed with the sloop-of-war Cyane to that city, and open upon it with all his guns for two hours, without intermission ; and in case anything should then remain standing, to land a party of marines and burn and destroy the residue and remainder, unless the authorities shall humbly beg pardon of the President, and purchase for him a new hat of such quality and cost as he shall select and approve.

Other speeches were made in support of this resolution, after which it was unanimously adopted, and the crowd dispersed to their homes.—Tribune.

SPECIAL TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCH TO THE DEMOCRACY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10, 1854.

Commander Hollins hearing that the traitor Jeffards was going to leave the city by this morning's stage to the South, moored the Cyane where he could sweep the Potomac Bridge with his guns. The men were at their quarters at 8 o'clock with lighted matches, impatient to avenge the atrocious insult to our Chief Magistrate. A suspicion of the Commander's purpose, induced the Stage Proprietors, improperly as is considered here, to send the coach and its nine passengers around by Greytown. Otherwise Hollins would unquestionably have blown the whole concern in to the Potomac. There is great excitement here.

A Charming Irish Ballad.

Who Mr. John Francis Waller, the author of the following is, we do not know, but of this we are sure—Lover, in his happiest humor, never wrote a lovelier ballad. It sings itself, and dances itself "in sweet, trippling measure." The thought in the last line is inexpressibly Irish :

"Dance Light for my Heart it Lies Under Your Feet Love!"

"Ah, sweet Kitty Neil' rise up from that wheel—
Your neat little foot will be weary from spinning ;
Come trip down with me to the sycamore tree,
Half the parish is there, and the dance is beginning.
The sun is gone down, but the full harvest moon
Shines sweetly and cool on the dew whitened valley,
While all the air rings with the soft, loving things,
Each little bird sings in the green shaded Alley.

"With a blush and a smile, Kitty rose up the while,
Her eyes in the glass, as she bound her hair glancing ;
'Tis hard to refuse, when a young lover sues—
So she couldn't but choose to—go off to the dancing.
And now on the green the glad groups are seen—
Each gay hearted lad with the lass of his choosing ;
And Pat, without fail, leads out sweet Kitty Neil,— Somehow, when he asked, she ne'er thought of refusing.

"Now, Felix Magee puts his pipes to his knee,
And with flourish so free sets each couple in motion ;
With a cheer and a bound the lads patter the ground—
The maids move around just like swans on the ocean.
Cheeks bright as the rose—feet light as the doe's,
Now coyly retiring, now boldly advancing—
Search the world all around, from the sky to the ground,
No such sight can be found as an Irish lass dancing.

"Sweet Kate, who could view your bright eyes of blue,
Beaming humidly through their dark lashes so mildly,
Your fair turned arm, heaving breast, rounded form,
Nor feel his heart warm, and his pulses throb wildly?
Young Pat feels his heart, as he gazes, depart,
Subdued by the smart of such painful yet sweet love ;
The sight leaves his eye, as he cries with a sigh,
'Dance light, for my heart it lies under your feet, love.'"

Stand by the Colors.

Whig State Convention.

The Whig State Committee, as will be seen, has summoned the Party to duty.—In taking the initiatory, it may be proper to remark that the approaching political campaign, involving questions and interests that deeply effect the common welfare, is surrounded by more than ordinary embarrassments,

With a General Administration broken down and repudiated; with the strong Party against which we have so long done battle, divided ; it would seem that our success must be certain and easy. This, but for causes apparent to all who give their attention to political matters, would be true. But the existing dissensions and consequent weakness of our opponents, occasion apathy if not dissensions in our own Party. A strong common foe, with impending danger, would arouse, invigorate and unite the Whig Party.

The responsibilities of the Whig Party were never greater than at this moment. The political elements and aspects claim profound deliberation. Believing that the Whig Organization is the best medium for working out Reforms beneficial to the Country and the People, we turn naturally to the Whig State Convention as to the depository of power necessary to accomplish "the greatest good to the greatest number."

That these expectations may be realized, it is only needful that the Whig masses, by whom the true Whig faith is cherished, take the selection of Delegates into their own hands With a Convention composed of Whigs whose heads and hearts have been in the cause through all its conflicts, enjoying its triumphs and enduring its defeats with equal steadiness and fidelity, we may look, not only for good results from the Convention and success in the Election, but for wisdom and stability in the future Councils of the Whig Party.—Albany Journal.

Anti-Nebraska Convention.

Martin Finch, Esq., was chosen President, Alfred Ames and D. M. Hoag Vice Presidents, and S. W. Cole and W. Lansing were appointed Secretaries.

A Committee, consisting of Munroe Hall, E. F. Williams, Byron Pond, D. W. Braman, and W. Lansing, was appointed, to recommend suitable persons as Delegates to the Saratoga Convention.

The Committee reported the following names, which were accepted by the Convention : Ralph A. Loveland, W. Lansing, Byron Pond, Charles F. Dyke, and Joseph Whitley.

Resolved, That all the other citizens of Essex County who can, are invited to attend said Convention.

Hon. George A. Simmons, being present, was invited to address the meeting, which he did with much feeling, and was listened to with the deepest interest and attention.

The following resolutions, were unanimously adopted :

Resolved, That our Representative in Congress, Hon George A. Simmons, deserves and receives the warm and earnest approbation of his constituents, for his firm, vigorous, consistent, and able opposition, to the iniquitous scheme for the extension of Negro Slavery and Northern Vassalage, of which the Nebraska Bill constitutes but a single step.

Resolved, That the members of this Convention will hereafter support no man as a candidate for any political office, but upon the fullest assurance that he will, by all honorable means, steadfastly oppose the further extension of Slavery, and particularly that he will steadfastly oppose the admission into the Union of any State hereafter to be formed from the present territories of Kansas and Nebraska, or either of them ; and that we earnestly recommend the adoption of the same resolution by all Northern Citizens.

Resolved, That the editors of papers in Essex county be requested to publish the proceedings of this Convention.

The Convention then adjourned sine die.

THE SPANISH REVOLUTION, is entirely successful. The Queen mother has fled and the Queen has called Espartero to the head of affairs. Whether it is a change from a Monarchy to a Republic, or whether it is a mere quarrel for the smiles of the Queen, is yet to be seen.

The Paris Correspondent of the Cincinnatti Gazette (who is one of the best informed of that generally unreliable class of writers) says, that there is "yet another feature in the present revolution which gives to it an important and highly interesting character. Either one or the other branch of the Bourbon family, perhaps both it is well known, has been courting Russia, and it is tolerably evident that the latter power has had something to do with the movement in Spain. Two facts come in support of this proposition : Russia has sent a large amount of money into Spain and Portugal for some purpose, and the influence of the French court upon that of Spain, has been, of late, constantly diminishing, while that of the Duke of Montpensier, the son of Louis Phillippe, has been constantly on the increase. With the government of Spain and Portugal organized to suit his views, and by making of it a question independent of the eastern war, Nicholas hopes not only to diminish the power of France to contend with him, but at the same time to drive out Napoleon the Little as he did Napoleon the Great, and to place once more a Bourbon on the throne of his ancestors."

Speaking of O'Donnell, one of the insurgent Generals, the same letter says, he is violent against the United States, for her supposed designs upon Cuba, and if his party comes into power, they will resist to the last, and with more tenacity than the present party, the independence or annexation of that Island.

AN EXCURSION.—We went up to Plattsburgh on Wednesday, and from our notes, we give our readers the following :

I. O. of R.—This is the regular Quarterly Meeting of Champlain District Tent, No. 23. It is composed of its officers, and two delegates from each primary Tent, of which latter there are seventeen. There was a full attendance, and everything passed off pleasantly. Measures were taken to push on the temperance cause. In the evening there was a public meeting according to custom, and it was ably addressed by several brothers. Hon. J. T. Everest, was elected C R., J. W. Havens of Ellenburgh, D. R., S. L. Fisher of ——— R. S., A. Butler of Essex, Vt. F. S. Charles Gale of Beckmantown, T. Lorris Huntley of Belmont, L. and Rev. Mr. Dolbie, Chaplain. The Tent adjourned to meet at Keeseville, on the second Wednesday of November next, at 9 o'clock A. M.

THE GLORIES OF THE ADMINISTRATION.—We had the pleasure of an introduction to a prominent democrat, whose name shall be nameless, and in the course of a brief conversation, he pronounced a Eulogy upon the dying administration, the conclusion of which was, that the brightest pages of its history, and the most prominent inscriptions upon its monument, would be: The dismissal of Bronson, the bombardment of Greytown, and the President's Egg suit.

AN ANECDOTE.—We dined out with a citizen who enjoys a good joke. Among others, he related one of a Yankee and a Dutchman, who when discussing politics, wound up on the relative merits of Seward and Bouck, both ex-Gov's of the Empire State. Says Yankee, "Bouck has not so long a head as Seward." "Vell," says Dutchee in a huff, "By cot, Seward's head is not half as thick as Bouck's."

THE NEW HOTEL.—Charley Jones takes this house under the name of the Cumberland House. It is fitted up in first rate style, and is the place to stop, whether on business or pleasure. It is not only pleasantly located, but is in the centre of business. The name is derived from the Bay of the same name, where the naval battle of the 11th of September, 1814, was fought, between the American and British fleets.

We had intended a visit to our editorial friends in Plattsburgh, and to our friend Capt. Russell, but we found ourself engaged during the entire day. ☞ We shall have to go up on purpose to visit, when we will give a more extended notice of Plattsburgh and its business.

KNOW-NOTHINGS LOOK OUT—THE SECRETS EXPOSED.—A friend has handed us what purports to be an exposure of the mysteries of this mysterious order, and vouches that it is as reliable as anything that has been made public on that subject. It has not been before published in this section of the country. We were anxious to give it a place this week, but it came to hand too late.

THE SARATOGA CONVENTION—THE DANGER PASSED.—We learn from a delegate, that there was a large gathering at Saratoga, every county in the State being fully represented except Franklin. A series of resolutions were adopted, taking strong grounds for freedom of course. On the subject of nominations, an excited debate occurred, the democrats and abolitionists taking the affirmative, and whigs opposite. It was finally settled by postponing the subject to the 26th of September, at Auburn, to which day and place the Convention adjourned.

If now, wise counsels prevail, whigs can have everything their own way this fall. That they will, we do not doubt. Now is the time for whigs to stand by the colors.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We like to say a good word for good folks now and then. At this time we wish to commend O. T. Richmond of Moriah, as an excellent country merchant. We have watched him for several years, and say this from long observation.

——A. B. WALDO, of Port Henry, is a young lawyer of promise. The only fault we know of is, he is an Old Hunker, but this does not prevent his being a clever fellow and a prudent attorney.

SAMUEL D. HAYWOOD, one of the many industrious and superior mechanics of this place, recently purchased Seneca Perry's house and lot, on the corner of Clinton and Vine streets, which he is fitting up in splendid style. All right. We like to see such men prosper. They deserve it

MR. CROSBY'S CONCERT.—Mr. Crosby has been traveling in the south for several years back, and is now first coming north. He is a superior singer, with great compass of voice, and in comic, is a match for the great Winchell. He goes south from here, through Elizabethtown, Schroon, &c.

A SABBATH SCHOOL CELEBRATION OF THE M. E. CHURCH, OF KEESEVILLE took place on Wednesday. The procession was formed at the Church and marched around the square, headed by Will's Cornet Band. We numbered the procession as it passed our door and found it to contain about 570. With numerous banners displayed it made a fine and imposing appearance. After passing around the square it moved off to a beautiful grove just without the village, where tables had been spread in the most elegant and bountiful manner by the ladies Besides all the various luxuries of the table, tea and coffee were served in abundance. The magnificent dinner disposed of, a couple of hours were devoted to music, visiting, and speaking to the delight of all present.

There must have been on the ground 1500, and perhaps 2000 people. The impressions of the day were no doubt healthful in the extreme. There were visitors and schools present from Peru, Clintonville, Ausable Forks and Jay. We trust they all had a good time, and more particularly hope the cause of Sabbath Schools was greatly benefitted. Keep up the Sabbath Schools.

ANTOINETTE BROWN IN THE PULPIT.—Miss Antoinette Brown filled the pulpit of Rev. Luther Lee, yesterday, according to arrangement, and had a crowded house morning and afternoon. She was neatly dressed, with rather a dashing watch establishment, and after throwing off her crape shawl presented herself at the desk, made her prayer—a long one, after the Presbyterian usage—and spreading the Bible open before her, took her text and walked into her discourse. Her subject in the morning was one on which a woman might be expected to speak with some feeling. It was Love!

Her discourse was a good one ; her sentences were well constructed and rounded up with due regard to rythm ; her theology was sound ; and her instruction such as we all might profit by. But as it is a little out of the ordinary course for a woman to teach in public, and criticism is not therefore out of place, we will say that the discourse was not, in one respect, quite womanly. A woman is supposed to be the creature of emotion ; to be easily moved ; and to exhibit and express her emotions with vividness and rapidity. But Miss Brown's sentences were all measured and weighed, and the swell and cadence followed each other with as much regularity as the waves of the ocean or the stately periods of Gibbon. If her curtain lectures should be as unimpassioned as her public addresses, we envy the fortunate man that will some day disem-Brown her.—Syracuse Chronicle, July 10.

We have seen some of these "strong minded women" and we would as soon wed a hetchel as one of them. The truth of it is, if they are not unsexed before they enter upon their mad career, they soon become so from their habits and study. Those we have seen looked very much like a set of disappointed politicians, with hearts and consciences soured and their countenances correspondingly distorted and ugly. Such politicians always run off into third parties from unworthiness or inability to rule their own and then claim all the virtue and patriotism. So with the women. Either unworthy of, or unable to procure good husbands, they run mad at the whole male creation. By the way, we should like to see these women and disappointed politicians intermarry. Wouldn't there be fun tho'? "The way the fur would fly" tho' would be a caution to "human critters," wouldn't it?

The article headed "Great Excitement in New Hampshire" &c., is a "good egg."

☞ The reason why some people put on airs, is because they have nothing else to put on.—Old Saying.

That may be set down as a general rule. If a man prates of his learning, and of his knowledge of the languages, it is safe to assume that he is a cheat. If he talks much of his honesty, put him down as a rogue. If his virtues form the theme of his conversations, look out for him, for he is a villain. If his rich and eminent relations are frequently alluded to, he is a humbug. "Barking dogs seldom bite," and bragadocios are generally cowards.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—The grounds of the Congregational Church are being beautified by the addition of an elegant and durable fence and shade trees. Fifty per cent is thus added to the value and appearance of the Church.

The New York Express says it has half a dozen additional epics on hand, commemorating the heroic achievments of Com. Hollins and the administration at Greytown, but none of them are quite up to the lay of a country cotemporary, that tells the story thus :

"Father and mother and I,
And ten good soldiers more,
Beat an old woman stone blind,
That couldn't see much before."

WINCHELL IN TOWN.—Yesterday the beaming, jovial phiz of the inimitable Winchell presented itself at our sanctum. He exhibits it in all its phazes (faces) this evening, at the Rathbun Hall. He'll have a crowded house—that's sure.—Grand River Eagle, (Mich.)

From the London, Eng. Morning Chronicle, furnished us by Mr. James Wilson, we take the following notice :

John B. Gough will deliver an oration in Exter-hall, this evening, July 24, 1854. Admission to the side gallery, 2s. 6d.; reserved seats, 1s.; body of the Hall, 6d. Tickets to be had at 337, Strand ; or at Exter-hall on the evening of meeting.

Last Night of the Session—Incidents.

The Courier and Enquirers's Washington "Inspector" says, during the last night of the session of Congress, though as usual, "noise and confusion" reigned, no Senator was "visibly drunk," though several found a reclining position most convenient. In the House of Representatives, even Mike Walsh kept sober.

The President was with his Cabinet in attendance to sign bills. The "Greytown Victory," on which a Senator congratulated the President, received no response. It was too serious a matter for a joke! Nor did the spirits of the Administration revive when information was brought that the $10,000,000 was refused.

The refusal to hand the Collins Line of Steamers over to the Post-Master General was a bitter disappointment to Col. Forney Sidney Webster, &c. &c.—Alb. Journ.

☞ The claims for damages suffered at Greytown by the bombardment, are beginning to come in thick and fast, at Washington. Those already presented amount to half a million. They are mainly from French residents. Besides these, there are Spanish, English, Granadians and Americans, whose claims are estimated to amount to at least two millions more. One merchant who had taken Borland's part against the town, all the way through, was nevertheless served like all the rest, and lost $300,000.—Alb. Journal.

☞ The Albany Knick says that some wag has come a good drive over Lamb, of the Lansingburgh Democrat. A very well written piece of poetry, entitled "Guiltless Poverty no disgrace," was sent to him which he published. After his paper was printed, it was discovered that it was an acrostic, which read as follows ; "Printed by Bill Lamb, the Jackass."

☞ Joshua R. Giddings, of Ohio, who has represented the 20th District (Ohio) in Congress for some 15 years, has published in the National Era, an Address to the People of that District, elicited by the request that he would withhold his name as a candidate for re-election, for the sake of promoting union and harmony in the district, expressing his willingness to do so.

An editor in Iowa has been fined two hundred and fifty dollars for hugging a youdg girl in church.—Daily Argus.

Cheap enough! We once hugged a young girl in church some ten years ago, and the scrape has cost us a thousand dollars a year ever since.—Chicago Young America.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.—The Editor of the Albany Knickerbocker announcing the event, said,

"LET US SING."

☞ The U. S. Marshall, at Boston, asked of the President $50.000, to defray the expenses incurred in rescuing the fugitive slave Burns, which has been promptly sent to him.

DIED,

In Moriah August 7th, 1854, after a short but painful illness, Mrs. Arathusa Hadaway, aged 53 years.

The deceased came to Moriah among the early settlers. Many years since, she embraced religion and united with the M. E. Church of which she has been a faithful and consistent member. She was a woman who was most loved by those who knew her best, and her decease will be long and sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R, of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County NewYork, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; those bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers, This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequense of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witness d by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 27th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians; but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. Godonly knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and putifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN
Patent Agency Company.
No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.
J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway, called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficent objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of, the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c, are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 30 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $600.

7. Jooe's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fros & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' improvement. These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvement, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 104 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $101.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $900.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine, a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial,
PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases of Impotency Hoemurrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluror Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

MARRIAGE,

lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial, a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE.

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery.) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen. Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Franklin Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properities must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young men, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

CHAPTER 329.

An Act to provide for the enlargement of the Erie, the Oswego, and the Cayuga and Seneca canals, and for the completion of the Black River and Genesee Valley canals, and to provide for the payment of certain canal revenue certificates, and for other purposes. Passed April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The commissioners of the canal fund shall borrow on the credit of this state, in such amounts, from time to time, as shall be required to pay the expenses that may be incurred under the provisions of this act, a sum not exceeding in the whole two millions two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, payable at such time or times as they may prescribe, within eighteen years from the time of such loan, at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable quarterly on such days and at such places as the said commissioners shall direct. All the existing provisions of law in relation to loans of money for this state by the commissioners of the canal fund, and in relation to certificates of stock issued under the direction of the said commissioners, shall apply to the loan hereby authorized and to the certificates therefore issued by the said commissioners.

§ 2. The sum of two millions two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, payable out of the remainder of the surplus revenues of the canals, if there be any that shall accrue during the present fiscal year after paying the expenses of collection, superintendence and repairs of canals, and the sums directed to be appropriated by the first and second sections of the seventh article of the constitution, and the sums hereinafter appropriated to pay the interest, and to constitute a sinking fund to extinguish the principal of the loans made under this act, and the sum of two hundred thousand dollars to defray the necessary expenses of government, and out of the moneys to be borrowed pursuant to the first section of this act, to be applied to the enlargement of the Erie, the Oswego and the Cayuga and Seneca canals, and in the completion (upon the dimensions heretofore adopted) of the Genesee Valley and Black River canals, and for the enlargement of such of the locks of the Champlain canal, to the size of the present locks of the enlarged Erie canal, as the canal board shall determine to be so dilapidated or decayed as to render it necessary to rebuild them during the current year. Such appropriation shall be as follows: One million eight hundred and fifty-one thousand dollars thereof to the Erie enlargement and such works connected therewith as shall be directed by the canal board; one hundred and sixty-nine thousand dollars thereof for the enlargement of the Oswego canal; one hundred and one thousand dollars thereof for the enlargement of the Cayuga and Seneca canal; forty-nine thousand dollars thereof for the completion of the Black River canal; sixty-five thousand dollars thereof for the completion of the Genesee Valley canal, and twenty-five thousand dollars thereof for the expense of enlarging the locks of the Champlain canal, hereinbefore mentioned, beyond the cost of reconstructing them of their present dimensions. The Erie, the Oswego, and the Cayuga and Seneca canals shall be enlarged to the general dimensions of seventy feet in width upon the surface, by seven feet in depth, except where, in the opinion of the canal board, greater dimensions may be necessary to supply a sufficient quantity of water for the purpose of navigation and for the construction and completion of such basins as may be deemed necessary, by the canal board, and also, except in localities where a due regard to economy and the interests of the state required that such specified width should, in the opinion of the canal board, be varied.

§ 3. The said commissioners of the canal fund shall also borrow, on the credit of this state, the sum of one million and five hundred thousand dollars, payable at any time they may prescribe within eighteen years from the time of such loan, at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable quarterly on such days and at such places as the said commissioners shall direct. All the existing provisions of law in relation to loans of money for the state by the commissioners of the canal fund, and in relation to certificates of stock issued under the direction of the said commissioners shall apply to the loan hereby authorized and to the certificates therefor issued by the said commissioners.

§ 4. The money borrowed under the last preceding section of this act is hereby appropriated to refund to the holders of the canal revenue certificates, issued under the provisions of chapter four hundred and eighty-five of the Laws of the year eighteen hundred and fifty-one, the amount received into the treasury thereon; but no interest, to accrue after the first day of July, eighteen hundred and fifty-five, shall be paid on such certificates.

§ 5. After paying the expenses of collection, superintendence and repairs of the canals, and the sums directed to be appropriated by the first and second sections of article seventh of the constitution, there is heredy appropriated, to be paid out of the surplus revenues of the canals which shall accrue during the present fiscal year, the sum of one hundred and twelve thousand five hundred dollars, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay the interest for the current year on the debt that shall be contracted pursuant to the provisions of this act, and the sum of one hundred and fifty five thousand eight hundred and twenty dollars and thirty-seven cents, to constitute a sinking fund to extinguish the principal of the said debt, which last mentioned sum, and the interest thereon as received, shall be invested by the commissioners of the canal fund in the manner provided by law in respect to the investment of the surplus revenues of the canal fund.

§ 6. The premium received on any loans made by the commissioners of the canal fund for the completion of the canals, pursuant to the recent amendment of the constitution provided therefor, shall be invested and the interest on such investments shall also be invested, by the commissioners of the canal fund, in the same manner now provided by law in respect to the surplus revenue of the canal fund, and shall be applied at the expiration of four years from the passage of this act to the completion of the canals of this state, in case the appropriations authorized by the said amendment should be insufficient for that purpose.

§ 7. As soon as practicable after the passage of this act, and before any contracts for the enlargement and completion of the said canals shall be made, the state engineer and surveyor shall perform and execute the duties prescribed by the sixth section of chapter three hundred and seventy-seven of the Laws of eighteen hundred and fifty. The canal board shall examine the maps, plans, specifications and estimates furnished by the state engineer and surveyor, and shall have power to alter or modify the same, and finally decide upon the maps, plans, locations and specifications of the work to be let; which said work for the enlargement of the Erie, the Oswego, the Cayuga and Seneca canals, and the completion of the Black River and Genesee Valley canals shall be put under contract and progress to completion, so as to bring the said several improvements into use at the same time as nearly as may be. But nothing in this section shall authorize the said board to abandon the present canal through cities or incorporated villages, where an independent canal may be deemed advisable

§ 8. The work to be done, and the materials to be furnished according to the plans, maps, specifications and locations so approved by the canal board, shall be contracted for in behalf of the state by a board consisting of the canal commissioners, the comptroller, and the state engineer and surveyor, at meetings to be held as follows: For work on and materials for the eastern division of the Erie canal, at Utica; for work on and materials for the middle division of the said canal, at Syracuse; for work on and materials for the western division of the said canal, in such parts as the letting board shall determine, at Albion, Rochester and Buffalo; for work on and materials for the Oswego canal, at Fulton, Oswego county; for work on and materials for the Genesee Valley Canal, at Cuba; for work on and materials for the Black River canal, at Lyons Falls, Lewis county; and for work on and materials for the Cayuga and Seneca canal, at Seneca Falls; and for work on and materials for the Champlain canal, at Albany. Public notice of the times of meeting at the said places respectively, for the reception of sealed proposals for entering into contracts for and of the said work, shall be published for three weeks successively in the state paper, and in such newspapers published in the vicinity of the work to be done as the contracting board shall direct; and such contracting board, for the purposes of this act, shall have the same powers, and be subject to all the conditions and restrictions provided by law previous to July 10, 1851, in respect to contracts by the canal commissioners for work or materials upon the canals of this state, unless otherwise provided by this act.

§ 9. Before any work shall be contracted for, the matters specified in the ninth section of chapter three hundred and seventy-seven of the Laws of the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty shall be ascertained, under the direction of the state engineer and surveyor, and the said section shall be in all respects applicable to the proposals, contracts and proceedings for making the contracts authorized by this act.

10. In addition to the provisions of law existing previous to the tenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and for the purpose of rendering them more effectual, all the proposals and contracts for work to be done and materials to be furnished, herein authorized, shall be subject to the following conditions and restrictions:

1. All such proposals shall be for a sum certain as to the price to be paid for each and every kind of work that can in its nature be specified, and for the quality and quantity of every material to be furnished.

2. Every proposal shall be accompanied by an affidavit, endorsed thereon, of each person uniting in such proposal, that he is not directly or indirectly interested in any other proposal for the same work or materials, or any part of the same; that he has no agreement or understanding with any other person to become interested in any other proposal or contract for the same work or materials, or any part thereof; and that no other person than such as shall be named in the proposal is interested in the same, or has any agreement or understanding to become interested in any contract that may be made in pursuance of such proposal.

3. Every proposal for work or material authorized by this act shall be accompanied with a bond to the people of this State in such penalty as shall be required by the contracting board, not less than twenty nor more than fifty per cent of the engineer's estimate of the cost of the work and materials embraced in the contract which shall be awarded upon such proposal, the amount of which penalty shall be stated in the advertisement for such work and material, and which bond shall be signed by the party making such proposal and two or more responsible sureties, with such evidence of their responsibility as the contracting board shall require, and which sureties shall justify sums equal in the aggregate to twice the amount of such penalty; and which bond shall be conditioned that if the contract shall be awarded to the party making such proposal, that he or they will within ten days, if living, after such award enter into contract for the performance of the work and furnishing of the material refered to in such proposal, upon the terms prescribed by the contracting board; and also, the further condition that contractor or contractors, after making such contract as aforesaid, shall and will without delay enter upon the execution thereof and fully and faithfully perform the same, according to the stipulations contained therein, and upon his or their failure to enter into such contract, or to fully and faithfully execute and perform the same, and the obligors in the said bond will forfeit and pay into the treasury of this State a sum equal to ten per cent upon the estimate of the engineer and the cost of the work and materials embraced in said contract, at the price named in the proposition as liquidated damages; and if any breach shall occur in the condition of such bond, the same shall be handed over immediately to the attorney-general, who is hereby authorized and required forthwith to prosecute the same, and without unnecessary delay to recover and collect the liquidated damages specified in the condition thereof, and all damages sustained by the State by the non-performance of the said contract or any part thereof; and the same shall not be compromised, nor shall the prosecution or collection of the same be delayed or suspendeded by any board or officer. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent or prohibit the sureties of any contractor or contractors, in case of his or their neglect, refusal or inability to enter into or complete such contracts, from accepting and completing the same upon their own account, upon giving the like satisfactory security thereof as is already provided for in this act, or the letting board may, in their discretion, at the request of such sureties to them signified in writing, award such contract to any other person who will accept the same for the prices named in the proposition of such defaulting contractor or contractors. But upon the ultimate failure or refusal of the person or persons to whom a contract may be awarded to enter into the same, it shall be the duty of the contracting board to proceed forthwith to relet the same in the manner required by law, or they may in their discretion award such contract to the next lowest bidder at the same letting, and in case he will not enter into contract for the same on the terms required by this act, the same shall be advertised anew and be let according to law.

4. No acceptance of a proposal or award of a contract by the said contracting board, and no contract made by the said board, or any interest in the same, shall be assignable to any person or persons, without the written consent of the canal commissioners.

5. In every contract there shall be a proviso that fifteen per cent of the amount of any work done or materials furnished, at the contract price thereof, shall be reserved by the canal commissioners until the whole work which is the subject of such contract, shall be fully and entirely engineer certifying the amount of any work done, or materials furnished, pursuant to any contract made under this act, shall in his certificate set forth the whole amount done or material furnished, and the aforesaid deduction of fifteen per cent from such amount, and the net amount to be paid for the same; and no other or greater sum than the said net amount shall be paid under any circumstances, until the whole contract shall have been fully and entirely performed.

6. Any provision that may be directed by the canal board, not inconsistent with the provisions of law, calculated to insure the faithful execution of any contract, shall be inserted therein.

7. All contracts for work or materials, shall be made with the person or persons who shall offer to do or provide the same at the lowest price, with adequate security for their performance.

8. All proposals for work or materials, shall be publicly opened and read by the contracting board, and shall be marked by one of them as having been received and so read, specifying the time, and shall be copied at large in a book to be provided for that purpose, and the original shall within thirty days be filed in the canal department.

9. In case the contracting board shall be of opinion that the proposals made at any meeting thereof, pursuant to any advertisement, are, in consequence of any combination or otherwise, excessive and disadvantageous to the State, they may decline all the said proposals, and advertise anew for the work and materials embraced therein.

10. The abstracts of all the proposals received at any meeting of the contracting board, containing specifications of each kind of work, the price bid in each proposal, and the total cost of each kind of work at such price, upon which any decisions by the said board may be founded, shall be certified by the engineers making the same, and shall be filed in the canal department, and be open to public inspection after the contracts are awarded.

§ 11. No member of the Legislature, no member of the canal board, no State officer, and no person employed by the State on the State canals, shall, during the time for which he shall have been appointed or elected, be interested directly or indirectly in any contract or job to be performed on the enlargement or completion of the canals specified in the second section of this act; and every such contract, in which any such person may become thus interested, except by the operation of law, shall be void and declared forfeited by the canal board on discovery of the fact.

§ 12. Any engineer or other officer or person in the employ of the State, who shall knowingly make any false representation, or estimate of the nature, quality, quantity or cost of any work proposed by the State or any individual to be done, or of any materials so proposed to be furnished for any canal or its appurtenances, or any false representation or estimate in any statement of work or material so proposed which may be required by the canal board, any canal commissioner or any other board or officer, or who shall knowingly report or certify to any false statement of the amount of any work done, or purporting to have been done for the State, or of the quality or nature of such work, or of the quality or quantity of any material furnished or purporting to have been furnished to the State by which any person may be enabled to claim or receive a greater allowance than is justly due, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be imprisoned in the State prison for not more than five years or in a county jail or penitentiary not more than two years, and shall be fined not exceeding one thousand dollars.

§ 13. Any monied corporation, and any association formed under the "Act to authorise the business of banking," and any individual banker, may loan to the State any of the moneys herein authorized to be borrowed, and may purchase, hold and dispose of any certificates of the stock issued by the commissioners of the canal fund for any part of such loan; and the sums so loaned, and the stocks so purchased, shall not, in respect to any limitation imposed by law, be deemed a violation thereof.

§ 14. This act shall take effect immediately.

THE SECRETS OUT.

A disclosure as genuine as any, and far better, because more laughable.

Initiating an Outsider--a Know Nothing Yarn.

BY JACK HUMPHRIES.

All creation and the balance of mankind were early one morning aroused from the dullness usually pervading the pious, prime and peaceful town of East Nutmeg, by the cry of—

"What's it all about?" "When did they come?" "How many are they?" "What do they look like?" "Did you see 'em?" "Are they human critters?" "What are they going to do?"

"Who?" "What?"

"The Know Nothings!"

"Know Nothings?" says a native.

"Know Nothings."

"Well, I'd give a fo'pence to know," continued the native, "what in sin it's all about."

"O, you havn't seen 'em, eh?" says a jolly, round visaged, bright eyed individual, who, with other strangers and Natives of East Nutmeg, were gathered in a knot about the depot, discussing the topic which had in a single night come, saw, and took the town. "Havn't seen 'em?"

"Seen who?" says the native.

"Know Nothings."

"Know Nothings! Well, I kinder cal'late I have a few."

"O, you are one of 'em, eh?"

"Look a here, squire, ef you dont want to be sqattin' cross-legged in yon heap o' sand. I cal'late yeou'd better not say my edication has been neglected in any such a way."

"Not at all, my dear friend; I only predicted that you were a—that is, bang it—I mean do you know what's out?"

"Yees; I'll tell yeou what's out, squire."

"Good; what is it?"

"A writ agin' Josh Pruden for breakin the Sabbath all to flinders, playin' keerds in Deacon Dingle's barn."

"Pshaw!" said the jolly man, I don't mean that sort of work. I suppose you are like the rest of these Know Nothings, too sly, eh—to be caught?"

"Squire do you chaw?"

"Yes," said the jolly looking man.

"Hand us out your tobacco, then."

"Yes, I don't chaw."

"Get eout, gettin' kinder sharp-set, too, I cal'late. Now look a here, squire, I gin to expect yeour from York."

"I expect you are correct in your remarks."

"Wall, I knew you was; can tell you fellers a mile off; e' yes, can, by kingdom. Now, I cal'late there's somethin' goin' on, that's a fact, allfiredst raow areound this yer town, this mornin', 'beout somethin,' a feller ever heard."

"Ah, that's what I was comin at. Now they say you've got up a new invention—a new fangled society, or a new order, party, or sect, or somethin else that's bound to get Christendom in an uproar. How is it?"

"Eh, yes; when are they goin' to begin it, squire?"

"O yeou get out; sly dog; aiu't yeou one of 'em?"

"What? the fellers that's goin' to raise sin and break things?"

"I don't know; I only ask you," continued the squire. "I only ask you for information, you know."

"Wall, now, look hear, a feller never made much by dod-rotted ignorance in this land of universal liberty and general edication; and a feller hates to come right daown and confess he don't know nothin', that's a fact; but, squire, I've got to acknowledge the corn, a-a-nd it's no use talkin', but darn my buttons to applesass, ef I wont, as a poor a feller as I be, gin just ten shillins and upwards to know what's kinder busted raound here."

"Would you."

"Wouldn't I? By golly, squire, I guess yeour'e the critter kin jest tell all about it."

"I'm just the man that can."

"I knew yeou be! Gre-at-t kingdom, let's hear all about it."

"Hish," said the humerous man, "hish! I've been sounding you."

"You don't say so?" echoed the citizen of Nutmeg.

"Can't speak out to everybody."

"So."

"Yes, sir, now I know you're a good egg."

"Aiggs."

"Good egg—sound to the core!"

"Sound? wouldn't wonder; never ailin' but once in my hull life; then I had the darndest scratchin' time you ever did see. Ever have the itch, squire?"

"Never, thank you."

"O, not at all, squire, you're quite welcome, as my uncle Nat said once, when he shot the Injin."

"Well, sir, now I'll give you in a whisper an idea of what's up, and if you love your country—"

"Me?"

"The land of the free and the home of the brave."

"Great Fourth of July! Pitch in the big licks, squire."

"Our own dear native land!"

"That's the ginger! Go it squire!" says Nutmeg.

"Well, sir, now you just follow me over to the hotel; so, now take a chair—Here we are, now I'll give you the secret. You see this is a grand secret society."

"Eh, yes."

"And the greatest secrecy is to be adhered to. Now rise, hold up both hands, high about your head, so, now swear—"

"Swear? Can't dew it, squire—agin my religion."

"Are you an American?"

"Am I? I ain't nothing else, by Bunker Hill!"

"Will you stand by your country?"

"Will I? Yes sir, till Gabriel toots his horn!"

"Then swear that you will stand by the American Eagle, the stars and stripes, and never reveal the secrets."

"Fourth of July and Bunker Hill!" chimes in the excited Yankee.

"That's it good, good egg!" said the humorous man. "Now, sir, you are one of us—you are a Know-Nothing."

"Yeou don't say so!"

"Yes, sir; now we have some mysterious signs and countersigns, by which you can tell a brother of the society. When you see a man looking at you with his right eye shut, his hands in his pockets, and a cigar—should he be smoking—in the left side of his mouth, you may know he's a Know-Nothing."

"Eh, yes."

"Well, then, you go towards him, and shut your left eye, so; you bite your thumb on the left hand, if he bites—"

"Bites?"

"Yes, bites; if he is really one of 'em he will say something in a grumbling tone—something like 'what do you mean?' or, 'do you mean that for me?' Then he bites, you see; then you advance close, and say slowly, 'nix a weed in cully.'"

"Dutch, ain't it" says the Yankee.

"Well, no, not exactly, its our language. Then he'll say, 'what do you mean?' Mind, he'll be very apt to say that once or twice, sure. You reply, 'nibs,' don't forget, 'nibs—stag his nibs cully.'"

"Nibs, cully, how's nibs?"

"You then approach close up, shut the right eye, grasp his hand, and put your left forefinger along side of your nose, so. He'll then up and tell you all about it."

"He will? How many fellers in town have jined this society?"

'O, bundreds; nearly every body you meet are members; its raising the greatest excitement imaginable!"

"Beats Millerites! I was one of them."

"Beats everything out, sir. Now here's the oath: you swear by this emblem"—elevating a boot jack,

"What, a boot jack?"

"Yes, it looks like a boot jack, but it aint, it's a blind, a mystery; we swear by this. You put your forefinger on your nose, shut one eye, and swear never to reveal these, our secrets, so help your independence day. Now to night, there will be a crowd near the depot, about dark; when the crowd moves you follow, they will take you to the secret chamber, where you will learn more particulars. Now scoot."

"Eh, yes," and Nutmeg left.

He had just got into the street, when a veritable sign met his eye. A long-legged, double-fisted fellow, with but one eye in his head, stood gaping around with hands in his breeches; up goes Nutmeg, shuts his eye, and pokes his thumb between his molars. The man with the closed eye looked daggers with the other, and by the twitching of his lips seemed to be speaking, or doing something like it, inwardly.

"Nix a weed in cully," said Nutmeg, advancing.

"What in yaller thunder d'ye mean? say!" says the one-eyed man.

"Nibs—stag his nibs; cully, how's nibs?" continued Nutmeg, advancing, and placing his finger upon his long, sharp nose, and grabbing at the stranger's, who, mistrusting the movement no good, draws off and puts in such a "soult paw," that Nutmeg doubled up and went down all in a heap, cobiff!

"Goll darn yeou, ain't yeou one of 'em? Why didn't you say so?" bawls Nutmeg, traveling into the hotel to find the Professor of Know Nothingness, and settle his hash. But Professor Pete Morris had suddenly left for parts unknown. Nutmeg has been looking for Pete some time.

Another Greytown Epic!

"C. S.," of Brooklyn, sends us another epic commemoratory of the recent resplendent achievement at Greytown, by Capt. Hollins:

THE BURNING OF SAN JUAN!

Good people all, both great and small,
Attend unto my ditty!
'Tis of the rape of San Juan!
That famous little City.

They gave an insult to our flag,
For which we bade them stand!
And burnt out all the little Folks,
From out that little Land.

We sent brave Hollins out with speed,
To cruise upon that station!
Who burnt that little City up,
For our great Yankee Nation.

When Cuba, with defiant brow,
So boldly seized our ships,
We sidled down into our Boots,
But gave San Juan Fits.

Let Pierce and Marcy wear the palm,
So well becomes their station!
Their great exploits will bear the test,
Of this great Yankee Nation.

Fillibusters have been in a great hubbub since the revolution in Spain broke out, but it turns out that the new government is more tenacious of its rights than the corrupt Queen, and her paramour.

The Whig Sentiment.—We have been in several towns recently and we hear but one sentiment among whigs: they are united in saying "it is best to stand by the Colors." And why not? Every Whig and every whig paper in the free states are opposed to the Nebraska fraud. The abandonment of the whig organization for a local and sectional party would be a piece of folly that few are willing to perpetrate. It could be but a temporary bark at best and in two or three years would go to pieces, leaving whigs to flounder, some to sink and some to be stranded upon unknown shores. But again, the democracy are broken all to pieces, and now is the time of all others for whigs to hold together. What would be thought of an army that would break and run at the moment the enemy should do the same thing?—Ridiculous! In Essex County, we have heard of but one whig who wishes the whig party disbanded. Now he had better go right over to the enemy, and no effort should be made to save him. It is a good time for all that are discouraged, to find a new home. If there any others, now is the time. They can be spared as well as not, as, if whigs stand up manfully, their places will be filled by thousands of a better stamp. It is now settled that Nebraska and Kansas are to be free territories. When this is felt and believed at the south, a re-action will take place in the southern mind and in 1856 whigs have only to guide the rudder and mind the sails to be watted into power.—The popular breeze will blow any way and whigs have only to choose whether they will trim their sails accordingly, or foolishly disregard the chances.

Delegate to the State Convention.—Who shall it be? Shall he be instructed in regard to the wishes of the county?—Shall he be a man with his preferences already enlisted, or shall he be a man, uncommitted, unprejudiced, uninstructed, and whose preferences are yet to be formed, after looking over the whole ground?—Whigs had better think this over and send a delegate to the County Convention from every town.

Correction.—An item is going the rounds of the papers, that the Military Parade at Westport commences September 6th. This is an error. It commences on the 5 h.

Fires and the Drouth.—The woods are on fire in all directions, and the atmosphere is dense with smoke. It settles down on the lake so as to render navigation in the night unsafe. The smoky atmosphere, gives the prospect a most doleful and gloomy appearance.

The drouth is the all absorbing topic of conversation. Potatoes and corn must be a total failure throughout Essex and Clinton counties. Oats are very light, and in many cases a failure. Grass was under a middling crop. Potatoes are worth ten shillings a bushel, and not to be had at that. Vegetation has all dried up, and cattle are loosing in the pastures for want of feed. This state of things, with the scarcity of money may well excite the deepest apprehensions. Without exception, money never was closer in Essex county than now, and it is to be closer still, and on the whole it is really a dark and gloomy time in this vicinity.

The Drouth—Fires—the Editor in Danger—&c., &c.—To get even a faint idea of the drouth and fires, one should take a trip through the country.—We have just passed through Willsborough, Essex, Westport, Moriah, Elizabethtown and Lewis. Vegetation has all dried up. Woods are on fire in all directions, and the smoke settles down over the earth like a funeral pall.

We are informed, on what we suppose reliable authority that Messrs. Hammonds & Co. of Crownpoint have met with a great loss, in the destruction of Saw-mills, lumber, tools, horses and wagons, &c by the fire, Damage estimated at $50,000. Property situated between Crownpoint and Schroon.

Capt. E. P. Hendee of Moriah, located where the fires are raging in that town, informed us he had suffered losses by the fires to the amount of $2000. His goods have been packed up for some days, ready to remove from before the flames when they can fight them back no longer.

The village of Elizabethtown was seriously threatened Thursday afternoon. A terrific fire came pouring down the gorge, from towards Keene, impelled by a furious west wind. For a time, the smoke in the village was suffocating, the females of the families near the fire had fled for their lives the cry for aid was spread in all directions, and as the fire pressed on towards the village, there was hurrying to and fro, to see what was to be done to avert the impending danger. Fortunately at this moment, the wind changed and all was safe. Whether any buildings up in the mountains were destroyed we did not learn, but their destruction was considered inevitable. The lives of several heroic men who stood by the buildings, were also in danger. The flames and smoke blew over their heads, but they were surrounded by fire and could not move.

At Lewis, there was a raging fire within fifty rods of the village. A row of men were resolutely fighting it back, and the inhabitants had drawn up barrels and hogsheads of water round their buildings.

Thursday evening we came up into the "Pine Woods," on our way home, when we met one of the most magnificent, and at the same time, most fearful sights we ever beheld. The mountains were all on fire, It was dark, and there in front and rear, on our right, and on our left, and above us on either side for hundreds of feet fires were burning, sometimes in immense piles, and at others, like twinkling stars. The latter were innumerable. At Mr. Charles Stranahan's, near the highest mountains, we were advised not to attempt to go any further, but being anxious to reach home we hired Mr. Stranahan and pushed on as far as what he called the "Bend," just under the highest pinnacle of rocks, and near the "Cross-way" on the "flat."

There we were met by a sheet of flame reaching clean across from hill to hill and rising with the wind a hundred feet high. Of course we turned back, with singed clothes and hair, and well nigh suffocated with the smoke. We were kindly cared for for the night by Mr. Stranahan, where we were hemmed in in a "clearing" of about 50 acres, with a prospect of being routed before morning, with no chance to flee, but compelled to "face the music." The neighbors were all anxious watchers all night; and we slept with our clothes on and "one eye open." The fires spent their fury during the night, and subsided in the morning, when we came on in safety, accompanied by a son of Mr. Stranahan. Several families were burnt out, and twenty acres of various crops destroyed. Thomas McGuire was absent during the night and was supposed to be lost, but he came out safe in the morning, having been hemmed in by the fires up in the mountains, and escaped with only a fright. Ross, Low & Putnam lost a large quantity of coal wood.

A similar state of things exists up the river. Villages, mills, &c. threatened with destruction. Several mule teams of the Peru Iron Co sent out with loads of men to fight fire, were burned to death.

An Irish settlement on "The Patent," in Peru, has suffered seriously from fires, but we have not learned particulars.

Our friends abroad may be assured that it is a gloomy time in this section, but we will hope for a change in the weather, a good falls' business, and by proper preparation, hope it will not be so hard a winter as the present indicates.

Military.

The parade of the 31st Regt. of Uniformed Militia is to be at Westport, on the 5th, 6th, and 7th of Sept. The two last days will be found the most desirable for spectators. It is to be hoped there will be a goodly number of the people out to see and encourage these citizen soldiers. It is a great mistake to ridicule the verdancy of the militia. It was just such men, as plainly dressed, as poorly armed, as unsophisticated as those of the present day, that fought the battles of American Independence. He has read the history of the Revolution with little attention, who does not know that boys of sixteen, and grey haired sires of three score and ten, one with a small shot gun and another with an "old fusee" fought side by side in that glorious struggle. Others too, fought "on their own hook," as it is said of a deacon at the battle of Bennington, and every time he fired he prayed, "may the Lord have mercy on their souls." Gen. Stark said, on that memorable day, boys, "those red coats must be flogged before night, or Molly Stark's a widow." There was little of polish, but much of heart there. It is not the best appearing soldiers that make the best fighters. The great danger is in permitting arms to go out of use. The less they are used, and the more effeminite the people become, the more they dread the fatigues of camp, and with a sigh at its hardships, they hand over the defence of their country and their friends to hirelings. Then by degrees become powerless before a hired soldiery and a mercenary chieftain.—The militia is an American Institution and the Constitution, and our freedom will live, or perish together. Nay, nay, never ridicule the militia, but stand by it, and defend it to the last.

New York Correspondence.

Cholera in Brooklyn—Desecration of Churches—A "cute" swindler—Stock of Ladies—Ferry Matters—Erie Emulators—Know-Nothings—Prophets—Portentous Omens and like interesting items.

For two or three days past there has been a coolness almost uncomfortable in the air. The general health of the city has not been improved by it, as this fall and fall weather is the harvest time of Cholera. Wednesday, a very cool day, there was a large increase of cases reported. In New York, however, the pestilence seems to be subsiding. Your correspondent is informed by a physician in large practice, in Brooklyn, that but a small proportion of the cholera cases in that city were reported—that the aggregate, truly stated, would be almost equal to that of New York, with its immense population. Brooklyn water is by no means so healthy as the Croton. The wells of that city furnish a liquid too plentifully imbued with lime. Large numbers of the physicians would rather pay the fine than make the report, as they would be occupied half the time in running to and fro from head-quarters. Still, all our cases of cholera arise from individual imprudence. Let a man watch his system narrowly and care for it, and he is safe. There is no contagion about the disease.

Another of the old landmarks of the city was swept away by the conflagration of Wednesday last. The Broome St. Presbyterian Church, near the Centre Market, was leveled with the ground. This was founded in March 1820; that is, the congregation was gathered at that time.—The corner stone of the old square building was laid in 1821. Here the eloquent discourses of Des Patton and William Adams were listened to for many years.—Rev. Mr. Wood is the greatest pastor of the church. So all our old churches are going. I was passing down Mercer St., the other day; on the corner of Grand, there is a large old brick church which I had often noticed; this time, a change had come over it, in one feature. A large entrance-way had been opened; a horse and carriage were passing under the portal, and a crowd of loafers sat by the quondam sanctuary, criticising horse-flesh, inside, the family pews had grown into horse-stalls. A small church on Nassau St., one of the oldest in the city, between Fulton and John, has been converted into a "Temple of Health," by S. P. Townsend, the Sarsaparilla man! An old church in Brooklyn, now serves as an auction room. Down town, the pull-down and building fever has recommenced furiously, on the west side, especially, near the Park.—Standing on Chambers St, you can look through Murray St. into the back windows of Columbia College, three blocks, through a great gap made by uprooted edifices. The ancient palaces of "New Amsterdam," are giving way to the magnificent warehouses of Young America. Progress forever!

I have just heard, from a gentleman traveling in the South and West, a story of a very clever Northern swindler, who has been playing a skillful and successful game on Southern and Western people for the past five years. The man is young and of a very pleasing address. He pretends to be an Episcopal theological student. He hangs around the Northern College, Yale and Harvard, till he can pick up a few scraps of information about the wealthiest of the Southern students; learns who their parents are and where they live, etc. Then traveling through the South, he stops at the residence of some hospitable planter, pretends that he has turned aside from his course, at the urgent request of the gentleman's son, his intimate college friend. Under such circumstances, nothing can be too good for him. He lives on the fat of the land, and always contrives to lose his pocket-book, with several hundred in bills and drafts. He don't tell of it, but, feigning with jesuitical craftiness and art, a concealed scorn, he excites the sympathizing inquiries of his host, Then bursting into tears, he confesses his loss. Of course the planter's pocket-book is wide open. The theological student helps himself, and walks off. But he don't ever come back to that vicinity again. He goes into new conquests. In one place, however, on the Ohio River, he victimized these gentlemen within a few miles of each other. Perhaps he may favor some of your readers with a call. He calls himself Mayham, alias Mahon, alias and half a dozen other names. Judge McGee, Rev. Mr. Stratton, N. O, and others have suffered by him.

New York is full of people, yet the cry continues, "nobody at home." New York people are not at home. That is, the lively, conversable, visitable part of the world is not here. There are plenty of business men who "can't get away," and wouldn't if they could; men who feel morally guilty if they are not turning a sixpence every day in the week. But the great deficiency seems to be, the absence of the fair ladies, are as scarce as honesty. Scarcer. If only a few would consent to stay, for the comfort of the innumerable bachelors tied to business, they could have the sweep of the whole field matrimonial.

The new arrangement of the Brooklyn Ferry Company, adding 100 per cent to their previous charges, naturally creates considerable dissatisfaction. The poor among our citizens conceive that they have been thus taxed to support a splendidly equipped ferry for Wall St. at the same price as the other ferries. Instead of rising, locomotion is getting cheaper in all other directions. You can ride five or six miles by stage, in New York, for three cents; by car, in Brooklyn, for four. We New Yorkers get a very few things very cheap; but we have to pay the difference in the exceeding dearness of others.

Some foolish people residing in the upper part of the Eleventh Avenue, have taken it into their heads to make a patriotic demonstration against the Hudson River Railroad, somewhat similar to that by which the inhabitants of Erie have gained so unenviable notoriety. The railroad runs horse cars through the thickly populated portions of the city, and near Fiftieth St., puts on the engine. Some children have been run over by the cars in the Eleventh Avenue and, instead of moving their children out of the way, the people are determined to move the engine out of the street by tearing up the rails. A meeting was held last evening, by residents in that vicinity and very inflamatory speeches were made. A secret Vigilance committee was appointed, and perhaps you may hear soon of the uptearing of rails.—But the rioters will not find it quite so comfortable work as it was at Erie.

The Times, and Archbishop Hughes are engaged in earnest controversy. The Times asserted that the American and Irish Catholics had lately split, forming two parties; and that in fact, there were "Know-Nothings," among the Catholics. This the Archbishop strenuously denies. But he seems to have the best of the argument, thus far. A prophet has arisen in Philadelphia. He propheies good fortune to Seward, in the time to come; and thereat the Times is rejoiced. Probably he is a Know-Nothing. It is rumored around here, that the Presidency of Amherst College, Mass., left vacant by the resignation of President Hitchcock, will be offered to Rev. Dr. Storrs of Brooklyn. Dr. Storrs is still a very young man He has only just attained his D. D., and that was thought to have been bestowed upon him full early. He is, however, one of the most eloquent and popular of the city preachers, and his large and influential congregation would undoubtedly, be unwilling to part with their pastor. This week, there died in Brooklyn, a Mr. Hurlbut. He was the man who first introduced the measure of preventing ships from clearing from the port of New York on the sabbath; he was largely instrumental, also, in the Temperance reform in mercantile vessels. The Millerites are reviving in this vicinity.—The late frauds in Wall St. are almost enough to bring the day of judgement, if it was coming, and so they think, I suppose.

They hold a grand camp-meeting on the Jersey shore, next week. There were strange yellow and white circles about the sun, on Thursday, which were portentous enough to excite some vain imaginings.—They probably foretell a terrible storm brewing or brewed, somewhere. To-day, there is no sun at all—dismal and gloomy.

The police are getting on the track of a secret organization of thieves and burglars, who play their trade by land and water. They have been detected in some depredations on Uncle Sam's property, in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Look out for curious revelations, one of these days.

Resolutions of the Saratoga Convention

Whereas, The present Congress, by a vote of a minority of the members elected to the House, has deliberately and wantonly re-opened the controversy respecting the extension of Slavery under our national jurisdiction, which a majority of the people had understood to be closed forever, by the successive compromises of 1820 and 1850: And Whereas, this congress aided and impelled by the Federal executive, has by the act currently known as the Nebraska Bill, designedly subverted so much of the compact commonly termed the Missouri Compromise, as excluded slavery from that vast region of our continent stretching from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains, and from the parallel of 36 30 to the Northern boundary of our Union, the State of Missouri alone being excepted. And Whereas, the people of our State thro' an unbroken series of seventy years during the former half of which they were themselves a slaveholding community, have solemnly attested through every channel of popular and legislative action, their determined and emphatic purpose that the extension of slavery shall be forbidden, obstructed and prevented by positive law: Therefore

Resolved, That the State of New York, now as ever, affirms, and maintains the right and duty of the general government to prohibit and preclude the extension, establishment or perpetuation of human slavery in any and every Territory of the United States, and in any territory, possession and country over which this Union now has, or may hereafter acquire exclusive jurisdiction, and in support of this position we appeal to the uniform expressions and acts of our statesmen, legislators and people from 1784 till this day.

Resolved, That the doctrine affirmed by the Nebraska bill, and gilded over by its advocates with the specious phrases of 'Non Intervention," and "Popular Sovereignty" is really and clearly a complete surrender of all the ground hitherto asserted and maintained by the Free States with respect to the limitation of slavery, and is a plain concession and recognition of the rights of slaveholders to transfer their human chattels to any part of the public domain and there hold them as slaves so long as cupidity may tempt and force shall suffice to detain them in servitude.

Resolved, That unbroken experience attests that Free labor and Slave labor cannot exist on the same soil. That whenever slavery is tolerated, there free labor dies out, or sinks into a mere satellite and convenience of the plantation and its masters. So that the admission of slavery into Kansas and Nebraska involves the practical exclusion therefrom of ourselves and our children through all coming time, with that paralysis of invention, interdiction of industrial progress and degradation of labor which are the inevitable attendants of the slaveholding system.

Resolved, That against the doctrines, tendencies and natural consequences involved in the Nebraska bill, so calculated to dishonor our country in the eyes of mankind, and to discourage and confound the champions of liberty and progress throughout the world, we declare uncompromising war, and in the spirit and faith of our fathers will struggle to the last for the re-construction of Nebraska and Kansas to the ennobling occupation and use of free labor and free men.

Resolved, That we denounce that abuse of the "Non-Intervention," which is intended to uphold the intervention of the State between the oppressor and his victim in behalf of the former. We denounce that abuse of the phrase "Popular Sovereignty" which would make it a cloak for legalizing the absolute subjugation of a part of the human race to the will and pleasure of others, and we demand of government as a primary duty, perpetual intervention on the side of Justice, Equality and Liberty, and in vindication of each innocent man's sovereignty over himself.

Resolved, That the deliberate repudiation by the slave power, on the very first opportunity of the solemn compact forced upon our fathers by its Representatives, whereby the territories now known as Nebraska and Kansas were consecrated forever to freedom, has absolved us from all compacts or agreements outside the Federal Constitution with reference to slavery, and we now take our stand distinctly on the principle that all territory of the United States must henceforth be free territory, and all States hereafter admitted must come in as free states.

Resolved, That we heartily approve the course of the freemen of Connecticut, Vermont, Iowa, Ohio, Indiana Wisconsin, and Michigan, in postponing or disregarding their minor differences of opinion or preference, and acting together cordially and trustingly in the sacred cause of free labor and free soil, and we commend their spirit to the freemen of this and other states.

Resolved, That the thanks of this convention are hereby tendered to our Senators and the great majority of Representatives in Congress, for the ability, fidelity and courtesy, wherewith they upheld thro'out the long, arduous and unequal struggle on the Nebraska Bill, against the power of patronage and the despotism of a factious and anomalous majority, the settled convictions of their State, the principles of their constituents, and the interests of freedom.

Resolved, That we heartily approve and commend to universal sympathy and aid, the efforts now in progress to organize a systematic colonization, with free souls and strong arms, first of Kansas, and successively, of all the other Territories, and unpeopled regions exposed to the blight and scourge of slavery: and we challenge those who say they are as much opposed to slavery, as we are but have never yet found a satisfactory opportunity to demonstrate their faith by their works, to vie with us in promoting this constitutional and unobjectionable plan for securing the territories to freedom.

Resolved, That when this convention adjourn, it will adjourn to meet in Auburn at ten o'clock, A. M., on Tuesday, September 26, charged with the duty of presenting candidates for State officers to be supported at the ensuing election, who shall represent and uphold the principles embodied in these resolutions.

This last resolution elicited much discussion, speeches being made by Theodore C. Peters, of Genesee; Judge Hathaway, of Delaware; Leonard Gibbs and Henry B. Northup of Washington; E. D. Culver of Kings; O. B. Pierce, of Oneida; Hon. Preston King, of St. Lawrence; Hon H. J. Raymond, of New-York; Gen. E. F. Bullard, and John Brotherson, of Saratoga

Mr. Culver opposed any motion, saying that such a ticket could not obtain over fifty thousand votes outside of the whig party.

Messrs. Gibbs, Bullard, Brotherson and Northup were for an immediate nomination the latter gentleman saying that if he could not obtain it now he should try it in September, and if not successful then he should continue trying until he did.

John Brotherson said that if a nomination was not made out he should go back to the Whig party.

Hon. Preston King was repeatedly called for, and when he came forward and spoke against nominating he was loudly cheered.

The vote was finally taken, and the resolution was carried by a large majority.

"Of two Evils choose the least:" Or, how he saved a mile.—Our Pedestrian John Ives, gave us notice, one day last week, that he was about to take a walk to Plattsburgh, just for exercise, and to see his old friends there, and get some peaches." He started about 10 o'clock in the morning, and took the road leisurely to Ellenburgh, where he stopped over night, and the next day, about noon, found himself back at his case in this office. He accounts for his return in this wise:—

As he started out in the morning, he looked at the guide-board and read "Platts'burgh, 26 miles." "Malone, 25 miles;" "and," says he, "I thought I would save the mile." A discreet choice

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Crayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 20th, 1853.

For about eight year. I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my cough, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past few years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and one teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a time while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 313 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guarranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES, President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for useless and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt, that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of these objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw mills, and Hand and Whip saws. These mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and articles; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure waters.

3. Rich's Pressure Center-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft, gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy, and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $200. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the article finished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Clochester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $60.

7. Jones's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Useful in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fres & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hathes' Improvement. To supersede over the main points of this valuable improvement, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt; meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 104 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. F. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $500.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Warner's Cover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine, a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skilful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficacious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency, Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluror Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append a long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

Is put up in 8 oz Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen. Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Frankling Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa.; G. V. Clickener & Co., N. York, Wholesale Agents, TO WHOM ALL ORDERS MUST BE ADDRESSED. For Sale by all respectable Druggists and Merchants throughout the country. 495:1y

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th,

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation.] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

The Rhyming Chroniclers.

LAYAMON may be regarded as the first of a series of writers, who, about the end of the Thirteenth Century, began to be conspicuous in our literary history, which usually recognizes them under the general appellation of Rhyming Chroniclers. The first, after a considerable interval after Layamon, was a monk of Gloucester Abbey, usually called from that circumstance, Robert of Gloucester, and who lived during the reigns of Henry III, and Edward I.—He wrote in long rhymed lines (Alexandrines), a history of England from the imaginary Brutus to his own time, using chiefly as his authority, the Latin history by Goeffrey of Monmouth, of which Wace and Layamon had already given Norman French and Saxon versions(1). The work is described by Mr. Warton as destitute of art and imagination, and giving to the fabulous history, in many parts, a less poetical air than it bears in Goeffrey's prose.—The language is full of Saxon peculiarities which might partly be the result of his living in so remote a province as Gloucestershire. Another critic acknowledges that, though cold and prosaic, Robert is not deficient in the valuable talent of arresting the attention. The orations with which he occasionally diversifies the thread of his story, are, in general, appropriate and dramatic, and not only prove his good sense, but exhibit no unfavorable specimens of his eloquence. In his description of the first crusade he seems to change his usual character, and becomes not only entertaining, but even animated.(2)

Of the language of Robert's Chronicle, the following is a specimen, in its original spelling:—

Engelond ys a wel god lond, ich wene of eshe lond best,
Y-set in the ende of the world, as al in the west.
The see go th hym al about, he stout as a yle.
Hero fon hco darre the lasse doute, but hit be throw gyle
Of folc of the selve lond, as me hath y-seye wyle.
From south to north he ys long eighte hundred myle.

(1) Robert's Chronicle, from a particular allusion, is supposed to have been written, at least in part, after 1297.
(2) Ellis.

This is, of course, nearly unintelligible to all, (except antiquarian readers.) and it is therefore judged proper, in other specimens, to adopt, as far as possible, a modern orthography.

Great Fire in Troy.

Disastrous Conflagration—Over one Million Dollars worth of Property destroyed—Four hundred Families rendered houseless—An area of Thirty Acres in extent burned over.

Such is in substance a statement of the calamity to Troy. It occurred on Friday the 25th ult. in the afternoon. There were destroyed 9 lumber yards, a large number of groceries and stores; some of the finest dwellings in the city, the Hudson River R. R. Depot, Machine shops, Chair Factory, 2000 cords of wood, &c., &c. The fire broke out soon after 1 o'clock, P. M. and raged 'till about 5 o'clock, when it was subdued. The Fire Companies of Albany, Lansingburgh, Waterford, and Cohoes were promptly on the ground to assist their neighbors.

WESTPORT, Aug. 29th, 1854.

COL. TARBELL:—In the Elizabethtown Post, of Aug. 25th, there appeared an article under the signature of "Menander," designed to reflect discredit upon Capt. Nicholson's Company and the citizen soldiery generally. This I think was uncalled for. The importance of this branch of our public defence is too apparent and too generally acknowledged to admit of an argument at this time, and of Capt Nicholson I am proud to say that whatever to him appears to be duty, either as an officer or a citizen, he always performs promptly and with ability, alike regardless of the smiles or frowns of all. But in justice to the author of the article in question, I must say that in this thing he has distinguished himself as a writer of superior ability and I cannot but feel that this is a highly favoured people having among us one capable of describing in such beautiful and eloqent language the scenes, which from time to time pass before him. As I read that truly astonishing and masterly production the paper fell from my hand and involuntarily exclaimed in the fullness of my soul:

"Ain't Essex County boast as great
As any County in the State.
Or where's the town, go far and near,
That does not find a rival there?"

CITIZEN SOLDIER.

(We read the article in question with regret—regret that there is a man mean enough to write a burlesque on so valuable an arm of republican institutions as the Militia—regret that an Editor could be found weak enough to admit it into his columns,—and regret that our Military friends should be subjected to opposition of this character. While we would do nothing to retard the citizen soldiery; we would do all in our power to encourage its progress. It is the foe of tyrants and the right arm of freedom. The writer of that article may see the time when he will pray for the protection of the Militia, but we fear he will pray in vain. He manifests too much the disposition of the tories and Cow-boys of the Revolution, and if he had lived in those times he "would have been a tory true." Our advice to our military friends is to "face the music" Take the patriotic side of this question, discuss it fearlessly and boldly, and our word for it, ninety-nine out of every hundred will sustain the Citizen Soldiery.)—Ed. Rep.

Who is the better Counsel?

THEIR POSITIONS DEFINED.

MR. GREELEY'S POSITION.—Mr. Greeley, in the Tribune of Wednesday, denies that he ever opposed the election of a candidate to the Presidency, because he was a slaveholder, and says he has "already voted for Henry Clay, John Tyler, Zachary Taylor, and William A. Graham, all slaveholders," and he repents of none, except his vote for Tyler. He also says he is "ready to vote in '56 for John Bell, Thomas H. Benton, or Sam'l Houston," and hitherto has been willing to vote "for John J. Crittenden, Willie P. Mangum, or either of the Kentucky Moreheads, without asking or caring whether they were slaveholders or not."

PRESTON KING'S POSITION.—At an anti-Nebraska meeting held at Canton, St. Lawrence county, for the purpose of sending delegates to the Saratoga Convention, Hon. Preston King, well known as a leading and influential member of the soft or Administration party, and a prominent free-soiler in 1848, offered the following resolution, among others, which was adopted:

Resolved, That in the veteran Senator of Missouri, Thomas H. Benton, now a member of the House of Representatives, we recognize a candidate for President who stands approved by his republican simplicity of character, by his experience as a statesman, by his devotion to the union of the States, to the Constitution and the cause of Freedom, by his eminent ability, and by his courage, patriotism, and honesty. He needs no certificate from a convention to make him known or to recommend him.

Our object in quoting the above is to present the above men and their opinions to the abolition masses of this section in contrast to the men who advise them into a new party, and against such southern men as Bell, Cullom, Hunt, Houston and Benton. We mean no disrespect to any person, but we think the persons above quoted are entitled to rather more credit than men who lack both balance of mind and ability for safe leaders. Regulated by no well settled principles of morality or religion but pushed on by a restless nervousness they run off on a tangent till they lose sight of practical common sense. We should say to our abolition friends that both Greeley and King were endorsed in the Standard of the 26th ult.

The Saratoga Convention.

The question of nominating a ticket being under consideration:

E. D. Culver was called out, and he estimated that 20,000 Free Democrats, and 30,000 Soft Shell votes could be had for the proposed new party, and the rest could be gathered from 212,000 Whigs. This did not look favorable to the movement. The Hard Shells would get 105,000 and the Softs 96,000 votes, and the recruits must come from the Whig ranks.

These resolutions will get, out of the gordian-knot, between the North, on the 26th of September, tickets true to freedom.

Mr. Culver opposed any nomination, saying that such a ticket could not obtain over fifty thousand votes outside of the whig party.

Preston King of St. Lawrence, referred to the magnitude of the question at issue. He counseled deliberation in order to render the triumph of Freedom certain. In his opinion the people were not prepared to receive a ticket from this Convention. He had been told that in coming here, he would manufacture thunder for a party with which he never acted. He was willing to aid in manufacturing thunder which would only fall upon traitors. He did not suppose that it was generally believed that a nomination was to be made here. He spoke at length and very effectively.

Mr. O. B. Pierce of Rome also preferred an adjourned Convention. Although no Whig himself, he believed the Whigs to be true to Freedom; and a ticket nominated here would endanger the triumph of the friends of Freedom, by dividing their forces. Said he had printed Douglas's death and damnation, and after supporting the resolutions at length said he would give us an army of two hundred and twenty-five thousand strong.

We make these quotations to show our abolition friends: 1st, The folly of insisting upon a new party in this State. Its whole strength must depend upon Whigs. 2d. To present the character of the speakers above quoted, in contrast with that of those who favor nominations. We are aware that in point of character and political experience, they bear no comparison with such men as Wendell Lansing, yet we deem them and their opinions worthy of some attention.

Mr. Culver is from the South, Mr. King from the North, and Mr. Pierce from the West, thus representing all sections of the State.

WHAT OF IT?—The Standard, says: "The collision between the two papers, (Republican and Standard,) must necessarily lessen the prospect of a harmonious co operation in the coming contest."

We don't think it of any sort of consequence, and don't care whether the Standard is "harmonious in the coming contest," or not. The Abolitionists are not such dolts as to be led away from a plain, practical duty, by the inharmonious action of the Standard.

IN ERROR.—Mr. Lansing says, "we (the Standard) have spoken in plain language of the Convention of the Hards for endorsing Slavery Extension."—"Has the Republican done so?"

There were about 25 lines in condemnation of the Hards, but the Standard has had from one to two columns every week or two to persuade whigs that their party was broken up. But the Standard is in error in saying the Hards endorsed "Slavery Extension." They did no such thing. Had they have done so the Rep. would have denounced them. They endorsed the principle of "popular sovereignty" and Gen'l Taylor and the Seward whigs endorsed the same principle. We endorse it, and the people are endorsing it, and Kansas and Nebraska will endorse it as free States.

"POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY."—This is a much abused term just now, and little understood. The fraud attempted by the Administration has well nigh brought a well established principle into bad repute [illegible] pay expenses.

The Angel Gabriel.

J. S. Orr, better known as the "Angel Gabriel," dropped in the midst of the Convention and military tumult upon our streets yesterday morning. He is a short, spare man, with a deeply bronzed countenance, a Nazaritish profusion of grizily hair on his face and back part of his head, and a maniac's eye and tongue. He wears a brass bugle slung on one side and a tin case filled with literary stock on the other.

Blowing his bugle just opposite the Presbyterian Church, he planted a rod spear-pointed at the top and a weathercock just below with the stars and stripes on one side and the St. George's Cross of England on the other, and began his ravings. A crowd gathered round who listened in good humor to the close. The pro-slavists the Catholics, the public authorities who had molested him, and the clergy came in for a share of curses, while his own self-sacrifice and persecution was a fruitful topic.

The closing part of his discourse showed method in its madness. He had been called the Angel Gabriel, but that was not his name. He was no angel but must eat, drink and sleep as mortals do. Railroad traveling was expensive and he did nothing but serve the public. This brought open the tin case and exposed a large number of rolls, each consisting of some four or five sheets of poetry and prose, from which the crowd was favored with an extract. The rolls were sold at two shillings apiece, and considerable money was invested in this precious literature. Notwithstanding his mission against priestcraft, he pronounced a most imposing orthodox benediction upon his audience before he shouldered his brass spear with the placard and ensign and departed.—Saratoga Whig.

MORE FUN.—Our Bachelor Friend "hit" Again.

MR. EDITOR:—

I've got another, which I send you. Don't know who it's from, and can't find out—guess there was a mistake made in sending it to me. If not, shall expect an offer next time. Think I shall say ———, there'll be time enough for that, when it comes.

BACHELOR.

"Happy and free are a married man's revories:
Cheerfully, merrily, passes his life;
He knows not the Bachelor's revelries, devilries,
Caressed by, and blessed by, his children and wife,
Wise kind as an angel, sees things never rang—ill,
Busy prosecuting his comfort around,
Dispelling dejections with smiles of affections:
Sympathizing, advising, where fortune has frowned,

There is each jolly day, one lively holiday;
Not so the Bachelor, lonely, depressed,
No gentle one near him, no home to endear him
In sorrow to cheer him, no friend if no guest
No children to climb up—'twould fill all my rhyme up,
And take too much time up, to tell his despair:
Cross housekeepers meeting him, cheating him, beating him,
Bills pouring, maids scouring, devouring his fare.

He has no one to put on a sleeve or neck button,
Shirts mangled to rags—drawers stringless at knee;
The cook to his grief too, spoils puddings and beef too,
With overdone, underdone, undone is he,
No son still a treasure, in business or leisure;
No daughter with pleasure, new joys to prepare;
But old maids, and cousins, kind souls! rush in dozens,
Relieving him soon, of his Bachelor's fare,

He calls children apes, sir—(The Fox and the Grapes, sir—)
And fain would be wed, when his locks were like snow,
But widows throw scorn out, and tell him he's worn out,
And maidens deriding, cry, "No, my love, no!"
Old age comes with sorrow, with wrinkle, with furrow,
No hope in to-morrow—none, sympathy spares:
When unfit to rise up, he looks to the skies up—
None close his old eyes up—he dies—and—who cares?"

To a Confirmed Bachelor:—

BY THOSE WHO SYMPATHIZE.

[Ahem! Well, this is getting serious. After rubbing our spectacles, we are still as unable to see through this matter as before. Hoping, however, a "Proposal" will be next in order, we remain, as over, ready to serve our friend. Really tho' we sympathize with the Bachelor, and we begin to feel queer about the eyes and mouth. His "sufferings is intolerable,"]—ED. REP.

Cutting; it is without exception the finest location in the village, and this is saying a great deal in a place abounding in delightful building sites.

——Guy Cutting has returned from California and is Founder at Jackson's Furnace.

——W. D. Ross of Essex, has the largest and most commodious law office we know of in the county.

——C. G. Fancher has resumed the care of his Hotel, and it is the only public house in Essex.

——Alvin Delance has assumed the charge of the Hotel at Wadham's Mills.

——The Union Store at Wadham's Mills is doing well and it will, so long as so likely a fellow as S. W. Cole has charge of it.

——Our old friend J. R. Delano, and one of the best whigs in the county, or anywhere, has got rich enough to live without work and is disposed to take life easy. Delano and Merriams have dissolved. Wm. P. runs the forge, and John L. has gone back to Lewis.

——The Westport Academy is now owned by J. W. Eddy, who has turned it into a splendid dwelling house.

The Massachusetts Whig Resolutions.

The Massachusetts Whigs in the platform put forth at their Convention held Wednesday, took firm and strong ground It is substantially as follows:—

1st. That so long as the Whig Party remains true as now to Liberty, Constitution and the Union, it has no need to abandon its organization.

2d. That the policy of the founders of our government, as evinced in their Constitution and Ordinances, was averse to Slavery and uncompromising hostility to its extension.

3d. That the Nebraska Act terminates the era of Compromises with Slavery.

4th. No more Slave States, no extension of slavery over territory now free.

5th. Vindication of the rights of Northern citizens in Southern States.

6th. The repeal or essential modification of the Fugitive Slave Law.

7th Encouragement of free emigration to the new Territories.

8th. As a means to all these ends the overthrow of the present unwise and unscrupulous Administration.

Rules of the Supreme Court.

At a meeting of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to revise the Rules, &c. held at the Capitol, in the city of Albany, August 21, 1854, pursuant to section 470, page 559, 4th edition of Revised Statutes, Present—Hons. Amasa J. Parker, Henry Welles, B. F. Green, L. F. Bowen, G. Dean, J. Slosson, F. W. Hubbard, Wm. J. Bacon, Charles T Daly, Murray Hoffman, Daniel Pratt, C. L. Allen.

Hon. A. J. Parker was appointed chairman.

A committee to revise the Rules and report was appointed as follows: Hon. Henry Welles, Hon. Daniel Pratt, Hon. Charles T. Daly, Hon. Murray Hoffman.

The committe reported amendments to Rules in substance as follows;

To Rule 13—Requires examining counsel to stand while examining a witness, and that he not take minutes of testimony, unless the Justice holding the Court should otherwise order.

Rules 20 and 21 struck out.

Rule 22.—Amended so that either party may notice the cause for trial.

Exceptions to be settled in like manner as cases.

Rule 29.—The word "certified" struck out in fourth line.

Rule 31.—Amended by adding, "and the Court will not hear an extended discussion upon any mere question of fact."

Rule 41.—Amended by inserting "affidavit" after deposition in second line.

Rule 53.—Amended.

This rule shall not apply to actions for the recovery of money only, or of specific real or personal property.

A next friend for a married woman may be appointed in like manner as a guardian ad libitem on the application of an infant.

Rule 67 struck out.

Rule 79.—Amended by inserting after Bank in fourteenth line the words "or Trust Company."

Rules as amended to take effect in October, 1854.

A new rule was also adopted, designed as a check upon applications to enlarge the time for answering a complaint.

The Justices were unanimous in all the amendments except the amendment to Rule 13. Upon this amendment there was an interesting and animated discussion. Justices Daly, Slosson, Bacon and others in favor; and Justices Welles and Pratt arguing against.

On taking the final vote, the result was as follows:

For the amendment—Justices Parker, Bacon, Green, Dean, Slosson, Hubbard, Bowen, Daly, and C. L. Allen.

Against the amendment—Justices Welles, Pratt and Hoffman.—Alb. Evening Journal.

Stop Cheating.

To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune.

Sir: In your paragraph on Stage Fares, I noticed that you complain of the cheating practiced on travelers in delivering the change. Is it necessary to say that this cheating is widely spread all over the country, and that almost every one, very few excepted, steal one cent on every quarter of a dollar? Why should not the necessary steps be taken to withdraw the Spanish currency from circulation, and pass a law binding all persons to transact their business, whatever the amount, in the federal currency? It seems to me that the "all powerful press" of these days could succeed in finding the means to get rid of this barbarous way of dealing with the far gone centuries.

New York, Aug. 16, 1854.

Please excuse,

Shade trees and Cholera.—We like the following suggestions, and whether well founded or not, It will do no hurt to try the experiment. It is a well known fact that trees on the streets of a city absorb through their foliage a large portion of noxious vapor and gases which are evolved by the rays of the sun. The comfort which we enjoy from their cooling shade, and the pleasure we receive from their gay and enlivening appearance are not their only benefits. The air is purer and more healthful thereby; and the exhilaration of the system induced by breathing more oxygen and carbon draws our thoughts towards the bright side of Nature and things in general; thus acting as a preventative against a disease that easily preys upon depressed spirits. The effects of physical causes upon the phenomena of mind and the reactionary power of mind upon health are necessary consequences from the unity of man's nature.—The Cleveland Herald thinks the healthiness of the "Forest City" may be partially attributable to the abundance of shade trees; and we note the fact as an additional inducement for all to plant when the proper time comes.

☞ Henry A. Wise, who has just been nominated as the Loco Foco candidate for Governor of Virginia, says he is in favor of the Nebraska bill, because it "repeals the Missouri Compromise and fortifies Slavery." That was the purpose of the swindle, and for that reason it deserves and is receiving the execration of the people. Nevertheless, its ultimate effects may be different from what its authors designed. If Kansas shall be saved to Freedom—as it may be—and if Nebraska shall, as is quite probable, become a Free State by general consent, Slavery will have been but miserably "fortified" by this outrageous enactment. The encouragement of free emigration to Kansas, is now the great leading practical duty of the North. If this is effectually discharged, the discomfitted propagandists will howl with rage in less than a twelve month.—Albany Journ,

☞ The County Temperance convention assembled at the Court House in this village on the 10th inst. Hon. J. T. EVERETT presided, assisted by G. MOORE, Esq., Vice President, and Geo. M. Beckwith, Esq., Secretary. Resolutions were passed deprecating the evils flowing from the trafic in intoxicating drinks—advocating a prohibitory law, &, &c. No nomination for county officers was made. The principal speakers were Rev. D. Dobie, Dr. Goodwin, J. J. Drown and G. M. Beckwith.—Platts. Rep.

NEW PLANETS.—They discover little planets with the improved telescope now, at the rate of about two per annum. The London Times announces the discovery of another by Mr Hind, from the Observatory at Regent's Park, London. He says:

"At 11 45 mean time last night, I discovered an object shining like a star of the tenth magnitude, or rather brighter, which proves to be another new member of the group of minor planets. It is almost exactly upon the ecliptic, about midway between two stars of the fifth magnitude—29 and 32 of Flamsteed, in Capricornus."

HARD ROAD TO TRAVEL:—Traveler.—"Say, boy, which of these roads goes to Milton?"

Stuttering boy.—B-b-both on 'em goes ther."

TRAV.—"Well, which is the quickest way?"

BOY.—"B-b-bout alike; b-b-both on 'em gets there b-b-bout the same t-t-time o'day."

TRAV.—"How far is it?"

BOY.—"Bout four m-m-miles."

TRAV.—"Which is the best road?"

BOY.—"T-t-they ain't nary one the b-best. If you take the right hand road and go about a m-mile, you'll wish you was in tophet, and if you t-t-turn back and take the l-l-left hand one, by the time you have gone half a m-m-mile, you will wish you had kept on the other r-r-road?"

CHEAPER PAPER.—The New Orleans Bulletin says;

"We are inclined to believe that the okra plant of the South is destined to alleviate the grevious evil under which all publisherdom labors. We have seen specimens of strong white rope manufactured from its fibre. If it will make rope it will certainly make paper, and if it will make paper, the present exhorbitant prices must come down materially, for the supply of the raw material will be as inexhaustible as cheap."

Stand by the Colors.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig party to stand by its colors."

"MR. LEONARD GIBBS, of Washington County, followed and said, beware of both parties, for they are false to freedom. It is better, if we are to be fettered by party, that it be done by men South of Mason and Dixon's Line, than we should put them on ourselves. He was an abolitionist, and should die such, if he lived long enough. Do with us free Democrats as you please, lay aside opposition with brother Democrats and the days of slavery are numbered—make no nominations and you are betrayed. The parties will serve God all they can, without offending the devil."—Debates in the Saratoga Convention.

Abolitionists from 1841 to the present time have been in the habit of plain talk, and why not meet them with equal frankness? Let us begin:—And first, as far our acquaintance extends, the Abolitionists who prate the most of religion, and purity in politics, denounce the other parties longest and loudest, as "false to freedom," are the meanest men in community. It is so in this County, and it is so everywhere.—This is a common fact, known to every man in the community, here or elsewhere.—Again, they are in the habit of arraigning parties as "false to freedom." When has the Whig party North ever been false to freedom? Was it in 1844, when it alone breasted the Texas storm, and resisted the Mexican war? Was it in the House of Representatives when it resisted the "Atherton gag?" Was it in the present Congress, when Whigs resisted the Nebraska fraud, for days and nights without food, or sleep? Nay, none of these times. Then when was it?

Now, you Leonard Gibbs, and all other leading, ranting Abolitionists, stand up, we arraign you as false to freedom on all these occasions. Nay, when were you not "false to freedom," and false to religion, and common decency of language? You could have prevented the Annexation of Texas, averted the Mexican War, and saved the increase of Slave territory, and all subsequent agitation. You coalesced with Southern fire eaters in Congress, to defeat a Whig Speaker. In the last Congress during the struggle on the Nebraska fraud, your Joshua R. Giddings faltered, and your Gerrit Smith was absent in the momentous hour, because it interfered with his habits.

And, more, you will be false now in the coming struggle and throw the government into the hands of the slave party as in 1844, if you are not awarded place, pelf and position, unless controlled by an irresistible public opinion.

Rain has fallen in many places during the last week.

The body of Jacob Mansfield has been discovered. He committed suicide.

PLAIN TALK.—It is no time now to mince matters, but it is just the time to square the political books. Democrats and Whigs have always dealt in plain terms, and Abolitionists have especially taken it upon themselves to speak in the freest and severest manner possible, and they have exhausted the English vocabulary to find terms in which to condemn the corruptions and wickedness of the other parties.—Their leaders have been the bitterest enemies of the Whigs, and are so still. In 1844, they made an open and relentless war on Whigs, yet Whigs have ever since been trying to curry their favor and catch their votes. They have been patted and petted, have been approached hat in hand, candidates have been compelled to get on their knees and write humiliating letters, and Whigs generally have been obliged to make pilgrimages to their leaders to soften their dispositions. Whigs have not dared to speak of them above a whisper, and have stooped and crouched before them like a slave to his master. It is the time now to put an end to this disgraceful submissiveness. Whigs have crawled around the feet of Abolition leaders long enough.—They should declare their independence, and say so to the Abolition masses. If submission to the dictation of Abolition leaders is exacted as a condition to concert of action, the world ought to know the extent of their patriotism. If the Abolition masses are unwilling to stand by Anti-Nebraska Whigs until the Whig party lays its organization at the feet of Abolition leaders it ought to be known. If 250,000 voters must prostrate themselves before the leaders of 10 to 20,000, it is the great event of the 19th century. Before God and man, the Abolition masses dare not exact it. They would be a by-word and reproach among all men. Their leaders dare do anything. But more than this, it ought not to be a recommendation for office, that a Whig is this year doing penance to the Abolition leaders. As far as we are concerned, it shall be a serious objection to his nomination, and his sure defeat, if nominated.

CANAL COMMISSIONER.—There is a very warm canvass going on for this place on the Whig ticket. It is claimed at the West. Now, whoever will look over the location of the candidates, time out of mind, will perceive that from the highest to the lowest, they have been located from New York city to Buffalo, on the line of the Hudson River and the Erie Canal. We wish we could arouse the Northern Counties to exertion on this subject. It is worth an effort. The Northern Canal was not deemed worthy of a place in the programme or the Enlargement, though Canals of much less importance were; but, let us at least insist on a Commissioner who will do what he can for Northern interests. By a united and resolute effort, we believe Dr. Wright can be nominated. Governor and Lieutenant Governor in the South and West; Canal Commissioner at Whitehall, and State Prison Inspector in the North will be a fair and honorable adjustment.—What do you say, friends, in Essex, Warren, Clinton, Franklin and St. Lawrence? Shall we "try?" "A long pull, a strong pull, a pull altogether," will accomplish it.

INNOCENT ABIGAIL.—Our readers have doubtless read the story of innocent Abigail who was sent to perdition without sin. Well, we have her counterpart in the person of Wendell Lansing, Editor of the Standard, an abolition and temperance sheet of this village. This man saw fit to attack us by name through this paper, which we repelled, when forsooth, he "wished it understood he was not the aggressor." Again in this paper of August 5th he devotes nearly two columns to us, to which we now propose to reply.—He begins by disclaiming personalities and then devotes nearly two columns to nothing else. He proposes to condemn vulgar language, condemns the personal contests of the papers in this village, proposes to elevate the standard of newspaper intercourse, and then launches off into his long article in which 'coarseness,' 'vulgarity,' 'bruised and broken pugilists,' 'plumes disfigured,' 'dead horse,' 'imbecility,' 'plumes and donnas,' "Morrissey" the fighter, figure and commingle in most brilliant measure. He endorses Turner and Nelson and has no material for squibs save what they wore thread bare long ago. And this is the man and the style of controversy that is to reform the taste of the people of Keesoville. But, let us look at this matter a little closer. Mr. Lansing comes down on us like a 74 gun ship with all sails set and colors flying and boastfully calls out for a foe "fresh from the field of victory—with triumphant look and defiant tone." However he appears to himself, he appears to others more like the countryman at Donnybrook Fair who went about crying to have some one take the chip off his hat, or Pat when he dared any body to "take the tip ov his finger aff his shoulder." We respectfully decline the combat. We are of the opinion that our village has too long been disgraced by such contests. And besides, we too prefer a man "fresh from the field of victory," and not a "bruised and broken pugilist, with plumes dishonored and himself disfigured in front and rear." If we are correctly informed, Mr. Lansing once mounted the anti-Masonic hobby as Editor of an anti-Masonic paper, and rode that hobby till he ran full tilt, belted and spurred, and sabre brandished against a "windmill," smashing both steed and rider. At a later date, when "hard cider" was "all the go," 'whiggery' furnished him a Rosinnante as Editor of the "Essex County Republican," (we shame to say it,) which he mounted and rode till it went down, as he supposed, to rise no more. But, nothing daunted, our hero espied the anti-Slavery nag just trotting out, and again he mounted, only again to be dismounted, yet not without some desperate encounters. The Baptist Church of this place was made to feel the effect of his pugnacity, but it was too much for even his zeal, and with "plumes disfigured" he was compelled to retire to Wilmington a "bruised and broken pugilist" to ruminate among the hills and rocks and coalpits of that retired town. After delving for a time among the rocks, and watching coalpits for a season, our hero comes forth like the old woman's washtub, with hoops off and bottom out, "con-a-most as good as new," and comes down like a regular war-horse. But, we too "fight to win and dislike an altercation about a dead horse," and therefore respectfully decline the combat to which we are invited.

Starting anew now, with our hero, in his recent descent from Wilmington, premising, that tending coal-pits has no doubt prepared him to be the teacher of the people of Keeseville, and premising also, that he has started what he pretends is an Independent anti-Slavery, and temperance paper, that he is a professor of religion and holds himself out as a pure, honest man and general reformer, too pure to vote for a slaveholder or to act with any wicked or corrupt party, we proceed to state a few points by which his claims to even common honesty may be determined. We pass over his neglect to inform his readers that abolition leaders have been "false to freedom" on all great questions, that Giddings faltered on Nebraska and Gerrit Smith is condemned by the National Era, that the Free Soilers united with the Southern fire eaters in Congress to elect Cobb Speaker over the gallant Winthrop, that Mr. Lansing falsely or ignorantly represented nearly all the whig papers in the state as favoring a new party at Saratoga, that he has not corrected the statement, that he has in no instance fairly quoted our sentiments, but like a mere partizan and not like a christian and an honest man as he pretends, he has misquoted and falsely commented upon us, that his independence has been displayed by a supercilious union with and subservience to the Pierce and Slavery Organ here, that his temperance department has not exceeded ten lines a week and his grand effort was an attack upon the officers of the Lake Steamboats in which he was guilty of gross misrepresentation, that his anti-Slavery efforts have consisted of column after column of quotations to prove to whigs that their party was broken up,—tho' lo and behold, and he refers to it triumphantly, he condemned the Hards in a note of about 25 lines for "endorsing Slavery Extension," but unfortunately for our very pure, honest, impartial, independent, abolition, temperance friend, the Hards had not done any such gross thing, and that tho' now endorsing Nelson as against us, as a private citizen he denounced him, stopt his paper, and subscribed for the Republican, informing us of his disgust with Nelson and his paper! (worthy of note only as showing this pure man's (dis) honesty.) We pass on to state:

1. Mr. Lansing was in our office when the New Hampshire election news began to come in. He was then communicative He said he was sorry New Hampshire was declaring against Nebraska, as he was afraid Congress would not pass the bill, and if they did not, he should be deprived of a great subject for agitation.

2. He said he should not stop here but that he had no money to get away with.—He must do something for a living. It was a good time to hop on to the Nebraska excitement.

3. As one means of raising money to help start here, he proposed a plan to delude his friend Willard Bell into subscribing from $100 to $500 to help him. He said Bell was not above suspicion as to moral character, but possessed a degree of vanity that made him believe himself qualified for any post in the country. The plan was to excite this vanity by making him believe Lansing to be his admirer and friend—that he, Lansing, through his paper would get Bell into the Legislature and then to Congress, and thus delude him into subscribing, perhaps $500. Whether the plan worked we know not.

There readers, is the man Lansing, this professed abolition and pious politician, who can't fellowship wicked parties and proposes to head a new one, this man who is to correct the abuses of newspaper discussion and elevate the taste of the people of Keeseville. Look at him. "Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots?" Do our abolition friends think such a man a reliable leader, and will they be mislead by him? We trust not. He is a mere agitator. Agitation is as necessary to his life as water for a fish, but his agitation is from nervousness and not principle. When this dies, he will find something else. He will agitate through life and die agitating.—Adieu.

Whigs read.

Here is the record:—

A Whig Senator from Maine.

The overthrow of the President's best friends in his own State of New Hampshire.

The conversion of the Administration Party into an anti-Administration Free Soil Party in Vermont.

A Free Soil Whig Senator from Massachusetts.

The substitution of a Whig for a "Democratic" State Government in Rhode Island.

Two Whig Senators, a Whig Legislature and Whig State Officers in Connecticut.

Annihilation of the President's party in New York.

Ditto in New Jersey.

The same in Pennsylvania.

Consolidation of a great Republican party opposed to the Administration in the previously "Democratic" State of Ohio.

A second edition of the same work in Michigan.

A third one in Indiana.

A fourth in Wisconsin.

The choice between defeat and withdrawal of all the Douglas candidates, in Douglas's own State of Illinois.

A Whig Legislature, Whig Congressmen, and two Whig Senators in the "Democratic" slaveholding State of Missouri.

And lastly, a Whig and Free Soil Governor, Legislature, Senator and Congressmen in Iowa, where the reign of "Democracy" has hitherto been unbroken.—Albany Journal.

Is not the above a glorious record?—Has any Whig or any body else any fault to find with it? Is not a wicked and corrupt administration being torn to pieces as fast as it can be? Are not all anti-Slavery men satisfied with the work that is being done? Then why so eager to persuade Whigs to abandon their organization? After reading the above does any whig feel like leaving his party and going over to the abolitionists, or either section of the Democracy? If so, let him go—now is the time. Now is the time for cowards and the disheartened to desert when their places can be filled with good men and true.

There was a Pierce County Convention at Elizabethtown on Tuesday. There were four delegates in attendance from this place,—the P. M. and three others, whom he hired and paid expenses and wages to attend. One of the latter estimates the number present at from 1 to 1000! There is a rumor afloat that but three went from this place with four bottles of brandy, but we are happy to be able to say, on the authority of one of the delegates, that there were in fact four delegates, and only a bottle of brandy apiece. He said they did not expect to find any at the Valley, but were happily disappointed—it was as plenty as water! We perceive R. W. Livingston was chairman of the Convention, and that Chauncey Fenton of Crownpoint was appointed one of the State delegates. Mr. Fenton is one of the purest and best men living, and we dont belive he will even attend the Convention, but if he does, it will be to oppose an endorsement of the Nebraska fraud. If we thought he would lose the Post Office by this, we would not say thus much, but we do not believe there is a man in Crownpoint who would receive the office from him.

A DISTINCTION TO BE REMEMBERED.—In speaking of opposing parties, and particularly of the abolitionists, we draw a broad line between the masses and the leaders. We have been particular about this, and our cotemporaries in quoting us, have been equally careful to keep it out of sight. We trust however, none are deceived.

SMALL POTATOES.—The delegation from Essex County to the Saratoga Convention was not full. A whig who was present, requested Mr. Lansing who was a delegate, to have him substituted. Mr. L. knowing the whig to be opposed to a new party, and nominations, evaded action till after the adjournment, when he attempted to apologize. He was told to "go to—the bugs."

TOUCH THE GUITAR LIGHTLY, LIGHTLY.—The Gazette having pitched into the Saratoga Convention, calling it hard names, Lansing is forced by our exposure of his pliant subserviency to that paper, to reply; but he does it gingerly, oh, how gingerly, calling the editor "brother Nelson." There is a union for you—the "brother"-hood of black and white, rum and temperance, Abolition and Slavery.

A CORRECTION.—The rumor that some mule teams of the Peru Iron Co. were burned by the late fires in the woods, we are happy to be informed was not correct. We shall be obliged to our friends in all directions, if they will post us with care, on the ravages and damages of the recent fires.

There is an irreconcilable split in the democratic party in California.

The Tribune estimates the deficiency in the corn crop at $200,000 000

Our friend John McCormick must indulge us another week. We had filed his production for insertion, but we are compelled to pass it over to another week, when it will appear. Thanks my dear sir, and we shall always speak a good word for you.

OUR TERMS.—We call attention to the terms of our paper. We tried the dollar system last year, but it would not pay expenses. It not only would not pay even in advance, with the high price of paper, but we have been beset by many to accept the dollar during, and even since the expiration of the year. Being a "clever fellow," it is hard to refuse old friends, and subscribers. In view of these facts, and of the exhorbitant prices of materials of every description, the high price of labor, and provisions of all kinds, we have gone back to our old terms, to which we must adhere for the present at least. See terms in another column.

Kansas and Nebraska are beyond doub to be free territories, through the free settlers.

There has been a serious fire in Milwaukie. Half a million of property was destroyed.

The accounts of the Drouth from all parts of the country, would fill every column in our paper.

The parade of Col. Person's Reg't of Militia commences at Westport next Tuesday and closes on Thursday.

There was rain Wednesday night which mostly subdued the fires, and wet the ground to the depth of three or four inches. As we go to press it is raining with a prospect of a long storm. Thousands of acres of valuable timber, and thousands of cords of wood have been destroyed by the late fires.

Local Correspondence.

Champlain, August 29th, 1854.

MR. EDITOR:—

Dear Sir—A hard winter is fast coming down upon the rich and poor.

Then shall go up the wail of the poor man's child for food—but no bread can be had in all the land, Heaven has smitten the Earth with an awful wrath.

The whole face of the earth is as dry as a powder flask.

The hills and mountains in Clinton and Essex Counties are alive with fire; and the lurid flames leap up with awful grandeur, and lash the stars in their fury. A dense smoke has settled over us like a funeral pall, and all things look desolate and deserted of Heaven.

Men meet each other in the streets and stare with wonder upon their dry and parched faces. Byron's day of darkness is truly upon us. A night of impenetrable smoke has visited us, and like an old maid prolongs its visit, while the constant prayer goes up for relief, and men—infidels, atheists and deists—clasp their bony hands in agony, and breathe for the first time, with faith, the voice of prayer.

Oh! how natural in the hour of deep distress to look for relief to some superior power.

Old men and young now, promiscuously assemble in the House of God, and list eagerly to catch but one word from the man of prayer, as with his "lips bathed in the fount of eloquence," he beseeches his God for but one shower.

Tossed 'twixt hope and fear, they watch anxiously, every straggling cloud that floats through the Heavens, greedy but to catch one drop of the long desired rain.

It will come, in Heaven's own appointed time 'twill come.

But, Mr. Editor, this dry weather is "no joke," 'tis a serious reality.

Yours truly, ONE PRESENT.

Election Notice.

A GENERAL ELECTION is to be held in the County of Essex, on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November next, at which will be chosen, the officers mentioned in the notice from the Secretary of State, of which a copy is annexed.

Dated at Moriah Aug. 22, 1854.

C. W. ENSIGN,
Sheriff of Essex County.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Albany, August 10th, 1854.

To the Sheriff of the County of Essex:—SIR—NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that at the General Election to be held in this State, on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November next, the following officers are to be elected, to wit: A Governor in the place of Horatio Seymour; A Lieutenant Governor, in the place of Sanford E. Church; A Canal Commissioner, in the place of Henry Fitzhugh; and an Inspector of State Prisons, in the place of Henry Storms; all whose terms of office will expire on the last day of December next. A Representative in the Thirty-Fourth Congress of the United States, for the Sixteenth Congressional District, composed of the Counties of Essex, Clinton and Franklin.

County Officers to be elected for said County: A Member of Assembly; A County Clerk, in the place of Elisha A. Adams; A Treasurer in the place of Safford E. Hale; Two Justices of Sessions, in the place of Harvey Carter and George G. Tobey; Two Coroners, in the place of Dudley Everest and William E. Calkins.

MORTGAGE SALE—Whereas James W. Taggard and Emma Taggard, his wife, then of the village of Keeseville, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, by a certain indenture of mortgage, bearing date the twenty-third day of March, A. D., 1853, to secure the payment of one thousand three hundred and sixty eight dollars and seventy-two cents, and the interest thereon, according to the condition of the same, and of a certain bond bearing even date therewith, mortgaged in fee unto Thomas W. Lockwood, Charles N Lockwood, and Joseph U. Orvis, of the city of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, the following lands and premises, to wit:—ALL that certain store and lot situate in the village of Keeseville in the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, being the same lot conveyed by Harvey Rockwell and Harry Backman, to Nathan Easterbrook, by deed bearing date the twenty sixth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and twenty six, and which lot and the house then situate thereon were on the twentieth day of April, 1842, possessed and occupied by Gardner Stow, the building being occupied by him at that time for a law office, being same premises on which the store is situated, now occupied [23d day of March, 1853] by William Cowlbeck, as a tailor's shop and store; which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on the twenty first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty three, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, in volume R., of mortgages pages 341 and 342. And Whereas, default has been made in the condition of the said bond and mortgage, and in the payment of the moneys secured to be paid thereby, according to the said condition and the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative, and there is claimed to be due and unpaid thereon at the time of the first publication of this notice, the sum of ninety five dollars and eighty one cents, for one years interest thereon, besides the sum of one thousand three hundred and sixty eight dollars and seventy two cents, being said principal sum with the interest thereon, from the seventeenth day of November, 1853, yet to become due thereon; and no proceedings have been had or instituted at law for the recovery of the same or any part thereof:—Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given, that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction at the Adirondac Hotel, in said village of Keeseville, and county of Essex, on the twenty-ninth day of November next, at 12 o'clock, at noon, of that day, to satisfy the moneys due, and to become due, on said mortgage, or so much thereof as the proceeds of said sale will pay of the same, and said premises will be sold, discharged of said mortgage incumbrance.—Dated Sept, 1st, 1854.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers, This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

THE LAMPLIGHTER. THIS WORK IS adecided hit. Its fair author—for Madame Rumor attributes it to a Woman has astonished herself as well as the public. Her book is not only a good one in the fullest sense of that word, but it almost approaches to the dignity of a great one, nearer by odds than any other fiction published within the last five years Uncle Tom's not excepted.

LITTLE FERNS FOR FANNY'S LITTLE FRIENDS, by the Author of Fern Leaves A splended book for children. HASBROUCK

AYER'S PILLS,

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Bilious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not, more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are allowed to refer for these facts, are

PROF. VALENTINE MOTT, the distinguished Surgeon of New York City.

DOCT. A. A. HAYES, Practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Massachusetts

IRA L. MOORE, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and Physician, of the City of Lowell, who has long used them in his extensive practice.

H. C. SOUTHWICK, Esq., one of the first merchants in New York City.

C. A. DAVIS, M. D., Sup't and Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea, Mass.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their regular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such defangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. DR. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; most of a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK DEC. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and a cure while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuab e patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guarranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLS, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof A K EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent, more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent, less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but alway cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Roger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes under cut spiral cords &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the article furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $60.

7. Jone's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fros & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' improvement.

These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 104 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple, most effective and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $101.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $900.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagoer's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent, in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial,

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency Hoemorrhages, disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluror Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not supperior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by these obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity. Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE.

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL,"

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen. Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Frank in Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

FRAUD!

ALL who want AXES of the real COLLINS & Co. make should be particular to notice the stamps, as there are various counterfeits and imitations stamped Collins and labelled much like ours, which are fraudulently sold in some parts of the United States as our manufacture. They are made in different parts of the country by various axe-makers, and are generally of very inferior quality. The genuine Collins axes, which have acquired such an extensive reputation are invariably stamped "COLLINS & CO. HARTFORD," and each axe has a printed label with my signature.—It is now more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS since we commenced the business with the stamp of "Collins & Co. Hartford," and I do not know of any other axe-maker by the name of Collins in the United States.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Sproce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercory; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work ou Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and decaying affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

CHAPTER 240.

AN ACT to amend the several acts in relation to States Prisons, and making appropriations for the Clinton, Auburn and Sing Sing prisons.

Passed April 15, 1854. Three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. The thirty-third section of the act entitled "An act for the better regulation of the county and states prisons of this state, and consolidating and amending the existing laws in relation thereto;" passed December 14th, 1847, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

The inspectors shall hold their first joint meeting on the first Wednesday of January in each and every year, at the state prison at Sing Sing, and at such meeting shall choose one of their number as president of the board for the ensuing year, and shall assign to each inspector the special charge and supervision of one of the state prisons to be designated, for the ensuing quarter of the year, and they shall make a similar assignment and designation at the commencement of each quarterly term thereafter, but no inspector shall be re-assigned to, or have the special charge of the same prison for the succeeding chapter.

§ 2. The thirty-sixth section of the said act is hereby amended so as to read as follows: Each inspector shall have power to suspend any of the officers of the prison, at that time under his special charge, until the next quarterly meeting of the board of inspectors at such prison, and may appoint some suitable person to supply the place and perform the duties of the officer suspended, during such suspension, but during such suspension such officer shall not receive any remuneration whatever; such inspector shall also have power to make temporary appointments to supply all other vacancies, which appointments shall be in force until the next meeting of the board of inspectors.

§ 3. On and after the first day of May, 1854, the office of warden and agent of the Auburn and Sing Sing prisons is abolished, and the duties of agent and warden of each of the said state prisons, as now prescribed by law, shall be performed by one person, who shall be known as the agent and warden, and shall receive in consideration of the increase of duties prescribed by this act, an addditional compensation of two hundred and fifty dollars per annum, payable monthly; there also shall be appointed by the inspectors of state prisons, for each of the prisons at Auburn and Sing Sing, some suitable person who shall be designated and known as prinoipal keeper, and whose duty it shall be to obey and carry into effect all such orders and direotions as he may receive from the agent and warden as to the management and discipline of the prison, not inconsistent with the laws of this state, or with the rules and regulations of the inspectors. The salary of such prinoipal keeper shall be one thousand dollars per annom, payable monthly; the agent and warden shall reside in the house now occupied by the wardens of the several prisons; all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this section, are hereby repealed from and after the first day of May, eighteen hundred and fifty four.

§ 4. Section forty eight, subdivision three, is hereby amended so as to read as follows; To make, under the direction of the inspectors, in the manner hereinafter provided, all contracts for the employment of the convicts, and for furnishing the necessary supplies for their support, but no contract shall be entered into by the agent and warden of either of the state prisons, for the hire or labor of the convicts, or for supplies for their support, or for any purpose whatever, unless the same shall have been approved by a majority of the inspectors, who shall be present in all cases at such lettings.

† 5. The sixth subdivision of the same section (orty eight) is hereby amended so as to read as follows: To take bills for all supplies and materials for the prison purchased by him, at the time of such purchase, and to take similar bills and receipts for all services that shall be rendered for either of the said prisons at the time of making payment therefor, and the persons to whom any bid shall be paid by either of said agents and wardens, shall in all cases make and subscribe an affidavit to be sworn to before some person duly authorized by law to take the same, stating that said account and the articles therein specified woro actually furnished, and that the same was paid in oash by the said agent and warden.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of each agent and warden of a state prison:

1. To keep in his office regular books of entries, in which all his accounts and transactions shall be entered. Such books and the accounts entered therein shall be open for the examination of the inspector or inspectors, the comproller, or any person authorized by him for that purpose, during office hours

2. To deposit at least once in each week to the credit of the treasurer of the state, in such bank or banks as may be designated by the comptroller, all the moneys received by him as such agent and warden, and send to the comptroller, weekly, a statement showing the amount so received and deposited, and the days on whioh such deposits were made, the statement of deposits to be certified to by the proper officers of the bank or banks receiving such deposit or deposits.

3. Beforo any expenses are incourred by him to make an estimate, in minuto detail, of the necessary expenses for the support and maintenance of the prison under his charge, including the number of rations or kinds of property to be delivered during the month upon any contract made under the fourth section of this act, for the next following month, immediately after the passage of this aot, and monthly thereafter, and to present the same to the comptroller who, if satisfied that the expenditures are necessary and proper, shall thereupon authorize the agent to make his draft on the treasury for the sum thus estimated, or any part thereof, which amount shall be paid on the warrant of the comptroller; and it shall not be lawful for such agent and warden to make purchases on behalf of the state, unless said purchases have been included in the estimate presented to and approved by the comptroller.

4. On the first day of May, eighteen hundred and fifty four, and on the first day of every month thereafter, to make to the comptroller a full and perfect statement of the receipts and expenditures, specifying the items thereof for the prison under his charge for the said month, which shall be accompanied by the necessary vouchers, regularly rendered, according to their respective dates, with some short designation thereon of the consideration of the payment, evidenced by the vouchers, and the amount of the vouchers carried out in figures; if the vouchers are objectionable, the comptroller shall enter his dissent on the particular voucher, and return it to the agent and warden reporting the same; who shall cause it to be immediately corrected and returned. Every such statement shall be verified by an affidavit of the agent and warden thereto anned, as follows: 'I , agent and warden of the prison, do solemnly swear, that I have deposited in the bank (or banks) designated by the comptroller for such purpose, all the moneys received by me, belonging to the state, during the last month; and I do further swear that the foregoing is a true abstract of all the moneys received, and expenditures made by me as such agent and warden, during the month ending on the day of 18; and that the goods and other articles therein specified were purchased and received by me at the prison of which I am in charge, and that the goods were purchased at fair market prices, and the same were paid for in cash; and further, that all the receipts were filled up as they now appear, and were read, or the amount distinctly stated to the signer of each, before they were signed. The affidavit of the clerk shall likewise be appended thereto, certifying that the articles contained in such bill were received at the prison, and that they conformed in all respects to the invoice of the goods received and entered by him, both in quality and quantity.

5. To file or cause to be filed in the office of the comptroller a copy of each and every contract now in his possession, within thirty days after the passage of this act, and within thirty days after date of any contract hereafter made and executed by him under section four of this act, as such agent and warden, and also monthly to report to the comptroller a detailed account of the number of days labor performed on such contracts, which said account shall be verified by the affidavit of such agent and warden and the clerk of the prison where such labor was performed, to the effect that such account correctly states the whole number of days' labor performed on such contracts.

§ 7. Section fifty-seven, subdivision five, is amended so as to read as follows: The clerk shall enter each bill taken by the agent and warden of the prison, in the books of the prison at the time of the receipt of the articles mentioned in such account, and in case the articles received do not agree in respects with the invoice, he shall immediately notify the agent and warden of such discrepancy, and note in his book the discrepancy, whether in weight, qantity or quality, but no goods or any other article purchased for the use of either of said prisons shall be received, or a receipt given therefor, unless accompanied by a proper bill or invoice of the same, and found correct, and any officer of either of the prisons of this state, violating this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. The clerk shall do such writing as may be required of him by the Inspectors and agent and warden of the prison, relating to the affairs of such prisons.

§ 8. The clerks of the several state prisons of this state are hereby authorized to take affidavits in all matters of accounts against their respective prisons, and also in relation to the fees of sheriffs in bringing convicts to either of the said prisons.

§ 9. Section seventy-seven is amended so as to read as follows: Whenever the inspectors shall direct a contract to be made for the labor of convicts, at least one months' notice of the time and place of letting every contract, shall be given in the paper in which legal notices are required by law to be published in the city of Albany, and in one newspaper printed in each city of this state, which notice shall specify the particular branch of business in which the convicts are to be employed, the length of time for which their services are to be let, not exceeding five years, and the number of convicts to which the contracts are to be limited, such contracts shall in all cases be awarded to the highest bidder who shall furnish the necessary security, and no contracts shall be hereafter entered into unless security satisfactory to the inspectors shall be given for the hiring and letting of convict labor, and in all future contracts there shall be inserted a stipulation that all payments shall be made on the first day of each month in cash, and such contract may, with the written consent of the inspectors, or a majority of them, be declared void by the agent and warden if such payments are not made within ten days after the same shall have become due, if deemed for the interest of the state to void the same.

§ 10. The second section of chapter one hundred and thirty-three, of the laws of eighteen hundred and forty nine, passed March twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and forty-nine, is hereby amended so as to read as follows;

In like manner any inspector of state prisons may administer oaths and take affidavits in all matters relating to the affairs of the state prisons under his charge, and for that purpose shall have power to issue subpœnas to compel the attendance of witnesses, and the produotion before him of books, papors and writings, in the same manner, with the like effect, and subject to the same penalties for disobedience, as in cases of trial before justices of the peace, and to examine any person or persons who may be brought before him as such witnesses.

§ 11. No agent, warden or other officer of either of the state prisons of this state, shall give any note, draft, or other evidence of debt, except a check on the bank, designated by the comptroller, as aforesaid, and such debts as are authorized by law, in payment for any article purchased for either of said prisons, and signed by him or them individually or in their official capacity, nor shall any such agent and warden, or other officer, sign any paper as agent or warden for the purpose or with the intent of putting or having the same put in circulation for any purpose whatever, nor shall he or they give any credit to any contractor for money due to either of the prisons.

§ 12. Subdivision eight of section forty-eight is hereby repealed.

§ 13. If the agent and warden of a state prison shall willfully neglect or refuse to make any weekly or monthly return, estimate or statement, or to transmit the statement and certificate of such deposits to the comptroller, as hereinbefore direoted, it shall be the duty of the comptroller to notify the inspectors of such omission, and to order the bond of the agent to be put in suit, for the recovery of any moneys which may be in his hands, belonging to the state.

§ 14. The agent and warden of a state prison shall be liable to indictment and punishment, as for a misdemeanor, for any wilful neglect of duty, or for any malpractice in the discharge of the duties of his office.

§ 15. The person holding the office of agent and warden hereinbefore mentioned, shall perform all the duties heretofore by law imposed upon the person, holding the office of agent of either of the state prisons of this, and also all the duties heretofore by law imposed upon the person holding the office of warden of either of the state prisons; and such agent and warden shall in all cases be appointed by the inspectors of state prisons; to hold the office under the same restriotions and qualifications as are by law imposed in the appointment of an agent of a state prison.

§ 16. The sum of two hundred and sixty-three thousand one hundred and ninety-five dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the expenses of the state prisons incurred after the passage of this act.

17. The sum of six thousand four hundred and ninety dollars and thirty-two cents, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, to be applied to the payment of the officers, guards and keepers of the Sing Sing prison for their services as such, performed in the months of March and April, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, which said amount, appropriated as aforesaid, shall be paid by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated, to the agent of the Sing Sing prison on his draft, which said draft shall be certified by the inspcetors of state prisons or a majority of them, to the effect that the same is made for the purpose specified in this section, and the expenditures of all moneys received by virtue of this appropriation shall be accounted to the comptroller by the said agent, whose vouchers for the expenditures thereof shall be verified by this affidavit and the affidavit or affidavits of the person or persons to whom the moneys herein appropriated shall be paid, to the effect that such money is paid for services actually rendered as hereinbefore specified by the said officers, guards and keepers.

§ 18. The sum of three thousand four hundred and seventy-eight dollars and ten cents, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to be applied to the payment of the officers, guards and keepers of the Auburn prison for their services as such, performed in the months of March and April, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, which said amount, appropriated as aforesaid, shall be paid by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller out of any money not otherwise appropriated, to the agent of the Auburn prison on his draft, which said draft shall be certified by the inspectors of state prisons or a majority of them, to the effect that the same is made for the purpose specified in this section, and the expenditure of all moneys received by virtue of this appropriation shall be accounted to the comptroller by the said agent, whose vouchers for the expenditure thereof shall be verified by his affidavit and the affidavit or affidavits of the person or persons to whom the moneys herein appropriated shall be paid, to the effect that such money is paid for services actually rendered as hereinbefore specified by the said officers, guards and keepers.

§ 19. The sum of four thousand eight hundred and sixteen dollars and sixty-four cents, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to be applied to the payment of the officers, guards and keepers of the Clinton prison for their services as such, performed in the months of January, February, March and April, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, which said amount, appropriated as aforesaid, shall be paid by the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated, to the agent of the Clinton prison on his draft, which said draft shall be certified by the inspectors of state prisons or a majority of them, to the effect that the same is made for the purpose specified in this section, and the expenditure of all moneys received by virtue of this appropriation shall be accounted to the comptroller by the said agent, whose vouchers for the expenditure thereof shall be verified by his affidavit and the affidavit or affidavits of the person or persons to whom the moneys herein appropriated shall be paid, to the effect that such money is paid for services actually rendered as hereinbefore specified by the said officers, guards and keepers.

§ 20. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

§ 21. This act shall take effect on the first day of May, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, except so much as is contained in section nine of this act, which shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 58.

An Act permitting the inhabitants of the several towns in the county of Sullivan to decide by vote, at their annual town meeting, whether they shall have one or three assessors for each town in said county. Passed March 8, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The electors in each town in Sullivan county shall have power at their annual town meeting to determine whether they will choose one or three assessors for their several towns, and such vote shall be decisive until otherwise changed by a vote of the electors. And in case any town shall decide to have but one assessor, the term of office of such assessor shall be one year, and he shall be elected annually.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, } I have compared

☞ A Quaker on a certain occasion was asked in a lordly tone by a magistrate of over weighing vanity, whose former business was that of a carpenter, why he did not take off his hat when he came into his presence. The friend replied—"It is a privilege Quakers are allowed." "If it were in my power," said the ridiculous, self-important justice, swelling with pseudo dignity, and giving his cane a flourish, "I would have your hat nailed to your head." "I thought," said the shrowd follower of Penn, with provoking nonchalence, "that thee had given up the trade of driving nails."

NEW YORK, Aug. 26th, 1854.

Exit of a disagreeable guest—The last news from the skies—Amusements and the Elephant—American Literary Citizens—Newport—The Erie Road—Items.

With no small degree of pleasure, I hasten to announce to your readers, that a troublesome guest who has long been entertaining himself on the bones, sinew, and blood of Gotham, has sated himself, and is preparing to depart. Cholera, that great bugbear, the tormentor of fruit-loving mortals has drawn on his ugly horn and is making his adieux, or more properly, a diables. For the past week, the cholera returns have been at so low a figure, that the authorities of Brooklyn and New York, have resolved to discontinue them, as of no further importance. This deliverance may be partially owing to the increased coolness of the weather for some time past. And last night, after a day of withering temperature, the prayer of the farmers, and the desire of all people, was answered and bountifully gratified. First, the fresh breeze grew into a young hurricane, then followed some great pattering drops, precursors of a blinding storm.—All night the floods descended and we rose to look out on a regenerated city, bright as a youngster whose face has been washed after his nights snooze.

The Western merchants are coming in, and business is looking up cheerfully. A few important failures have astounded business people, and will cause, or ought to cause, a moderation in this coming winter's course of display and fashionable extravaganoe. If this is the result, all will be right. Amusements of all kinds are looking up, also, Grist and Mario appear soon, and then we shall have a flock of gay birds flying home from Newport to hear them. The Crystal Palace remains stagnant under the new administration.—Curiosity led me yesterday to renew my acquantanoe with the fairy building, which I was fond of visiting, in the season of its greatest prosperity. The most valuable and interesting of the goods formerly on exhibition have taken their departure, but the beauty and symmetry of the building is more conspicuous than before. It was formerly crowded to bewilderment, with people and things. At present, the few articles remaining have been spread out at "magnificent distances," to occupy the immense space, while few visitors disturb one's meditations, and the general effect is much better than before. It is said, that, although the building cost six or seven hundred thousand, if it can be sold for $250,000, it will pay thirty per cent to slaveholders. Innumerable are the speculations with reference to the future fate of the Palace. We are in the condition of the man with the elephant drawn by lottory; we want to keep the huge article, but don't know where to put it, nor what to do with it when it is put there. Some say, move it to the foot of the City Park, and make a Post-Office of it. Others would have it a large Poultry-yard, or graud Conservatory. Your correspondent would suggest that it would make a fine ice cream saloon in summer, and in winter a winter garden, where ennui might lounge and refresh itself with inward applications of palatable things.—Since Barnum has retired from the management of the Palace, he seems to have been afflicted with this same ennui, for the want of something to do. He has perfected his Museum by the introduction of new wonders, and, finding nothing else to do, has seated himself in his Oriental Palace, down east, to write an Auto-biography. He will make money on that, for what mortal is there so devoid of curiosity as to miss reading Barnum's Auto-biography? Speaking of literary matters, all the papers are engaged in puffing a novel, by Mrs. Stephens, called "Fashion and Famine." It aims at the "spasmodic," and "wild anger," "wild hatred," and "love," and like expressions are cast in plenteously, as seasoning. It bears the impress of a tyro's hand, on every page. It is by puffing such whims as this, that the American press loses its tone and character. This habit of indiscriminate and careless praise is justly rebuked in a late number of the London Althenaeum. Books flourish here, which in England would be cut off in birth, by a single swath of the critics sythe.

A few New Yorkers are straggling back from the country, but Fifth Avenue still remains a sombre array of closed doors, and opaque windows. Curiosity with regard to the proceedings of the haut ton, led us to take a run to Newport and Boston, lately, by the Fall River line, whereon the world of fashion is wont to trasfer itself from New York to Newport. There is one rich treat yet in store for the mortal who has never sailed through Long Island Sound, on the Bay State. Newport is such a place as a quiet and thoughtful man likes to pay a flying visit to, and pick up matter for future rumination. Every one is traveling that way, to and fro, and many notabilities are spotted by the Knowing ones.—Returning from the scene of gayety and laborious amusement, one is shocked to learn how unfashionable or plebian New York has been amusing itself meantime. The leader of a rowdy gang, and a butcher boy, of valorous mien, have been engaging in a scientific "mill," in the centre of the city, hundreds looking on, and a policeman holding the bottle! After the fight was over, the police crowded up, arrested an innocent individual, and speedily entombed him. It is said that the preliminaries of several fights have been arranged, to come off soon in the city.

Erie Railroad stock, and its rapid decline in market value, attract the attention of persons interested in matters of the kind. Large investments have been made by private persons in times past, as this stock has always been considered "good as wheat." These innocents have lost very largely by the rapid decline from 80 to 43. These railroad-stocks ought to be held by persons permanently interested in the success of the road; such as landholders along the route. If this were the case, you would hear nothing of these sudden inflations and collapses.—Every body is down on the New Haven road. Like the bob-tailed dog, it "haint got no friends." The appointments about the road, car accommodatisns etc., are attended to in a very slovenly manner.

Brooklyn is in a fair way to be supplied with good water, at last. This severe drought has tested the proposed sources of supply quite thoroughly, and they have borne it well. So the work will perhaps go ahead.—The frigate Sabine is rapidly progressing in under the hands of three-score carpenters at the Navy Yard. The frauds at the Sing Sing Prison are being overhauled, and you will have news soon. We have a ghost story down here, which will be worth communicating when space and time allow.—The weather is bright and pleasant, and that is the only news of importance remaining. Till next week, then, adieu.

For the Essex County Republican.

St. Patrick's Church in Armagh, has long in ruins laid,
'Twas built on Drumselaughes Holy Mount my Grand sire said.
This church was very ancient, our fathers built it strong
And oft its sounding arches rung to Prince and Prelate's song.

St. Cellach or Celsus and St. Malachy O'More
Each of this See was Primate, and meek his honors bore:
St. Malachy died at Clairvaux, on his second journey there,
To gain for Cashell and Armaugh the Pallium so fair.

Pope Innocent, St. Malachy so highly prized,
'tis said
He gave him Stole and Maniple, and placed his Miter on his head;
Then bade him hope in future to share the "Virgin Fleece."
And dimissed him with his blessing and the Kiss of Peace.

Then to Usney, he repaired, in the County of Westmeath
Aand holds a solemn Synod of Priests and Princes brave,
As Legate of the Irish Church her laws to popogate,
Blessed with the love of St. Bernard, and Innocent the Great.

To pass this resolution a thousand did agree
That to gain Armaugh the Pallium, the Saint must cross the sea;
For the holy Abbey of Clairvaux, his aged steps he bent,
Where by a burning fever "the silver Cord" was rent.

It was not soft down and holland that pillowed up his head,
But on the breast of St. Bernard, there lay the righteous dead.
Oh! how your heart would sink with grief had you been there to see,
This holy monk in sorrow deep weeping so bitterly.

On St. Malachy's Life and fame an eulogy he said
And twice he preached in public in honor of the dead,
They buried him at Clairvaux—there his relics lay
Till translated unto Ireland, to Mellifont's Abbey.

All you Sons of old St. Patrick contribute to a man,
And raise this ancient temple to ornament our land;
Renew this holy landmark, and rear the cross on high,
I pledge my word beneath its rays all ancient feuds will die.

I hope this fiend-like malice to peace may soon return,
And man shall meet his brother man, God's church no more to burn:
Then the consecrated Virgin, the orphan's hope and guide,
Guardian of Truth and Virtue, be, Mount Benedict's fair pride.

When she again can rear those walls, phrenzy once tore down;—
A scandal to the Commonwealth a shame to any town.—
And feed the hungry, nurse the sick, and bind the aching brow,
Such was their lot in ages past, and is their glory now.

The costly pile on Bunker's Hill, our nation's greatest pride,
Looks down upon Mount Benedict, still near its granite side.
Where ruined hearth and blackened walls are crumbling in its sight,
Which, still in vain, on Justice call, and plead the orphan's right.

Oh! Bunker's Hill, long may you stand, fair Freedom's brightest spot,
And bathe your top in Heaven's blue while Tyranny shall not,
While far out on ocean's breast, and through all coming time,
You hail the weary pilgrims from every foreign clime.

Your base is planted deep in earth where all man's works decay,
Your top still points to Heaven where eternity will play,
You were planted there by Liberty, long may you bear the name
As in years past, and still to come, as in '76 the same.

"Popular Sovereignty" and the Nebraska Bill.—We endorse popular sovereignty, but not the Nebraska fraud. The two are "as wide as the poles asunder." The Nebraska bill is a "bill of abominations." According to the construction of the south it legislates slavery into those territories in spite of free votes. If this is so, the emigration of free settlers into those territories will be of no avail. This we do not believe, however, and in confidence proclaim those territories devoted to freedom through the free settlers but not by the good will of Dougias, or the south. Besides the great question of the absolute right of the south to take slaves there in spite of free votes, the settlers have got to contend with every disadvantage placed in their way by this abominable bill. It does not give the selection of territorial officers to the people but retains them, Gov. Secr'y Judges, Marshalls, and all in the President, and slave minions have been selected to fill those important and delicate positions. Congress retains a veto power on all territorial legislation, the Gov. can fix the times and places of elections at his own option, and an unprecedented oath is required of the voters such as would disgrace the worst tyranny in christendom. The bill is an outrage on popular sovereigaty, but "popular sovereignty" will triumph in spite of the bill, Douglas, the administration, or the south.

Instead of that great speech of Douglass to have been delivered last Monday evening in defence of Nebraska, to the people of Chicago, and for which Pierce democrats have been on tiptoe, news is borne upon the wires that he could not get a hearing,—the people would not listen. When he commenced speaking the crowd followed suit, and the Little Giant after several attempts, was compelled to give it up, and about ten o'clock at night left the stand in despair. Now we believe as a general rule, in giving all men a fair hearing when demanded, but Douglass is an exception; he is a rowdy, and if the people in their judgment think they wont listen to him, and that he has gass-ed long enough, we have no objections. Douglass is a humbug and a demagouge, and as little entitled to a candid hearing as any public man in the country. Coming from the people of Chicago too, it is significant.

Shocking.—A house was burned in Moriah Wednesday night and six members of a family, by the name of Boulden, buried and burned to death beneath the ruins. John Boulden aged 65 years, Margaret Boulden his wife aged 55 years, Harriet Boulden aged 11 years, Elizabeth Boulden aged 9 years, Walter aged 5 years, and Charles aged 3 years. There wore three older heildren from home. The house was situated so as to be hid from obsevation until the flames had enveloped the whole house. The neighbors arrived in time to look in thro' the fire and see the remains of the burning family. A son left home on an errand in the evening after the family had retired. The father was sick and nearly helpless. A coroner's jury was called who pronounced the fire accidental.

Great Auction Sale.—Boynton is to sell his horses and wagons, and goods at auction on the 16th at 2 o'clock, P. M.—There will be a rare chance for bargains. See bills Democratic State Convention.—The latest news from this body leaves the delegates in two separate caucusses—one Nebraska and one Anti-Nebraska—the latter out-numbering the former. Rynders heads the office holders and Nebraskaites, and says they shall leave in a body, if the convention adopts Anti-Nebraska resolutions. John Cochrane declared his adherence to the Buffalo Platform. Preston King was present. The convention had progressed to a temporary organization, Lorenzo B. Shepherd in the chair. We regret to go to press without further news, but cannot delay our paper.

Military.—The parade of the Uniformed Militia took place at Westport, this week, according to notice. We shall give the details next week.

Vermont Election.—The Green Mountain State is Whig and Anti-Nebraska, and "nothing else." There are not Pierce Democrats enough elected to the Legislature to put in tea. A few straggling members have been elected to the House, but probably not a solitary one to the Senate.

New York will do likewise, if Whigs do their duty.

The refreshing rain of last week has put a different face upon both man and nature. People were becoming gloomy and sad, but they are once more hopeful, and smiling faces have succeeded the doleful and desponding look of the last few weeks. Good "fall feed" will give us plenty of butter, and keep down the price of fodder, and it is believed the potatoe crop will be much better than was anticipated. They have taken a sudden fall in price from ten to five shillings already, and can probably be had in quantities by and by for fifty cents.

☞ The Bridge across the Connecticut river, between Hanover, N. H., and Norwich, Vt., has been entirely destroyed by fire.—[Ex.

We read that announcement with feelings akin to the loss of an old esteemed friend. That bridge and the grounds about were once as familiar to us as "Household Words"—they are "old, familiar" spots.—We spent a pleasant three years at Norwich, during which time we explored every inch of ground in that vicinity, and crossed that old bridge, "many a time." That old bridge was the place of places in the estimation of students, both of Norwich and Hanover. It was the scene both of "infinite merriment," and of strife. Upon the New Hampshire end lived the gate keeper, (it had a gate and a penny was collected of every passenger,) good father Quigley and dame Quigley, (Heaven bless their honest souls,) who, in addition to the care of the gate, kept refreshments for sale, and the students of both Institutions took "the bridge" in the circuit of all their walks. Between the students of the two Institutions there was an old, seated jealousy, handed down from generation to generation. While therefore, "the bridge," was the scene of cordial "re-unions," it was often jarred by angry contentions that would break out between the "bullet buttons" on the one side, and the "lanthorn jawed subjects of charity" (so termed in derision,) on the other. How these contentions ripened into a "field fight," we may relate at another time, but not now. The gate, when closed, was supposed insurmountable, and so, when the melon patches sufferod, and fruit trees were gathered in the night on the New Hampshire side, it was always charged upon the students of Dartmouth, but generally, the whisper was passed round at Norwich that another "good one," had been played on those "lanthorn jawed" fellows. Once word was passed round with more than usual caution, that members of the latter were under arrest, charged with robbing "hen roosts," the fowls and their feathers having been discovered in the very college buildings. At another time, they all underwent a thorough college discipline and examination, to find out who placed a picked goose in a professor's chair, labelled with his name, but the search was unavailing—It was hinted at Norwich, that information might have been obtained on that side of the bridge! As to the criminals, we are as ignorant as the Know Nothings, and the Old Bridge having been burned, the last and only witness is no more. It was well Old Bridge, you could not talk. Dead folks tell no tales, but if living, we don't believe you would over "poach", for we always believed you partial to the 'bullet buttons.' Farewell, Old Bridge, students will no more come in collision on your planks nor any more pass over your solid frame work nor gaze from your dizzy heighth upon the beautiful Connecticut. Farewell, you have done good and faithful service in your day, farewell, farewell.

Agitators.—Take the genuine agitators, not the great ones, but those of the country villages, and they are a study—a character. Everything goes by agitation. Business is conducted on the "air castle" plan. They never do things as others do. They are ignorant as dolts, yet learned in their disquisitions. They are "all on hobbies" too. They would be preachers if they could get a license, but are too well known to obtain one. Their religion is not of the heart, but of the head. They are also generally anti-slavery, not from philanthropic motives, but their minds must have something to agitate with. They are also generally temperance men from a similar cause, and the liquor dealers afford them subjects to vent their surplus venom upon. As christians they claim perfection, and as politicians, purity and patriotism. To them other men are "publicans and sinners," and other politicians, wicked and corrupt. They are long and loud in their declamations against sin and political corruption. Their nervousness often passes for earnestness, and their gab for profundity. They are low in the scale of being and their passions and propensities of a vulgar caste. Personal contests are their delight, and they are as stubborn as a mule, and quite as senseless. Of all men they are the most pugnacious. Among their neighbors, owing to the common frailty of man, and their frequent moral delinquiocs, they pass for "mean men," and this judgment is generally about half right.

As it should be.—An active member of the County corresponding Committee writing us on business, says, "We hope there will be a full delegation from every town in the county. We want to start fair and keep fair until the whig victory is proclaimed this fall."

On our way to Westport on Wednesday, to see the military, we unexpectedly had the pleasure of meeting the excursion of Rechabites and citizens of Montreal, to Burlington. The party landed from the Steamer America, accompanied by a Band, and what with music playing, and banners flying, it made an imposing appearance. It numbered about 1000 and was composed of all classes, high and low, rich and poor, the old, the young, the gay, the fair, all bound to have a good time. They were met on the wharf by the citizens of Burlington with their Band, and wore greeted with cheers, music, and firing of cannon, Hurrah for John Bull and Brother Jonathan.

The Convention of Post Masters and Custom House officers, took place at Syracuse on Tuesday. How far such men are qualified to advance genuine republicanism, is a query. Their doings are noticed elsewhere.

☞ We are not a candidate for Delegate to the State Convention, nor have we spoken to any living person either in our behalf, or of any other person. We have been spoken to several times, and invariably declined.

Mr. W. W. Kingsland showed us a Muskmelon on Monday, raised in his own garden weighing 10 lbs. 10 oz.

From California.

The Democratic Convention met at Sacramento on the 18th, where the scenes of rowdyism that were enacted exceeded anything that ever took place. Two Chairmen were elected, two Committees on Credentials appointed, two tickets for Congress, &c., nominated, and after remaining in session until 9 o'clock at night without lights, both parties quitted the Church together.

The factions are known as the Electionists and anti-Electionists. The former nominated for Congress G. A. McDougal and M. J. Latham, the present incumbents.

The latter nominated P. T. Hurbert and J. W. Deusen.

There were 248 delegates: 123 anti-Electionists, 63 Electionist and 62 contested seats.

The antis wished the contested seats to be decided by the rest of the Convention, but the others would listen to nothing of the kind, and relied upon brute force. There have been talks of compromising, but the antis will listen to no compromise.

The Whigs had their Convention on the 25th, and nominated Calhoun Benham and George W. Bowie for Congress.

They are confident of carrying the State, and the campaign will be one of the most exciting ever witnessed.

I. O. of O. F.—The Grand Lodge of Northern New York, met at Van Vechten Hall, [Albany,] Aug. 22. The following officers were installed:—

Tracy B. Morgan, of Broome, G. M.,
Francis Seger, of Lewis, D. G. M.,
Edgar C. Dibble, of Genesee, G. W.,
Wm. H. H. Prall, of Onondaga, G. S.,
Sullivan N. Smith, of Cayuga, G. T.,
John L. Lewis, Jr, of Yates, was elected by the District Grand Committees, Grand Representative to the Grand Lodge of the United States.

The Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows met at Van Vechten Hall. The following were elected Grand Officers for the ensuing year:—

Joseph Seymour, of Onondaga, G. P.,
D. S. Forbes, of Chautauque, G. H. P.,
A. M. Bennett, of Oneida, G. S. W.,
Wm. H. H. Prall, of Onondaga, G. S.,

The Grand Lodge Northern New York meets next year at Buffalo.

The vote on second ballot stood Buffalo 242; Watertown 104.

The New York Express, on the "best authority," contradicts the story that the President is beset already by applications for the governorship of Sitka; but there is no doubt a governor will be found, ready and willing, at a moments notice. Happy country! happy people! to have so many ready made patriots on hand, to serve the State—cheap, for cash.

When this country becomes exhausted of "patriots," it will be time to hang up the fiddle of patriotism. We have enough and to spare. The demand is not at all equal to the supply. Should the moon be annexed, office seekers would find a way to get there, provided there were fat offices to fill.—New Orleans Commercial Bulletin.

Our readers will remember that Sitka is the Russian territory away upon the N. W. Coast, which rumor says is to be offered for sale to the U. S.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried, The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatio, Polychromatio and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same, Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers, This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS,

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Bilious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are allowed to refer for these facts, are

PROF. VALENTINE MOTT, the distinguished Surgeon of New York City.

DOCT. A. A. HAYES, Practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Massachusetts.

IRA L. MOORE, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and Physician, of the City of Lowell, who has long used them in his extensive practice.

H. C. SOUTHWICK, Esq., one of the first merchants in New York City.

C. A. DAVIS, M. D., Sup't and Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea, Mass.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

For minute directions, see the wrapper on the Box.

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 27th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour, would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached the city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler, the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Pased April 15, 1854.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. The directors of any corporation formed under the act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of gas-light companies," shall have power to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding one-third of the capital stock actually paid in, for a period not exceeding twenty years, and bearing an interest not exceeding seven per cent.

§ 2. The proceeds of all bonds issued by authority of the foregoing section shall be applied to the extension or enlargement of the works and the purchase of real estate required for the use of the corporation.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 322.

An Act to amend the act entitled "An act for the relief of assessors for enrolling the militia in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-two."

Passed April 15, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. The first section of the act passed April twelfth, eighteen hundred and fifty-three, entitled "An act for the relief of assessors for enrolling the militia in the year eighteen hundred and fifty two," is hereby amended by striking out therein the word "two," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "three," and by adding, at the end of said section as follows: "The said board of supervisors are also hereby directed to audit and allow to the assessors of the said city and county, for enrolling the militia for the year eighteen hundred and fifty-four and every year thereafter, the sum of one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for each day necessarily spent in the performance of such duty.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 326.

An Act to amend the act entitled "An act in relation to weights and measures," passed April eleventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-one.

Passed April 15, 1854, three-fifths being present.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. That for the better enabling the state superintendent of weights and measures to carry into effect that clause of the seventeenth section of the act of April eleventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, entitled "An act in relation to weights and measures," which requires that the said superintendent shall provide the several counties of the state with such standards and balances as may be necessary, he is hereby authorized to contract with such manufacturers as he may select for their ability and experience, for the making and furnishing so many balances as shall be necessary to supply those counties that are not yet provided with a proper and efficient set of standard weights and measures and balances to meet the requirements of the said act in relation to weights and measures, specified more particularly in the twenty-first section of the same, together with one additional set of such standards, to remain on deposit in the office of the said state superintendent, as a model whereupon to construct new standards for such counties as may be hereafter erected within this state. The said standard shall be fabricated and manufactured of such materials, denom nations and fashion of workmanship as shall be directed by the said superintendent, and conformed by the manufacturers as nearly as practicable to the standard established by the United States government. The cost and expenses of the said standard shall be paid by the treasurer of the state, on the warrant of the comproller, based upon the certificate of said superintendent, srating that the said sets of weights, measures and balances have been delivered into his possession, and have been examined and approved by him; provided as an essential condition, that the said standards are obtainable at sveh rates as shall be deemed just and reasonable by the superintendent.

§ 2. On receiving the aforesaid weights, measures and balances the state superintendent of weights and measures shall forthwith proceed to examine the balances and compare each set of weights and measures with and conform the same as exactly as possible to the state standard weights and measures in his possession; and shall thereupon forward one set of such standard weights and measures, together with the requisite balances, to the county clerk or county sealer of each county in the state not already supplied with the same, for the use of the county sealer of such county, as specified in the twenty-first section of the act to which this is an addition; the cost of trasporiation to be defrayed out of such county treasury respectively, and the fees and expenses of the state superintendent for verification and sealing to be paid by the county treasurer to the said superintendent on his order.

§ 3. In order to idemnify the state treasurer for the expenses incurred undor the first section of this act, the prime cost of each set of standards shall be charged to the county to which the same is assigned, and shall remain to the debit of said county until fully repaid, but without interest for one year after the date of the delivery of such set of standards; and the board of supervisors of every such county, at their first annual meeting after the reception of such set of standards, shall provide the means to meet the expenses and charges incident thereto, and shall authorize the county treasurer to pay into the treasury of the state the prime cost of such standards, together with the interest accruing upon the same from one year after the reception of such standards.

§ 4. So much of the twenty-fourth section of the act entitled "An act in relation to weights and measures," passed April eleventh, eighteen hundred and fifty one, as requires the supervisors of each county to provide for procuring a set of county standards, is modified by the preceding third section of this act, so far as respects the several counties that have not acted under the said twenty-fourth section; but the remainder of the section shall remain in full force to the effect that the supervisors of each county shall, soon after the passage of this act, provide for procuring the proper standard weights, measures and balances for each of the towns in said county, at the expense of such towns respectively.

PART I—CIVIL AND POLITICAL HISTORY.

CHAPTER I.—TO THE DISCOVERY.

The territory, now distinguished by the general designation, of the Valley of Lake Champlain, was for nearly a century, a debatable ground between the powers of England and France. Claimed by each under arbitrary charters or imaginary titles, overrun and subverted in turn by both, and permanently occupied by neither, it derived from the presence of their armies, little amelioration of its primitive aspect.

Earlier than this period, the same region seems to have been the frontier between tribes, or confederacies of tribes of aboriginces, who waged a perpetual warfare of ferocious exterminatian. These circumstances, it is probable had consigned it to desolation and prevented the occupation of the country by a race, which would have been allured to it, by the strong attractions to the savage mind, created by the profusion of its game and fish. The possessions of the Indians were apparently most extended and permanent on the eastern shores of the lake. Few vestiges of their existence have been discovered, upon its western borders. They appear, however, to have congregated, in numerous villages along the lakes and rivers of the interior. The bold and lofty mountains which envelope that region, formed to them a bulwark against the assaults of their foes, while the forests and the streams yielded an abundant supply for their humble wants.

At a period nearly cotemporaneous with the discovery of Canada by the French, the Roman energies and the extraordinary military prowess of the Mohawks appear to have borne their arms and established their dominion almost to the southern shores of the St. Lawrence. The long and narrow tract of water, known to us as Lake Champlain, was doubtless the war-path of the Huron and Iroquois, in their mutual hostile and sanguinary incursions. The mind may readily portray fleets of the Indian war canoes, caparisoned in the gorgeous trappings of barbaric pomp, bounding over the dark and still waters of the lake, while the paddles kept tune to the cadence of their war-songs—or gliding stealthily along the silent shores, upon their mission of rapine and blood. The Indian in reference doubtless to the fact that it afforded an avenue and facility to their reciprocal attacks, gave to the Lake the impressive and appropriate name of "Caniadere guarante," i. e. "The lake that is the gate of the country."* An ally of the Hurons Champlain accompanied them in one of these incursions, and revealed to the civilized world the beautiful lake which has immortalized his own name.

Samuel Champlain was one of those remarkable men, who seem to stamp an impress of their own characters upon the ages they illustrate by their services and exploits. Champlain was a native of France of noble lineage. At an early age he was attached to the royal marine of that nation. Eminently imbued with the impulsive and impetuous spirit of his country, animated by a bold and reckless courage, fearless in encountering danger and toil, his intuitive sagacity enabled him to surmount the ordinary obstacles that his intelligence and prescience could not anticipate and avoid. Enthusiastic, persevering and unyielding in his purposes, he devoted all the powers of his active mind and the energies of his character to the achievement of the great object of his life, the exploration of the wildernesses of the new world, and the foundation, in their recesses, of a new empire to his country. De Soto discovered the Mississippi, and while he found an appropriate mausoleum beneath its turbulent water, has left no memorial of his name.—Champlain, more fortunate, rendered his discovery a monument which has perpetuated alike, his services and his memory.

France, entered with ardor and enthusiasm into the great struggle of the age, the field of exploration upon the new continent. The zeal and enterprise of the fishermen of Normandy had already discovered and penetrated the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Cartier, a French adventurer, entered in 1834, the mighty river of that name. The succeeding year he guided to his new discovery, under the auspices of the royal government, a fleet, freighted with many of the young nobility of France and blessed by the prayers and sanctions of the church. They departed in high hopes and brilliant auguries to colonize this new France. Ascending the majestic stream, which then first received together with its estuary the name of "St. Lawrence," they anchored at what is now called the Isle of Orleans. Cartier penetrated from this in his open boats, to the Indian "Hochelaga," named by him Mont Real—the Montreal of the present age. Here he received from the Indians the first intelligence, indistinct and shadowy, of the region of Lake Champlain. The ensuing winter was passed by the colonists at the Isle of Orleans, in intense suffering, from the rigors of the climate and the presence of disease.

Having taken possession of the country, with all the prescribed pomp and formulas was abandoned, and the expedition returned early in the season, to the mother country. This experiment ended thus inauspiciously, and the climate and country presenting to the children of sunny France, so few allurements, all schemes of further colonization seem to have slumbered, for several years. The "Lord of Roberval," received in 1540 a commission from the French King, conferring on him an immense and almost illimitable territory, and which dignified him with the plenary powers of vice-royalty.

This parchment title and these titular functions overshadowed a vast region, and extended in every direction along the Gulf and river St. Lawrence, comprehending in its wide domain, the present limits of New England and Northern New York. The efforts emanating from this authority, appear to have terminated without accomplishing any progress either in colonization or discovery.

During the half century succeeding the failure of Roberval, the subject of New France was unheeded amid the convulsions and conflicts of the religious wars by which the kingdom in that period was torn and agitated. In 1598, another abortive attempt, under governmental patronage, was made to colonize the region of the St. Lawrence, by disgorging upon its shores the convicts from the dungeons of France.

Private enterprise, unfolding the only just and secure basis of colonization of that region, by associating with it the fur trade, initiated the first successful effort. In 1600 Chauvin had obtained a comprehensive patent, which formed a monopoly of that trade. Repeated and prosperous voyages had been made, and settlements were about being formed, when the death of Chauvin, dissolved the organization.

A body of merchants of Rouen, animated by this success, organized in the year 1603 a new company, with similar purposes, and arranged an expedition to be directed by the skill and science of Champlain. On returning from this voyage, he presented a most accurate and discriminating account of the geography and aspect of the country and the manners and traits of the savage tribes.

A new patent, in the meanwhile, had been granted to the Calvanistic Protestant, De Monts. It conferred still broader expanse of sovereignty, extending from the fortieth to the forty-sixth degree of north latitude, and was clothed with greater privileges in the monopoly of the fur trade and with higher immunities of the soil and government. This charter guaranteed freedom of religious worship to the Huguenot emigrant.

Several years were exhausted in trafficking under this charter, with the aborigines; in wandering from one locality to another, between the St. Lawrence and Cape Cod, and in forming temporary settlements, without effecting any permanent occupation of the country.

The first French settlement upon the American continent, was made in 1605, by these emigrants at Port Royal. The charter of De Monts was abrogated in the year 1508, upon the remonstrances of the merchants interested in the preceding grants. In the same year, Champlain returned to New France, and in accordance with a purpose conceived in his preceding expedition, laid the foundation of Quebec—more ambitious of the honor of founding a great city, than covetous of the emoluments of trade.

Impelled by the ardor of his impetuous character and his impassioned zeal for discovery, Champlain the ensuing year embarked in an adventure conspicuous in that unscrupulous and daring age, for its reckless purpose and bold temerity. A band of some sixty Hurons and Algonquins had assembled at the rapids of the modern Chambly, with their flotilla of war canoes, and were preparing for a hostile expedition against a remote tribe of the "Iroquois".

Champlain, attended only by two Europeans, at once became the ally and companion of these savages. Allured by the spirit of adventure, and grasping at the glory which fascinated that age, he boldly, and without hesitation or remorse encountered the dangers and privations of a vast and savage wilderness, never before pressed by the foot of civilized man, to assail a people of whose character and rights he was alike ignorant and careless.

The programme of the route to be pursued by the expedition, as indicated by the Indians, is signalized by a remarkable minuteness and accuracy in their knowledge of the topography of the country. Traversing the lake, which commemorates his name, they informed him that in pursuit of the enemy they sought, who occupied a country thickly inhabited, they "must pass by a water-fall, and thence enter another lake three or four leagues in length, and having arrived at its head, there were four leagues of land to be travelled to pass to a river which flows towards the coast of the Almochoiquis." A precise and exceedingly accurate delineation of the route, (although somewhat inaccurate in the estimate of distances,) from Champlain by Ticonderoga and Lake George to the Hudson. The journal of Champlain* is of deep interest, not merely because it affords the first revelation of a rich and beautiful region to civilized society, but because it presented a truthful exhibition of the Indian habits and pursuits, and their arts and tactics in war.

Upon entering the lake, Champlain was deeply impressed by the profusion and beauty of the islands, the wild and majestic growth of the timber, and the abundance of game and fish. The rivers discharging into the lake he found "surrounded by fine trees, similar to those we have in France, with a quantity of vines, the handsomest I ever saw." "In the lake," he continues, "there is large abundance o divers species" He adds the melancholy commentary to this attractive picture of a delightful region, "these parts though agreeable are not inhabited by the Indians on account of their wars."

He coursed the lake along the western shore and "saw on the east side very high mountains capped with snow." The Indians assured him that those parts were inhabited by the Iroquois, and that they embraced beautiful valleys and fields fertile in corn, with an infinitude of other fruits."

He thus portrays the habits of his savage allies—"on encamping for the night, forthwith some began to cut down timber; others to peel off the bark, to cover lodges to shelter them; others to barricade their lodges on the shore." He regarded their barricades as efficient protection, against the ordinary assaults of savage warfare.—"They despatched two or three canoes, after encampment, to reconnoitre," which, "if they made discovery of no one, retired," and no further vigilance was exerted during the night for their security.

Champlain earnestly remonstrated with them "on this bad habit of theirs," as a laxity in military science. On approaching, the territory of their enemies, they observed more caution and vigilance in their movements. They advanced silently and with great care by night, and retired into the "picketted forts" by day and "reposed without fire or noise." The savages were deeply curious and importunate to discover the dreams of Champlain, that from them they might derive auguries relative to the issue of the expedition.

As they advanced softly and noiselessly they encountered "a war-party of the Iroquois, about ten o'clock at night, at the point of a cape that puts into the lake at the west side" I deeply regret, that I am unable to insert unabridged, the unique and graphic description† by Champlain of the incidents and conflict which ensued.—They are portrayed in language, so simple clear and descriptive, that we feel as if the eye rested upon the spectacle. We almost contemplate the cool and chivalric postponement of the battle, by mutual consent to day-light; the night spent in the war-songs and chaunts of triumph and defiance; the skill and cunning of the Hurons, in disguising the presence of their potent allies; the marshaling of the hostile bands, the lofty forius of the Iroquois chiefs, decorated with their waving plumage and distinguished by their "arrow-proof armor made of cotton thread and wood;" their astonishment, not unmingled with boldness at the sudden apparition of the Europeans; the intrepid Frenchman advancing, alone in front of the Hurons; the awe and consternation with which the Iroquois see the flash of the arquebus, hear the report, and behold their chieftains slain as if by the thunderbolt. The victory in such a conflict was necessarily with the allies of the white man.

Champlain places the site of this battle "in 43 degrees and some minutes," and evidently within the vicinity of Ticonderoga.†

It is a singular coincidence, and may it not be regarded as significant of the presence and retribution of an overruling Providence, that the first aboriginal blood, shed by the Christian invader, and shed ruthlessly and in wantonness was on the soil which in another age, was destined to witness the sanguinary though fruitless conflicts of the mightiest powers of Christendom for the possession of the same territory; that both moistened with their choicest blood, and which neither were permitted permanently to enjoy.

Champlain looking forth from the field of battle, upon the placid water that laved the spot, and probably exulting in the pride of even such a victory, named the lake, Champlain. His countrymen in succeeding years would have substituted the name of "Mere des Iroquois," but the Anglo-Saxon and posterity averted the wrong, (for the latter name was not known to the nomenclature of the Indian,) and the lake still perpetuates the memory of its discoverer. Champlain entered upon the waters of the lake, on the 4th of July, 1600, and eleven years before the Mayflower sought the shores of New England. On the retreat of the expedition Champlain was constrained to witness one of those appalling scenes incident to Indian warfare—the torture of a prisoner. This terrific spectacle occurred, it is supposed, within the present limits of Willsborough. The sufferings of the victim, inflicted in all the intensity and refinement of savage barbarity, which he in vain attempted to avert were, in mercy, closed by the arquebus of Champlain.

The subsequent career of this extraordinary man, was like the commencement, distinguished and brilliant. We may, with propriety, linger a few moments in glancing at his future history. Returning the third time to the New Word, he embarked again "to satisfy the desire I had," he writes "of learning something about that country," with his former allies and associates, in an incursion into the territories of the Iroquois. Exhibiting rare military science and genius in this ignoble warfare, amid the wilds of Western New York, he was at length compelled to retreat sorely wounded and repulsed from an attack upon an Indian stockade. That winter, the intrepid and untiring adventurer spent among the gloomy and comfortless wigwams of the Hurons, upon the sequestered shores of Lake Nipissing. Again restored to active life and civilization, he erects, in defiance of the grovelling cupidity of superiors, the magnificent castle of St. Louis. In 1615 still recurring to his Indian associates and accompanied by Monks of St. Francis, he penetrated far into the recesses of the western solitudes, and the first of civilized men, gazed upon the mighty waves, bounded only by the horizon, which he called "La mere douce" and which another generation, distinguished as Lake Huron. He gloriously defended Quebec, from an assault of the English, almost without arms or provisions, by the glory of his name, and the energy of his courage, and only capitulated his famishing garrison, when the last hope of relief had failed. Having suppressed the Indian excitements which had agitated his provinces, and amply asserted and perfected the dominion of his Sovereign over the empire he had founded, Champlain diedin 1635, and is commemorated in the annals of the country he served so ably and with such fidelity, as "the father of New France."

†Documentary History, vol. 3, page 7.

†I confidently assume this position, altho' a somewhat controverted point, from the distinct designation of the place upon Champlain's own map. I feel assured on the subject by several other considerations which I deem conclusive. He probably saw the Falls at Ticonderoga, in the pursuit which succeeded the victory.

ORIGINAL POETRY.

In Memory of Jenny.

"SHE IS NOT DEAD BUT SLEEPETH."

She sleepeth; and the summer flowers are dying,
That bloomed in beauty o'er her lowly bed,
The breeze of evening through their leaflets sighing,
Murmured the requiem of the early dead.

She sleepeth; and the blasts of Autumn, wailing,
Scatter the brown leaves 'neath the forest tree,
Where the blest ashes of her form are lying,
Waiting the summons of the judgment day.

Yes! Yes! she sleepeth; yet her spirit
Hovers around us in our hours of gloom,
Cheering us onward by the blest assurance,
Of a bright morning's dawn, beyond the tomb.

She sleepeth; and we soon shall sleep beside her;
Life's journey ended, and life's fever o'er;
May we like her, sleep the lone death sleep calmly,
Like her be wafted to a summer shore.

From the Country Gentleman.

Letter from Kansas.

[We extract the following from a letter recently received from Dr. John Doy, formerly of Rochester, and well known in that city as the efficient and successful agent of the Rochester Juvenile Reform Association. He is a gentleman on whose statements full reliance may be placed.]

BLACK-JOHN VALLEY, on Fremont's Route, deg. 39.
Kansas River, Kansas Territory, Aug. 17, '54.

I wish to inform you that I am in the best country I ever heard or read of. We arrived here on the 1st of Aug. as the Pioneer Party of the Mass. Emigrant Aid Company, for whom I have acted as Agent. Many of our men throw down their blanket at night and wake in the morning, feeling remarkably light, and well in body and spirit; we have the most pure air I ever breathed. The black soil is from three to six feet, on clay three feet, then a red fine gravel mixed with clay, then tough, blue, pure clay. We have found excellent sand stone for shoemakers and grind-stones, also nearly all kinds of building and lime stone and stone coal.—The timber is good but not plentiful. I have seen land in Norway, England, Canada, United States, but never any like this. Some places, while staking out wood claims, the weeds and grass were above our heads on our horses. A man can cut two tons of hay per day on a claim I have. Persons coming here to farm ought to possess some little money to build a house. A log cabin costs from $30 to $50; cows with calves $35, oxen $70 to 90, Indian ponies $40, horses or mares $100 to $150, wagon $70 to 90. At present we have no blacksmith, shoemaker, in fact no mechanical establishment. We expect to establish a city here; we have a fine site, an excellent landing on the Kansas River, which is navigable by boats drawing eighteen inches water all the season. Winter, the Indians say, is three months, but the grazing cattle can get food most of the winter in the woods. If any good industrious farmer or mechanic, that really intends coming here to live, wishes it, I will stake out a claim on the prairie as near as I can to timber, and get timber cut, and what is called a foundation, put on, enough to hold the claim for 60 days on receipt of $20 good Western money to pay the labor. Now this is much less than it costs to travel to Kansas without going back for the family. Each one ought to be here as soon as he can with a tent, if he intends to cut hay and build and provide for winter. We sometimes catch a 20 to 40 pounds fish on our lines during the night; they eat finely; they are Rock and Cat fish. Let none bring rifles—a shot gun is best, as most of the game is prairie hens, partridges and turkies.—Wild plums and white or small plums are plenty in some of the woods. The wood is chiefly oak, black-walnut and cotton.

Yours truly, JOHN DOY.

The Whigs of the town of Chesterfield are requested to meet at the office of Harvey Carter, in the Adirondac building, on Saturday, the 23d day of September inst., at four o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of choosing three Delegates to attend a County Convention, to be held at Elizabethtown on the 26th day of September instant., to nominate County Officers, and to transact such other business as may be deemed proper.—Dated at Chesterfield, Sept. 14th, 1854.

SAMUEL AMES, H. M. CHASE, H. CARTER. } Town Committee.

Vermont, All Hail!

The Boston Atlas has returns from 106 towns in this State. Royce's majority thus far is over nine thousand, and will be increased to over ten thousand.

In the House of Representatives the Whigs and Republicans have, together, a majority of over a hundred, or three-fourths of the entire house.

The entire Senate is Whig and Anti-Nebraska. The Nebraskals have not elected a single Senator.

MAINE! MAINE!!

"Oh have you heard the News from Maine?"

The fusionists have swept the State—the administration is annihilated.

Of all other years since we have observed the political field this demands prudence, moderation, and consideration in the preparation of the ticket and platform, and then the utmost firmness and resolution. If whigs will they can have everything their own way this fall, or they can be scattered to the four winds. Whigs never had before them so clearly a triumphant victory, or destruction, as this fall. Heretofore it has been a fair field and an equal chance, but now it is victory, or annihilation. Will whigs heed the signs of the times and be wise?

The Telegraph line is again in order and it is hoped will not again be interrupted.

"Straws show which way the Wind Blows."

It was talked about the streets here early this week that whigs were likely to get into trouble in this section. This was all gammon, but it served a good bait to draw out some folks. The softs were delighted, but our neighbor Lansing was in ecstacies—he chuckled, rubbed his hands, and grinned from ear to ear—saying, that was good, glad to hear it, just what he wanted, &c., &c. As he desired the Nebraska bill to pass, so he would like to see a Nebraska soft elected to Congress in this district if it would only serve him for agitation. 'Principle' is a good thing.

Clinton County Nominations.

For Assembly, Hon. Josiah Te Everest; Treasurer, Wm. P. Moore, Coroner, Congdon Douglass.

Delegate to State Convention, A. B Kingsland. Delegates to Congressional Convention, Geo., Hallock, H. S. Johnson, W. B. Underhill.

Franklin County.—Delegates to Congressional Convention, O. F. Paddock, J. H. Moore, and M. M. Roberts.

The Hunkers held a Congressional Convention at Plattsburgh on Monday and nominated Hon. Joseph R. Flanders of Malone, formerly Judge of Franklin County, and now in the practice of the law, and Editor of the Jeffersonian, a Hunker paper of the genuine stamp. Judge Flanders, therefore, takes the course in no double attitude—he has but one face—is an outspoken, straight forward, undisguised hunker. Those who vote for him will know who they are voting for and what they can depend upon. He is too much hunker for us, but we admire his frankness, and infinitely prefer him to a double dealing, uncertain, time-serving soft, who will turn his back upon his friends, eat his own words, or eschew his professed principles for a "mess of pottage."

The Soft State Convention was held at Syracuse on the 6th inst., and the following ticket presented for the suffrages of the people:

For Gov.	Horatio Seymour,
Lieut. Gov.	Wm. H. Ludlow,
Canal Com.	Jason Clark,
State Prison Insp'r	Wm. R. Andrews.

Resolutions were adopted re-endorsing the Baltimore platform of 1852, approving the Nebraska fraud, endorsing the administration, pledging the perpetuity of the Union, in favor of religious liberty, for free trade, against internal improvements, in favor of land distribution to settlers, endorsing the policy of Gov. Seymour, and of course, a stereotype denouncing the whigs as federals and spendthrifts.

Those will vote the soft ticket who are opposed to a Maine Law, opposed to internal improvements, in favor of free trade, and the Nebraska fraud, and of the Pierce administration generally. In this section the latter are composed of office holders, or office seekers, and their friends, and all told number just six, or under.

Essex County Fair.

We would call attention to the return of this annual Festival. It has yearly increased in interest and usefulness, and it is hoped that this anniversary will far exceed all its predecessors. The officers of the Society have complained perhaps with justice, that many of our prominent citizens have hitherto withheld from the Society their countenance and aid. We trust that this cause of complaint will not exist the present year. The Fair takes place at Pleasant Valley on the 20th and 21st inst. Every necessary arrangement we are informed will be made for the accommodation of stock.

Hon. Sam'l J. Wilkin of Orange County is strongly urged in an able article in the Greene County Whig for the office of Lt. Gov. on the Whig ticket. He was a very popular whig about 1840 and 1844, since which time we have not heard of him till now.

A term of the U. S. Dist. Court for the Northern Dist. of N. Y. was held at Plattsburgh on Monday last, Judge Hall presiding. Hugh Clellaud was tried and convicted, and sentenced to two years imprisoment in the Clinton Prison for obtaining a money letter from the Post Office in Auburn under false pretenees, for forgery, &c.

The parade of the—Regt. uniformed Militia, commanded by Colonel Palmer, parades at Plattsburgh the 19th, 20th and 21st.

The chapter from the Survey of Essex County, on our first page, will be found enchanting.

Original Irish Wit.

The following were communicated to us by a good Irish friend for which he will accept our thanks.

"Father," said an Irish lad to his shock-headed sire, "can ye tell what is a forty fay-cation?"

"Be gorrah!" says he, "I cannot, me boy, barrin two twenty-fay-cations make one forty-fay-cation

A yankee, who had lost his cow, meeting an Irish neighbor, exclaimed "I have lost my cow." "Be gorrah," says Pat, "I'm sorry for't." For the Republican.

Mr. Editor:—

With many other good whigs I am much pleased to learn that our townsman O. D. Peabody, Esq., stands a fair chance to receive the nomination for Congress from this district. As a thorough going, out and out working whig, Mr. Peabody has never been excelled by any whig in the State. His time, influence, and money have been freely given to any candidate offered by the Whig Party and to his untiring vigilance many of our successful candidates for Local offices owe their election. No forlorn hope, in the darkest night through which the Whig Party has passed but he has been ready to lead and is the last man that would ever say die. That there should be any opposition to Mr. Peabody's receiving the whole Whig vote of the district if nominated would be strange indeed.

No Whig in Clinton County, to whom the candidate by usage belongs, is better entitled to the nomination, on the score of services rendered the party; or better qualified to fill it, if elected.

True Mr. Peabody can't make a great speech, or deliver a bombastic 4th of July Oration, "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing;" but if an important measure is to be carried, work done in a Committee room, a local matter to be attended to, or a right kind of vote given on any of the great questions that come before Congress, he is as well qualified to promote and secure the interests of his constituents as any man in the district. If nominated, let him receive the hearty and full support of every Whig, and his election is certain.

Such are sentiments of hundreds who will work, and vote for regularly nominated candidates, whether he should be Mr. Peabody or any other GOOD WHIG.

The details of the Military encampment at Westport are contained in the following communication which we take from the Plattsburgh Republican.

Encampment of the 31st Regiment.

Westport, Sept. 6th, 1854.

Dear Republican—As you perceive, I am at Westport, one of the most beautifully located places on our lovely Lake Champlain. It is on the western shore of the lake, at the head of "Northwest Bay," upon an elevated position, gently sloping to the shore, in the midst of luxuriant vegetation, and with views not excelled, I venture to affirm, in the world. The village contains about one thousand inhabitants, and there are two hotels, several stores, and, across the bay, the Iron Foundry of F. H. Jackson in full blast.

The 31st Regiment New York State Militia, commanded by Colonel H. J. Peirson, of this place, is on duty here, which explains my presence. It went into camp yesterday, and is an amy in miniature. Tents are pitched, sntinels posted, and guards mounted and relieved, and watchwords and countersigns given out—"in all the pomp and circumstance of glorious war." As I write [10 o'clock, P. M.] my friend (Colonel Stone) has gone out to test the sentinels, and to see if they are all at their posts. The circumstance reminds me of an anecdote of Napoleon: He went out on a midnight round in disguise, as was his frequent custom—when, approaching a sentinel, he endeavored to pass without ceremony; but he was ordered to halt and give the countersign. Said Napoleon, "I am an officer high in command." "No matter," said the faithful sentinel, "you cannot pass without the countersign, unless you pass over my dead body!" "But suppose I am the Emperor himself?" "Then we will have no Emperor in the morning," said the still faithful sentinel. He was brevetted on the spot, and rose in time to the highest military fame. Colonel Stone will find as faithful soldiers, but without the power to reward them, except by precept—"well done, thou good and faithful servant"—"you deserve well of your country." The real military spirit pervades here, and all, from the highest officer to the private soldier, vie with each other in the performance of duty.

This Regiment embraces Warren and Essex counties. There are five companies making a fine military appearance. The Brigade includes Clinton county to Canada line, is commanded by Brigadier General Gray, who resides in Warrensburgh, Warren county, and is a most excellent officer and citizen. He has thus far paid the men the greater share of the amount allowed by law out of his own pocket, most of the commutation money having been diverted by the civil authorities. A little incident occurred to-day, on the arrival of the General, that was extremely gratifying. He came by boat, and on arriving at his headquarters at Colonel Persons' Hotel, the regiment drawn up in front gave him three cheers, when he appeared and made a few remarks, excusing himself from a speech till to-morrow.

Hon. George Richards, the Senator from this District, is a member of the General's Staff, but is not present. The encampment has been visited by Colonel M. S. Pitcher, Division Inspector. He was a Captain in the Mexican War, and drilled this regiment with much success. He took a particular liking to a company from Warren county, commanded by Captain Smith. It is a fine company, as you may know from the fact that it is full, and has travelled over fifty miles to attend this parade.—There is a rival company from that county however, commanded by Captain Richards (brother of the Senator,) that has travelled over seventy miles,—every man is in his place, and equipped according to the regulations, in every particular.

Colonel Bleeker of the Governor's Military Family, has also been present as a visitor, and came up on purpose to look in on this encampment. Also Major Wilson of the 30th Regiment, who drilled this Regiment in person. I noticed also Colonel Palmer, Major Hubbell, Quarter-Master G. H. Nichols, and D. Johnson, Engineer, from Plattsburgh, down on a friendly visit, and to make observations. Also Colonel Williams of Elizabethtown, formerly of the 37th Regiment of Militia, under the old system, and a successful officer. Also D. S. Holcomb, of Champlain and Lewis Person, of Glen's Falls, both Inspectors under the old regime. The latter printed the Essex County [illegible] in 1817, the first paper published in the county, and afterwards published the "Essex County Republican" at Essex, for eight years. The interest of these gentlemen is gratifying and worthy of note. You must permit me also to say, that Colonel Stone is, as ever, a general favorite; and this I insist upon saying, whether he consents to it or not.

It is now near midnight. Mounting and relieving guard goes on—the beating of drums sounding like a city under martial law.

There was a frightful occurrence this afternoon, that made every person who saw it hold his breath, but fortunately no harm was done. The horse of Colonel Merriam, a large and powerful Black-Hawk, owned by Colonel Root of this town, by some means became unmanageable. He ran full speed for twenty rods, when he came in contact with a strong wire-fence, throwing the horse full length, and pitching his rider several feet beyond. Merriam was believed killed, but in ten minutes he was again on the same horse, and at his post in line, unharmed, save some scratches in the face. The resolution of Colonel Merriam was the subject of general remark. If called upon, he will not flinch in the hour of danger.

Adieu for the night. To-morrow is Review and Inspection, after which I will conclude.

September 7th.

The day was ushered in by the firing of cannon, and at an early hour all were in motion. The line was formed at 9 o'clock. At 11 o'clock General Gray and staff appeared upon the field, when the Hollow-Squgre was formed—prayer was made by Rev. Mr Yates of this place, and General Gray made a short but most eloquent and comprehensive speech, presenting strongly to view the necessity of a well-regulated militia, and calling upon the people for sympathy and aid. Review and Ispection followed, when the exercises closed, not merely creditably, but nobly—gloriously, for the 31st. This Regiment is no longer in a doubtful condition—its success is established.

It should be added that Colonel Merriam was in his place to-day, and though his face is scarred, he is otherwise unharmed.

I must also state among the incidents of the occasion—drilling by moonlight by Col. Pitcher and Major Wilson, Tuesday night, which created no little interest, and on Wednesday evening a temperance meeting in the "Sons" Hall, opposite the Hotel. The singing in particular attracted the attention of persons at the Hotel, by whom it was heard distinctly, and pronounced of the very first order. So much was it admired and praised, I enquired the names of the singers, and found the principal ones to be Harry N. Cole and Miss Olds. They would do credit to singers of celebrity.

Evening.—I supposed my notes closed; but I have one more incident to add, and I lack language in which to express my delight. At sundown there was a dress parade under the direction of Colonel Stone, in which the company of Captain Richards performed with the precision of regulars, to the astonishment and delight of all who beheld it. Every military man is in ecstacies, and Captain Richards carries off the palm. All honor to his boys—Company No. 7 against the world.

And now I am done. If my hasty notes shall be satisfactory to my military friends and to you, I shall be more than repaid for my trouble.

I discovered several old friends in the ranks—Captain Linnsay, Lieutenant Parmeter, and others, who, one and all, deserve personal notice, but time and space forbid. A list of every commissioned officer will be published ere long, and that will be as well as a notice here. Adieu.

An Ex-Officer.

The Corn Crop--Good News.

The editor of the Buffalo 'Democracy' has had an interview with a gentleman directly connected with the agricultural and shipping interests of the West and a resident of Maumee country, from whom he learns that the crop of corn in the Wabash and Maumee sections will be larger and in every respect better this season than it has ever been before. His means of knowing these facts are ample and his veracity is not to be questioned. He states that all through the valleys of the two rivers named there has been an abundance of rain, and that vegetation has been remarkably developed.

Extract of a letter from Ohio, written by a highly respectable New York merchant to a gentleman in that city;

Toledo, September 2, 1854.

"I stopped over at Cleveland last night as I want to go through the country in day time, but I am already satisfied that there will be plenty of corn. A gentleman just informs me that there is corn in the vicinity that will make 100 bushels to the acre. So far, I have seen but few fields that wont make 20 bushels, and many that will make 40 to 70. I have seen many from all parts, and they say that the corn crop is coming out much better than was expected. It is all raised and the ears are full. There is an immense quantity of old corn in the country, and with larger breadth of land planted, I am convinced there will be an average of corn.

Yours, &c.

What does it mean?—The N. Y. City papers, the Tribune, Express, Times, Courier & Enquirer, &c., &c., are in ecstacies over the arrival and debut of Mad'll Grisi and Signor Mario, new Italian singers; they are spoken of as peerless performers, and Mad'll Grisi as the rival of Jenny Lind, Sontag, and others; yet the N. Y. correspondent of the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin in a communication to that paper uses such language as this: "In their private lives, in their foibles &c., they are wanting in that self-respect and social regard that Jenny Lind (and others) possessed." Again: "In their private capacity they are entitled to scorn [illegible] tempt for their lives are one continuous [illegible] of profligacy," &c. What does [illegible] an?

On our first page we give a chapter of Mr. Watson's interesting Survey of Essex County. We have long had it marked for our printers. We intend to give a chapter every week till it is completed.

Do all our readers keep files of the Republican? A few we know do. As a record of passing events those who keep them will consider them invaluable. Those who do will appreciate the suggestion.

The junior Editor of the Standard in the absence of the senior says, "it's only a waste of soap to lather an Ass' head."—The senior is known to have a hard head and our advice to the junior is to take off his horns and put his head to soak.

Campmeeting at this place which closed on Thursday drew large numbers together and from a great distance. We had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. Harmony Johnson of Keene an old and valued subscriber, from whom we earned that they had not suffered as much from the drouth in Keene as on the Ausable.

Provision against Famine.—We are fully persuaded, says the National Intelligencer, that there is much more apprehension expressed about a deficiency in the grain crops of the season, than is well founded. There has been more than an average crop of wheat, rye, and oats throughout the country, and at least half an average crop of Indian corn. Let us see what all this will amount to:—A full crop of wheat is 120,000,000 bushels; of rye, 15,000,000; of oats, 150,000 000; of Irish potatoes 65,000,000; half a crop of corn 300,000,000. To which may be added sweet potatoes 40,000,000; buckwheat 10,000,000; rice 5,000,000; barley 5,000,000; peas and beans 10,000,000 Besides an unusually heavy crop of hay. Here is about one million of millions of bushels of what may be bread—a pretty good provision, one would think, for twenty-one millions of people.

Small Speck of War.—We hear from Plattsburgh that certain warlike proceedings of an unusual character are proceeding there. The Essex and Clinton counties militia are called out for fifteen day's training, although the regular time for militia training is not September but June.—We hear, also, that some field piecas have been sent forward to the same place, with four hundred stand of arms; and that other military stores are daily expected.—Whether there be anything more than ordinary routine movements in this, we not know. In the quarter from which we derive our information, it is tho't that something more than ordinary was afoot.—Montreal Herald.

We hoped the warlike mevements referced to in the preceding extract from the Herald would escape the attention of our neighbors; but since the "cat has been let out of the bag" we may, without promulgating a state secret, frankly admit that "something more than ordinary is afoot." Two brass field pieces and four hundred stand of arms are ugly customers in the hands of the Clinton and Essex militia, and September too is a month in which they have been accustomed to use them to some purpose. Already the warning cry of "lemonade! just as cold as ice can make it—o-n-l-y one cent a g-l-a-s-s," is heard in our streets, and before the month has past, huge piles of melon rinds and fragments of candy-boards will show to the Argus of the Herald that something more than ordinary has happened.—Plattsburgh Republican.

Pretty good. Evidently "arms in the hands of the Clinton and Essex Militia," and "in the month of September" too has an "ugly look" to our Canadian neighbors. Very likely it has become an epidemic that recurs annually "about these days!"—Good, Colonel—first rate—but then don't push him of the Herald too far, lest these spasms prove fatal.

Violent Tornado.—A very destructive tempest passed over this county, at about 1 o'clock, P. M., of Wednesday last. Considerable damage has been done by the blowing down of buildings, scattering of fences, and tearing up fruit and forest trees At West Chazy, the Wesleyan Methodist Church, a brick building, was blown over, a school house demolished, the wood shed at the rail-road station capsized, and a beautiful maple grove, belonging to Mr. Stratton, prostrated to the ground Trees fell across the railroad track, and the cars were detained until they could be removed. In Beekmantown, the barn of Thomas Riley was unroofed, and about one half of his grain carried away and scattered in such a manner, as to be wholly irrecoverable. In Peru, we learn that several buildings were unroofed and orchards blown down. A Methodist Church, at Morrisonville, in the process of erection was leveled with the ground.

A lady of this village, was driving a horse, with a covered carriage, in Peru, when the storm came so suddenly, that it nearly capsized the carriage, and frightening the horse to such a degree, as to render him almost ungovernable. She jumped out and caught the horse by the bits, and held him for about twenty minutes, the rain all the while pouring down in torrents, and trees falling in every direction about her.—Mr. Owen Riley, of Beekmantown while standing near his barn, had his arm broken by the violent swinging of the barn door.—Without doubt many injuries have been done to persons and to property, that have not come to our knowledge. The storm seemed to have divided, as no injury was done in this village, while many did not notice that it was an usually violent—Clinton Co. Whig.

About that hour of the same day the tents of the Military at Westport, were prostrated, and at this place, one of the Academy chimnies was blown off, two or three houses partially unroofed, and several trees torn up by the roots.

Notices of Magazines.

Godey for September—is at hand. It contains one hundred pages of matter.—There are thirty-seven embellishments, and seventy contributions. Within its pages may be found every variety of reading, from "grave to gay," fiction and practical, poetry, music, &c., &c.

Putnam's Monthly—is also received. Its leading article is on "Our parties and politics," which is attracting attention. It has also an interesting and valuable article on the Wilds of Northern New York. It is an interesting number and deserves a great run. G. P. Putnam & Co., 10 Park Place, N. Y.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A. M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236,00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now Therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keesevillo, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A
FAMILY PHYSIC.

There has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

This remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness, &c.; and for Children it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method,

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.
Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 27th. 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description: month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
New-York Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; bad pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof A. K. KATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Head and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 percent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has hereto-fore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300 The right to manufacture and sell for sale, and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 30 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop. Without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $600.

7. Jone's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12 The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Ems & Mourse's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 101 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $300

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction The family size is sold from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars.

Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an effectual remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, were they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of recommendations. Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like: it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL,"

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 29 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation,] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the 4th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Sheriff's Sale.

BY virtue of an Execution issued out of the County Court of the County of Essex, to me directed, and delivered against the goods and chattels and real estate of Edward McDonnald. I have seized and taken all the right title and interest which the said Edward McDonnald had on the 10th day of April 1854 or which he since may have acquired to the following described piece or parcel of land, (to wit).

Division of Lots 89 and 90, Essex Tract, being the North half of the following described lands. Beginning at the S. W. Corner of land owned by G W, & D, Stickney, thence north, 26 degrees 30 minutes East, 12 chains 50 links. thence North 1 degree West, 12 chains, thence 66 degrees 30 minutes East 2 chains 75 links, thence North 30 chains 50 links, thence 45 degrees West 9 chains 12 links to the place of beginning, the whole containing 75 acres, being the same land formerly owned by Riley Torrance.

Which said real Estate I shall expose for sale at public vendue at the Inn of David Judd in Elizabethtown Said County on the 26 day of September next at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

BREAKING UP OF A DISORDERLY HOUSE —EXCITING SCENES.—Complaints having recently been made to Captain Turnbull of the Eighth Ward Police that the house No. 34 Mercer-st kept by one Mary Clark, was of a very disorderly character and in fact a nuisance, he, on Tuesday night, with a force of his men, made a descent upon the place and captured the proprietor and 15 of the inmates, among whom were merchants, clerks, brokers, book-keepers, milliners, seamstresses, would-be ladies, &c., all of whom were taken to the Station-House to await examination. The scene there can better be imagined than described. Some of the unfortunates were crying for fear of exposure and imploring the Captain to let them go, promising never to be caught in such a place again; others were hiding their faces to prevent recognition, while others, more resolute, stood up like heroes waiting for something to "turn up."—Among the females was a married woman from Brooklyn, who had taken advantage of her husband's absence to play truant from home. The whole party were furnished with lodgings for the night, and on the following morning were taken before Justice Clark, who, after reprimanding them, allowed them to go, with the exception of the keeper of the den and one A. B. Jackson, who were held to bail in $1,000 for trial.

☞ In the Massachusetts Whig State Convention, Hon. Otis P. Lord was called upon for a speech. In responding, among other good things he said:—

We want a new party! In Heaven's name, what do we want it for? Tell me of a Whig of Massachusetts—a Whig of New England—a Whig of the North—that goes for Nebraska. Are not the Whigs all right? Tell me of one, even, who sculked under a suspension of the rules, to give other folks a chance to do it (Laughter and applause.) No, sir! The Nebraska measure is an administration measure, and I hold Franklin Pierce and his administration to it. They did it.—(Laughter.) It is not true that the South did it; nor could they have done it. It was the North—not the North—it was the Democracy of the North. (Applause.)—And who is to resist them? The Whig party—the only party who has ever done so—or are we to undertake to denationalize ourselves, to sink ourselves into a sectional party, and then stand against them? Not for a moment can we do it

The Nebraska bill, originating with Douglas, was adopted by Pierce and Marcy as an Administration measure, and made the test of democratic orthodoxy.—We repeat now, what we have said before, that not a single Whig member of Congress from the free States, not a single Whig journal or public man, ever favored the measure, or have failed to denounce it. The Whig party has had no complicity in the matter. Now we ask with Mr. Otis, what do the anti-Nebraska men want a new party for? The most rational thing in the world for them to do, if they are honest, is to join the Whig party.

Is it supposed Whigs are so intensely verdant as to give up the vantage ground they have as the Missouri Compromise Party of the North, and share their "thunder" with their old adversaries, who for the nonce, are dissatisfied with their own party organizations. Were sensible men ever before asked to perpetrate such a piece of folly as that?—Troy Whig.

MILITARY MATTERS—20TH REGIMENT.—We are happy to learn that through the exertions of Colonel Calvin T. Peck, the 20th regiment of New York Militia has become pretty well organized. We understand that there are eight companies of the line, and two flank companies, and that great exertions are being made to get them fully equipped for the annual parade, ordered at Moon's Lake House on the 21st of September, instant. The citizen soldiery are always worthy of encouragement, and we trust that our newly organized regiment will meet with it from the people of this county. Standing armies are out of place entirely in a free country like ours, and the quicker they are done away with entirely, the better, but let our volunteer militia be encouraged as upon them we can depend for the enforcement of law or for the defence of our liberties.—Malone Palladium.

THE CHEEVER ORE BED AT HENRY PORT.—A correspondent of the Saratoga Whig thus writes of this celebrated bed. We endorse all the writer says of Mr. Stone, the Agent, and more too. The writer indulges in a few reflections on the encouragement of home manufactures, and then says:—

"We have been led more particularly to make these remarks, by happening to stumble upon the Iron Mines of Port Henry, during a late fishing tramp along the shores of Lake Champlain, and seeing the vast quantities of Iron ore, of which comparatively, so little is known. Our thanks moreover are due to Wm. H. Stone, Esq., the gentlemanly agent for the Cheever Ore Company, for the pains which he took to show us over the works, and for some of the following facts, which may perhaps be entertaining.

The Cheever Ore Bed, is said to have been the first iron ore discovered in America, and is situated upon the west shore of Lake Champlain, between Crown Point and Westport, in Essex County. Several other veins and large deposits of iron ore are found in Moriah and other sections of the county, but the Cheever bed is generally considered as the most prolific, and of finer quality—its ore analyzing ninety per cent, and working in the furnaces seventy-five of pure iron. From this you may judge of the fine quality of the ore. Altho' the company have several veins of ore at their command, they are at present chiefly working one, not, however, because it is better than the others, as all appear to be of the same quality. The ore, till within a year past, has been raised from the mines—a distance of some two hundred feet—by horse power. Lately, however, a very ingenious machine, worked by steam, has been employed for this purpose—superior, it is said to anything of the kind in the United States. It was planned and arranged by Charles W. Copeland, Esq., the eminent constructing engineer of New York. By it from one hundred and fifty, to two hundred tons per day are regularly raised.

Among other things that we notice, as tending to diminish expense, was an inclined plane railroad, near completion. This railroad, the entire originating and superintendence of which has been under the agent of the Company, is similar to the one at Sligo, on the Monongahela—it is two hundred rods in length, and has a fall of three hundred and fifty feet. The ore heretofore has been conveyed to the lake in wagons, but this mode of conveyance will be dispensed with as soon as the railroad is finished. Indeed, the first trial car was run over it while we were there, and the experiment proved eminently successful. The agent informed us, that he expects to keep from ten to twelve cars running constantly, and in this way, be able to supply the demand which is immense. You may judge a little of the extent of the business, when we say that since the commencement of the year, more than three hundred cargoes have been shipped, although the business season is not half over. Of this large amount several thousand tons went direct to Pittsburg.

Over one hundred and thirty men are employed upon the bed, to say nothing of the canalers. And it is a fact, extremely creditable to the employers as well as to the employees, that a row or drunken scrape is unknown, the business so to speak being conducted upon strict Temperance principles.

Although we did not penetrate so far into the interior, as we could have wished, and view it personally, yet we understand that a few miles from the lake, there is a vein of ore mixed with phosphate of lime, which are separated from each other by means of magnets, thus yielding two useful products, iron and phosphate of lime, the latter being chiefly used for manure.

We have said nothing of two large furnaces; the quantity of iron they turn out, and the various other attractions of the place, as time does not permit. It remains however, to add, that we left Port Henry with a very favorable impression of it, and also, with feelings of satisfaction and pride at what our own America was capable of doing. And may the time soon come when we shall learn to value more her institutions and cease to consider a thing worthless because emanating from our own country.

Notices of Magazines.

GRAHAM FOR SEPTEMBER—is a choice number of this elegant Magazine. Its leading feature, is the life and character of George Washington by J. T. Headly. This alone is worth the subscription price.

ARTHUR'S HOME MAGAZINE FOR SEPT—is more genial, happy and social than ever. The name of T. S. Arthur is a wand that inspires with geniality whatever it touches.

GOOD DOCTRINE.—Mr. Farley, who is a candidate for re-election to Congress, from a district in Maine, being interrogated by the Free-Soilers there, replied:—

"I shall adhere to the organization of the National Whig Party, because I believe it is sounder than any other on this question of Slavery, and other great issues—and comprising, as it does, nearly one and a half million of voters, I cannot abandon it. I think the best hopes of the country depend upon its continuance as a political organization. These reasons are to my mind a sufficient answer to all appeals to me to leave that organization, and ally myself with any other."

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Whig County Convention of Essex County, for the purpose of electing a Delegate to the State Convention, convened at the Court House in Elizabethtown, on the 15th inst, pursuant to notice.

Hon. JONATHAN BURNET, of Ticonderaga, was called to the Chair—and H M. CHASE, of Chesterfield, was appointed Secretary.

The following named gentlemen appeared as delegates from their respective towns

H M. CHASE,	Chesterfield.
W. D. CAPRON,	Crownpoint.
ROB S. HALE,	Elizabethtown,
WM. D. ROSS,	Essex,
WM. H. H. HULL,	Keene,
JOHN L. MERRIAM,	Lewis,
J. F. HAVENS,	Moriah,
J. PARMERTER,	North Hudson,
J. BURNET,	Ticonderoga,
A B. MACK,	Westport.

On Motion, the Convention proceeded to ballot for State Delegate when Col Edmund F. Williams of Elizabethtown was declared elected.

H. M. Chase, R. S. Hale and A. B Mack were appointed a Committee on resolutions, who unanimously reported the following, and they were as unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the resolutions adopted by the Convention held at Saratoga Springs on the 16th day of August last expresses the sentiments of this Convention and of the whigs of Essex County on the subject of Slavery.

Resolved, That the delegate appointed to represent the whigs of Essex County in the State Convention to be held at Syracuse on the 20th inst., be instructed to use his influence and cast his vote for such persons only as candidates for State officers as may be relied on to promote and sustain all proper and constitutional laws for the suppression of intemperance and particularly to support such candidates for Gov. and Lt Gov. as will not exert a personal or political influence against the enactment of a bill substantially like the act for the suppression of intemperance passed by the last legislature and vetoed by Gov Seymour, or in any manner hinder or thwart the wishes of the people expressed through their representatives on behalf of such a bill.

On Motion, Voted, that the proceedings of this Convention be published in the Essex Co. Republican.

The Convention, on motion then adj'd sine die.

J. BURNET, Chairman.
H. M. CHASE, Secretary.

[There is no doubt bnt that the foregoing Resolutions express the sentiments of a great majority of the Whigs, and of the people of the County of Essex, and of the State. The course of events in the several States, and the result in Vermont and Maine, and particularly in the latter state, point out precisely the course the Whigs of the Empire State must pursue for success. Unless they come up to the popular feeling there will be nominations at Auburn on the 26th and 27th inst., which under the lead of Greeley and Preston King will sweep the State. There can be put forth at Syracuse a ticket and a platform that will carry the State by a majority of 100,000, or the State can be utterly lost to Whigs. That Convention will be composed of persons of various views and preferences, and if our advice could be heard there no person, or persons should triumph and none should suffer the mortification of defeat—the leaders of all the various interests, and conflicting sentiments should meet, and hold a cool, considerate, conciliating consultation, and then agree upon a course of action, that if wisely done will sweep the State like a tornado. Individuals there are, doubtless, who would not agree to the course here suggested, but they must understand that they and the party must "get out of the way." or be "crushed." There is a whirlwind approaching, and Whigs must ride and guido it, or be prostrated by it.—[ED. REP.

Conversation with a Mute.

There came into our office on Tuesday, a boy apparently about 18 years of age—plainly dressed and not prepossessing in his appearance. Boldly taking a seat, he took a piece of paper and by signs gave us to understand he wanted to write. We handed him a pencil when the following conversation took place between us, in writing:

Mute; What is your name?
Editor: That is a yankee question.
Mute: NAME?
Editor: J. Tarbell.
Mute; I want a six-pence.
Editor; What do you want of a six-pence?
Mute: I have no money.
Editor: What is your name?
Mute: Henry Sharo.
Editor: Where is your home?
Mute; Keeseville.
Editor: Where did you learn to write?
Mute; New York

We then gave him ten cents. Thanking us with a nod and a smile the conversation continued,

Mute; I am going to the circus—25 cts.
Editor: Come to me and I will give you a ticket.
Mute: When?
Editor: Circus day.

With another nod and a smile he took his departure, well pleased, we doubt not, with his visit to the Editor's sanctum. We could but wonder at the acquirements of this mute while man children and men possesed of every faculty can scarcely write their name. Let sluggards and idlers learn a lesson of this poor, deaf mute.—Neglect of the mind is too universal. It should come to be regarded a great crime.

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE AND A PLEASANT VISIT.—Monday's mail brought us the following letter. We take the liberty to publish it mostly as a happy little episode in an Editor's life, but also as complimentary to the officers who dictated it and to ourself personally.

HEAD QUARTERS 32 Regiment, U. S. Hotel, Plattsburgh, Sept. 16, '54.
Col. J. TARBELL, Dear Sir:

The encampment of the 32d Regiment N. Y. S. M. will commence in this village on Tuesday next and close on Thursday. I am directed in behalf of the Field and Staff officers to request your attendance on the occasion as the guest of the officers of said Regiment.

With much respect I am
Yours &c.
S. W. GREGORY,
Adjutant 32 Regiment.

We could not decline this invitation of course tho' duty and inclination strongly urged us towards the Essex County Fair. Wednesday, therefore, found us on our way to the Head Quarters of the 32 Regiment N. Y. S. M. prepared for any reasonable amount of enjoyment, but our anticipations totally failed to conceive all the felicities that awaited us.

We returned too late to notice the doings this week but shall do so next week.

THE STATE CONVENTION.—We have seen Mr. A B. Kingsland the delegate from Clinton, and he gives a most glorious account. He says it was all harmony—all of one sentiment—all a unit on the great purposes of the Convention. There were personal preferences for candidates, but no bitterness, and what was peculiarly gratifying, Whigs who had been long estranged worked together like old friends. No divisions were known or felt, and when their labors were completed, the delegates pledged the success of the ticket by 100,000, with three times three, which were given with a will, the oldest Silver Greys swinging their hats like the veriest boys.

For Governor.....MYRON H. CLARK.
For Lt. Governor....H. J. RAYMOND.
For Canal Com'r.....HENRY FITZHUGH.
For Prison Insp'r....NORWOOD BOUNE.

We shall throw our banner to the breeze next week, when we shall also publish the resolutions and a synopsis of the proceedings of the Convention.

A RHYTHMICAL EPISTLE,

To a Friend—whose extreme sensitiveness to the censoriousness of the world forbade the use of powers bestowed in an eminent degree:

Dear Friend: thy Harp must never cease:
Thou, whom the Muses have inspired
With songs which give the bosom peace,
When to afflictions haunts retired:

Nay, lay not down thy gentle lyre.
But let its sweetest numbers roll:
Its joyous strains like hallowed fire
Can melt with ecstacy the soul.

What, though cold avarice's sordid throng
Shall grasp their gold and theo forget:
Neglect the sweetness of thy song
In pure harmonious numbers set.

'Tis not the world—the haunts of folly,
Can give to virtue quiet rest,
Or light the cheek of melancholy,
And make the humble hearted blest.

Once more thy youthful peace regain,
Dash not thy harp in wild despair—
To Heaven ascend its joyous strain
And find seraphic welcome there."

VERMONT AUTOGRAPH & REMARKER.

HUNTINGTON,
VERMONT, AUGUST 11, 1854.

[As I have in preceding Autographs given my sentiments on the all absorbing question of the day, the Nebraska outrage, I shall in this paper change the theme and give the reader my views on other matters.]

MATRIMONY.—Perhaps I may have referred to this subject before, in one of the two Autographs sent the Republican, I do not recollect for certain. It can do no harm, however, to remark if for the second time, that proper and becoming as the marriage state is for those who are fitted for it and whose inclination leads them to seek the companionship of the other sex for cohabitation and raising offspring, it derives no honor from the loose unqualified manner in which it is recommended to all, without regard to the question of fitness, especially as implied in the unqualified censure cast on old bachelors. Not only is it too well known that many are in one way or other disqualified, either physically, mentally, or morally, for taking upon them the important responsibility, but it is not a binding obligation even on those who are fit and capable, to enter it unless they choose it. If a man or woman be content to remain single, if he or she is averse to incurring the responsibilities and risk incident to the wedded state, let them alone; they have a right to their choice. We have no business to reproach or rally such on their preferred singleness. Rather ought we to commend their prudence and wisdom in so choosing. As it is, there is too much rushing into it in haste; too much marrying too young and without having provided a home and fixings beforehand, and withal too much marrying for wealth's sake, without love. As for myself, I am poor as well as single, and always expect to be, but if I were wealthy and fit, as well as young enough to be married, I would not wish the circumstance known, as I would be accepted for my own sake alone, independent of fortune, or not at all. I had about as lief be burnt at the stake, or scalped by a party of Indians as be married for my money's sake only.—Aside from this, if I were to be married I would not employ a priest to do the ceremony but a law officer, they being the only authority who have any just business to marry a couple. Clergymen have no more just right to marry as such, than doctors or lawyers, and the law does wrong to license them in it.

Why is a locomotive like a merry fellow?
Because it whistles as it goes.
Why is the Autograph like a blown bladder?
Because it's fill'd by a quill.

SWEARING.—A correspondent, "A Father of a Family," complains that he took his daughters to the theater, where a favorite performer had a favorite word, "d———," which he used full twenty times during the evening, "exhibiting essential coarseness and vulgarity." Actors do not appear to know how they sink the profession when they swear in the presence of women. Such objurgations suit no place not even low taverns. Whenever an actor swears, the audience should hiss him off the stage. That would cure the habit at once.—Tribune.

No, that would not "cure the habit at once." The only way to "cure the habit" is for respectable people to stay away. It was no place for "a father of a family," and he was served right. But "swearing" is not the only "essential coarseness and vulgarity" of a theater. The whole atmosphere is essentially "coarse and vulgar." It is wholly demoralizing in its influences, and no place for a "father of a family," much less for "his daughters." But "swearing" is not half so coarse and vulgar, as the immodest exhibition of the persons of the actresses. The latter is truly "exhibiting essential coarseness and vulgarity." Of the two, give us the swearing. The Tribune should advise "a father of a family", that the theater is no place to educate his children.

To Whom it may Concern.

As Mr. Lansing has avoided the material points we made against him and only indulged in a series of denunciatory exclamations, we re-publish our main points as a final determination of personalities in the Republican, with Mr. Lansing in particular, who has less soul and a more case-hardened, depraved heart than poor Nelson.

1. Mr. Lansing was in our office when the New Hampshire election news began to come in. He was then communicative. He said he was sorry New Hampshire was declaring against Nebraska, as he was afraid Congress would not pass the bill, and if they did not, he should be deprived of a great subject for agitation.

2. He said he should not stop here but that he had no money to get away with.—He must do something for a living It was a good time to hop on to the Nebraska excitement.

3. As one means of raising money to help start here, he proposed a plan to delude his friend Willard Bell into subscribig from $100 to $500 to help him. He said Bell was not above suspicion as to moral character, but possessed a degree of vanity that made him believe himself qualified for any post in the country. The plan was to excite this vanity by making him believe Lansing to be his admirer and friend—that he, Lansing, through his paper would get Bell into the Legislature and then to Congress, and thus delude him into subscribing, perhaps $500. Whether the plan worked we know not.

And we also add another point:

4. The individual thro' whose assistance Mr. Lansing started here and who has been around the village urging people to patronise him, did so in hopes to sav an old debt.

A. C, Nelson, the Pierce Post Master of this place, was arrested on Saturday evening last, on a charge of robbing the mails. He was taken to Troy for examination in charge of U. S, Marshals Mott of Troy, and Hays of Keeseville. He was a delegate to the Syracuse Convention, and on Saturday issued the first number of an Anti-Know Nothing paper.

His examination took place on Wednesday and for want of bail in the sum of $10,000, was committed to jail to await his trial, which we are informed will take place at an early day.

The discovery was made by Col. North, one of the secret Agents of the P. O. Department, by an adroit experiment, and who, by the way is a brother-in-law of Brig. Gen. Gray of Warrensburgh. The arrest was made by Marshal Mott of Troy and was accompanied to that city by Deputy Marshal Hays of this place, in whose house and care the prisioner remained while here. All these officers made a favorable impression upon our citizens by by their kindness, dignity, and firmness harmoniously combined.

We regret that our remarks upon these events are looked for with curiosity and anxiety, for what we shall say, will alike disappoint all that are interested. We have no unkind words for Mr. Nelson.—Whether "brave" or not, we are "generous." We would scorn to be revenged on a fallen foe. We would not only be silent out of kindness to the "afflicted ones," but our self respect forbids us to indulge in one single word of acrimony. We feel rather like humbling ourself in the dust, with thankfulness that our wife and boy are not called upon to mourn a husband and father lost, and to pray, as it should be the prayer of every other young man, "lead us not into temptation."

Here let us stop for the present. We had a few things further to say, (nothing unkind however,) but we defer them for the present, and perhaps forever.

MORTGAGE SALE.—To secure the payment of the sum of $182 87 and interest, in one year from August 2d. 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236.00 No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Whig County Convention of Essex County, for the purpose of electing a Delegate to the State Convention, convened at the Court House in Elizabethtown, on the 15th inst, pursuant to notice.

Hon. JONATHAN BURNET, of Ticonderaga, was called to the Chair—and H M. CHASE, of Chesterfield. was appointed Secretary.

The following named gentlemen appeared as delegates from their respective towns

H M. CHASE,	Chesterfield.
W. D. CAPRON,	Crownpoint.
ROB S. HALE,	Elizabethtown,
WM. D. ROSS,	Essex,
WM. H. H. HULL,	Keene,
JOHN L. MERRIAM,	Lewis,
J. F. HAVENS,	Moriah,
J. PARMERTER,	North Hudson,
J. BURNET,	Ticonderoga,
A B. MACK,	Westport.

On Motion, the Convention proceeded to ballot for State Delegate when Col Edmund F. Williams of Elizabethtown was declared elected.

H. M. Chase, R. S. Hale and A. B Mack were appointed a Committee on resolutions, who unanimously reported the following, and they were as unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the resolutions adopted by the Convention held at Saratoga Springs on the 16th day of August last expresses the sentiments of this Convention and of the whigs of Essex County on the subject of Slavery.

Resolved, That the delegate appointed to represent the whigs of Essex County in the State Convention to be held at Syracuse on the 20th inst., be instructed to use his influence and cast his vote for such persons only as candidates for State officers as may be relied on to promote and sustain all proper and constitutional laws for the suppression of intemperance and particularly to support such candidates for Gov. and Lt Gov. as will not exert a personal or political influence against the enactment of a bill substantially like the act for the suppression of intemperance passed by the last legislature and vetoed by Gov Seymour, or in any manner hinder or thwart the wishes of the people expressed through their representatives on behalf of such a bill.

On Motion, Voted, that the proceedings of this Convention be published in the Essex Co. Republican.

The Convention, on motion then adj'd sine die.

J. BURNET, Chairman.
H. M. CHASE, Secretary.

[There is no doubt but that the foregoing Resolutions express the sentiments of a great majority of the Whigs, and of the people of the County of Essex, and of the State. The course of events in the several States, and the result in Vermont and Maine, and particularly in the latter state, point out precisely the course the Whigs meet, and hold a cool, considerate, conciliating consultation, and then agree upon a course of action, that if wisely done will sweep the State like a tornado. Individuals there are, doubtless, who would not agree to the course here suggested, but they must understand that they and the party must "get out of the way." or be "crushed." There is a whirlwind approaching, and Whigs must ride and guide it, or be prostrated by it.—[ED. REP.

Conversation with a Mute.

There came into our office on Tuesday, a boy apparently about 18 years of age—plainly dressed and not prepossessing in his appearance. Boldly taking a seat, he took a piece of paper and by signs gave us to understand he wanted to write. We handed him a pencil when the following conversation took place between us, in writing:

Mute; What is your name?
Editor: That is a yankee question.
Mute: NAME?
Editor: J. Tarbell.
Mute; I want a six-pence.
Editor; What do you want of a six-pence?
Mute: I have no money.
Editor: What is your name?
Mute: Henry Sharo.
Editor: Where is your home?
Mute; Keeseville.
Editor: Where did you learn to write?
Mute; New York

We then gave him ten cents. Thanking us with a nod and a smile the conversation continued,

Mute: I am going to the circus—25 cts.
Editor: Come to me and I will give you a ticket.
Mute: When?
Editor: Circus day.

With another nod and a smile he took his departure, well pleased, we doubt not, with his visit to the Editor's sanctum. We could but wonder at the acquirements of this mute while man children and men possessed of every faculty can scarcely write their name. Let sluggards and idlers learn a lesson of this poor, deaf mute.—Neglect of the mind is too universal. It should come to be regarded a great crime.

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE AND A PLEASANT VISIT.—Monday's mail brought us the following letter. We take the liberty to publish it mostly as a happy little episode in an Editor's life, but also as complimentary to the officers who dictated it and to ourself personally.

HEAD QUARTERS 32 Regiment, U. S. Hotel, Plattsburgh, Sept. 16, '54.
Col. J. TARBELL, Dear Sir:

The encampment of the 32d Regiment N. Y. S. M. will commence in this village on Tuesday next and close on Thursday. I am directed in behalf of the Field and Staff officers to request your attendance on the occasion as the guest of the officers of said Regiment.

With much respect I am
Yours &c.
S. W. GREGORY,
Adjutant 32 Regiment.

We could not decline this invitation of course tho' duty and inclination strongly urged us towards the Essex County Fair. Wednesday, therefore, found us on our way to the Head Quarters of the 32 Regiment N. Y. S. M. prepared for any reasonable amount of enjoyment, but our anticipations totally failed to conceive all the felicities that awaited us.

We returned too late to notice the doings this week but shall do so next week.

THE STATE CONVENTION.—We have seen Mr. A B. Kingsland the delegate from Clinton, and he gives a most glorious account. He says it was all harmony—all of one sentiment—all a unit on the great purposes of the Convention. There were personal preferences for candidates, but no bitterness, and what was peculiarly gratifying, Whigs who had been long estranged worked together like old friends. No divisions were known or felt, and when their labors were completed, the delegates pledged the success of the ticket by 100,000, with three times three, which were given with a will, the oldest Silver Greys swinging their hats like the veriest boys.

For Governor.....MYRON H. CLARK.
For Lt. Governor....H. J. RAYMOND.
For Canal Com'r.....HENRY FITZHUGH.
For Prison Insp'r....NORWOOD BOUNE.

We shall throw our banner to the breeze next week, when we shall also publish the resolutions and a synopsis of the proceedings of the Convention.

A RHYTHMICAL EPISTLE,

To a Friend—whose extreme sensitiveness to the censoriousness of the world forbade the use of powers bestowed in an eminent degree:

With songs which give the bosom peace,
When to afflictions haunts retired;

Nay, lay not down thy gentle lyre

VERMONT AUTOGRAPH & REMARKER.

HUNTINGTON,

VERMONT, AUGUST 11, 1854.

[As I have in preceding Autographs given my sentiments on the all absorbing question of the day, the Nebraska outrage, I shall in this paper change the theme and give the reader my views on other matters.]

MATRIMONY.—Perhaps I may have referred to this subject before, in one of the two Autographs sent the Republican, I do not recollect for certain. It can do no harm, however, to remark if for the second time, that proper and becoming as the marriage state is for those who are fitted for it and whose inclination leads them to seek the companionship of the other sex for cohabitation and raising offspring, it derives no honor from the loose unqualified manner in which it is recommended to all, without regard to the question of fitness, especially as implied in the unqualified censure cast on old bachelors. Not only is it too well known that many are in one way or other disqualified, either physically, mentally, or morally, for taking upon them the important responsibility, but it is not a binding obligation even on those who are fit and capable, to enter it unless they choose it. If a man or woman be content to remain single, if he or she is averse to incurring the responsibilities and risk incident to the wedded state, let them alone; they have a right to their choice. We have no business to reproach or rally such on their preferred singleness. Rather ought we to commend their prudence and wisdom in so choosing. As it is, there is too much rushing into it in haste; too much marrying too young and without having provided a home and fixings beforehand, and withal too much marrying for wealth's sake, without love. As for myself, I am poor as well as single, and always expect to be, but if I were wealthy and fit, as well as young enough to be married, I would not wish the circumstance known, as I would be accepted for my own sake alone, independent of fortune. or not at all. I had about as lief be burnt at the stake, or scalped by a party of Indians as be married for my money's sake only.—Aside from this, if I were to be married I would not employ a priest to do the ceremony but a law officer, they being the only authority who have any just business to marry a couple. Clergymen have no more just right to marry as such, than doctors or lawyers, and the law does wrong to license them in it.

Why is a locomotive like a merry fellow?

Because it whistles as it goes.

Why is the Autograph like a blown bladder?

Because it's fill'd by a quill.

SWEARING.—A correspondent, "A Father of a Family," complains that he took his daughters to the theater, where a favorite performer had a favorite word, "d———," which he used full twenty times during the evening, "exhibiting essential coarseness and vulgarity." Actors do not appear to know how they sink the profession when they swear in the presence of women. Such objurgations suit no place not even low taverns. Whenever an actor swears, the audience should hiss him off the stage. That would cure the habit at once.—Tribune.

No, that would not "cure the habit at once." The only way to "cure the habit" is for respectable people to stay away. It was no place for "a father of a family," and he was served right. But "swearing" is not the only "essential coarseness and vulgarity" of a theater. The whole atmosphere is essentially "coarse and vulgar." It is wholly demoralizing in its influences, and no place for a "father of a family," much less for "his daughters." But "swearing" is not half so coarse and vulgar, as the immodest exhibition of the persons of the actresses. The latter is truly "exhibiting essential coarseness and vulgarity." Of the two, give us the swearing. The Tribune should advise "a father of a family", that the theater is no place to educate his children.

To Whom it may Concern.

As Mr. Lansing has avoided the material points we made against him and only indulged in a series of denunciatory exclamations, we re-publish our main points as a final determination of personalities in the Republican, with Mr. Lansing in particular, who has less soul and a more case-hardened, depraved heart than poor Nelson.

1. Mr. Lansing was in our office when the New Hampshire election news began to come in. He was then communicative. He said he was sorry New Hampshire was declaring against Nebraska, as he was afraid Congress would not pass the bill, and if they did not, he should be deprived of a great subject for agitation.

2. He said he should not stop here but that he had no money to get away with.—He must do something for a living It was a good time to hop on to the Nebraska excitement.

3. As one means of raising money to help start here, he proposed a plan to delude his friend Willard Bell into subscribig from $100 to $500 [illegible] He said Bell was not above [illegible] moral character, but posse[illegible]

A. C, Nelson, the Pierce Post Master of this place, was arrested on Saturday evening last, on a charge of robbing the mails. He was taken to Troy for examination in charge of U. S, Marshals Mott of Troy, and Hays of Keeseville. He was a delegate to the Syracuse Convention, and on Saturday issued the first number of an Anti-Know Nothing paper.

His examination took place on Wednesday and for want of bail in the sum of $10,000, was committed to jail to await his trial, which we are informed will take place at an early day.

The discovery was made by Col. North, one of the secret Agents of the P. O. Department, by an adroit experiment, and who, by the way is a brother-in-law of Brig. Gen. Gray of Warrensburgh. The arrest was made by Marshal Mott of Troy and was accompanied to that city by Deputy Marshal Hays of this place, in whose house and care the prisioner remained while here. All these officers made a favorable impression upon our citizens by by their kindness, dignity, and firmness harmoniously combined.

We regret that our remarks upon these events are looked for with curiosity and anxiety, for what we shall say, will alike disappoint all that are interested. We have no unkind words for Mr. Nelson.—Whether "brave" or not, we are "generous." We would scorn to be revenged on a fallen foe. We would not only be silent out of kindness to the "afflicted ones," but our self respect forbids us to indulge in one single word of acrimony. We feel rather like humbling ourself in the dust, with thankfulness that our wife and boy are not called upon to mourn a husband and father lost, and to pray, as it should be the prayer of every other young man, "lead us not into temptation."

Here let us stop for the present. We had a few things further to say, (nothing unkind however,) but we defer them for the present, and perhaps forever.

NOTICE.

I wish to preach to the Young Men of Keeseville next Sabbath afternoon, at the Congregational Church. I invite their attendance.

FRACONI'S COLOSSAL HIPPODROME,

FROM THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This gigantic and elegant corps. being the only Hippodrome in the United States, will give its first and only exhibition

In Keeseville, on Wednesday, Oct. 11th 1854—being representations of the Classic Games, as given by the Ancient Greeks and Romans—together with the daring splendors of the Hippodrome, ancient and modern

BY FRANCONI'S GREAT TROUPE,

in which beautiful females and beautiful horses form the principal features.

Six superbly contested Chariot Races, and Steeple Chases, by ladies in full and appropriate costume.

Director of the Hippodrome, J. G. Cadwallader
President of the Games, W. H, Stout
Leader of the Elean Band, H. Gaul.

THE GREAT TENT OF THE HIPPODROME,
COVERS AN AREA OF TWO ACRES.

These ample dimensions, calculated to accommodate nearly TEN THOUSAND PEOPLE, are alone sufficient to attract and rivet admiration but when every part of the enclosure is filled with spectators, seated in anti-theatrical order around the course, gaily attired and with animated faces, it is impossible to imagine a more imposing spectacle, or to describe the coup d'œil presented by such a regularly arranged multitude upon an unaccustomed spectator.

The following brilliant Novelties are embraced in the

PROGRAMME OF EXERCISES,

The entertainments of the Hippodrome will commence with Scipio's Triumphal Return to Rome—after the conquest of Carthage, in which the entire stock of Horses, Ponies, Elephants, Camels, Deer, Ostriches, Chariots, Cars, together with the Equestrian Corps, en masse, and will re

DISPLAYED IN ONE GRAND SCENE OF ACTION

An astonishing and daring exhibition of lofty Equilibriums and La Perche Equipoise, by Messrs. Stout and Fisher, upon a pole 30 feet high, carried by one and mounted by the other—considered the most wonderful feat of balancing ever witnessed.

The Condemned Gladiators, a thrilling illustration of the arena.

The Ostriches of the Desert, hunted by mounted Arabs at full speed.

The habits of the Camel, when pursued by Bedouin Arabs.

The extraordinary Artistes, comprising the German Brothers, will give an exhibition of Jeux Icariens, upon a moving platform around the course.

Grand scene of the Roman Hippodrome—Three Chariots, with two horses abreast driven by ladies, in animated contest for the prizes of the Hippodrome.

La Course Grecque—a scene of the turf, with six horses, one mile heats, by six ladies, in Jockey Costume.

Grand Chariot Race—two splendid chariots driven four horses abreast, and flying at full speed, by Messrs. Stout and Cadwallader, a sight of terrific splendor and animation never before witnessed.

The next representation will be a surprising address by three horses each, at full speed while standing up, entitled Les Jeux de la 4me Olympiade, taken from the ancient sport called Desultores Numidian, by Messrs Stout Fisher and Cadwallader.

Animated exhibition of Field Sports—by five Parisian ladies, who will enter in spirited competition for the prize in a Grand Steeple Chase, mounted on fleet and beautiful coursers, jumping hurdles, fences, etc.

Camels and Elephant—including the performances of the trained elephant Americus, by his tutor, Master Leon Arthur, aged ten years.

After which, a Comic Race of Ponies—or a Travestie of the Turf, called the Course des Singes, ridden by Monkeys in Jockey costume.

MORTGAGE SALE.—To secure the payment of the sum of $182 87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Herman O Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854. duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of eight hundred and sixty one dollars and twenty nine cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice on a certain mortgage bearing date the fifth day of August, 1853, executed by David Hinds, Jr., of the town of Keene, in the county of Essex and state of New York, to John Roth and James C Roth, of the city of Troy, county of Rensselaer and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the said county of Essex, in book R., of mortgages, page 444 and 445, on the sixth day of August, 1853, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described and covered by said mortgage to wit—ALL that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Willmington, county of Essex and state of New York, known as part of lot number thirteen in Jay tract and described as follows—beginning at the north west corner of said lot number thirteen, running thence south twenty-one degrees west thirty five chains and seventy five links, to the southwest corner of said lot thirteen; thence south sixty nine degrees east twenty-one chains and sixteen links to a post and stones, being the southwest corner of a ten acre lot heretofore sold to Rowland Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east six chains to the center of the brook; thence down the center of the brook as it winds and turns to the line of a part of said lot number thirteen, heretofore sold to Newell Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east along said Newell Marshall's line thirty chains and seventy five links to the north line of said lot thirteen; thence north sixty nine degrees west thirty nine chains and sixteen links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty acres. The above courses are given as set down by John Richards in his survey, will be sold at public auction at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.—Dated the 9th day of September 1854

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagees

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, & the interest thereon from the 1st day of April, 1853, which is claimed to be due on the day of the first publication of this notice upon a certain mortgage, executed by David Hinds, Jr., then of Keene, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Thomas A. Tomlinson, of Chesterfield, county and state aforesaid, of all that certain piece, or parcel of land, lying and being situate in the town of Keene, Essex county, and state of New York, bounded as follows—On the north by lands formerly owned by Stephen Patridge, now owned by Ira Marks, known as the forge lot, on the east and south by lands owned by Franklin and Hills Sherburn, and on the west by the middle of the river, containing about ten acres of land, being the same premises conveyed by warranty deed to Joseph Hillman, bearing date the 29th day of November, 1849—said mortgage is dated the 31st day of August, 1852, and was recorded with the power of sale therein contained in the office of the clerk of Essex county, on the 2d day of September, 1852 in Book R. of mortgages on page 95 and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof;—Therefore notice is hereby given, that said premises will be sold at public auction, and the said mortgage thereby foreclosed, pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, on the 12th of December, at 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the Adirondac Hotel [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex Dated the 9th day of September 1854

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagee

Mortgage Sale—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand three hundred and eighty-four dollars & fifty two cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of June, 1842, executed by Martin Pope and Euretta, his wife, of the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Ebenezer Proudfit, Jacob L. Van Schoonhoven, and David T. Vail, of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on Liber K. of mortgages on pages 222, 223 and 224, on the 9th day of July, A. D, 1842, at 4 o'clock, P. M which said mortgage was on the 29th day of May, 1854, duly assigned to Alvin Colvin, Charles P. Allen, and Isaac Nye, The interest of Charles P. Allen in which said mortgage, was on the day last aforesaid duly assigned to John K. Converse.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, to wit—ALL that certain lot of land, known and distinguished as lot number fifty five of the Adgate tract or patent of three thousand, six hundred acres, situate in the town of Chesterfield in the county of Essex, and state of New York, supposed to contain about one hundred and sixteen acres, and having thereon a dwelling house and including a wharf in Douglass bay on Lake Champlain, together with all other buildings and erections on the said premises hereby conveyed now standing, will be sold at public auction, at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Dated the ninth day of September, 1854 540:13

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c. may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same. Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself: it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Brock, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 4th, 1853.

For about eight year I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for fear a fog in my throats expected each hour, would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeian, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Tebrarah; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and a gentle while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. The Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do a thorough gradual growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler as the air is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to lay it aside.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 313 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in the various professions, and of extensive experience in matters relating to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale nor does the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ellman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of unlimited ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. FEBIAN. Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects, four Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence, although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of real valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of these objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of, the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped moth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.

Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel.

Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate, boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 30 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Jones's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fess & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 10 and 100 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and only rotary pump that has ever been really successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $150.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars.

Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an officious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency, Hemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints in which Females are subject. I assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, Seasoning the necessity of renouncing the following of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

MARRIAGE,

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "fear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

Is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery,) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

FOR SALE, BY

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygeian Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks;—It is evident that inhaling, or gently breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually coercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, (Author of a work on Self Preservation) to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feet strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your shattered and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, as proprietor according.y.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Sheriff's Sale.

BY virtue of an Execution issued out of the County Court of the County of Essex, to me directed, and delivered against the goods and chattels and real estate of Edward McDonnald. I have seized and taken all the right title and interest which the said Edward McDonnald had on the 10th day of April 1854 or which he since may have acquired to the following described piece or parcel of land, (to wit).

Division of Lots 89 and 90, Essex Tract, being the North half of the following described lands. Beginning at the S. W. Corner of land owned by G W, & D, Stickney, thence north, 26 degrees 30 minutes East 12 chains 50 links, thence North 1 degree West, 12 chains, thence 66 degrees 30 minutes East 2 chains 75 links, thence North 30 chains 50 links, thence 45 degrees West 9 chains 12 links to the place of beginning, the whole containing 75 acres, being the same land formerly owned by Riley Torrance.

Which said real Estate I shall expose for sale at public vendue at the Inn of David Judd in Elizabethtown Said County on the 26 day of September next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Before going into a ballot for Inspector of State Prisons, Mr. Martindale, of Monroe, made an earnest appeal for the nomination of Mr. O. L. Sheldon, of that county, as a boon which would greatly contribute to the harmony and success of the Whig party in that sterling county.

This ballot resulting in no choice, on motion, a second ballot for the same office was taken, with the following result:—

On motion, NORWOOD BOWNE, of Delaware, was unanimously nominated as the Whig candidate for the office of State Prison Inspector.

Mr. Cole, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported as follows—the report being unanimous—and they were unanimously adopted:—

Resolutions.

1st. Resolved, That the Whigs of New York cherish now, as they ever have done, a cordial and immovable attachment to the Federal Union and to the Constitution as having been formed and ordained "to establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," and that they will resist any attempt from any quarter to divide the one or violate the other, or to divert either from the beneficent purposes for which they were established.

2d. Resolved, That the passage by the framers of the Constitution and the fathers of the Republic of the ordinance of 1787, clearly established as a cardinal principle with them that slavery should be forever prohibited in the Territories of the United States.

3d. Resolved, That the recent action of Congress, stimulated and approved by the President, whereby the compact commonly known as the Missouri Compromise is repudiated, and the vast Territory known as Kansas and Nebraska is opened to Slavery, has already received the unqualified condemnation of the Whigs of New York, and we point with staisfaction and pride to the fact that not a single member of either House of Congress from this or any other Free State yilded any sort of support, countenance or favor to that most unjust and unrighteous proceeding.

4th. Resolved, That a measure so pervading and momentous in its scope and influences, so vitally affecting the reputation and destiny of our whole country, as the establishment or introduction of human Slavery throughout a portion of the National Domain larger than the old Thirteen States, can with propriety be referred to no tribunal less exacting and commanding than that composed of the whole American people, and we protest against its diversion, under the false and deceptive cry of popular sovereignty, from this august tribunal to one composed of the first few hundreds or thousands of squatters who may encamp in said Territory, as a palpable dereliction from duty, under a pretext too flimsy to mislead any but those anxious to be deluded and eager to be led astray.

5th. Resolved, That against the principles involved in the Nebraska Bill, in their application either to Territory now belonging to the Union or hereafter to be required, the Whigs of New York will struggle with equal resolution that they shall not, and confidence that they cannot, receive the sanction of the American people, and in this struggle we invite in the co-opertion, on terms of equality and fraternity, of all sincere and earnest champions of Free Labor and Free Soil.

6th. Resolved, That by the Act repealing the Missouri Compromise we hold that we are forever discharged from all obligations to support any Compromises with Slavery except such as are contained in the Constitution of the United States, and most especially that we are forever released from all obligations to admit into our Union any State whose Constitution sanctions or permits Slavery.

7th. Resolved, That we cordially approve of the firm and manly stand of the Whig Senators of the State of New York in the defence of the rights of the Free States and in maintenance of the principles and policy of the Whig party, and that we tender our grateful thanks to those members of Congress who resisted with fixed fidelity the breach of public faith involved in the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

8th. Resolved, That the indications of a purpose on the part of the Champions of Slavery, made manifest through their recognized Representatives and countenanced by the organs of the Federal Administration, to restore the African slave trade, are sufficient to excite apprehension and alarm in the mind of every patriot and every friend of humanity, and that the Whigs of New York take this timely opportunity to declare that they will resist, at every hazard, and to the last extremity, every effort to drag down this free Republic by such a step from the proud position which it holds among the civilized and Christian nations of the earth as the first to prohibit that inhuman trafic and brand it as Piracy.

9th. Resolved, That we congratulate the people of this State on the final triumph, long and disastrously delayed by political hostility, of the Whig policy, which seeks the speedy completion of the State Canals, and upon the restoration of the credit of the State which has followed the economical and judicious efforts of a Whig administration of its finances, and that its executive power should no longer rest in hands which have proved powerless for good and efficient only in thwarting and defeating the public will.

10th. Resolved, That in the recent veto of the River and Harbor bill, we perceive a legitimate consequence of that political dogma which regards war and conquest as the principal business of Government, and esteems all devotion of public resources and energies to extend the domain of industry and cherish the arts of peace as a violation of public duty; and we trust this malign veto will open many eyes to the truth that the policy it indicates involves its supporters in a perpetual collision with the public welfare and a war on common sense.

11th Resolved, That the Executive Department of the Federal Government ought no longer to be vested in the hands of men who wield its patronage and its influence for the aggrandizement of Slavery and the extension of its political power, and that the Whigs of New York will labor to the utmost to effect the overthrow of the Administration which has proved so reckless of duty, and so regardless of the rights and interests of the Union, and to elect a President with whom fidelity to freedom shall not be a perpetual disqualification for the public service.

The second Resolution was received with three cheers; the third with prolonged cheering; the fourth with hearty applause; the fifth with prolonged cheers; the the sixth and seventh with very hearty applause; and the rest with approval.

Mr. MARTINDALE, of Monroe, was glad to have the honor as well as the pleasure of seconding the Resolutions. He thanked God from the bottom of his heart that the Whig party is now unquestionably on the side of Freedom. We are now right, and may we be continued in this glorious course. He spoke eloquently at considerable length, in expressing his gratification at the upright position which the Whig party now so gloriously occupied. [Applause.]

Mr. CONKLIN, of Oneida, in a brief address said that having for nine years been an attendant of Whig State Conventions, he had not in that time known a more harmonious Convention. He congratulated the party on its present proud position.

The PRESIDENT and several Delegates briefly addressed the Convention.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, amid enthusiastic cheering.

With repeated cheers, at half-past one o'clock A. M., the Convention adjourned sine die.

THE REPUBLICAN.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, September 30.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands.
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

Stand by the Colors.

Having found the Whig party of the North, on all occasions, and in every emergency, the most efficient and reliable organization to resist the aggressions of Slavery and to uphold the cause of Freedom, it is best, now and ever, "for the Whig party to stand by its colors."

Congressional Convention.

The several Counties composing the 14th Congressional District are requested to appoint three delegates each to attend a whig convention to be held at Foquett's Hotel in the village of Plattsburgh on Tuesday the 3d day of October next at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating a suitable person to be supported for the office of Representative in Congress, and for the transaction of such other buiness as may be deemed necessary.

MARTIN FINCH,
H. H. HOSFORD,
Dist. Com.

MYRON H. CLARK, is a member of the State Senate, and by occupation a farmer and merchant of Canandaigua, Ontario Co. A few years ago, he was a poor boy, and a small trader at the little village of Naples, in that county. Of an energetic turn of mind, of sound judgment, and quick perceptions, he has prospered in all his undertakings, and is now a man of great wealth. His first office was that of Sheriff. He has been twice elected to the Senate—the first time by over 1000 and the second time by over 2000 majority. "Among his neighbors he is known and respected for his integrity, his public spirit, and general intelligence—and however much political opponents differ from him, and whatever animosities may have been engendered by past local rivalry or disappointments, the character of an honest man and christian gentleman will be cheerfully accorded to Myron H. Clark, by his neighbors, without distinction of party, shade or stripe."—"Among many names of prominent and faithful Whigs, the Convention could not have chosen one better calculated in every respect to concentrate popular respect than that of Myron H. Clark."

HENRY J. RAYMOND, is a resident of New York city, editor of the N. Y. Times and of Harper's Monthly Magazine. He was formerly editor of the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer. He has been a member of the Legislature, and Speaker, and is a man of the first order of talents, whether as a writer, speaker, or legislator.

Both Mr. Clark and Mr. Raymond are the men for the times. They are young, enthusiastic, able, honest, and faithful. As to their antecedents, they are both Anti-Slavery-Seward men.

HENRY FITZHUGH, is the present incumbent of the office of Canal Commissioner. He is a man of extensive business and experience. As an officer he is economical, and firm in the discharge of his duty. He neither allows the public monies to stick to his fingers, nor suffers those under him to steal from the public treasury. His nomination was opposed by interested contractors, and this secured his nomination.

NORWOOD BOWNE, is a resident of Delaware Co. "He is admirably qualified for an intelligent and faithful discharge of the duties of that office. Besides being thoroughly versed in the history and wants of our Prisons, he is a man of great energy of character, and unassailable integrity. The interests of the State will be safe in his hands, and we congratulate the Delegates to the Convention, that they have chosen so wisely." These gentlemen were formerly denominated Silver Greys.

Following in the wake of Vermont and Maine, with such men and such a platform this State should elect this ticket by 100,000.

All will vote this ticket who are consistently Anti-Slavery, who are opposed to the Nebraska fraud, opposed to rascality, peculations, and "stealings" in public office, and in favor of spending the millions in the Treasury for Internal Improvements, and of the Improvement of Rivers and Harbors, instead of paying them out to political hacks, all who are in favor of ability and honesty in public office, and of the faithful and prompt Enlargement of the Canals.

County Convention.

The Whig County Convention, met at the Court House in Elizabethtown on the 26th inst., pursuant to notice. The Convention was organized by appointing Hon. Abraham Welden, President, Elias Goodspeed, Vice President, Alfred Weed and Oliver Keese Jr., Secretaries. The following delegates appeared. to wit:

Chesterfield.—H. O. Matthews, F. W. Ames, O. Keese, Jr.

Crownpoint.—John Ober, 2d., Samuel Ober, H. H. Havens.

Essex.—H. H. Ross, 2d., W. D. Ross, H. D. Edwards.

Elizabethtown.—R. S. Hale, J. E. McVine, M. F. Nicholson.

Jay.—Samuel West, J. B. Briggs, N. C. Boynton.

Keene.—John Gilmore, H. Bramin, L. C. Goff.

Lewis.—J. L. Merriam, J. W. Steele, A. H. Wilder.

Moriah.—P. Butler, D. Everest, P. E. Hall.

North Hudson.—E. B. Walker, S. Herriman, C. Olcott.

North Elba.—D. D. Osgood, M. C Lyon, E. B. Perry.

Schroon.—R. D. Lindsay, A. Sturtevant, C. L. Blanchard.

St. Armand.—E. Goodspeed, W. Galusha, N. Goodspeed.

Ticonderoga.—H. F. Clark, A. Weed, J. Smith.

Westport.—S. Prentis, S. H. Farnsworth, E. J. Smith.

Wilmington.—J. Forbes, A. Hardy, J. Merrill.

Wilsboro.—A. Weldin. C. Morhous, B. C. Ames.

Minerva and Newcomb not represented.

On motion, a committee of one from each town to be selected by the delegates of the respective towns be appointed to recommend candidates to this conventinn.

Having retired and deliberated, that committee made the following report, viz:

For County Clerk, E. A. Adams, Elizabethtown; For County Treasurer, Sffaord E. Hale, Elizabethtown; For Justice of Sessions, Harvey Carter, Chesterfield; For Coroners, Dudley Everest, Moriah, and N. H. Wheeler, Schroon. Delegates to Congressional Convention—H. H. Ross, 2d., O. Keese, Jr., and Robert S. Hale.—As to Member of Assembly, the committee were unable to agree. Mr. Wheeler declined, and Col. Wm. E. Calkins, of Ticonderoga, was nominated in his stead. The several candidates named by the committee were adopted by acclamation.

An informal ballot for Member, was then had, without choice. Several ineffectual ballotings followed, and were continued to a late hour, when N. C. Boynton, of Jay, was nominated by acclamation, cheering, clapping of hands, and every demonstration of applause. Mr. Boynton on being called on, defined his position on Nebraska and Temperance, and he was again loudly applauded. The following resolution was adopted by acclamation:—

Resolved, That the we regard the course of Hon. Geo. A. Simmons, our representive in Congress, with unmingled satisfaction and approval. That the unanimous sentiment of the Whigs of Essex County demands his re-nomination to that office, and that our Delegates to the Congressional nominating convention be instructed to use all honorable means to procure that result.

Mr. Simmons responded and was cordially cheered. It was also Resolved, That the Whigs of Essex Co. cordially approve of the course of Hon. Jonathan Burnett in the Assembly, and tender him their thanks for the able and distinguished manner in which he had served them.

The Judge responded in a few eloquent and heartfelt remarks.

On motion, The resolutions of the late Whig State Convention were adopted as the sentiments of this Convention, and the support of the Whigs of Essex County pledged to the State ticket.

Col Williams asked to be excused from further service on the Central Committee, and Elisha A. Adams, Safford E. Hale, and Martin F. Nicholson, were appointed for the ensuing year.

The Delegates to this Convention are hereby appointed Town Committees for the ensuing year.

In the early part of the meeting the Convention was addressed by Hon. George A Simmons, Judge Burnett, and Hon. J. E. McVine in a most able and entertaining manner.

The minutes of this Convention were ordered published in the Essex County Republican and also in the Albany Journal, and State Register.

ABRAHAM WELDEN, President.
ELIAS GOODSPEED, Vice President
ALFRED WEED, }
OLIVER KEESE, JR., } Secretaries.

☞We have not time nor space to speak of the County Nominations at this time save that of N. C. BOYNTON. His selection was received with a storm of applause, and it is infusing an unprecedented enthusiasm into the Whig ranks of the County. He is a young man, and a merchant of Jay—of pure and unsullied character, and of great energy, and promptness in business, and popular wherever known. He will make an incorruptible and useful member. It is well known that we favor the advancement of young men and we take especial pleasure in supporting Mr. Boynton.

ESSEX COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democrats of Essex County, met in Convention at the Inn of David Judd, in Elizabethtown, on the 26th inst., pursuant to call. The Convention was called to order, and ANSON H. ALLEN, appointed Chairman, and SAMUEL C. DWYER, and CLIFFORD A. HAND, Secretaries.

The following were the delegates present: H. H. Grandy, Earl Howland, George Miller, George Prescott, Anson H. Allen, Chesterfield; A. B. Waldo, S. R. Wheelock, Moriah; Francis Arthur, Lyman S. Allen, Ticonderoga; Byron Pond, Samuel C. Dwyer, C. A. Hand, Elizabethtown; R. C. R. Chase, John B. Downer, Tho's D. Trumbull G. G. Tobey, Jay; Alexis Tender, Silas Whitney, Alexander Hitchcock, Wilmington; D. C. Skiff, Kirby Titus, St. Armand; A. A. Lake, L. G. Lockwood, S. Tyrrel, Schroon.

A motion to go into Committee of the Whole to make nominations, was carried and then reconsidered, and it was voted that the Chairman appoint a committee of one from each town to present a County ticket and a committee of three to present a Delegation to the Congressional Convention. The Chair appointed to the first committee, Messrs. Tyrrel, Grandy, Dwyer, Wheelock, Arthur, Chase, Hitchcock, Downer and Skiff; and to the second committee Messrs. Livingston, Howland and Trumbull.

The committee on a County Ticket reported the following ticket and their report was adopted without dissent.

For Assembly, Artemas B. Waldo, Moriah; For Clerk, Pierpoint E. Jones, Jay; For Treasurer, Robert W. Livingston, Elizabethtown; For Coroners, John Sheridan, Chesterfield; Barton B. Richards, Westport; For Justice of Sessions, Joel F. Potter, Schroon.

The following Delegates to the Congressional Convention were reported by the committee and unanimously appointed:

R. C. R. Chase, Jay; John Sheridan, Chesterfield; Chilion A. Trumbull, Crownpoint. Power to appoint a substitute was given to each Delegate. The Town Committees of last year were continued.

The Chair appointed R. W. Livingston, T. D. Trumbull and L. D. Brown the County Central Corresponding Committee for the year ensuing.

Resolved, That we as Democrats pledge ourselves to the support of the ticket nominated by this Convention, regardless of the divissions that may exist in other portions of the State.

It was then Resolved that the proceedings of the Convention be published in the Albany Atlas, Albany Argus and Plattsburgh Republican.

September 27th, 1854.

ANSON H. ALLEN, Chairman.
SAMUEL C. DWYER, }
CLIFFORD A. HAND, } Secretaries.

*It is proper to say, that some members of the Convention, from their previous action, declined participating in the election of Congressional Delegates. But a general feeling was expressed that the Democrats of the District should be united on a single candidate at the ensuing election.

County Court opened on Tuesday.—Judge McVine presiding, Harvey Carter and G. G. Tobey, Justices of Sessions.—G. M. Harwood was appointed District Attorney, for the term in place of Mr. Butler, who is confined to his home by a severe and somewhat dangerous sickness.

Anson H. Allen, Esq., is in charge of the Post Office here and not a Deputy of Marshal Mott as the papers have it.

There is a very pleasant change at the Post Office. It appears sociable, and people feel some freedom in stepping in. Mr. Allen is an applicant for the appointment, and but for the fact that we are a Whig, and that he has a competitor, we should give the Old Settler a friendly notice. We may say this, that whoever receives the appointment, we hope will be as competent, as faithful, as friendly as Mr. Allen and his excellent assistant, Mr. Hays.

We give publicity to the proceedings of the Democratic County Convention and take pleasure in doing so as they are without an organ.

MARRIED,

At Easton, Sept. 21st, by the Rev. John Pegg, Mr. A. S. Partridge of Clintonville, to Miss Eliza Pegg of the former place.

On the eighth of Sept., by Rev. F. W. Earl, A. S. Beardsley to Miss Mary Ann Gilson, all of Portage Lake, L. S., Mich.

CHALLENGE.

GEORGE BROWN proposes to match Foster Breed's horse against Darwin Rider's horse, for two races, as follows:—

FIRST—1 mile heats, best 3 in 5, in harness, for $500.

SECOND—2 mile heats, best 2 in 3, to wagon, for $300.

First Race, 1st Tuesday in May next.

Second Race, one week after.

To take place on Saratoga Course—one half amount of money on each race to be put in the hands of John C. Douglass, of Port Henry, as forfeit money, to be put in his hands on or before the 20 day of Oct. next.

Mr. Brown will pay $50 to have both or either of the above matches accepted: to be paid when accepted, and he is duly notified, and all the money proposed to go for shall be put up. Dated Crownpoint, Sept. 23d 1854.

GEORGE BROWN.

The request to publish the following is so urgent we give it a place, tho' the error in the date was the fault of the printer and is now rectified. The time for putting up the stake is also extended to Oct. 20th.—Ed. Rep.

MR. EDITOR:—A proposition inserted in the last number of your paper under the head of "Challenge" and signed "Geo. Brown," bearing date Sept. 23, 1853 appears to be more of an effort to get one's name in the papers, than to produce any other effect. Geo. Brown proposes to match Foster Breed's horse against Darwin Rider's horse on the first Tuesday in May, 1853. Wonderful effort to get back into past time! When Darwin Rider's horse was a suckling colt—or else it is an honest indication of the horse he proposes to match. Always behind the time—both notice and horse. Oh! that Othello could go back to his younger days—when with delight he praunced around his Morgan Dam in the green pastures of Vermont—to accept the mighty challenge of Geo. Brown. Othello on Saturday last, when that "master piece of Black Hawk Courage" met his view, turned his head to the southward, and gave a mournful snort, to think, that Geo. Brown should have kept that challenge in his pocket one year, and then on Saturday Sept. 23, 1854 published it, proposing to match with him, first Tuesday in May, 1854. Othello is on hand when time and money seem to correspond, and when Geo. Brown and others publish a challenge, which it is possible to accept.

CROWN POINT, SEPT. 27th, 1854.

MR. GEORGE BROWN,

Dear Sir—I notice in the Keeseville Republican of the 23d inst, over your name a challenge dated Sept. 23d, 1853, proposing to match Foster Breed's horse against mine.

Presuming the date of the challenge to be an error, unintentionally made by yourself or the printer, and not as a small hole to crawl out of in case of an emergency, I will say first; As regards the necessity that Mr. Brown or any other of Mr. Breed's adherents were under, of giving publicity to a challenge in order to bring about a match. They have already had an opportunity of accepting a proposition from me, which would not have subjected them to the disadvantage of giving odds, and in reference to this offer of $50, to any one that will make the match, it may be as well to call your attention to the fact that the terms of the challenge provide for its payment, when the money is all put up, instead of when the forfeit money is put up, so that in the event of Mr. Brown's paying forfeit, he would be released from any obligation to pay the $50. I have only to remark, as to this portion of the challenge, that it sounds well as bravado and is very ingeniously got up.

Mr. C. W. Ensign met me about the first of August, and on behalf of Mr. Breed proposed making a match, a Scrub Match, for $25 or $50. As Mr. Ensign did not then feel himself authorized to offer any thing different, I declined investment in an operation requiring such an outlay of capital, but on the following day made a proposition in writing to Mr. Ensign to trot with Mr. Breed's horse on the Cambridge Course for $500 or $1,000, giving three week's time in which to put up the money. Mr. Breed thought it too much money, and I have since received, no propositions of acceptance, either verbally or otherwise.

Your challenge in the Republican was the first intimation I had that Mr. Breed and his friends had by mutual encouragement been able to screw their courage up to the sticking point. In regard to accepting your challenge, however, I would respectfully submit, that as my proposition was made first, it is first entitled to consideration

I will, therefore, in reply to your challenge, reiterate the following offer to Mr. Breed to yourself, or to whomsoever it may concern:—

"I will match my colt Othello against Foster Breed's horse for $500 or $1000, to go on the Cambridge Course, mile heats best two in three or three in five, money all up within three weeks from this date, the parties to agree on a sufficient and reasonable time to put the horses in condition to trot." The money to be put into the hands of some reliable man, a resident of Crown Point.

As to the time for the match I am well satisfied with the date mentioned in Mr. Browns challenge and will be suited with any time from the 1st to the 30th of May. next.

If Mr. Breed is anxious to trot this fall, as he has advertised that his horse has trotted a half mile at the rate of 2.34, I will bet him $250 to $500, that he cannot trot a mile or a half mile at the rate of 2.50 He naming his own place and time any time this fall.

Very Respectfully Yours.
DARWIN RIDER.

FRACONI'S
COLOSSAL HIPPODROME.
FROM THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This gigantic and elegant corps, being the only Hippodrome in the United States, will give its first and only exhibition

In Keeseville, on Wednesday, Oct. 11th

1854—being representations of the Classic Games, as given by the Ancient Greeks and Romans—together with the daring splendors of the Hippodrome, ancient and modern

BY FRANCONI'S GREAT TROUPE,

in which beautiful females and beautiful horses form the principal features.

Six superbly contested Charlot Races, and Steeple Chases, by ladies in full and appropriate costume.

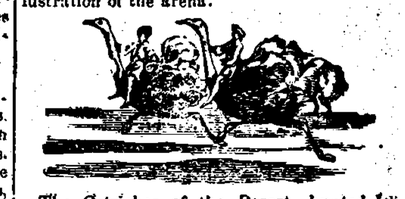
Director of the Hippodrome, J. G. Cadwallader
President of the Games, W. H. Stout
Leader of the Elean Band, H. Gaul.

THE GREAT TENT OF THE HIPPODROME,

COVERS AN AREA OF TWO ACRES.

These ample dimensions, calculated to accommodate nearly TEN THOUSAND PEOPLE, are alone sufficient to attract and rivet admiration but when every part of the enclosure is filled with spectators, seated in anti-theatrical order around the course, gaily attired and with animated faces, it is impossible to imagine a more imposing spectacle, or to describe the coup d'œil presented by such a regularly arranged multitude upon an unaccustomed spectator.

The following brilliant Novelties are embraced in the



PROGRAMME OF EXERCISES,

The entertainments of the Hippodrome will commence with Scipio's Triumphal Return to Rome—after the conquest of Carthage, in which the entire stock of Horses, Ponies, Elephants, Camels, Deer, Ostriches, Chariots, Cars, together with the Equestrian Corps, en masse, and will be

DISPLAYED IN ONE GRAND SCENE OF ACTION

An astonishing and daring exhibition of lofty Equilibriums and La Perche Equipoise, by Messrs. Stout and Fisher, upon a pole 30 feet high, carried by one and mounted by the other—considered the most wonderful feat of balancing ever witnessed.

The Condemned Gladiators, a thrilling illustration of the arena.

The Ostriches of the Desert, hunted by mounted Arabs at full speed.

The habits of the Camel, when pursued by Bedouin Arabs.

The extraordinary Artistes, comprising the German Brothers, will give an exhibition of Jeux Icariens, upon a moving platform around the course.

Grand scene of the Roman Hippodrome—Three Chariots, with two horses abreast driven by ladies, in animated contest for the prizes of the Hippodrome.

La Course Greque—a scene of the turf, with six horses, one mile heats, by six ladies, in Jockey Costume.

Grand Chariot Race—two splendid chariots, driven four horses abreast, and flying at full speed, by Messrs. Stout and Cadwallader, a sight of terrific splendor and animation never before witnessed.

The next representation will be a surprising address by three horses each, at full speed while standing up, entitled Les Jeux de la 4me Olympiade, taken from the ancient sport called Desultores Numidian, by Messrs Stout Fisher and Cadwallader.

Animated exhibition of Field Sports—by five Parisian ladies, who will enter in spirited competition for the prize in a Grand Steeple Chase, mounted on fleet and beautiful coursers, jumping hurdles, fences, etc.

Camels and Elephant—including the performances of the trained elephant Americus, by his tutor, Master Leon Arthur, aged ten years.

After which, a Comic Race of Ponies—or a Travestie of the Turf, called the Course des Singes, ridden by Monkeys in Jockey costume.

The entertainments to conclude with the flight of Liberty Horses, unmounted and gaudily decorated with flying streamers, after the manner of the Italian Corso.

KEESEVILLE ACADEMY.

THIS Institution is located in the pleasant and enterprising village of Keeseville, Clinton Co., N. Y., in one of the finest sections of the state. It is five miles from Port Kent, on Lake Champlain. The Lake affords a cheap, easy and pleasant communication with Plattsburgh, Burlington and Whitehall.

As a School it now stands the first in the ranks of Institutions of its character, and no pains will be spared to enable it to retain its position. The Board of Faculty have been judiciously selected and long tried. The Trustees feel no hesitancy in recommending them to the patronage of those who seek for themselves a thorough course of study, and strict mental discipline. Particular attention will be given to those who may wish to fit themselves for teachers. For those who wish it, the same course of study will be given as in Graduating Seminaries.

The services of a permanent and experienced teacher have been secured to give instruction in Drawing in all its various branches, Penciling, Grayoning, Monochromatic, Polychromatic and Grecian painting.

Strict attention will be paid to declamations and compositions. Weekly exercises will be held in the Institution. The gentlemen are required to write compositions and declaim alternately, and the Ladies to write compositions and recite poetry. In this Institution as at present organized, a thorough course of Mathematics, Abstract studies Languages, &c, may be pursued with unusual advantages for acquiring a knowledge of the same, Those wishing to pursue the Common English Branches only, will also receive special attention.

The Ladies Department is a Female Seminary of itself; it has been and will still continue to be under the immediate direction of Miss Breck, who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of her station. Her sphere is not limited; but she is thoroughly prepared to carry those committed to her charge through any course of study pursued in the Highest Seminaries of our Country.—She will not only give attention to the mental culture, but to a Lady-like deportment, politeness and refinement of manners, such as will fit them for moving in the best society.

Bills of merit and demerit of each student are constantly kept, the former denoting the excellencies of each in his or her recitations and general conduct; the latter, deficiencies and delinquencies of each in his or her respective duties; these bills will be sent to parents and guardians once in four weeks during each term.

There will be a public examination twice during the year.

This Academy has been selected by the Regents of the University for Essex County to give free instruction to a limited member of Common School Teachers. This class will be organized at the commencement of the Fall Term.

Those wishing to obtain board would do well to apply by letter to the Principal during the month of August.

The Fall Term will commence on Thursday Aug., 31st, 1854, and continues eleven weeks.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not: Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

This remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 27th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my cough rings, were so great at times that for hours my friends expected each hour, would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. At length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so. I cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 313 Broadway, N. Y.

T. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of new and patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and convenient structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages obtained for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents amply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Both practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYERS, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLS, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr. Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have exercised to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such inducement at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be a service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of these objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.
Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel.
Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate, bores, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

Them manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Roger's Spiral Lathe.
By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral reeds, &c.

Cost of machine, $400. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 60 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, (without intermediate handling.) Price of machine, $600.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.
Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Bowen's Typographer.
A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Dyer & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

These patents cover the main points of the valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolting machines being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 104 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $200 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.
No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.
The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $100.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.
By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is one from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.
With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armsby's Patent Grate-bars.
Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency, Hoemorrhages, Hlood caused Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Shagginess, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicine in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among females would exist, were they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Heidl Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

MARRIAGE,

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append a long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL"

is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle. To counterfeit which is forgery [as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

FOR SALE, BY

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—or constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague feats in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, as propriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon, Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN, Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty.

Dated Schroon, July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Mathews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236.00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

Military Encampment at Plattsburgh.

The Encampment of the 32d Regt. N. Y. S. M. commenced at Plattsburgh on Tuesday 19th, and broke up on Saturday the 23d. As our readers have been made aware, we were present by special invitation, and an accounts of it we are sure will be interesting to our readers. To begin with, the parade was upon the very ground where the Military encamped during the "last war" with Great Briton.—There are 200 acres every foot of which is sacred ground, sacred to the Union and Liberty. In full view of the parade grounnd was the Naval battle which decided the fate of Plattsburgh. All abont are the remains of fortifications, and in company with a soldier who served under Major General Macomb we stood upon the very spot where that officer watched the progress of the fight upon the water, and with exultant pride heartily cheered when the enemy struck his flag to the brave American tars. Several redoubts are still to be seen, and the remains of long rows of barracks where the militia were quartered after the battle, are yet visible. Walking with Mr. Morgan and Col. P. P. Stafford of Plattsburgh they informed us they encamped there several days with 14000 militia. Our readers may be assured we wandered over that grounnd with delight, but lest we weary them with details we proceed.

This Regt. paraded this fall for the firs time. It is commanded by Col. Buel Palmer of Plattsburgh—Lt. Col. (vacant.) J. W. Hubbel, Maj. S. W. Gregory, Adjt. G. F. Nichols, Qt. Mr. Pliny Moore, Pay Mr. D. B. Johnson jr., Engineer, Wm. Coit Surgeon, and George Morgan, Chaplain, all members of the first families in Plattsburgh, and have entered into this matter with spirit—every one being perfectly uniformed. Five companies went into camp, mustering 177 privates. With a zeal worthy of especial notice, the Plattsburgh Brass Band has enlisted into the reg't, in which they've done themselves great credit, and the reg't a valuable service. Their patriotism is commendable. There was a large fine looking company of Artillery numbering over sixty privates, every one of whom was in uniform, though according to the old style. It was organized about 18 years ago, and at times has been the only organized and drilled company on the frontier from Ogdensburgh to Lake Champlain.—It is called the "Macdonough Guards," and has paraded regularly and faithfully every year since its organization. The men look stout & hardy, as though they could "rough it" in active service if required. There was also a company of rifles, composed entirely of Irishmen and commanded by Capt. O'Mara, that deserves particular mention for the pride of its members, their soldier-like appearance, their strict attention, and proverbial effort to improve. It is called the "Macomb Guards" and if that Regt. was to storm the heights of Chepultepec we are sure the Macomb Guards would not be the last up. An unexpected, but interesting little incident occurred in connection with this company. It was marched up to the residence of Col. Stafford for the purpose of borrowing a Stand of Colors in his procession. Unexpectedly, the Col. donated the colors to the company and it appeared from his remarks on the occasion, that the colors had belonged to a rifle Ret. organized in 1814 and continued to within a few years since when it was disbanded, of which Col. Stafford was the last commandant.—This Regiment we were informed was organized by a Capt. Aikin of Essex Co. but whether the present Judge Aikin of Westport we could not determine.

Thursday and Saturday were the great days of the occasion. Those not uniformed according to law were discharged on Thursday, and the remaining companies, consisting of the "Macdonough" and "Macomb" Guards, Capt. Lawrence's company of Infantry of West Chazy, and Capt. McElroy's company of Infantry of Keeseville, were reserved as a mark of honor for further drill, being all in uniform according to the new order. The weather was unfavorable on Tuesday and Wednesday but on Thursday it came out as lovely as could be desired, and now the interest of the occasion began to increase in earnest. Thursday morning was devoted to drill and review, Brig. Genl Gray being promptly on the ground unaccompanied by his staff however from causes beyond their control very much to the regret of all and none more than the Gen. himself. The square was formed when the Genl. made one of his neat and appropriate addresses to the people and the Regt. Being called upon the Editor of this paper made a few remarks also. Thursday afternoon was devoted to drill inspection, and target practice. A barre was fastened upon the lake some half a mile from shore and ten shots each from two 6 lb. brass pieces were fired (one shot excepted) with wonderful precision for inexperienced men. The battalion was marched down to the shore to witness it, followed by large numbers who were eager spectators of the scene. Thursday evening the Macomb Guards planned and executed a torch light procession and seranade to the Gen. who appeared and returned his thanks for the compliment. The night was spent in the performance of the duties and hardships of the camp, according to the strictest rules of regular service, & it was repeated Friday night in greator perfection. At nine o'clock Thursday evening we accompanied the Genl. and Col. Stone (inspector) to camp and here again new incidents transpired adding increased interest to all. The guard was paraded, the Genl. was salnted, and escorted through the Camp, several speeches were made, cheers were given for several persons, the hand paraded and filled the midnight air with its best strains, and altogether it was an exciting and enchanting scene there in the midnight air and a starlight night.

Guard was mounted & relieved, and there was tattoo, reveille, morning gun (which aroused the whole village) parade, roll call, and the whole routine of camp duty, under the direction of educated military officers. As a faithful chronicler of events it becomes our duty to state that an officer trying to pass the lines without the countersign received a blow upon the nose which left the remembrance of a faithful sentinel not soon to be forgotten, and that a soldier trying the same experiment was felled to the earth, and fastened by a bayonet through his coat so that he could not move. On Friday the Field and Staff dined with the Genl. at Foquetts by special invitation, and though intended only for a quiet little affair was a most magnificent repast. We may mention that fresh trout, wild duck, and wild pigeons formed three out of half a dozen courses, and the rest we leave to the imagination of the reader. Nothing could exceed the entire simplicity, yet regal magnificence of that dinner. Saturday morning the line was formed at 9 o'clock,—drilled by Maj. Wm. Palmer, an excellent drill officer,—and afterwards square formed when Hon. Lemuel Stetson made a most happy and appropriate speech—his friends think the best he ever uttered in public. We design to publish a report of it next week as it will be found acceptable to all our readers, most certainly to the military portion. Saturday afternoon, tents were struck, camp broke up and the battalion marched through the principal streets of the village, colors flying, and music playing, accompanied by the two pieces of artillery, and making altogether the best military display seen in Plattsburgh since the "last war." as was allowed on all hands. The Regt. took up a position on "the point" opposite Foquett's Hotel, where target firing was practiced for an hour witnessed by a host of spectators, when the Regt was dismissed the men paid, and all parted in the highest military enthusiasm, and perfectly delighted with the week's encampment. On parting the Regt. indulged in a round of cheers for all their friends, among whom though not there the Editor was not forgotten, for which we return our most sincere thanks, and by way of reciprocating those kindly feelings we offer our services (if our mode of drill is satisfactory) to any company that would like instruction at any time. Thus passed one of the pleasantest weeks of many years past, and we hope it may be our fortune to be present at the next annual parade of the 32d, than which, no Regt. is composed of a nobler set of men in all the qualities of gentlemen and soldiers.—Success to the 32d Regt. N. Y. S. M.—May it ever be the pride of each and every member to say, "I am a citizen Soldier."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.—When at Elizabethtown last week, we were informed that Hon. James S. Whallon had stated in the most public manner, and at several times and places, if he lived till election he should vote for Hon. Myron H. Clark for Gov. Satisfied that our information is correct, we feel authorized to repeat it in the Republican. It indicates public sentiment. There are thousands of others all over the State who will do likewise.—We may be permitted to remark that this gentleman has hitherto been considered a mere partizan, sacrificing principle to party, but it may turn out after all, like hundreds and thousands of others, that while he preferred the democratic organization to any other, he still remained in it only for the purpose of trying to mould it to his own views, but failing in this, he now abandons it and supports the men whose principles accord with his own. This may explain what was deemed his inconsistency on the tariff question. He may have hoped to see the democracy right on that question, but as that party is now taking a direction utterly and hopelessly opposed to him on most important questions, he now sets himself right, as he would have done long ago, but for his hopes of doing something towards giving his own party a proper direction. Notwithstanding a somewhat partizan hostility to that getleman heretofore, we take pleasure in hoping our solution of his position is correct, and to say that we shall be most happy to co-operate with him and all others who are tired of a false democracy.

THE CAMPAIGN.—Save to keep the public posted on events as they pass, and to direct the helm, there seems little to do this fall. Public sentiment is all one way. The State Temperance Convention, and the adjourned Saratoga Convention, have adopted the Whig ticket, and thousands all over the State, are coming out in its favor. The people are moving like the surges of the ocean. We only wish at this time to call the attention of Whigs in the several towns where our voice can be heard, to take care of matters at home. By neglecting localities, there may be an overturning not merely to be ashamed of, and regretted, but one that may do much harm. The campaign may be likened to an heir just coming into possession of a large fortune, or the Israelites, as they approached the promised land. It is a "free fight" this fall, Whigs can gain everything, or lose all. It requires no extra effort, no money, and but little prudent, timely attention, to achieve a complete and permanent triumph. It is to be hoped Whigs in the different localities, will see to it, that all is well with them.

☞ We invite attention to our new advertisements. We have not the time nor space to notice either at length. Our readers will perceive that the Republican is the paper in which to get posted on the business of the day, and the best and cheapest places to trade. Advertisers appreciate this fact, and we are pleased to know that they have reaped a rich reward for every advertisement. Our friends, whether readers or patrons, may be assured that the Republican is gaining in character, reputation and business, every year of its existence.

☞ Franconi's Hippodrome will be in town on the 11th of October, when our citizens will be afforded an opportunity of witnessing its novel performances. Our exchanges are unanimous in speaking favorably of the exhibitions of the establishment. The paraphernalia, scenes, feats, and acts are new in this country, and cannot fail in drawing a large concourse of spectators to witness them. Read the advertisement, and get ready the dimes necessary for admission.

The Baptist Association was in session in this place this week, pursuant to the notice heretofore published, and it was an interesting time. Several men of note were present, and business of importance transacted.

To Whom it May Concern.

We are opposed to the inhuman practice of "torture," still we are compelled to repeat the publication of the following points. One was replied to last week, and at that rate it will take four weeks to go through with the whole. However painful it may be to our neighbor they must all be answered. By that time we think the "taste of the people of Keeseville," will be "improved" and the character of newspaper discussions reformed. If not, we will then make a few more "points." We have a little curiosity to see which will survive Mr Lansing's unparallelled diatribes, himself or the public. In the estimation of good citizens they disclose a heart more depraved than the youth who through pride and temptation rifles the mails to meet his necessities. These diatribes are written by a man of years and experience, professed reformer and a professing Christian—too pure and too honest to act with either of the two great political parties because of their "wickedness," as though a party of such men as he is would —— but enough, ☞ These points will be continued till noticed seriatim. So Mr. Lansing can "propel" to suit his own convenience.

1. Mr. Lansing was in our office when the New Hampshire election news began to come in. He was then communicative. He said he was sorry New Hampshire was declaring against Nebraska, as he was afraid Congress would not pass the bill, and if they did not, he should be deprived of a great subject for agitation.

2. He said he should not stop here but that he had no money to get away with.—He must do something for a living. It was a good time to hop on to the Nebraska excitement.

3. As one means of raising money to help start here, he proposed a plan to delude his friend Willard Bell into subscribing from $100 to $500 to help him. He said Bell was not above suspicion as to moral character, but possessed a degree of vanity that made him believe himself qualified for any post in the country. The plan was to excite this vanity by making him believe Lansing to be his admirer and friend—that he, Lansing, through his paper would get Bell into the Legislature and then to Congress, and thus delude him into subscribing perhaps $5.0. Whether the plan worked we know not.

4. The individual thro' whose assistance Mr. Lansing started here and who has been around the village urging people to patronise him, did so in hopes to save an old debt.

CONGRESSIONAL.—This Convention met at Plattsburgh on the 3d pursuant to notice. The several counties were fully represented. Hon. Geo. A. Simmons was nominated for re-election, and some Resolutions were adopted. We shall publish the proceedings when they come to hand.

Hon. Joseph R. Flanders, hunker candidate for Congress says, he "stands fire, deeming it a sufficient honor to run on such a platform, and to be identified with such principles, as the Convention adopted, even without the slightest chance of being elected."

The Essex County Fair.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:—I was present the first day of the Fair, and was much pleased with it. Although the attendance was small, and the number of articles exhibited not great, still what was on exhibition was good, and to me was ample proof that the crops in the county will turn out much better than was generally anticipated.

The display of horses was not as large as usual, but I noticed several colts and matched teams which would do credit to any county in the Union. The display of cattle was quite large and very creditable to our farmers. I venture to say there are as good cattle in Essex Co. as can be found in the State. The Ladies apartment was well represented. I noticed some very fine embroidered work, collars, carpeting, &c. There was also some very fine Paintings on exhibition, one of which, by Mr. Bainbridge Bishop. I was very much pleased with: it purported to be his second effort, and to have been painted without instruction or assistance from any one. I speak for Mr. Bishop a brilliant career in the "good time coming." There were also a number of Paintings entered by an Essex lady whose name I have forgotten, which were first class.—(Probably Miss Gilbert.—Ed)

I noticed your townsman, Mr. S. Smith on the ground, with a Washing Machine, which seemed to attract a good deal of attention, and judging from the fact that I heard several ladies speak well of it, I think it is bound to go.

The display of corn, apples, butter, and other vegetables, were said to be as good as any ever before exhibited in this County. There was an Agricultural Meeting held at the Court House in the evening, when speeches were made by Judge Hand and others, and all seemed resolved to go on and do good.

I was sorry I could not stay to hear the Annual Address by Hon. W. C. Watson, the President of the Society, for from his well known ability and his information on agricultural matters, I am sure it must have been an able one.

It seems to me, that there is not interest enough taken by the people of the County, in our Annual Fairs, this should not be, for to me it seems to be a subject of great importance. Progress is the order of the day in everything else, and should be in this, and how let me ask, can this end be better accomplished, than by the assembling of our farmers once at least, every year, to compare notes and to take counsel of each other, as to the best modes of tilling, &c.

It is pleasant to feel that the present Campaign is to be conducted upon principle: pleasant to believe that people will think for themselves and vote for themselves albeit they may vote against "our party." It shall be our pleasure and our pride to set forth the claims of the Whig ticket and Whig principles in a plain, truthful manner, divested of personalities. To this end this week we ask attention to the candidates and platform presented elsewhere.

NEW FIRM AND NEW SHOP.—We stept into the new shop of Page, Barnes & Beach at Birmingham the other day and were surprised at the extent of their enterprise. We cannot say anything better than to give their card and to say that they have as good water privileges and as good a shop and Starch Factory as can be found anywhere. They are also men of respectability, energy, and intelligence, who will honor their business and their business will honor them.

MORIAH, Oct. 2d, 1854.

MR. EDITOR:—

My brother, Nathaniel Hulburd left his residence in this place about the 28th of August last, to visit a brother of his, residing in Dunham, Lower Canada—and was expected to return about the 4th day of September last Nothing has been heard of him since, except that he left his brother's in Canada to return home on the 5th day of September last, and can be traced as far as St. Albans, in Vermont, where he was seen to leave the stage and go on board of the cars for Burlington, intending to take the night boat from there to Port Henry. He was 23 years of age, middling size, dark complexion, dark hair, wore a suit of dark colored clothes—frock coat. He has a mother, brothers and sisters in this place, who feel anxious about him. Sometime the past summer he had some $92. in money stolen from him, and complained of one Clark Haily, who was examined on the charge and bound over to appear at the late Court of Sessions held in Essex county, and my brother Nathaniel was recognized to apear as a witness against him. The court has been held and he did not appear and no trace can be got of him, except as above mentioned. His friends here are suspicious of foul play.

Any information directed to me at this place will be thankfully received.

Mechanics, Inventors and Manufacturers.
$570. IN CASH PRIZES $570.

Volume Ten of the "Scientific American" commences on the 16th of September. It is chiefly devoted to the advancement of the interests of mechanics, inventors, manufacturers and farmers, and is edited by men practically skilled in the arts and sciences. Probably no other journal of the same character is so extensively circulated, or so generally esteemed for its practical utility. Nearly all the valuable patents which issue weekly from the Patent Office are illustrated with engravings, and the claims of all the Patents are published regularly in its columns as they are issued thus making it a perfect Scientific and Mechanical Encyclopedia of information upon the subjects of mechanical improvements, engineering, chemistry, and the sciences generally. It is published weekly in quarto form, suitable for binding, and each volume contains 416 pages of reading matter, several hundred engravings, with a full and complete index. Its circulation on the last volume exceeded 23,000 copies per week, and the practical receipts in one volume are worth to any family much more than the subscription price.

The following cash prizes are offered by the publishers for the fourteen largest lists of subscribers sent in by the 1st of January, 1855—$100 will be given for the largest list—$75 for the second—$65 for the third—$55 for the fourth—$50 for the fifth—45 for the sixth—40 for the seventh—35 for the eighth—30 for the ninth—25 for the tenth—20 for the eleventh—15 for the twelfth—10 for the thirteenth—and 5 for the fourteenth. The cash will be paid to the order of the successful competitor immediately after the 1st of January, 1855

TERMS—One copy one year, $2—one copy, six months $1—five copies, six months $4—ten copies, six months $8—ten copies, twelve months, $15—fifteen copies, twelve months, $22—twenty copies, twelve months, $28 in advance,

REMARKABLE CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

Philadelphia, Monday, Sept, 4, 1854

To the editor of the N. Y. Daily Times—

The following description of my recovery from Consumption, will, I doubt not, be read with interest, by many of your readers—"In the month of August, 1853, while sea bathing at Rockaway, L. I., I became nearly exhausted from having swam out too far from land. On coming from the water I had a chill, which was followed in a few hours, by fever, pain in my right side, and a sense of fullness and oppression of breathing. I was confined to bed. In about three weeks an abscess broke in my left lung, discharging a great quantity of very offensive matter. My case was considered desperate: by some it was called consumption by others gangrene of the lungs. At the end of three months I was able to go about. but continued very feeble From this time I had many ups and downs until near the close of January, when, at the advice of Dr. Young, of Washington, I was induced to confide my case to the care of Dr. Robert Hunter, of New York, for the purpose of trying the efficacy of INHALLATION, as employed by him in pulmonary cases. At the end of seven months I am well and strong, free from every symptom of my disease, and able to discharge the most arduous duties of the United States Marine service.

As an act of duty to the afflicted, and of justice to Dr. Hunter, to whom I owe so much I tender through your columns this earnest tribute. Yours, &c., P. RANON.

FRANCONI'S
COLOSSAL HIPPODROME
FROM THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This gigantic and elegant corps, being the only Hippodrome in the United States, will give its first and only exhibition

In Keeseville, on Wednesday, Oct. 11th 1854—being representations of the Classic Games, as given by the Ancient Greeks and Romans—together with the daring splendors of the Hippodrome, ancient and modern

BY FRANCONI'S GREAT TROUPE,

in which beautiful females and beautiful horses form the principal features.

Six superbly contested Chariot Races, and Steeple Chases, by ladies in full and appropriate costume.

Director of the Hippodrome, J. G. Cadwallader
President of the Games, W. H. Stout.
Leader of the Elean Band, H. Gaul.

THE GREAT TENT OF THE HIPPODROME,

COVERS AN AREA OF TWO ACRES.

These ample dimensions, calculated to accommodate nearly TEN THOUSAND PEOPLE, are alone sufficient to attract and rivet admiration but when every part of the enclosure is filled with spectators, seated in anti-theatrical order around the course, gaily attired and with animated faces, it is impossible to imagine a more imposing spectacle, or to describe the coup d'œil presented by such a regularly arranged multitude upon an unaccustomed spectator.

The following brilliant Novelties are embraced in the

PROGRAMME OF EXERCISES,

The entertainments of the Hippodrome will commence with Scipio's Triumphal Return to Rome—after the conquest of Carthage, in which the entire stock of Horses, Ponies, Elephants, Camels, Deer, Ostriches, Chariots, Cars, together with the Equestrian Corps, en masse, and will be

DISPLAYED IN ONE GRAND SCENE OF ACTION

An astonishing and daring exhibition of lofty Equilibriums and La Perche Equipoise, by Messrs. Stout and Fisher, upon a pole 30 feet high, carried by one and mounted by the other—considered the most wonderful feat of balancing ever witnessed.

The Condemned Gladiators, a thrilling illustration of the arena.

The Ostriches of the Desert, hunted by mounted Arabs at full speed.

The habits of the Camel, when pursued by 8 dou'n Arabs.

The extraordinary Artistes, comprising the German Brothers, will give an exhibition of Jeux Icariens, upon a moving platform around the course.

Grand scene of the Roman Hippodrome—Three Chariots, with two horses abreast driven by ladies, in animated contest for the prizes of the Hippodrome.

La Course Grequo—a scene of the turf, with six horses, one mile heats, by six ladies, in Jockey Costume.

Grand Chariot Race—two splendid chariots driven four horses abreast, and flying at full speed, by Messrs. Stout and Cadwallader, a sight of terrific splendor and animation never before witnessed.

The next representation will be a surprising address by three horses each, at full speed while standing up, entitled Les Jeux de la 4me Olympiade, taken from the ancient sport called Desultores Numidian, by Messrs Stout Fisher and Cadwallader.

Animated exhibition of Field Sports—by five Parisian ladies, who will enter in spirited competition for the prize in a Grand Steeple Chase, mounted on fleet and beautiful coursers, jumping hurdles, fences, etc.

Camels and Elephant—including the performances of the trained elephant Americus, by his tutor, Master Leon Arthur, aged ten years.

After which, a Comic Race of Ponies—or a Travestie of the Turf, called the Course des Singes; ridden by Monkeys in Jockey costume.

The entertainments to conclude with the flight of Liberty Horses, unmounted and gaudily decorated with flying streamers, after the manner of the Italian Corso.

PRICE OF ADMISSION

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of eight hundred and sixty one dollars and twenty nine cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the fifth day of August, 1853, executed by David Hinds, Jr., of the town of Keene, in the county of Essex and state of New York, to John Roth and James C. Roth of the city of Troy, county of Rensselaer and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the said county of Essex, in book R., of mortgages, pages 444 and 445, on the sixth day of August, 1853, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described and covered by said mortgage to wit—ALL that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Wilmington, county of Essex and state of New York, known as part of lot number thirteen in Jay tract, and described as follows—beginning at the north west corner of said lot number thirteen, running thence south twenty-one degrees west thirty five chains and seventy five links, to the southwest corner of said lot thirteen; thence south sixty nine degrees east twenty-one chains and sixteen links to a post and stones, being the southwest corner of a ten acre lot heretofore sold to Rowland Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east six chains to the center of the brook; thence down the center of the brook as it winds and turns to the line of a part of said lot number thirteen, heretofore sold to Nowell Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east along said Nowell Marshall's line thirty chains and seventy-five links to the north line of said lot thirteen; thence north sixty nine degrees west thirty nine chains and sixteen links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty acres. The above courses are given as set down by John Richards in his survey, will be sold at public auction at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon,—Dated the 9th day of September 1854.
SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagees

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, & the interest thereon from the 1st day of April, 1853, which is claimed to be due on the day of the first publication of this notice upon a certain mortgage, executed by David Hinds, Jr., then of Keene, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Thomas A. Tomlinson, of Chesterfield, county and state aforesaid, of all that certain piece, or parcel of land, lying and being, situate in the town of Keene, Essex county, and state of New York, bounded as follows—On the north by lands formerly owned by Stephen Patridge, now owned by Ira Marks; known as the forge lot, on the east and south, by lands owned by Franklin and Hills Sherburn, and on the west by the middle of the river, containing about ten acres of land, being the same premises conveyed by warranty deed to Joseph Hillman, bearing date the 29th day of November, 1849—said mortgage is dated the 31st day of August, 1852, and was recorded with the power of sale therein contained in the office of the clerk of Essex county, on the 2d day of September, 1852 in Book R. of mortgages on page 95, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof;—Therefore notice is hereby given, that said premises will be sold at public auction, and the said mortgage thereby foreclosed, pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, on the 12th of December, at 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the Adirondac Hotel [so called,] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex. Dated the 9th day of September 1854
SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagee

Mortgage Sale—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand three hundred and eighty-four dollars & fifty two cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of June, 1842, executed by Martin Pope and Euretta, his wife, of the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Ebenezer Proudfit, Jacob L. Van Schoonhoven, and David T. Vail, of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on Liber K. of mortgages on pages 222, 223 and 224, on the 9th day of July, A. D., 1842, at 4 o'clock P. M. which said mortgage was on the 29th day of May, 1854, duly assigned to Alvin Colvin, Charles P. Allen, and Isaac Nye. The interest of Charles P. Allen in which said mortgage, was on the day last aforesaid duly assigned to John K. Converse.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, to wit—ALL that certain lot of land, known and distinguished as lot number fifty five of the Adgate tract or patent of three thousand, six hundred acres, situate in the town of Chesterfield in the county of Essex, and state of New York, supposed to contain about one hundred and sixteen acres, and having thereon a dwelling house, and including a wharf in Douglass bay on Lake Champlain, together with all other buildings and erections on the said premises hereby conveyed now standing, will be sold at public auction, at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called,] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Dated the ninth day of September, 1854. 540:13

D. 1845, and with a power of sale therein contained in case of default of the payment of the sum or sums therein mentioned or any part thereof which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of Essex county volume L of mortgages on pages 508 and 509 on the fourth day of August, A. D. 1845 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the payment of five hundred and fifty dollars with interest, annually, did duly grant bargain sell and convey to Carlos Bugbee of said town of Ticonderoga, in said county certain premises, described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: all that certain piece or parcel of land situate lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga in the county of Essex and State of New York in a patent of three thousand acres of land granted by letters patent to John Russel, Esquire, and is part of said tract, and is bounded as follows, beginning at a stake standing at the south east corner of the pound and north west corner of Timothy Hunter's garden; thence north eight degrees west thirteen chains and seventy links to a stake and stones, thence south eighty eight degrees and thirty minutes west seven chains to a stake and stones, thence north seven degrees east, nine chains and sixty links to a stake and stones, thence north eighty three degrees west four chains and sixty-six links to a stake, thence north one degree east eight chains and fifteen links to a stake in the south line of Nathaniel Miller's land, thence south eighty nine degrees and ten minutes east, thirty eight chains to the waters of the lake, thence southerly along the said waters up the same as they run, to the south west corner of what is called Millers Bay at a stake in what has formerly been called the south east corner of Sutherlands Patent, thence south seventy six degrees and twenty minutes west forty two chains to the place of beginning containing one hundred and twenty acres of land, be the same more or less, excepting and reserving all iron ores and ore beds, with the privilege of free access to and from the same, with teams or otherwise, and of digging and carrying the same away. On which said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of six hundred and thirty five dollars and fifty-four cents and whereas default has been made in the payment of the same according to the tenor of said mortgage and no proceeding in law or equity having been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgaged premises herein before described or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage together with the costs and expenses, of foreclosure—will be sold at public vendue at the Hotel kept by James Tefft in the town of Ticonderoga aforesaid, on the 16th day of Dec. 1854, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A
FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

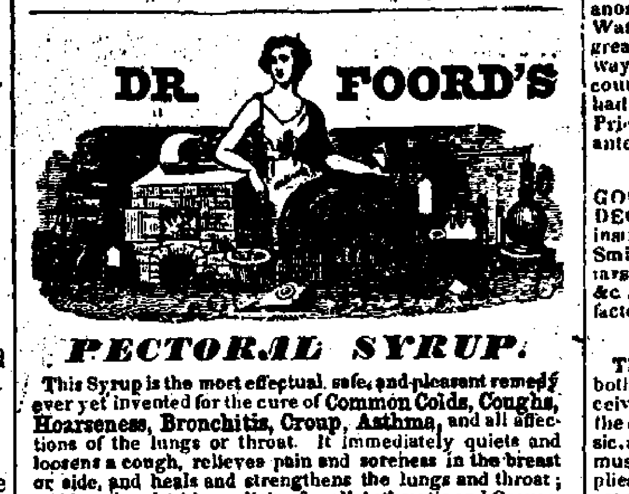
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,



For the rapid Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won, for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation---A New Method

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. DR. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See Certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.
BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 29th. 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my suffrings, were so great at times that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.
MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of new and useful patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided one of the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau, and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYERS, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLS, Mechanist, (for twelve years in the Patent Office.)
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES HEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this swooping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such inducements for our services, and at the same time to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time to render service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent, more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and gubles; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.

Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel.

Guaranteed to yield 70 percent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour.

Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the article furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Jones's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Frey & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' Improvement.

This patent covers the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is adapted to every variety of flouring mill, and as certain to give from two to four per cent. more flour than any other bolt now using, that the use of this bolt will make 10 and 101 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $300.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is from $60 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Amadro & Patent Gate-bars.

Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skilful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficient remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to safety. In cases as Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluor Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Nervousness, &c., where a tonic Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Loose suffering, disease and unhappiness among ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To these, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of

MARRIAGE,

I recommend this vegetable and bodily capacity, Heidl Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will add nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Here what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

Is put up in 8 oz. Panned Bottles, and is easily recognized by the manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

It is sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $9; $18 per dozen

FOR SALE, BY

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—so as only breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 29 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, (Author of a work on Self Preservation,) to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted, insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

He emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony, his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's patients will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated according.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysen to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN, Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty,

Dated Schroon, July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit; "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236.00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

Whig Congressional Convention.

At a Whig Congressional Convention for the District composed of the Counties of Clinton, Essex and Franklin, held pursuant to previous notice, in Plattsburgh, Tuesday the 3d inst.

Mr. Ira F. Paddock, of Franklin Co., was chosen Chairman, and H. H. Ross, 2d, of Essex Co., Secretary.

Upon motion, Delegates from the several counties forwarded their credentials as follows:

CLINTON CO.—W. B. Underhill, Geo. Hallock, H. S. Johnson.

ESSEX CO.—H. H. Ross, 2d, Robert S. Haile, O. Keese, Jr.

FRANKLIN CO.—Jewett H. Moore, M. M. Roberts, I. F. Paddock.

Moved and Seconded, That the County of Clinton have the privilege of presenting a candidate for a Representative in Congress, for this District.

Moved and Seconded, That the motion offered by the Delegates from Clinton be laid upon the table—Carried.

On motion, it was resolved that we do now proceed by informal ballots for the nomination of a Representative.

On the first ballot G. A. Simmons received four votes, O. D. Peabody two, A. B. Parmalee 3.

Second ballot, G. A. Simmons 6, A. B. Parmalee 2 and O. D. Peabody 1.

On motion, it was resolved that the nomination of G. A. Simmons be declared unanimous.

The following resolutions were then read and adopted;—

Resolved, That the sentiments embodied in the resolutions of the Whig State Convention, held at Syracuse, on the 20th day of September last, meet the full and hearty concurrence of this Convention and all the Whigs of this Congressional District.

Resolved, That the course of our Representative in Congress, the Hon. GEO. A. SIMMONS, during the last session, is in the highest degree satisfactory to his constituents; and particularly that this Convention and the Whigs of this District unanimously and cordially express their approval and endorsement of his able, manly and patriotic stand against that bill of iniquities commonly known as the Nebraska Bill, and that we pledge to him the undivided support of the Whigs of this District at the ensuing Election.

On motion it was resolved that one from each county constitute the committee for this Congrssional District.

On motion, ROBT. S. HAILE, of Essex Co., H. S. JOHNSON, of Clinton, and M. M. ROBERTS, of Franklin, were chosen as such Committee.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this Convention be published in the Whig papers of this District, also in the Albany Register and evening Journal.

On motion, the Convention adjourned sine die.

I. F. PADDOCK, Chairman.
H. H. ROSS, 2d, Secy.

Myron H. Clark.

That Mr. Clark is a very plain man, of humble pretensions and slender oratorical attainments, is freely conceded. Does any man accuse him of having ever been a dissembler or a trickster, false to his friends or unfaithful to his convictions? He was originally a cabinet-maker—was he not a good one? He has been for some years a merchant—did he ever defraud? He has been thrice chosen to most responsible public stations—has he in either of them proved incompetent or unworthy? On all these points he stands unimpeached. Of his integrity and private worth there is no question. That his public course has been sagacious as well as upright, is proved by the concurrent, unsolicited nominations of four diverse State Conventions. To mere party politicians, it naturally seems hazardous and rash to present such men as candidates; but we are confident the result will prove that his nomination was not merely safe but wise.

The Statesman, (Wilmington,) edited by a veteran campaigner, thus speaks of Mr. Clark:

His history is full of interest, and speaks volumes of encouragement to the humble laborer in the pathway of duty, and also holds up an instructive mirror to those reckless politicians who hope to control the State as hi herto by intrigue and corruption.

Men of wealth and talent, and of large political experience, are his neighbors.—Why are these left at home to rest upon their laurels, and this plebian mechanic selected to fill the highest place in the power of the State to bestow? Why are the G———s, and the H———s, and the W———s, not thought worthy of consideration, and a cabinet-maker exalted so much above them? The answer is full of meaning:. "The People are coming!"

"The teeth of old Conservatism need not chatter with fear of approaching agrarianism. The true conservators of the country are going into power. Legislation in its simple and natural form, having reference chiefly to the protection of the weak against the strong and the tyrannical, will take the place of the complicated legalities of selfish and cunning abstractionists.

"To one familiar with the political changes of the State to which we have reference, it is exceedingly instructive to observe who figure upon the boards during the present movement. Men who, two years since, would have scarcely touched M. H. Clark with a yard-stick a short time since, now are too happy to be allowed any position in a convention called on his behalf."

Clinton Co. Democratic Convention.

At a County Convention of the National Democracy of the County of Clinton, held at the Court House in the village of Plattsburgh, Sep. 26, 1854; the following County ticket was nominated:

FRANKLIN ELMORE, of Peru, Member of Assembly.

JACOB H. HOLT, of Plattsburgh, County Treasurer.

RICHARD KEESE, of Ausable, Justice Sessious.

NEHEMIAH HARKNESS, of Ausable, Coroner.

Hon. RICHARD KEESE, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, reported the following, which were adopted:

Resolved, That this Convention, recognize in the Resolutions adopted at the National Democratic State Convention, held at Syracuse in July last, the true Democratic doctrine, and we hereby pledge ourselves to support the nominees of that Convention by all the fair means in our power.

Resolved, That we approve the nomination of Hon. JOSEPH R. FLANDERS, of Malone, for Congress, and pledge him our united support at the approaching election.

Resolved, That we will give the County Ticket this day nominated, our cordial support.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this Convention be signed by the Chairman and Secretary and published in the Albany Argus and Malone Jeffersonian.

D. B. McNIEL, Chairman.
H. G. ROBBINS, Secretary.

[Our readers will appreciate our motives in giving place to the following letter when we say that the writer is a democrat and a responsible and prominent citizen of the town from whence he writes.—Ed. Rep.]

Local Correspondence.

SCHROON, Oct. 2, 1854.

Mr. TARBELL, Sir:—As circumstances are such, that "our Editor" is necessarially detained abroad on special business, and "our press and type" consequently lay dormant, we are obliged to ask of you the favor of advocating the interests of Schroon in your paper, promising that when we get out of the present embarrassing dilemma—if we ever do—you shall have the benefit of our columns as you have often had before.

We think that this town is entitled to respect in the nomination for member of Congress. From time immemorial has not the Democratic majority in Schroon exceeded two hundred? Is there another town in this, or any other county that has exceeded her in numbers and stability?—Where has the Democratic party in this State, ever leaned with confidence when every staff gave way, except upon Schroon? And what have we received of them in return? 'Tis time "the Col." was nominated for Congress some two years ago, and spared no pains or money to secure his election—which he would have certainly obtained, had it not been for the unfounded abuse of our enemies—the whigs, and the hungry ravens that spent our money for pork and flour instead of lectioneering purposes. From whigs, the Col. received much slander about his family arrangements. 'Tis true he never was married, and yet it is generally believed he is well provided with the provisions of life. But the Col., in spite of all opposition, run well, that is, he was beaten by a very small majority, and could he have the chance of one more trial, would undoubtedly be our next member of Congress,—spend more money, and supply more hungry cormorants with pork and flour. We are not alone in this opinion. I heard the other day one of the prominent members of the whig party offer to bet five dollars, that in case the Democratic party would give the Col. the nomination, and the Col. would give —— —— —— five hundred dollars to buy pork and flour and other political purposes; that he, (the Col.,) would be certain of his election. "Quae cum Ita smit." Why should not the Democratic party nominate the Col. this year, and while they avail themselves of this most popular man, they would show some respect for the "back-bone" Democracy of Essex County. Will they suffer a man to be bled, as the Col. has been without making some return? If so, let them cease to numb r Schroon among their ranks, forever more, and she, as she regards her honor, will pronounce tenfold more, and greater curses upon their future days, than Job of old once hurled at the day of his birth.

Yours truly,
J. F. POTTER.

Our Candidates.

We thought of saying something handsome of each of the Whig nominees on the county ticket, but they are all so well known as to render notices superfluous. They have each been frequently before the people for their suffrages, in town or county, and each has served them faithfully, and satisfactorily. Has N. C. Boynton, E. A. Adams, S. E. Hale, Harvey Carter, Wm. E. Calkins, or Dudley Everest an enemy? We think not. They are upright, honorable citizens, "capable and faithful to the constitution." Their election can be rendered doubtful only by culpable neglect somewhere.—They have no enemies, and there is no local disaffection. In behalf of these candidates, we are sure whigs in all the different localities will take pleasure in seeing that nothing is permitted to interfere with their success. The candidates and the whigs at large will be satisfied with the usual vote, but if whigs will run up the majority in the county to 800, or 1000, which can be done as well as not, we undertake to say, that no offence will be taken. What do you say, whigs of Old Essex?

D. S. Dickinson.

Mr. Dickinson opened the political campaign on the part of the National Democracy of New York, by a brilliant and telling speech, at Delhi, Delaware county, on the 29th September. He made Seymour smoke. He said Seymour's friends were for a time in doubt whether Seymour would consent to run, but in his opinion, he ran from the Nebraska Platform fixed for him at Syracuse, and hopped upon the Anti-Maine Law side of the temperance issue fixed for him by his opponents.—Right: "hit him again." He deserves no mercy. The "rabblement" that will follow in his train, will shame the N. Y. Five Points, or the democratic delegation, from Coot Hill to the Polk Convention at Westport in 1844.

It is to be expected that the liquor interest of the state will support Seymour to some extent, but we don't believe respectable Whigs of that class will be willing to train with the miserable, besotted, half-starved, half-naked, "jail birds" and lunatic candidates that will follow and shout in that crowd. It's no place for a respectable man. Better not to vote at all than with the ragamuffins who will follow in Seymour's wake.

Seymour's political capital is utterly bankrupt, and aside from the liquor vote, he would be "whistled down the wind," and laughed at for his folly in running.

YOUNG AMERICA.—Our ideas of this young gentleman differs from that of most people. We are fond of antiquities, but we like to have them arranged by young hands. We admire the principles of the "Fathers of the Republic," but we like to see them carried out by the young and vigorous, and not by the "slow coaches" of the last century. We are not for the rattle brained, muddy headed, Fillibustering young America that "licks his daddy" at 14, nor for the "old fogy" who puts boys in "straight jackets," but for young men of established good habits, settled principles, and enlarged minds. In short, we are for old heads upon young shoulders. Vide, the Whig State and County ticket is such an one.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. George Fasset, an Irishman, walked off the bank on the north side of the river, where the new bridge is being built, in the evening of Monday last. It was a dark, rainy night. He fell the distance of 37 feet and struck on his back and shoulders in a bed of sand. To the surprise of all, he is recovering, with only a severe bruising. His tracks were examined and he was evidently taking full length steps, apparently regardless of the place he was in, as tho' he was walking by daylight and out of danger. It was a singular accident.

The papers say that the Know-Nothings have been in council in N. Y. city this week, and that they nominated a ticket, but whether the information is reliable—whether in fact any part of it is true—whether the ticket published is the ticket or a spurious one palmed upon the press—we do not know—but "should'nt wonder." New York city is something of a town.

POTATOES retail in this village at 62½ cents per bushel; in Malone, Franklin Co. for 25 cts.; in Brandon, Vt., for 37½ cts.; in Schoharie county at 50 cents. They will undoubtedly soon be down to 25 or 30 cents a bushel in this vicinity.

CAN'T GO IT.—The Democrats of St. Lawrence endorse the withdrawal of their Delegates from the "Soft" Convention.—At a recent meeting it was Resolved, That the Democrats of Oswegatchie do most fully and entirely approve the course of the delegation from this Assembly District at the late State Convention at Syracuse.

The Republican refuses to support Seymour, and the indications are that a large majority of his party go with it.

☞ Mr Scraggs, one of the candidates in nomination for Lt. Governor, is a young lawyer in Buffalo, of moderate practice and medium talents. He was formerly a Barnburner, but he has been for several years identified with the Hunkers.

☞ The Seymourites are trying to make political capital by asserting that the whigs "have adopted as the distinctive measures of their party the Coercive Temperance Bill, with all its details' of last session," &c. Not only are the Whigs not committed to that bill, but even the State Temperance Convention adopted the following resolution:—

Resolved, That a committee of eight persons be appointed by the president of the convention to nominate a law committee, to whom shall be referred the prohibitory law passed by our Legislature last session to revise and amend it, if they deem it necessary, and submit the same for enactment next session.

When the Editor of the Troy Budget was a candidate for the Post Office of that city, he was pressed by his cotemporaries for his opinion of the Nebraska fraud.—His reply was, "we are all right on that question." The Northern Standard is equally explicit on the various state tickets in nomination. Without any intimation of its, or their preference, it says, "the friends of freedom know what to do, and will vote accordingly!"

The Whigs of Michigan recently held a State Convention, at which it was resolved to support the "fusion" ticket. That was well. We should do the same thing if we lived in that locofoco state.

Murder in Addison, Vt.

VERGENNES, Sept. 18th, A. M.

Yesterday at about sunset a murder was committed at Addison, about six miles below here, of which the following are the particulars as near as can be ascertained. It appears that a Mr. D. Cheny of Canada, had been invited to the house of Mr. Samuel Pond of Addison, by a son of Mr. Pond's for the purpose of receiving a present. On leaving the house Cheny was followed by Sheldon Pond the son, who, after following a few steps fired upon Cheny, the charge taking effect in the neck and killing him instantly.

Pond has been arrested. The jury brought in a verdict of "Guilty of wilful murder in the first degree." He will be taken to the county jail this P. M.

Cheny leaves a wife and family to mourn his loss.

The wife of Cheny was once a servant in the family of Pond and was courted by him, but he was refused and Cheny was accepted. This is assigned as the reason of the act. He is now in the Middlebury jail.

A DARK TRANSACTION.—On Saturday last a little girl between eleven and twelve years of age, named Margaret Roche, left her residence in the town of Schuyler Falls, in this county, to go to a neighbor's house, and not returning as was expected, search was made, and the next day her body was found in a small brook, with marks upon it indicating death by violence, of a most revolting character. Joe Centreville was arrested on Thursday last, charged with the crime, and after an examination before a Justice, was committed to the jail in this village, to await the action of the Grand Jury.—Plattsburgh Rep.

We see by the Court Records, that the two counterfeiters, White of Buffalo, and Lawrence of Epping, N. H., have been placed under ten thousand dollar bonds each, for making and selling, imitations of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. This is right. If the Law should protect men from imposition at all, it should certainly protect them from being imposed upon by a worthless counterfeit of such a medicine as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. We can only complain that the punishment is not half enough.—The villain, who would for paltry gain, deliberately trifle with the health of his fellow man, by taking from their lips, the cup of hope, when they are sinking, and substituting a falsehood—an utter delusion, should be punished at least as severely as he who counterfeits the coin of the country.—Green Co. Banner, Carrollton, Ill.

☞ The St. Louis Democrat, Senator Benton's organ has published several strong articles to prove that it is for the interest of Missouri that Kansas should be a Free State. In prosecuting the argument, the Democrat is unsparing in its deprecation of the existence of Slavery.

The Candidates and the Issues.

The party Conventions have all been held now. Their tickets and platforms are made up, and stand as follows:

1st. The National Democratic or "Hard."

FOR GOVERNOR—Green C. Bronson, of New York.

FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR—Elijah Ford, of Erie.

FOR CANAL COM'R—Clark Burnham, of Chenango.

FOR STATE PR'N INSP.—Abram Vernam, of Livingston.

The platform on which these gentlemen stand has for its main features Canal Enlargement; Opposition to the Prohibitory Liquor Law, though favoring less Principles of the Nebraska Bill, and its application to all new Territories, though opposing the course of the Administration in other matters.

2d. The Administration Democratic or "Soft."

FOR GOVERNOR—Horatio Seymour, of Oneida county.

FOR LT. GOVERNOR—William H. Ludlow, Suffolk.

FOR CANAL COM'R—Jason Clark of Jefferson.

STATE PRISON INSP.—Wm. R. Andrews, of Livingston.

The grounds on which this ticket rests are Opposition to a Prohibitory Liquor Law, Opposition to the present Canal Enlargement, Acquiescence in the Nebraska Bill, and support of the acts of the Administration at Washington.

3d. The "Liberty Party" ticket.

For Gov.—WM. GOODALL.

For LT. GOV.—Austin Ward.

For CANAL COMR.—J. C. Harrington.

For PRISON INSPECTOR.—Mr. Shapscott.

This ticket represents the Garrisonian Abolitionists, who hate themselves, God, & the Devil, and the Constitution of the U. S. and the Bible in particular.

4th. The reputed 'Know-Nothing' ticket.

For Gov.—Daniel Ullman, N. Y.

For Lt. Gov.—G. A. S. Scraggs, Buffalo.

For CANAL COM'R.—Josiah B. Williams, Ithica.

For PRISON INSPECTOR.—J. P. Saunders, Westchester.

Principles—unknown.

Ullman, is a Silver Grey—Scraggs, Hardshell—Williams, Woolly—and Saunders, "Soft."

5th. The Whig Ticket.

For Governor—Myron H. Clark, of Ontario.

For Lt. Governor—Henry J. Raymond, of New York.

For Canal Com'r—Henry Fitzhugh, of Oswego.

For State Prison Insp.—Norwood Bowne of Delaware.

Canal Enlargement, River and Harbor Improvement, Opposition to the future extension of Slavery and to all its unconstitutional encroachments, are the well known principles enunciated in the Whig Platform.

6th. The Anti-Nebraska Convention nominates the Ticket, as the one best calculated to advance the interests of Freedom.

7th, The State Temperance Convention also nominates it, as the only one not opposed to the passage of the Prohibitory Liquor Law.

8th. The Free Democratic Convention also nominates Mr. Clark, but substitutes for the other names, for Lieutenant Governor, Bradford R. Wood; Canal Commissioner, Chas. A. Wheaton; State Prison Inspector, Philip H. Macomber.

We do not understand that in so doing they imply any doubt of the soundness of the Whig candidates. But that they desire some of the candidates should be taken from those who have heretofore acted with their own organization—unwisely, we think since they cannot in any case elect them, and by voting for them indirectly add to the chances of the pro-slavery candidates.

The election takes place on Tuesday, Nov. 7th. That, with reasonable exertion it will result in the triumph of the Whig candidates and principles, there is no room to doubt.

From the Albany Argus. [Adamantine.]

The Coming Contest.

It is not necessary to warn true Democrats against coalitions and fusions with their opponents. The day for that has fortunately gone by. We trust and believe that there will be nowhere any disposition manifested to yield a hair's breadth in this direction, or to make the least concession to Freesoilers or Softs in the way of exchange of candidates or divison of tickets. The democratic party of New York is strong enough to stand by itself—to fight its own battles and to win its own triumphs. It is the only united, enthusiastic and thorough party organization in the State of New York, and it has only to be true to itself, and firm towards its opponents, to secure that eventual success which right principles and entire internal unanimity always deserves.

The Democratic party of New York will present thirty-three congressional candidates this fall, every man of whom will be an open and avowed opponent of the present recreant Administration and of its mercenary but congenial Custom House followers—an advocate of the Democratic platform proclaimed by the State Convention at Syracuse on the twelfth July—and in every respect worthy of the confidence and support of the true Democratic voters. It will nominate in every Assembly district in the state, a candidate for the Legislature who will consistently oppose throughout the election of any man to the United States Senate whose political sentiments are not in accordance with the declared principles of Democracy. And everywhere, by this means, they will throw the responsibility of a Whig triumph—if that shall unfortunately be the result—upon the third party, Custom House organization, which, impotent except for mischief, and sustained only by the patronage of federal office, has ventured to take a position for itself in the political field.

FALSE ALARM.—Sabbath night last, the village was aroused by the loud cry of fire—FIRE—FIRE—and the bells rang out their quick peals of alarm too, that made every one's blood tingle, when lo, it was—only—a—brush heap.

We have fifteen days later news from California, via San Juan. The election returns present the chief point of interest, and these are by no means clear. The Broderick Democrats are defeated, but whether Whigs or anti Broderick men are elected to Congress is yet doubtful. At any rate, the members of the present Congress, Messrs. Latham and McDougal, have leave to stay at home. The State Senate is largely Democratic, the House more equally divided; yet it is deemed doubtful if the two factions can unite so as to fill Mr. Gwin's place with a Democrat. In San Francisco the omnipresent Know-Nothings, who had scarcely been heard of up to the eve of election, made a ticket in the morning just as the polls were opening, and elected every man on it—putting in for Mayor the Hon. S. P. Webb, (formerly of Salem, Mass.) though he had not been named by any other party. The Californians were greatly astonished at this quiet but most effectual exhibition of power.

The Montreal papers have been seriously alarmed by the encampment and "general training" of the militia of Essex and Clinton counties, across the Lake.—They announced that something unusual was afloat,—that field-pieces and four hundred stand of arms had been forwarded to Plattsburgh,—that the militia had been called out, and that "warlike proceedings of an unusual character were proceeding." Evidently they were in fear lest the Yankees should invade and forcibly annex Canada to Plattsburgh.—Burlington Free Press.

These "warlike proceedings" were brought to a close on Saturday last, and "Camp Gray," (near the new barracks,) was abandoned for the present. At a meeting of the Feld and Staff Officers of the gallant 32d, however, it was unanimously resolved to postpone the "annexation of Canada to Plattsburgh" only till the Eleventh of September, 1855.—Platts. Rep.

HORTICULTURAL.—I would be glad if you would inform me what would be the most suitable hedge plant for a garden, where it is desirable to take up as little space as possible. I see Privet is called an evergreen in an English work, but not in a Rochester nursery catalogue. Are there two kinds? JOHN WILKES.—Terre Haute, Ind.

You have not stated whether you wish the hedge as an ornamental one for the lines of your garden, or as a thief-proof protection to its fruits. As an ornamental hedge, the Privet answers very well, and presents a very pretty appearance when properly trimmed; as a protective hedge against marauders, we know of nothing equal to the Osage Orange. There are two kinds of Privet, one of which retains its foliage nearly all winter.—Gen. Farmer.

MACDONOUGH'S VICTORY.—On the 11th September, 1814, Com. Macdonough announced his victory to the Secretary of the Navy in the following brief terms:

Sir: The Almighty has been pleased to grant us a signal victory on Lake Champlain, in the capture of one frigate, one brig, and two sloops of war of the enemy."

New-York, Oct. 11th.

The latest news of the Arctic. It was at first supposed that the Arctic had received little or no injury, and four of their boats were dispatched to render assistance to the Propeller leaving only one. It was discovered however, that the Arctic was leaking fast, and the remaining boat was speedily filled, and a raft constructed. Only one poor fellow was saved, after clinging to it 24 hours. The Arctic had 250 passengers, and a crew of 175 men. Upwards of 200 were seen on the Propeller, the fate of whom is unknown. Hopes are however, entertained, that the missing boats may have been picked up, or had reached the land.

Mechanics, Inventors and Manufacturers.

$570. IN CASH PRIZES. $570.

Volume Ten of the "Scientific American" commences on the 16th of September. It is chiefly devoted to the advancement of the interests of mechanics, inventors, manufacturers and farmers, and is edited by men practically skilled in the arts and sciences. Probably no other journal of the same character is so extensively circulated, or so generally esteemed for its practical utility. Nearly all the valuable patents which issue weekly from the Patent Office are illustrated with engravings, and the claims of all the Patents are published regularly in its columns as they are issued thus making it a perfect Scientific and Mechanical Encyclopedia of information upon the subjects of mechanical improvements, engineering, chemistry, and the sciences generally. It is published weekly in quarto form, suitable for binding, and each volume contains 416 pages of reading matter, several hundred engravings, with a full and complete index. Its circulation on the last volume exceeded 23,000 copies per week, and the practical receipts in one volume are worth to any family much more than the subscription price.

The following cash prizes are offered by the publishers for the fourteen largest lists of subscribers sent in by the 1st of January, 1855—$100 will be given for the largest list—$75 for the second—$65 for the third—$55 for the fourth—$50 for the fifth—45 for the sixth—40 for the seventh—35 for the eighth—50 for the ninth—25 for the tenth—20 for the eleventh—15 for the twelfth—10 for the thirteenth—and 5 for the fourteenth. The cash will be paid to the order of the successful competitor immediately after the 1st of January, 1855.

TERMS—One copy one year, $2—one copy six months $1—five copies, six months $4—ten copies, six months $8—ten copies, twelve months, $15—fifteen copies, twelve months, $22—twenty copies, twelve months, $28 in advance.

No number of subscriptions above twenty can be taken at less than $1.40 each.

Names can be sent in at different times and from different post offices.

Southern and Western money taken for subscriptions.

Letters should be directed, post-paid to MUNN & CO., 128 Fulton st., New York.

Messrs. Munn & Co., are extensively engaged in procuring patents for new inventions, and will advise inventors, without charge, in regard to the novelty of their improvements.

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of eight hundred and sixty one dollars and twenty nine cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the fifth day of August, 1853, executed by David Hinds, Jr., of the town of Keene, in the county of Essex and state of New York, to John Roth and James C Roth of the city of Troy, county of Rensselaer and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the said county of Essex, in book R., of mortgages, pages 444 and 445, on the sixth day of August, 1853, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described and covered by said mortgage to wit—ALL that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Wilmington, county of Essex and state of New York, known as part of lot number thirteen in Jay tract, and described as follows—beginning at the north west corner of said lot number thirteen, running thence south twenty-one degrees west thirty five chains and seventy five links, to the southwest corner of said lot thirteen; thence south sixty nine degrees east twenty-one chains and sixteen links to a post and stones, being the southwest corner of a ten acre lot heretofore sold to Rowland Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east six chains to the center of the brook; thence down the center of the brook as it winds and turns to the line of a part of said lot number thirteen, heretofore sold to Newell Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east along said Newell Marshall's line thirty chains and seventy-five links to the north line of said lot thirteen; thence north sixty nine degrees west thirty nine chains and sixteen links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty acres. The above courses are given as set down by John Richards in his survey, will be sold at public auction at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon,—Dated the 9th day of September 1854.

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagees.

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, & the interest thereon from the 1st day of *A*pril, 1853, which is claimed to be due on the day of the first publication of this notice upon a certain mortgage, executed by David Hinds, Jr., then of Keene, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Thomas A, Tomlinson, of Chesterfield, county and state aforesaid, of all that certain piece, or parcel of land, lying and being, situate in the town of Keene, Essex county, and state of New York, bounded as follows—On the north by lands formerly owned by Stephen Patridge, now owned by Ira Marks, known as the forge lot, on the east and south by lands owned by Franklin and Hills Sherburn, and on the west by the middle of the river, containing about ten acres of land, being the same premises conveyed by warranty deed to Joseph Hillman, bearing date the 29th day of November, 1849—said mortgage is dated the 31st day of August, 1852, and was recorded with the power of sale therein contained in the office of the clerk of Essex county, on the 2d day of September, 1852, in Book R. of mortgages on page 95, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof;—Therefore notice is hereby given, that said premises will be sold at public auction, and the said mortgage thereby foreclosed, pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, on the 12th of December, at 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the *A*dirondac Hotel [so called.] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex. Dated the 9th day of September 1854

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagee.

Mortgage Sale—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand three hundred and eighty-four dollars & fifty two cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of June, 1842, executed by Martin Pope and Eurotta, his wife, of the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Ebenezer Proudfit, Jacob L. Van Schoonhoven, and David T. Vail, of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on Liber K. of mortgages on pages 222, 223 and 224, on the 9th day of July, A. D., 1842, at 4 o'clock, P. M. which said mortgage was on the 29th day of May, 1854, duly assigned to Alvin Colvin, Charles P. Allen, and Isaac Nye, The interest of Charles P. Allen in which said mortgage, was on the day last aforesaid duly assigned to John K. Converse.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, to wit—ALL that certain lot of land, known and distinguished as lot number fifty five of the Adgate tract or patent of three thousand, six hundred acres, situate in the town of Chesterfield in the county of Essex, and state of New York, supposed to contain about one hundred and sixteen acres, and having thereon a dwelling house, and including a wharf in Douglass bay on Lake Champlain, together with all other buildings and erections on the said premises hereby conveyed now standing, will be sold at public auction, at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called,] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Dated the ninth day of September, 1854. 540:13

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

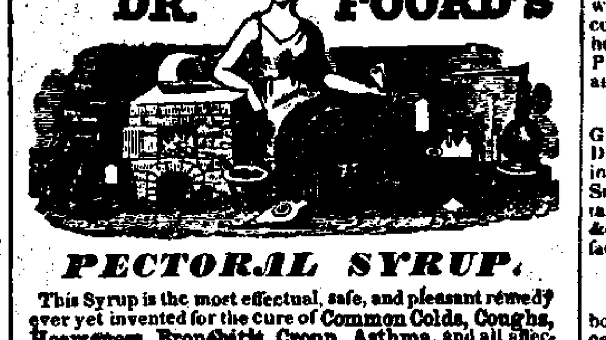
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.



THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. DR. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with he Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour, would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well, God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine; I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me, and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No. 149 Chambers Street; C. H. RING, corner of John street and Broadway, N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person inclosing $3 to Boyd & Paul, or Curtis & Perkins New York will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler, in a neat box, by express, free to any part of the United States; of four packages for $10. 522 1y

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

T. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where experienced working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in the invariations professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents supply no patent rights; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical mechanics of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr. Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficient objects of the Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which all class under the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this swooping up system may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time be injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have cornered to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt what which they purport to be.

By offering such low rates to meet at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be a service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of these objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the speedy and correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Head and Whip Saws

The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler.

Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in being and did not impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Gore or Vent Water Wheel.

Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run backward without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for or theory grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Rice's Spiral Lathe.

By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour.

Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut scroll work &c.

Cost of machine, $30. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels.

Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp.

Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $670.

7. Jones's Typographer.

A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by the clergymen, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right to sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fess & Maurice's Patent Amphibious Bob and Bran Dusser, with Carr & Hughes' improvement.

This patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other amospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolting thing that the use of this bolt will make 10 and 101 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. I. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump.

No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $24 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine.

The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is regarded with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $900.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus.

By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family size is sold from $20 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester.

With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Paper Guide-hooks.

Effecting a saving of 10 per cent, in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

DEBILITY

arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Powers of Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a Tonic Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and restore new life and health and happiness. Long suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which render are liable to are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN,

Who solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, can find

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of not knowing the felicities of

MARRIAGE,

Incapable by mental and bodily capacity, Hold Henry's Invigorating Cordial forward a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will and nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL"

is put up in 8 oz. Panned Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, to counterfeit which is forgery, as well as his private Seal on the neck of each Bottle.

Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen Prepaid to any by S. E. COLKEN, No. 3 Frankin Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the use of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections—few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter in matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. Those are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your manhood and relaxed organization retraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may reliably confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly be confided in.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, and proper treatment.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying hearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN,

Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty.

Dated Schroon, July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE.—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A. M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854. duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236.00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

UNION NURSERIES.

Keeseville, N. Y.

The undersigned, having disposed of his interest in this establishment, begs leave to advise his former patrons and the public generally, that his services as the practical manager of the Nursery have been retained; and that the business in all its branches will be continued as heretofore, under his immediate supervision.

The stock of saleable trees and plants is unusually large, and the quality very fine,

To persons ordering trees &c., in large quantities, or in assortments of 10, 20 or more choice varieties, to be selected by the undersigned—great inducements are now offered, by the way of discount from the regular prices, varying from 10 to 30 per cent. according to the amount and character of the trees &c. ordered.

TERMS CASH.—For prices &., see the general "CATALOGUE" of these Nurseries "for the Spring and Autumn of 1854," issued last spring—which is now adopted by the present proprietors, and will be forwarded to all post-paid applications.

Orders and letters of inquiry should be addressed, post-paid, to J. BATTEY, General Agent.

Tax Sale.

Essex County, Treasurer's Office. }

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the powers in me vested by law, I shall on the first Tuesday of December next at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Court House in the town of Elizabethtown, commence selling at public vendue, so much of the several and respective lots, tracts, pieces, or parcels of land in the annexed list described, as shall be necessary to pay all state, county, school, highway and road taxes assessed thereon in the year 1851, or prior thereto, that may then remain due on them respectively, together with the interest, costs and charges, which have arisen or accrued, or that may arise or accrue thereon, and shall accordingly sell, and continue from day to day to sell, until the whole shall be completed.

The purchasers are required to pay the purchase money within forty-eight hours after the last day of the sale, and will thereupon receive certificates of their purchases. And after the expiration of two years from said last day of sale, will be entitled to receive conveyances for the lands so purchased by them respectively, unless the same shall have been duly redeemed.

Dated at Elizabethtown, this 1st day of September, 1854.

SAFFORD E. HALE,
County Treasurer.

Lines to Lizzie.

"Still o'er those scenes my memory broods,
And hoards their joys with miser care,
Time but the impression deeper makes,
As streams their channels deeper wear."

'Tis twilight hour; the moon's pale beams,
Are flitting thro' my lonely room,
And here and there the shadows dance,
Like spectres in the twilight gloom.
I'm thinking of the happy past,
The gladsome hours of other days,
Ere shadows o'er my heart were cast.
When friendship shed its golden rays.
When you and I, together roamed,
Thr'o flowery dells, o'er green retreat,
Or sat upon the old church step,
And passed the hours in converse sweet.
Lizzie! I miss the dear old scenes,
Thy welcom smile, thy love so true,
But those bright days have all gone by,
I've none to love me here like you.
But still I trust with earnest hope,
That we again may share,
The sunlight of our early years,
Undimmed, by grief or care.
Oh! may your sky, my darling one,
Be ever fair and gay,
The sweetest flowers of love and hope
Bloom brightly o'er thy way.
And not in hours of joy and mirth,
When loved ones 'round you be,
But in some sad and lonely hour
Dear Lizzie! think of me.

Military Encampment at Plattsburgh, Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, 1854.

REMARKS,

Of Judge Stetson, on the morning of Saturday, the 5th, and last day of the encampment.

Officers and Men of the 32d: I come before you very unexpectedly indeed. I went out this morning for a walk, and straying on to the ground of your encampment to get a near view of this fine Regiment, I was suddenly arrested, and bro't before you. I say arrested gent; not vi et armis, but by a polite request from the accomplished Colonel, commanding, (which I could not refuse, but esteem a high honor to accept) to appear before you, as you are about to disband, and utter a few words of encouragement to Citizen Soldiers.

It is very well known, however, Gent., that I am no military man; my pursuits have been in a different direction; and in what I have to say then, you cannot expect any criticism suggested by the science of arms, or any commendation carrying like value. But it is said, that children are the best judges of pictures; and so a citizen like myself, of more years perhaps than most of you, and who has ever felt a watchful interest in this arm of the national defence, may possibly, though in no way a soldier, be a good judge of your appearance and promise.

I say then, officers and soldiers: that I am highly gratified with your appearance, and I assure you that general gratification is felt at the improvement we witness.

You will allow me to say that in my judgement, all you require now is more experience in discipline and drill; every thing else you have already; what you want will come with time and the great advantages which surround and encourage you under the new militia system.

Gent.: It must be admitted, that an effective and well trained citizen soldiery cannot be preserved in time of peace, of long protracted peace, without the aids of equipage, uniforms, encampment, proper arms, drill, discipline, show and pay. All these you have. It is true there was a time, and which we should never forget, when the militia of the country proved itself a most effective force without these aids. I allude to Lexington and Bunker Hill in the day of the Revolution, and to the operations on this very ground and near it, at a later period. But then the danger was imminent; foreign invasion had to be repelled, the fireside preserved; independence achieved and secured, and a devoted feeling of patriotism kept alive by the circumstances, all the while animated militia and made them most effective soldiers, without uniforms or drill, and sometimes scarcely without arms or apparel. The condition of our soldiers at Valley Forge, shows what men, burning with patriotism may do, though half starved, half clad and bare-foot. But with independence, peace came, and with peace, it cannot be denied, came a feeling of self-security, a sense of danger past, that appeared to remove the stimulus of a well trained and efficient militia. The patriotism that inspired our fore fathers, was not dead; it only slumbered; but the military spirit required to animate a citizen soldiery under the old militay system, slumbered with it. As population multiplied and the country expanded and grew in strength, this feeling of indifference continued to increase, though we were admonished by the highest authority that peace was the time to prepare for war. All men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five were required to do military service for a day at least, and all men, when they did appear to do service, appeared mostly without arms, or with such arms and such drill and discipline that citizen soldiers, made their own appearance and action, the subjects of self derision. I have often, gent., as you all have seen a militia company parade made a general laughing-stock. It was the system that was wrong. In the nature of things, there could not be under it, in time of peace, the progress and efficiency produced among citizens of all arms and dress, when animated by patriotism in time of war. But gent., the new system under which you muster produces very different results, even in time of peace; your appearance here to-day is a very satisfactory proof that we may have a well trained and effetive militia, without a war to animate it.

You are gent; a part of the government of the country and in my judgment a very necessary part. I have no such confidence in the purity of mankind or of the present progress of righteousness in the world that I would feel it safe for the nation to dispense with Military defence—at least to the extent of a well trained Militia. What has been, may be again! Why gent. at this very hour we can almost hear the heavy tread of the Mighty Armies that cover the fields of Europe, threatening the existence of thrones and dynasties, and though there is no reason to suppose that we shall be involved; yet we see in the events which have there occurred the suddeness with which war may come upon a nation and it is another admonition to us to be ready and make our preparation whilst at peace.—None of us can know how soon you may be called on to quell domestic riots, insurrections, or to help repel foreign invasion or aggression and your appearance hear to-day indicates that in such emergencies the country may look to you in confidence that you will do your duty.

There is everything to encourage you in your undertaking to improve your discipline and knowledge of the duties of the camp. You are the youth—the first young men of the frontier, and not only that, you are, in common with growing millions, citizens of a Republic which you all love and cherish, and are resolved to defend, and you know that you have the gratitude and good wishes of all who have witnessed your operations here upon the field.

And gent: it is a source of gratification to us all, and which we may express without any just imputation of vain-glory, that whilst the policy of other countries wrenches from the laboring millions more than a tithe of their hard earnings with which to pay Swiss Soldiers and the like kind host to sustain the withering divine right of Kings. Yet here in this country we have a system and policy by which an effective Millitary force can be maintained and diciplined at a cost so cheap that it scarcely exceeds the aggregate price of the dinners saved by those who commute and remain at home.

But there are also local considerations which you cannot overlook and that inspire you with patriotic zeal. You are Citizen Soldiers of the Northern Frontier; your homes are mostly in sight of the Province of a power, whose display of military discipline and strength excels any other in christendom; and though their is no unfriendliness or other cause to produce apprehension, yet your advanced position demands that we should not suffer by contrasts. And then gent., the very ground of your encampment, over which your flag waves, is consecrated to patriotism and Military Glory. It was from this very spot of elevated land that, forty years ago the 11th of this September, McComb and Mooers supported by Militia and Regulars drove back the British Lion and the cross of St. George, whilst at the same time the sparkling silver waters of the Bay at our front, was the scene of a naval conflict that alike shed renown upon the name of McDonough and the United States of America. And over there to the left, standing where we do, we behold the monuments and graves of the illustrious dead; the gallant men who perished in the conflict. Surely you have local reminiscences here that awaken and arouse your patriotism and to which none can be indifferent.

Gent: as I appear without preparation; for the rest you may expect, be pleased to accept my apology.

The receipts of grain at Buffalo from Saturday to Tuesday inclusive, reached half a million of bushels.

CONGRESSIONAL.

For Member of Congress,

Clear the Track!
PENNSYLVANIA!!
OHIO!!
INDIANA!!!

"Get out of the way,
"Get out of the way,
"Get out of the way,
"Dont you see the people coming?"

Pennsylvania has a Whig Gov. by 25,000 majority, and in Ohio and Indiana, Pierce is routed "horse, foot and dragoons."

Our attention was attracted the other morning to an unusual clattering in a distant part of the office, when on giving an ear to it, we found it was our little drummer, playing the rogue's march for the benefit of the flying Pierce democracy, as well from the Troy jail as from Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana, We expect to be disturbed some morning before election, with the beating of the revoille to rally the people to the polls.

Here he is.

The Pierce Democracy of N. Y. City, have nominated a well known Native American and Know-Nothing for City Atty. Yet the Administration professes to be par excellence, the friends of the adopted citizens.

When we think how stupidly the Irish Catholics allowed themselves to be swallowed up by Pierce in 1852, we are half inclined to join the Know-Nothings, tho' we have many superb friends among the Irish. There stands New-Hampshire, Democratic always, a standing monument of religious proscription, with the only Constitution in the U. S., in which are Catholic disabilities! The truth stands out too plain to admit of denial, yet Catholics are to a man democrats. We do not ask Irish to be whigs, but we do ask them to be governed by facts and reason.

We have had the pleasure to receive the weekly circular of J. P. Chapin & Co., Produce, Commission, and forwarding Merchants, Chicago, Ill., of which firm Louis Follett, late of Burlington, Vt., is a member, and doing an extensive and successful business. The circular embraces the business of each week in flour, grain, and all kinds of produce, together with the market prices, at wholesale and retail. It is a small sheet, serving both as a newspaper and an advertisement. The numerous friends of Louis Follett will be pleased to hear good tidings of him in his new and distant home.

We were recently in the vicinity of the murder in Addison, Vt. It produced an extensive excitement there as by the arrest of the young scapegrace, two or three had escaped death at his hands. There was no cause for the murder. It is not true that Cheny's wife ever rejected the addresses of the young man. He would not presume to pay his addresses to any woman. He was an idle, vicious vagabond and shot Cheny as he would a dog—from some fancied pique, or offence. He has long been a nuisance and a terror to the neighborhood, and his father and mother have lived in fear for years. Hanging is too good for him.

Hon. George A. Simmons.

We place the name of this gentleman at our mast head with the rest of the Whig candidates—a position it should have had last week, but owing to our absence it was overlooked. At the same time we confess to some carelessness from our belief that the "People are moving." There is a tide in favor of whig tickets this year that we have supposed would carry them all successfully, even in spite of newspapers, or politicians. As to Mr. Simmons, we had supposed his nomination and election prearranged by the people. Hence, fulsome adulation would be as useless as in want of taste. We generally have an object in what we say, and seldom write for the more purpose of puffing a candidate, or of getting ourself into his good graces. If an article is not needed—if it will not be of use—we omit it. As we view the campaign, the field is already won. The harvest is ripe and the reapers have only to step in with their sickles. This view is only obscured by the invisible Know-Nothings. They strike unseen. In all other respects the campaign has but one side to it and that is the whig side. What results this strange order may bring about cannot be known till after election. An unseen foe cannot be met. As to them, we can only wait and see—we can do nothing.

But to return from our digression. We append the kindly notices of the press, on the nomination of Mr. Simmons, as the best offering we can make at this time.

HON. GEORGE A. SIMMONS RE-NOMINATED.—It will be seen by the proceedings of the Congressional Convention, which we publish this week, that Hon. Geo. A Simmons is re-nominated as the Whig Candidate for Congress in this District. The position which Mr. Simmons took and the firmness which he displayed in resisting the passage of the nefarious Nebraska bill had great weight with the Convention in again reposing in him the interests of a large and enlightened constituency. Indeed, the Convention could not well have done otherwise such was the press of public opinion in his favor. As in many other Districts throughout the North, so there is a strong disposition here to return their member who has acted rightly on the great and vital question of the last session. The Convention was willing to establish the two term principle, to remove every serious objection to Mr. Simmon's re-nomination. There were others whose claims were presented for its consideration every way worthy for an election to Congress, but, owing to circumstances, their claims could not receive the sanction of the convention, as would most likely have been done, under different auspicies. Whatever of anxiety might have been entertained by some, to have a candidate to represent more immediately their own locality, we are well assured that every confidence is reposed in Mr. Simmons' ability and fidelity, to guard the interest and carry out the wishes of his entire constituency.

We shall undoubtedly have occasion, from time to time, to refer to Mr. Simmons' course in Congress, and, in the meantime, shall content ourself with the consolatory reflection that a generous effort on the part of the Whigs of this District, will place his election beyond all possible peradventure.—Clinton Co. Whig.

The Whig Congressional Convention, for this district, which met at Plattsburgh on the 3d inst., re-nominated the Hon. G. A. Simmons. We trust we shall not be deemed to transgress the limit of an honorable neutrality, if we say that this nomination is but a just tribute to learning and individual worth.—E. Town Post.

The Vermont Legislature.

ELECTION OF U. S. SENATOR—GOVERNOR ROYCES' MESSAGE.

MONTPELIER, (Vt.) Saturday, Oct. 14, '54.

Hon. Jacob Collamore of Woodstock, Whig, was to-day elected United States Senator for the long term by a majority in both houses of about thirty, and Hon. Lawrence Brainard of St. Albans, Free Soiler, for the short term, receiving nearly every Whig and Free Soil Vote.

Gov. Royce's Message was delivered this forenoon. It is unusually brief, and was received with much favor by all parties.—Upon the Liquor Law question the Governor committed himself strongly in favor of the Prohibitory system.

[Hon. Geo. W. Grandy of Vergennes, a first rate clever fellow, a gentleman, and a Whig, was elected Speaker of the Lower house on the first ballot.

Congressional Convention.

The Whig Convention was held at Fort Edward on the 12th inst., and nominated Edward Dodd of Argyle as their Candidate for Congress from the (15th) District.

The "Softs" held their Convention yesterday at the same place, and nominated Charles Hughes, for a re-election.

The "Hards" met at the same place and time, nominated Orville Clark, as their Candidate.

We understand an attempt to unite was made, but failed. An effort was made to go into one Convention and nominate. If that course had been taken Mr. Hughes would undoubtedly have received the nomination. But all propositions were unavailing. The old party is rent in twain, and bound to remain so. The cohesive principle—office—fails to unite them, for if they succeed they don't exactly know who will get the office!—as for principle they are quite destitute.—Glen's Falls Press.

☞ The witnesses in the case of Mr. Nelson, called to Albany this week, have returned and report that in the opinion of many in Troy, Nelson has not left that city—that he undoubtedly had aid and favor from high quarters—that the hole he sawed in his cell was too small to admit his escape and that he no doubt went out at the door—that not an officer has left Troy in pursuit and apparently they don't desire to take him, &c., &c, &c.

Local Correspondence.

SCHROON, Oct. 18th, 1852.

J. TARBELL:—

Sir—You will please republish or ask your readers to consider republished, the article in yours of last week, headed "Local Correspondence from Schroon" with the following corrections and explanations to wit:—The signature "J. F. Potter" should be "F. J. Potter," and the word "Smit," "Sint," and as to explanations we were informed that some of the most fastidious kind have construed the passage "provided with the provisions of life," to refer to the other sex: we have only to say, that the "provisions" we were speaking of, are not the "provisions" they are thinking of.

Yours, &c.

IMPORTANT ESCAPE FROM JAIL!!

Nelson, the Keeseville P. M. at Large.

Nelson, the late P. M. at Keeseville, who was arrested and held to bail on the charge of robbing the U. S. Mail at his own office, a few weeks since, broke jail on Sunday evening under the following circumstances: During his confinement, every privilege consistent with his offence was allowed him, and Sheriff Price and his assistants treated the prisoner with that degree of consideration which his intelligence and former social position were calculated to enlist.

In the same apartment with Nelson, was another prisoner, who on Sunday evening complained of illness, and Nelson gave him what he assured his companion was proper medicine, but which proved to be laudanum. The dose was enough to soon put the patient to sleep; and while he slept Nelson worked. With the aid of a curious saw that had been conveyed to him by some unknown hands, he made a passage through a partition of lath and plaster, which let him into the main hall. From thence his passage was unobstructed thro' a window to the ground, by means of a rope when, it is supposed, a carriage was in readiness to convey him away. Nelson left behind him the following note to Sheriff Price:

SUNDAY NIGHT.

Dear Sir:—Intelligence of a discouraging nature, informing me that my approaching trial is not to be on any account postponed, impels me to make my way out of this place to-night.

I have to thank you before doing so, however, for your kindness to me. I am also indebted to Dr. Hegeman for his attention to my comfort, and I regret that interests of the highest importance, lead me to take a step for which some people may attempt to find fault with you. All that I can say is, that I have been fortunate in eluding your vigilance as a public officer.

The effects I leave behind me should be addressed by express to my friends in Plattsburgh, who, upon your presenting a bill for my expenses with you, will no doubt pay it. Any letters coming here might be returned to me at P——, that is, after waiting until next week when my brother is to be here. With a renewal of my acknowledgements for your goodness, I remain,

Yours, respectfully,
A. C. NELSON.

John Price, Sheriff &c.

No doubt Nelson escaped by a well-devised and thoroughly matured plan, in which he had every necessary assistance. We understand that a number of strangers, gentlemen and ladies, have from time to time visited him, some of whom conversed with the prisoner in the French language.

It may or may not be connected with the escape of Nelson, nevertheless it is a fact that all the telegraph lines north were cut on Sunday evening. His father is the present Mayor of Montreal.

The escape of Nelson is rather a "good egg." It in some sense, makes the whole thing ridiculous. It has at the same time changed the sentiments of the people toward him. Sympathy for the imprisoned youth, does not extend to the flying criminal. He had all of course, but whence it came is mere speculation. He stated to a person of our acquaintance, that he was a member of a secret society whose members would lend its aid in the hour of need. It is safe to conclude now at least, that he is a finished rogue (with plenty of accomplices,) and has been for years. All we have to say is, "go it boots,"—he is worthy of the Administration, and the Administration is worthy of him.

☞ The 'Softs' of Clinton Co., held their convention for the nomination of county officers, in Plattsburgh on Wednesday last. We understand that LEMUEL NORTH, Esq., of Chazy, was nominated for Member of Assembly, and that Franklin Elmore, the 'Hard' nominee, declined running. The 'hards' will not renominate. The result shows a virtual concurrence of the 'hards' with the 'softs'—at least upon Member of Assembly.

☞ The Soft Congressional Convention for this District, held at Plattsburgh on Thursday last, nominated Hon. Gorton T. Thomas of Ausable for Member of Congress.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A serious accident occurred to a young man by the name of Green, on Tuesday last at Port Kent, by the falling of the boom of a large derrick, used by Messrs. Colvin and Allen, for lading and unlading vessels. While hoisting the shaft of an iron water-wheel, weighing 5 tons, the cable parted, the tackle block striking young Green upon the side of the head, fracturing and depressing a portion of the skull, rendering him insensible.—Doct. Talmadge was sent for who trephined him, and elevated the depressed bone, but no hopes were entertained of his recovery, from the severe laceration of the brain, and large sinews. We have since learned he expired a few hours after the injury.

Hocuspocus.—The citizens of Plattsburgh, Burlington, and vicinity, were stirred up to an indignation gathering on Wednesday last, and met at Burlington to give Capt. Foster of the Canada three groans for refusing dinner to a portion of the crew of the Arctic, on their way from Quebec to N. Y., because they had no money to pay for it. Now, if those are the men who deserted the sinking vessel and left the passengers, Capt. Foster ought not only have refused them their dinner, but a passage even. They ought to be hissed and kicked from every place, and become like Cain, wanderers on the face of the earth.

We see by the papers, that one of the crew of the Arctic shipped at N. Y. for another voyage, but the Capt. finding it out kicked him ashore, saying, 'he would have no such cowards on his vessel.' The indignation is of course, original hostility to the Burton boats, and the dastardly cowards who were refused a dinner, are only the occasion to let off gas.

P. S.—We suspect the people who turned out to show their "indignation," got a "Roland for an Oliver;" they were wholly unexpected, and they had to submit to the mortification of making known the object of their visit, when there was an immense amount of "indignation" aroused. We see by the Albany Register, that Capt. Tisdal was the man guilty of the rudeness, while Capt. Foster did his duty. The whole story is undoubtedly fiction from beginning to end. The people must learn to look with suspicion upon reports put afloat by little opponents and to anonymous handbills got out by editors, the extent of whose "indignation" is the want of a "free pass" on the boats of those "awful monsters."

☞ We go in for an indignation meeting against Capt. Foster for permitting those deserters to ride on his boat any way.

Mechanics, Inventors and Manufacturers.

$570. $570.
IN CASH PRIZES.

Volume Ten of the "Scientific American" commences on the 16th of September. It is chiefly devoted to the advancement of the interests of mechanics, inventors, manufacturers and farmers, and is edited by men practically skilled in the arts and sciences. Probably no other journal of the same character is so extensively circulated, or so generally esteemed for its practical utility. Nearly all the valuable patents which issue weekly from the Patent Office are illustrated with engravings, and the claims of all the Patents are published regularly in its columns as they are issued thus making it a perfect Scientific and Mechanical Encyclopedia of information upon the subjects of mechanical improvements, engineering, chemistry, and the sciences generally. It is published weekly in quarto form, suitable for binding and each volume contains 416 pages of reading matter, several hundred engravings, with a full and complete index. Its circulation on the last volume exceeded 23,000 copies per week, and the practical receipts in one volume are worth to any family much more than the subscription price.

The following cash prizes are offered by the publishers for the fourteen largest lists of subscribers sent in by the 1st of January, 1855—$100 will be given for the largest list—$75 for the second—$65 for the third—$55 for the fourth—$50 for the fifth—45 for the sixth—40 for the seventh—35 for the eighth—50 for the ninth—25 for the tenth—20 for the eleventh—15 for the twelfth—10 for the thirteenth—and 5 for the fourteenth. The cash will be paid to the order of the successful competitor immediately after the 1st of January, 1855

TERMS—One copy one year, $2—one copy, six months $1—five copies, six months $4—ten copies, six months $8—ten copies, twelve months, $15—fifteen copies, twelve months, $22—twenty copies, twelve months, $28 in advance,

No number of subscriptions above twenty can be taken at less than $1.40 each.

Names can be sent in at different times and from different post offices.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an exten- sive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bow- els. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruc- tion or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are ap- plicable are given on the box. Among the com- plaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Ap- petite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the con- sequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Cos tiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrof- ula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly suc- cessful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appe- tite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, reno- vate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but un- necessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evi- dences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its use- fulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too appar ent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affec- tions of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable at- tacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Con- sumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Com- plaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS's Hygea- na, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED
BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered be- yond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. Du- ring the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have re- ceived no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hy- geana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.
MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strength- ening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Con- sumption. Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer, to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restor- ed many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of, which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhale- ing—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists throughout the country.—(From the New York Dutch- man of January 14th.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers, every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guaranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, in equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence, assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Ehman, who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. EHMAN, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof. A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES, President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficent objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it whilst the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of, the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate, boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Auger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop, without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $650.

7. Jones's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Froe & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' improvement. These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvements, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and as it from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, making that the use of this bolt will make 102 and 101 barrels of flour where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $700.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine, a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one-half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience, by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluror Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patient has been confined in bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or in loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not superior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fat l to the existence of man, and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause of source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the felicities of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial, a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

MARRIAGE,

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

It is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

Is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery.) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen. Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Franklin Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. York, Wholesale Agents, TO WHOM ALL ORDERS MUST BE ADDRESSED. For Sale by all respectable Druggists and Merchants throughout the country. 495-ly

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation.] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate him elf before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony, his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are consideratio s which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysan to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York. on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in he forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN,
Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty.

Dated Schroon, July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A. M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236,00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

Tax Sale.

ESSEX COUNTY, }
Treasurer's Office. }

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the powers in me vested by law, I shall on the first Tuesday of December next at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Court House in the town of Elizabethtown, commence selling at public vendue, so much of the several and respective lots, tracts, pieces, or parcels of land in the annexed list described, as shall be necessary to pay all state, county, school, highway and road taxes assessed thereon in the year 1851, or prior thereto, that may then remain due on them respectively, together with the interest, costs and charges, which have arisen or accrued, or that may arise or accrue thereon, and shall accordingly sell, and continue from day to day to sell, until the whole shall be completed.

The purchasers are required to pay the purchase money within forty-eight hours after the last day of the sale, and will thereupon receive certificates of their purchases. And after the expiration of two years from said last day of sale, will be entitled to receive conveyances for the lands so purchased by them respectively, unless the same shall have been duly redeemed.

Dated at Elizabethtown, this 1st day of September, 1854.

THE REPUBLICAN.

KEESEVILLE:

Saturday Morning, October 28.

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands,
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

(Written for the Republican.)

"Our Cause, it is Just."

O shame! O woe! O worse than follies vain!
How long will man, the mad'ning goblet drain;
The cup of tears, the glass of thousand ills,
Which fills the Alms-house, and the prison fills?
How long will he, the deadly poison sip—
With eyes bloodshot, with fever-tainted lip
Revel in madness o'er the midnight bowl—
That turns the brain and then damns the soul?
Thousand times worse, how long will man for lust
Of filthy lucre, naught but glit'ring dust;
Unheeding curses sworn by Heaven's high throne—
Alike unmindful of the maniac groan—
Caring for naught but to prolong his craft—
Knowing that he who drinks will sure renew the draught—
Of all regardless, but the ready dime,
Hold to his neighbor's lips the cup of crime?
Thou ruthless passion, sordid lust for gold
That through all time the human will controlled.
Thou love of money, root of every ill,
Inspiring man his fellow man to kill,
In battle's strife, by martial torches lit,
Or in cold blood by pfund'ring bandit,
Delerium tremens, agonizing pains!—
These, GOD'S LAW forbids, this mans law sustains.
Is there no hope, may we not purge the stain?
There is forsooth, we point to noble Maine.
Her noble son, her champion leads the van,
Her patriot true, her NIEL DOW is the man—
Go sound his praise ye blazon trump of fame,
While rock and glen shall echo back his name—
Up then ye valiants, in your numbers rush
On to the rescue, the foul traffic crush.

Driving in the British Picket Guard.—An Incident in the Seige of Plattsburgh.

On the fifth day of September, 1814, a detachment of Captain Sperry's company of State Dragoons were encamped behind the heights south of Sampson's 'Brick Tavern' (so called) on the State Road in Clinton county. The heights at Sampson's were occupied by the British army, 14,000 strong, and were distant about two miles from the range of hills opposite on the south, behind which lay the American Dragoons, under the command of Lieutenants Matthew M. Standish and Roswell Wait.

Their orders from General Macomb were to reconnoitre and watch the motions of the enemy, and report to Head-Quarters. Standish and Wait, leaving their arms at the camp, and dressed as citizens, boldly entered the British lines, as citizens were then allowed to pass and re pass. They entered the house of Daniel Wait, (the ruins of which are now standing) about midway from the two eminences already described. The British picket guard occupied a log-house, perhaps half a mile from the main body. Having carefully noted the position of the guard, Standish and Wait, both at the time very young, resolved to bring out their men, about thirty in number, and charge the guard, consisting, as was supposed, of one company of regulars. Their arms were stacked, and the men at ease in apparent security, supposing that no part of the American force was nearer than Dead Creek, about four miles distant.

Returning to their men, who had become impatient, Standish taking advantage of the ground to conceal his movement, brought his men suddenly into the road, and ordered the charge. It was made rapidly and steadily—not a man falling back; the horses were in fine condition, and the party, who had all seen 'some service,' advanced bravely, with drawn swords, at full speed.

The guard hastily seized their arms and fled, taking to the fields and dispersing, endeavored to reach the main body. At this moment, the quick, hurried roll of the British drums was heard along the whole line of the army, and immediately the heights were covered with troops,—the red uniforms and bright bayonets contrasting with the deep green of the forest adjacent to the camp.

Regiment after regiment wheeled into column, and the road was presently filled with their dense masses.

The Canadian Voltigeurs, with their gray uniforms, were detached as flankers, and a troop of dragoons advanced to the front.

It was evident that the British General considered the route of his picket as a challenge for battle, and that the American Army lay in force behind the hills on the south. Such would have been the case in European service, where an attack upon a picket is not usually made, except when the army is to take up new ground, or give battle.

Standish had such an advantage over the British infantry, that had he forced his charge, some of them must have been sabred. But he did not feel himself authorized to hasard his men, as his movement was without orders, and only intended as a ruse de guerre.

He accordingly halted his men and held his ground, until the enemy threw out his flankers. He then retreated leisurely, and formed his men on the summit of the hill in his rear, now the residence of D. R. Parsons, Esq. He distributed them in open order, so as to present the appearance of some force, and induce the enemy to suppose that the American army was near. After a short interval, he again advanced with his party, to reconnoitre. At this time he did so, cautiously and warily, feeling his ground as he advanced.

Finding a troop of dragoons in front, and suspecting an ambush, he halted, and wheeled to retire, when the Voltigeurs rose from behind the fences, but out of range of shot.

The British army, finding that the attack was not sustained by any larger force, returned to its encampment, and the following day took up its line of march for Plattsburgh.—Platts. Rep.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Oct. 1st, 1854.

COL. TARBELL:—

Dear Sir,—Having seen it stated in several northern papers that "it is rumored," that Texas has gone "No Licence," I wish to give the friends of Temperance in your section to understand that this rumor is entirely correct. But the "Burlington Free Press," says, "The act voted on is a weak sister only prohibiting sales in less quantities than one quart." It is true we only succeeded in getting the "Quart law," but is not that a great triumph for Texas? But says another paper "The law is neither the one thing nor the other, it is half way between, a milk and water law and can never be enforced." Now we do not claim any great credit for what we have done, because it was done so easy. In fact it almost done itself. It was almost as easy as the old lady got her dinner with a new cook stove of commendable qualities, or rather of qualities which she wished to commend. She said all she "had to do was jest to put on the dinner and set down and see it get." So it was with us, we had only to print the tickets, distribute them and set down and see them voted. The authors of the law in the Legislature, say that this law is only a "feeler" thrown out to ascertain what the popular sentiment is on this subject, and the people having declared by an overwhelming majority in favor of the great principle of prohibition, you may confidentlylook for a law a nallagious to that of Maine at the next meeting of our Legislature. As an evidence of the enforcing of this "Act" insufficient as it is, I enclose you a handbill which I take down from a corner building for that purpose. It speaks for itself. Mr. King is a law abiding citizen and yields cheerfully to the will of the majority. I do not write this for publication. I barely wish you to give the world to understand that Texas is a Temperance State and that she is growing more so every day. A change is also gradually coming over the politics of this State which will increase precisely in the same ratio as whiskey decreases.

Truly Yours
J. G. VIALL.

[Notwithstanding the request to the contrary, we take the liberty to give the above entire, believing many of our readers will thank us for so doing, and that the writer will therefore pardon our disobedience. The handbill alluded to we give below as an original curiosity.]—Ed. Rep.

DEAD!!

DIED, on or about the 1st day of August last, the well known establishment called the GRAN SOCIEDAD, for the want of spirits to keep it up, and its death confirmed by a vote of the Sovereigns of Bexar County, on the first Monday in August last. Therefore, all persons indebted to the defunct establishment are requested to come forward and settle with the estate, either by CASH or Note within ten days from date, or their whiskey accounts will be made public by being placed in the hands of an Attorney for collection, without respect to person.

CONGRESSIONAL.
For Member of Congress.
HON. GEO. A. SIMMONS.

"ALL'S WELL."—We have just been through two or three towns, and we are able to report—"All's Well." There is an under current in favor of the position Whigs now occupy, and as to candidates, we have thus far discovered nothing to create a doubt of the triumphant success of the entire Whig ticket. At the same time, we are enabled to state positively, that an earnest effort has been made to get up a new County Convention, "without distinction of party," with a view to defeating the larger part of the Whig County Ticket, including Member of Assembly, Clerk and Treasurer. It has probably been abandoned for the want of proper encouragement. We deem it our duty, to state that Mr. Lansing has been very active in canvassing for such an operation, and at the same time, congratulate those whigs who have patronized him through personal kindness, or in the vain hope of securing his favor and that of his party.—If whigs encourage his paper into life, they will find they have tamed a hawk to scratch their own eyes out.

As to Member of Congress, calculating according to known political issues, Mr Simmons would be elected beyond any possible contingency. He will take the main Whig and Abolition Vote. Messrs. Flanders, Thomas and Bailey will divide the Democratic vote, as it is Hard, Soft, Nebraska and Anti-Nebraska. We think Mr. Bailey will take ten to one of the Democratic vote, on the Nebraska issue, together with a few Whigs and Abolitionists on personal grounds. Then step in the Know-Nothings, and who they will go for, we know not. On the other hand, if known, the Catholic vote will be cast in an opposite direction, without regard to old party issues.

What is done must be done quickly, as election is just one week from next Tuesday. Whigs, are you doing your duty?

A WARNING.—There can scarcely be a doubt of the election of Myron H. Clark for Gov., but the Lt. Gov. may be in doubt. For the latter office, there are so many candidates as to render the election of Ludlow, the soft candidate and the most venal politician in the State, among the possibilities of the canvass. His election would be a misfortune, as he is deadly hostile to the canals and opposed to common decency, as a presiding officer. We think the Free Democrats and a portion of temperance men err greatly in voting for Wood. We shall not argue the question. It is too plain to mislead sensible men.—We only raise a warning voice.

Are whigs aware that they are riding the storm this fall? We do not predict that they will reap the whirlwind, but they inevitably will, unless they keep cool and guide the tempest. We have no anxiety about the result this fall, but what the end of all these things is to be is another thing. Our object is not to alarm, but to warn whigs not to get off their guard.—This uprising is all right, we like to see it, yet there are fundamental principles not to be lost sight of; there are certain landmarks as lasting as the hills, which all will admit in moments of candor.—There is danger of losing sight of these and adopting fallacious conclusions which can remain only for a season and will then explode. Still the excitement is right—let it run—higher and higher—there is no danger if whigs stand by the helm.

GOOD NEWS FROM FRANKLIN CO.—Mr. Simmons was in Malone on Tuesday, and made a speech to a large gathering. The whigs of that County were in Convention, and nominated a first-rate ticket, with the intention of electing it. They are going to work to redeem the County. "The skies are bright" in Franklin.

CONGRESSIONAL.—Gorton T. Thomas, Soft nominee for Congress, is a resident of Ausable, by occupation a farmer, is a man of some sagacity, a first rate clever fellow, and as to ability and property ranks with the ordinary run of prosperous farmers. His self esteeem is well developed, and he is rather pleased with position, whether great or small. He was once a member of Assembly from Clinton County, and is therefore, Hon. G. T. Thomas. He has been Colonel of Militia, and is therefore Col, Thomas. He was Whig in 1840, and Tyler in 1842, when he was honored with the Keeseville Post Office, a position, it is said, he has some chances of occupying under Pierce, being about the only responsible and respectable Pierce and Nebraska man in this section. The nomination is a consistent one. No other could well have been made by an Administration Convention. It was proper and right for that convention to nominate a Pierce and Nebraska Candidate, and Mr, Thomas is such an one—that is honorable at least—the issue is fairly made—as Mr. Thomas is a decided Pierce and Nebraska man. The delegates to the convention, were personally 7 to 1 in favor of the nomination of Jerome B. Bailey, and a committee was sent to examine him in the democratic catechism, when it was found that he did not answer the requirements—he being anti-administration, anti-Nebraska, anti-slavery, for the Maine Law,—would not vote for Seymour, and as to whether he was a Know-Nothing it was none of their business! Of course, as friends of the Administration, they could not nominate him. Mr. Thomas is an administration man. As such, with no personal objections, unless it be a want of political stability, he will be the worst defeated man in the three counties. We mean to say simply, that Mr. Thomas is a worthy citizen, but as the representative of Pierce and Nebraska, he will want a knot-hole to crawl through after election.

With Pierce and Nebraska on his shoulders, he would be defeated by the people, even if running without a competitor. So far from "acquiescing" in that outrage, the masses are just getting their eyes open, and the popular sentiment has but just begun to be concentrated against it.

HARD SHELL NOMINATIONS.—The Hard-Shell Convention met yesterday and nominated Col. David Hamilton for Congress, Lemuel Jenkins, for Treasurer, John G. Chism for Justice, and Garret T. Bradt for Coroner.

On the first ballot the Hon. Mr. Peckham, who has faithfully and fearlessly represented nine-tenths of his Constituents in opposing the Administration and in voting steadily against the Nebraska swindle, received 34 of the 76 votes cast, after which, on motion of Mr. Nafew, he was declared nominated. But as his Anti-Nebraska Vote conflicts with the views and course of his National Democratic friends, Mr. P. declined; and then Col. Hamilton was nominated unanimously.

Resolutions adopting the Syracuse Platform, concurring in the Nomination of Judge Bronson, and justifying the Nebraska Swindle, together with the following, were adopted:—

Resolved, That while this Convention feels itself constrained to express its regret that our Representative in Congress, the Hon. Rufus W. Peckham, opposed the Kansas Nebraska bill, and to disapprove of his vote in opposition to that measure, yet we fully sustain his general course of action in Congress, and especially we render him our warmest thanks for his bold, manly and defiant opposition to the imbecile, faithless and disgraceful Administration of Franklin Pierce.—Albany Journal.

GEN. STORMS, was a candidate for nomination to the office of State Prison Inspector, before the Hard Convention, but failing there, he made a dash at the "Softs," and failing there also, has issued the following card. He is a veteran democrat, is as ignorant as a horse block, went early into the Native movement, and is a faithful member still, and is the hero of a sham fight at Whiteplains, and is totally unfit for an office. We command him to democrats.

TO THE PUBLIC.

In compliance with the request of my numerous friends, I hereby announce myself for re-election to the office I now hold.

HENRY STORMS,
State Prison Insp'r.

New York, Oct. 3, 1854.

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.—On the 7th of November the States of New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, are to elect fifty-four Representatives to Congress. In New York and Michigan, State officers are to be chosen; in Illinois, State Treasurer and County officers, and Legislatures in all the States mentioned The annual election in Massachusetts will take place on the 13th November, when eleven Representatives in Congress will be chosen, together with a Governor and State Legislature.

☞ POLITICAL FORESIGHT.—The New York Times publishes the following estimate of the vote of this State, in November next:

Hards	100,000.
Softs	60,000.
Know-Nothings	60,000.
Whigs	250,000.
Aggregate Vote.	470,000.

We put this prophecy on record, chiefly for the purpose of having these figures convenient to compare them with the actual result, fifteen days hence.

KENDALL has received a fine lot of Havanna Oranges, fresh and nice.

☞ The farmers of Addison county, Vt. claim that that county produces the best horses and sheep of any county in the U. S. That may be, but Essex Co. N. Y., has a great many fine horses. A great interest has been taken in their improvement for several years, and we could name some as fine horses as can be found anywhere. We apprehend that if the sales of the past year or two could be got at, it would be found that Essex and Clinton counties, have sold as many good horses as any other two counties in the Union.

In sheep and cattle too, we are not behind. The farmers of Essex, Crownpoint and Ticonderoga, would not hesitate to compare their flocks with the best. Passing through Crownpoint the other day, we stopt to look at a yoke of four year old steers said to be very handsome. We shall never regret calling. We saw the handsomest specimen of cattle kind we ever beheld—a yoke of four yaer old steers, twins, dark red, large spreading horns, as tame as kittens, yet as spry as deers, perfect in every particular, and weighing 3,000 lbs. They are owned by CHAUNCY HUTCHINSON. He also showed us a Buck and ten ewes he had just sold for $250 to be taken West to improve the breed.

The farmers of Bridport Vt., have a race course for their own private use to train horses to sell. The result has been to sell horses for $500 to $1000, that without training might not have brought over $150 to $200.

EXACTLY.—A landlord in a neighboring town, recently ordered the Republican, saying he wanted it for the benefit of the public,—it having been frequently called for, by people interested in its advertisements, or news. We try to obtain all interesting local items, and have been frequently complimented for this, as well as a due appreciation expressed for the Republican, as a business paper. It is valuable in both particulars. It should not only be taken by Hotel keepers, but by business men, all who have anything to buy, or any thing to sell, including farmers, and all kinds of mechanics. If our readers could spare time to keep files regulary, they would find at the end of a year, that they had got a valuable collection, which they would highly prize.

Messrs. Whallon & Judd and Mr. Campbell, have discovered a new iron ore bed, about five miles west of Lake Champlain, near where Westport, Moriah, and Elizabethtown corner. If it holds out as it has opened, it will be the largest and most valuable vein of ore in the world.—It is 60 feet deep, 60 rods wide, and extends into the earth an unknown distance. It has been tried in Col. Whallou's forge, and yields 70 to 80 per cent., and will make a quantity of iron worth $10 on a ton more than any ore now known. It also makes all the parties richer than any men ought to be, without ever doing any more business whatever. The quality and quantity may fail on further examination, but the owners have no doubt whatever, and they are discreet men. This is all right. We like to have our neighbors prosper, and next to ourself, we had just as lives "Bill Judd" would make a "ten strike" as any man living.

The Methodist Society of Elizabethtown, are putting up a fine, new church in modern style. It speaks well of their prosperity, and it adds vastly to the general appearance of the village.

We regret to say that the building provided for the County Clerk's office, is totally unfit for its purpose. It should command the first attention of the board of supervisors this fall. It is too small, and leaks both wind and rain. Mr. Adams is too good a clerk to be kept in such a hole, to say nothing of the growing business of the county, which the building will scarcely contain, or the risk of the destruction of the records by rains.

☞ We notice that our old friend NATHAN CRARY, of Potsdam, (of Insurance notoriety) has been nominated for special Judge by the 'Republican' party of St. Lawrence Co. Although opposed to him in politics, we personally wish him all success, for we know of many who would grace the Bench with less dignity.

CONTINENTALS.—This style of Military Companies for villages is becoming popular. One has been organized in Plattsburgh, composed of the best men in the place. Our friend F. S. K. Russell is Captain. The uniforms are to be made in N. Y. and to cost $43 a piece. It will be the best company and the best drilled in the State. Why not have one in Keeseville?

Port Henry is rapidly improving. The Furnace Co. are putting up a new stack on an improved plan. Another furnace is talked of on Cedar Point. A new and most elegant brick church is in the course of construction, that will reflect great credit upon the place and the builders

J. B. Spencer is about completing an elegant new house.

S. H. Witherbee is building a home—house, barn and outhouses,—on one of the most splendid locatios on the lake, and is sparing neither money nor pains to have it magnificent. We take pleasure in saying that we know of no man whose prosperity and future happiness are more gratifying to all than his.

Sad Accident.

An accident of a serious nature happened during the week to a young man by the name of LELAND, while on a hunting excursion to the St. Regis Lake. In company with his brother and a friend, they were about returning home, after a very successful tour, and as the boat was nearing the shore, he seized his rifle laying by his side when the boat suddenly careened. The hammer of the gun caught against the knee of the boat causing an explosion, the ball passing close to the left breast entering near the middle of the arm, barely missing the larger blood vessels. The charge emerged about three inches below the shoulder, on the outer side, shattering the bone extensively. Fortunately the arteries were uninjured. He was brought to this village, a distance of forty-five miles from the wilderness, over a very bad road, before the wound was examined by a surgeon. Dr. TALLMADGE, was called and rendered prompt assistance, and strong hopes are entertained that the arm may yet be saved.

THE VT. AUTOGRAPH & REMARKER.—We have had the pleasure to receive another number of this interesting little sheet. We like to copy from its columns, and shall do so as soon as politics will permit.

By Texas papers of Sept. 21, we see that flour was selling in San Antonio in that State, from 15 to 18 dollars a barrel.

Mr. Lansing, we perceive by the Standard this week, professes to warn whigs of plots against their candidate for Assembly, yet he has himself been trying to plot the defeat of the same candidate, only giving it up for the want of encouragement!

County Convention.

The Democratic Republican Delegates met at the Court-House in this village on Wednesday last, (the 18th instant,) pursuant to adjournment, to nominate County Officers—Colonel G. T. THOMAS in the Chair, and W. R. JONES, Secretary.

After the roll of delegates had been called, on motion, an informal ballot was had for candidate for Assembly, with the following result; Lemuel North, 10—F. Elmore, 7—A. Weston, 6—J. B. Bailey, 3. On the next ballot, Mr. North received 19 votes, Elmore 6, Weston 3; and Mr. North's nomination was then made unanimous.

Richard Cottrill was unanimously nominated for County Treasurer.

Bethuel Jones was unanimously nominated for Coroner, and Benjamin W. Merritt was unanimously nominated for Justice of Sessions.—Plattsburgh Rep.

Temperance.

In view of the approaching Election, I will preach next Sabbath morning, in the M. E. Church, on the subject of temperance.

G. C. WELLS.

[Correspondence of the Republican.]

TROY, Oct. 11th, 1854.

Dear sir:—The Congressional convention for the 12th Dist., held their convention in this city to-day and nominated Russel Sage, the present member from this Dist.

The utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed.

On the return of the committee, announcing their choice, he was immediately declared by unanimous vote, the choice of the convention, and nine hearty cheers were given for the nominee.

The "Softs" also held their convention here to-day, and nominated Henry Clumm. The "hards" will meet here to-morrow and make their choice of candidate. The "Know-Nothings" are numerous in this city, and are eagerly watching the result of these conventions: it is thought by many that they will also have their candidate, but upon this point, I am supposed to "know nothing."

Yours, &c.,
LEE.

☞ JOS S. OLIN, a highly distinguished member of the Troy Bar, and well known in Northern New York, died suddenly in Troy on Saturday last.

☞ S. A. LILLIE, of Bethel, Vt. has been detected in forgeries to the amount of $22,000, and is now in Montpeliar jail awaiting trial.

☞ We learn that U. S. Marshal Mott, has despatched special deputies to Canada, for the purpose of arresting A. C. Nelson, former Post-Master of this village, who escaped from the Troy Jail last week, where he was confined for robbing the U. S. Mail. Whether he has any reliable information as to his 'whereabouts,' we are not informed, but the Col. is undoubtedly "posted up," or he would not undertake the adventure.

THE TREATMENT OF THE ARCTIC'S CREW Capt. Tisdale, implicated by an article in the Albany Register, stating that the crew of the Arctic received ungenerous treatment at his hands on their passage through the Lake on the Canada, has written to the N. Y. Times indignantly denying the truth of the article. Accompanying his denial, in the Times is the following editorial statement:—

"Mr. Wilson and Mr. David Barry, of the crew of the Arctic, called here with Mr. Tisdale and assured us that the whole statement was untrue, and without any foundation.—They assure us that better treatment they could not have experienced anywhere."

The whole story of the illtreatment of the Arctic's crew has no foundation in truth. However started, it has, doubtless been caught up and used by parties interested in competing lines, or otherwise prejudiced against the Lake Champlain Steamers. Simple justice to all concerned, requires that those who have unwittingly given it circulation, should take pains to make the contradiction known.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26th, 1854.

The Port Deposite Bridge gave away this morning, while a drove of one hundred and fifty cattle was passing over.—It broke in the middle, and hangs on the abutments in a dangerous condition. A large number of cattle perished, and it is feared that several persons lost their lives—as some hats were floating in the water.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 26.

The National Cattle Show is now in full sway at this place, and the display of stock is very fine—superior to any previous exhibition in the country. Attendance good.

NEW YORK MARKETS. Oct. 26.

Flour, $8,25 a $8,50, for inferior state. $8,844 a $8,66, $8,75 a $9,00 for favorite. $8,66 a $9,37½ for Western, $10,50 a $11,00 for extra Genesee. Market closing with a buoyant feeling, and with little desire to sell, unless at better prices.

Wheat, Prime, white Canadian held at $2,25, duty paid, and $2.40 a $2,50 might be accepted for small parcels of Genesee in store.

Rye, $1,22. Barley $1,30. Corn in fair demand at better prices, at 81 a 82 cts for Western mixed. Oats in good demand at 52 a 57 cts for state and Western.

The following is circulated in the shape of a hand-bill. We condense its size, and give it a place in the Republican, to keep our readers posted on the events of the day. We shall also endeavor to obtain the proceedings of the meeting for our present issue, if the telegraph is in order and not otherwise engaged.

R. M. MATTOCKS, Operator.

PLATTSBURGH, Oct. 27th, 1854.

THE CONVENTION this afternoon was large and enthusiastic. JEROME B. BAILEY was nominated for Congress by acclamation. Abram Miller, democrat was appointed chairman, and L. Cooley, whig, Secretary.

There were no regular delegates the call being for a Mass Convention. One or two short Resolutions were passed, which were that those present would do all they could to secure the election of the nominee.

U. S. SENATOR IN PENNSYLVANIA.—It seems to be settled that the majority of the Pennsylvania Legislature elect consists of Anti-Administration men. Attention begins to be turned in that State to the question who shall succeed to the seat in the U. S. Senate, to be vacated by Hon. James Cooper on the 4th of March next. Among the candidates proposed, are Hon. W. F. Johnston, late Governor of the State; Hon. Thaddeus Stevens of Lancaster; Hon. Robert T. Conrad of Philadelphia; Geo. William Larimer of Pittsburgh; and A. E. Brown of Easton

Knowing our readers to be anxious to get the doings of the Convention at Plattsburgh yesterday, we have delayed our paper for that purpose

INHALATION IN CONSUMPTION.

The following communication affords convincing evidence of the great success attending the application of medicines in consumption—directly to the lungs—by inhalation.

To the Editor of the New York Daily Times:

I am led by gratitude to Dr. Hunter, and from sympathy for those suffering from that most melancholy of all diseases, consumption, to make public the following successful treatment of a member of my own family by inhalation. For some years previous to January last, she was troubled with a slight hacking cough. From January to the 18th of March—at which time she commenced the inhaling treatment under the care of Dr. Robert Hunter.* Her cough was very severe, attended with expectoration of a tough, mucous matter. Her state was attended with great shortness of breath, loss of appetite, flesh and strength, and at nights she was restless and feverish; her hands and feet were generally icy cold, and she suffered frequently from pain in the chest and from sore throat. In Boston, in the spring of 1852, she expectorated blood, and again in April, 1854. The treatment employed in her case consisted in inhaling medicines from a glass apparatus, several times a day, for ten or fifteen minutes at a time. On the 18th of July, four months from the time of commencing, she was enabled to discontinue, feeling no longer any necessity for further treatment, and has since continued entirely free from her distressing malady. This tribute is offered not alone to inhalation, but also to the skill and solicitude which throughout marked the attendance of Dr. Hunter.

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of eight hundred and sixty one dollars and twenty nine cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the fifth day of August, 1853, executed by David Hinds, Jr., of the town of Keene, in the county of Essex and state of New York, to John Roth and James C. Roth of the city of Troy, county of Rensselaer and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the said county of Essex, in book R., of mortgages, pages 444 and 445, on the sixth day of August, 1853, at nine o'clock in the forenoon.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described and covered by said mortgage to wit—ALL that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Wilmington, county of Essex and state of New York, known as part of lot number thirteen in Jay tract, and described as follows—beginning at the north west corner of said lot number thirteen, running thence south twenty-one degrees west thirty five chains and seventy five links, to the southwest corner of said lot thirteen; thence south sixty nine degrees east twenty-one chains and sixteen links to a post and stones, being the southwest corner of a ten acre lot heretofore sold to Rowland Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east six chains to the center of the brook; thence down the center of the brook as it winds and turns to the line of a part of said lot number thirteen, heretofore sold to Newell Marshall; thence north twenty one degrees east along said Newell Marshall's line thirty chains and seventy-five links to the north line of said lot thirteen; thence north sixty nine degrees west thirty nine chains and sixteen links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty acres. The above courses are given as set down by John Richards in his survey, will be sold at public auction at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon,—Dated the 9th day of September 1854.
SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagees.

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, & the interest thereon from the 1st day of April, 1853, which is claimed to be due on the day of the first publication of this notice upon a certain mortgage, executed by David Hinds, Jr ; then of Keene, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Thomas A. Tomlinson, of Chesterfield, county and state aforesaid, of all that certain piece, or parcel of land, lying and being situate in the town of Keene, Essex county, and state of New York, bounded as follows—On the north by lands formerly owned by Stephen Patridge, now owned by Ira Marks, known as the forge lot, on the east and south by lands owned by Franklin and Hills Sherburn, and on the west by the middle of the river, containing about ten acres of land, being the same premises conveyed by warranty deed to Joseph Hillman, bearing date the 29th day of November, 1849—said mortgage is dated the 31st day of August, 1852, and was recorded with the power of sale therein contained in the office of the clerk of Essex county, on the 2d day of September, 1852 in Book R. of mortgages on page 95, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof ;—Therefore notice is hereby given, that said premises will be sold at public auction, and the said mortgage thereby foreclosed, pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, on the 12th of December, at 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the Adirondac Hotel [so called,] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex. Dated the 9th day of September 1854
SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagee.

Mortgage Sale—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand three hundred and eighty-four dollars & fifty two cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of June, 1842, executed by Martin Pope and Enretta, his wife, of the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Ebenezer Proudfit, Jacob L. Van Schoonhoven, and David T. Vail, of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on Liber K. of mortgages on pages 222, 223 and 224, on the 9th day of July, A. D., 1842, at 4 o'clock. P. M. which said mortgage was on the 29th day of May, 1854, duly assigned to Alvin Colvin, Charles P. Allen, and Isaac Nye, The interest of Charles P. Allen in which said mortgage, was on the day last aforesaid duly assigned to John K. Converse.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage. and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, to wit—ALL that certain lot of land, known and distinguished as lot number fifty five of the Adgate tract or patent of three thousand, six hundred acres, situate in the town of Chesterfield in the county of Essex, and state of New York, supposed to contain about one hundred and sixteen acres, and having thereon a dwelling house. and including a wharf in Douglass bay on Lake Champlain, together with all other buildings and erections on the said premises hereby conveyed now standing, will be sold at public auction, at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called,] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Dated the ninth day of September, 1854. 540:13

PILLS.
FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A
FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity ; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins ; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness. Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood : in short, any and every case where a purgative is required

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
For the rapid Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known. who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c., and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption. Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED
BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 29th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma ; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times. that for hours together my friends expected each hour. would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes, from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing. and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
New York Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John. New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package. which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better. until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No. 149 Chambers Street; C. H. RING, corner of John street and Broadway N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. P.—Any person inclosing $3 to BOYD & PAUL. or Curtis & Perkins New York will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor. one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler in a neat box, by express, free to any part of the United States; or four packages for $10. 522 1y

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma. and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor, and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health ; as an evidence of which; he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks :—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN

Patent Agency Company.

No. 343 Broadway, N. Y.

J. TARBELL, Agent, Keeseville, N. Y.

The objects of this Association are the introduction and sale of valuable patents and patent machinery on commission. To facilitate these objects, the Company have provided the large and handsome structure No. 343 Broadway called the PANTHEON, where specimens and working models of such machinery and inventions as they may offer for sale will be exhibited in operation.

For the protection of themselves and the public, they have selected a Board of Examiners, composed of men eminent in their various professions, and of extensive experience in matters pertaining to patents, and no patent will be accepted for sale unless the Board shall favorably decide as to the utility of the invention and validity of the patent.

As a further protection to purchasers every invention offered for sale by this Company will be guarranteed both by the proprietors and the Company, to equal the advantages claimed for it, or sold on condition of such performance.

The Company and its agents simply negotiate sales; hence assignments to purchasers will be made directly from the inventor or his assignee or attorney. A rigid adherence to these rules, it is confidently believed, will effectually protect the inventor or proprietor, the public, and the Company.

In connection with these general objects, the Company have established a purchasing and superintending bureau and have secured the services of Messrs. Truman Cook, Erastus W. Smith, and Charles Elman who will give their special attention to the purchase or construction of steam engines, boilers, lathes, mills &c. Being practical machinists of admitted ability and experience as designers and builders of every description of steam machinery, purchasers may confidently rely upon being faithfully and skillfully served.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

ERASTUS W. SMITH, Consulting and Superintending Engineer.
TRUMAN COOK, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
CHAS. ELMAN, Civil and Mechanical Engineer.
J. W. AYRES, Steam and Mechanical Engineer.
HAZARD KNOWLES, Mechanist, [for twelve years in the Patent Office.]
WILLIAM SEWELL, Steam Engineer.
H. L. STUART, Civil Engineer.
Prof A. K. EATON, Analytical Chemist.
HAZARD KNOWLES President.
JAMES BEATTIE, Jr., Secretary.

The facility with which patents have been granted for plausible and deceptive "improvements," has rendered the beneficent objects of our Patent Laws, viz: the protection and encouragement of inventive genius of almost no effect, by the odium which attaches to the very name of "Patent Right." Hence although the public in this sweeping judgment may in some degree protect itself from imposition, yet it will at the same time do injustice to real merit, and deprive itself of really valuable improvements in the mechanic arts. To obviate these difficulties, then is to supply a positive want of the present time.

By the plan of our organization, we hope to accomplish in some degree this object. We by no means intend to assert that we have now, or ever will have entrusted to our management all of the good inventions of the day; but, simply, that those which we do offer are, beyond all doubt that which they purport to be.

By offering such improvements at reasonable prices, we hope to reap a just reward for our services, and at the same time be of service to the public and the inventor.

Amongst the most important and useful means for the successful accomplishment of those objects, is the aid of the already established mediums of public communication, and the employment of local agents who shall have a direct personal interest in the spread of correct information in reference to, and sale of the improvements.

LIST OF PATENTS FOR SALE.

The American and Foreign Patent Agency Company, 343 Broadway, New York, offer for sale the following Patents and Patent Machinery, viz:

1. Knowle's Patent Saw-mills, and Hand and Whip saws. The mills are guaranteed to cut 50 per cent. more than the best upright mill with the ordinary shaped tooth and guides; to do it with 30 per cent. less power, and to save one sixth in width of sawkerf. Price of Mill and Right, $1,250.

2. Irving's Circulating Steam Boiler. Guaranteed to save half the fuel used by an ordinary cylinder boiler; occupies but one third of the available space; no encrustation in using turbid or impure water.

3. Rich's Pressure Centre-Vent Water Wheel. Guaranteed to yield 70 per cent; to run under back water without detriment; to run with equal speed whether loaded or light; and to be superior in every respect to any wheel now known, and for any purpose, and under any head from three to thirty feet.

Price of wheel for ordinary grist or saw mills, $250—this includes wheel, scroll, shaft gate boxes, &c., all fitted complete, and entirely of iron. For cotton factories paper mills &c., the price is in proportion to the work to be done, but always cheaper than any other wheel.

The manufacture yields a profit of from 150 to 200 per cent.

County and State Rights for sale, and wheels supplied.

4. Ruger's Spiral Lathe. By this simple machine all that work which has heretofore been done by hand, is now performed with superior accuracy and smoothness, and at the rate of 60 feet per hour. Mouldings, picture frames, balusters, columns, &c., are carved in great variety of spiral forms, such as a rope, spiral flutes, under cut spiral cords, &c.

Cost of machine, $300. The right to manufacture and sell for sale and the articles furnished. Price of mouldings from 15 to 50 cents per yard.

5. Mowry's Stave Machine for dry barrels and half barrels. Cuts 90 staves per minute, all ready for the truss-hoop without intermediate handling! Price of machine, $500.—Rights for sale, and machines furnished.

6. Chichester's Flax and Hemp Machines, for breaking and dressing flax and hemp. Warranted superior to anything ever before introduced. Price with right, $60.

7. Jone's Typographer. A little instrument which prints as fast as the majority of people write without setting type. Used in schools and families, and by doctors, lawyers, and clergymen. Price $12. The Right for sale, and the article furnished at cost.

8. Fros & Monroe's Patent Atmospheric Bolt and Bran Duster, with Carr & Hughes' improvement. These patents cover the main points of this valuable improvement, all other atmospheric bolts being infringements. It is applicable to every variety of flouring mill, and saves from two to four per cent. from the bran of any other bolt, meaning that the use of this bolt will make 104 and 101 barrels where the other bolt makes 100 barrels. Price of bolts from $300 to $500, according to the extent of the mills using it.

9. L. P. & W. T. Dodge's Patent Pump. No packing is used. The most simple, most effective, and most durable pump of the day. Price from $21 to $100.

10. Cary's Rotary Pump and Fire Engine. The best and only rotary pump that has ever been entirely successful. It is simple, durable, and is repacked with the greatest facility, a most effective fire engine. Price from $35 to $700.

11. King's Washing Machine, and Wringing and Drying Apparatus. By this machine from 50 to 1000 pieces of clothes can be washed in five minutes. Steam is used instead of rubbing or friction. The family sizes are from $50 to $125, for large hotels and laundries in proportion.

12. Wagner's Clover and Timothy Seed Harvester. With this simple but ingenious machine a boy with one horse will harvest from eight to ten acres per day, taking the heads only of the clover or timothy. Price $100.

13. Armstrong's Patent Grate-bars. Effecting a saving of 10 per cent. in fuel. Price of patent one cent per pound, manufacturers one half cent per pound.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial.

PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION.

This invaluable Cordial, is extracted from Herbs and Roots, which have been found after years of experience by the most skillful Physicians, to be possessed of qualities most beneficial in the diseases for which it is recommended, and hence whilst it is presented to the public, as an efficious remedy it is also known to be of that character on which reliance may be placed as to its safety. In cases as Impotency Hoemorrhages, Disordered Sterility, Menstruation, or Suppression of the Menses, Fluror Albus or Whites, or for arising from any cause, such as weakness from sickness, where the patent has been confined to bed for some time, for Females after Confinement, Abortion or Miscarriage, this Cordial cannot be excelled in its salutary effects; or this loss of Muscular Energy, Irritability, Physical Prostration, Seminal Weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Sluggishness, Decay of the Procreative Functions, Nervousness, &c., where a TONIC Medicine is required, it will be found equal, if not supperior to any Compound ever used.

DEBILITY

TO FEMALES.

Henry's Invigorating Cordial, is one of the most invaluable Medicines in the many Complaints to which Females are subject. It assists nature to brace the whole system, check excesses, and creates renewed health and happiness. Less suffering, disease and unhappiness among Ladies would exist, where they generally to adopt the use of this Cordial. Ladies who are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to are restored by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

YOUNG MEN.

That solitary practice, so fatal to the existence of man and it is too young who are most apt to become its victims, from an ignorance of the danger to which they subject themselves, causes

NERVIOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the System, and Premature Decay. Many of you may now be suffering, misled as to the cause or source of disease. To those, then, who by excess have brought on themselves Premature Impotency, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Weakness and Shrivelling of the Genital Organs, Nervous Affection, or any other consequences of unrestrained indulgence of the sensual passions, occasioning the necessity of renouncing the fullnesss of lessening both mental and bodily capacity, Hold! Henry's Invigorating Cordial a Medicine that is purely Vegetable, will aid nature to restore those important functions to a healthy state, and will prove of service to you. It possesses rare virtues, is a general remover of disease, and strengthener of the system.

MARRIAGE,

AS A TONIC MEDICINE,

it is unsurpassed. We do not place this Cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, append long list of Recommendations, Certificates, &c., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we say.

THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL."

Is put up in 8 oz. Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit which is forgery) as well as his private Seal on the cork of each Bottle.

☞ Sold for $2 per Bottle; Six for $8; $16 per dozen. Prepared only by S. E. COHEN, No. 3 Franklin Row Vine Street, below Eighth, Philadelphia Pa; C. V. Clickener & Co., N. AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate himself before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and his sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization rebraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon in the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th of Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town of Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more or less, excepting and reserving two acres of land on which now stands the house and out buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—and for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysen to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at 7 o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages on pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid, according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will theretore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Harmon L. Weatherhead, in the town of Schroon Essex County New York, on the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN, Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty.

Dated Schroon, July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182.87 and interest, in one year from August 2d, 1850, Moses Felton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day of August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex, and State aforesaid, all that certain piece or parcel of land lying and being in River Street, so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded to Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot of land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or nearly so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession of Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly so, one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando, thence north on the west line of Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, being fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, on the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A. M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment of the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236,00. No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex, on the 11th day of December next at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

Tax Sale.

Essex County, Treasurer's Office. }

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the powers in me vested by law, I shall on the first Tuesday of December next at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Court House in the town of Elizabethtown, commence selling at public vendue, so much of the several and respective lots, tracts, pieces, or parcels of land in the annexed list described, as shall be necessary to pay all state, county, school, highway and road taxes assessed thereon in the year 1851, or prior thereto, that may then remain due on them respectively, together with the interest, costs and charges, which have arisen or accrued, or that may arise or accrue thereon, and shall accordingly sell, and continue from day to day to sell, until the whole shall be completed.

The purchasers are required to pay the purchase money within forty-eight hours after the last day of the sale, and will thereupon receive certificates of their purchases. And after the expiration of two years from said last day of sale, will be entitled to receive conveyances for the lands so purchased by them respectively, unless the same shall have been duly redeemed.

CONGRESSIONAL.
For Member of Congress,
HON. GEO. A. SIMMONS.

Last Words.

The election comes off next Tuesday, and this is the last opportunity we shall have of appealing to our readers. No lengthy arguments are necessary. Whig doctrines have been repeated over and over, till they are familiar as "Household Words." The only question is, will whigs do their duty?

Divide and Conquer.

Whigs, look at that—think of it. The destiny of the great State of New York, is in your hands, if you so will it. You have but to will it, and it is done. On the other hand, if you suffer divisions to distract you, a pusillanimous defeat will be the result.

The Issues.

The issues of the present campaign, are direct and important. There never was more at stake, than now. The great questions of the age are to be passed upon, and whigs should not suffer themselves to be distracted or thwarted.

Watchman what of the night?

The result will be the triumph of whigs, or the Administration with its rascalities, vagabonds, and slavery. No third ticket, no Independent Candidates are to succeed—except in defeating whigs and the great question of the day. Who wants Seymour, and Ludlow elected—the Canals filled up—the will of the people set at naught—and Slavery rampant. Or who wants Pierce Democracy elected, with Pierce and Nebraska to his coat-tail, and a political vane on his head giving assurance that another Nebraska Swindle would find a sure support in him? Not whigs certainly, and they should no more aid such results indirectly by voting for third tickets and independent candidates, than to vote directly for them.

Think of it.

Do whigs desire the defeat of any part of their ticket? Would they be satisfied with such a result on the second sober thought after election? Think of it. But more particularly, do they desire the triumph of the friends of the Pierce and Nebraska Administration? Would they take any pride in such a result? Would they not feel like humbling themselves in the dust? Think of it.

Rally! Rally!!

The only way for the friends of the respective candidates to secure the success of their favorite, the only way to save a defeat, disastrous in all its consequences, the only way to heal present dissensions, is to rally together for the ticket, the whole ticket, and nothing but the ticket. Defeat of only a part of it will only widen present wounds, and perpetuate present differences. A rally together will harmonize present troubles, and bring together old friends almost seperated. After election, there will be a calm, when old friends can calmly take their latitude and longitude and calculate their position. If then, they can no longer travel the same road, they can part as friends. Once more, we say rally! rally!!

Look Out!

For split tickets, handbills, and Roorbacks. Vote the clear ticket. Let Whigs of Old Essex do their duty, tho' all others fail.—Good men should attend the polls in every town.

We perceive by California papers, that Wilson Flint, formerly of Crownpoint in this county, and still of the firm of S S. & W. Flint of that town, is elected to the State Senate of California, from the city of San Francisco. He is a thorough going business man, and has made a "pile," but John was reared in New Hampshire, and is, or was, a democrat.

"Curious, is'nt it?"

The Administration Candidate for Congress,—the leader of the Ne-plus-ultra of democrats, has not only had his tickets printed on an Abolition press, in this village, but he has had the same press running at midnight! And while proclaiming Mr. Simmons as his peculiar candidate, "Extra" Plattsburgh Republicans, with favorable notices of Mr. Thomas, have been received in many towns, superscribed in that same Abolition Editor's own peculiar handwriting, that some body might be deceived, and the chances of Mr. Thomas and Slavery promoted! "Curious, is'nt it" Somebody must show Lansing a whiskey barrel and a slave owner, or he will lose sight of his principles altogether.

Here is what the Jeffersonian says of the recent Soft Congressional Convention, its proceedings, and nominee. The Jeffersonian is published at Malone, and edited by Judge Flanders, the candidate of the Adamantines for Congress in this district

☞ We understand that a Convention, composed of nearly every species of politicians except true democrats, was held at Platisburgh last week, and that he said conclave, after a protracted session, and no little trouble, nominated Gorton T. Thomas, of Clinton County, as a candidate for Congress in this district. The papers in that interest publish no proceedings and no platform. How could they, since the soft shell party is dissolved, and those lately belonging to it, who have gone into the new organization, make no other issue than the liquor question? A pretty issue that, for a candidate for Congress to run on, isn't it? These quondam soft shells are in a bad way.

Important!

Hon G. T. Thomas, the Pierce and Nebraska candidate for Congress, has issued the following card:—

To the Electors of the 16th Congressional District.

Believing that in the present divided state of the Democratic party, their interest will be better promoted by my declension, than standing as a candidate for Congress, I hereby decline the same.

Those of my friends who have remained true to Democratic principles and men, I am aware may blame me for this movement, but when I inform them that I have reliable information that the secret organization of Know Nothings in Clinton County have about 2,000 enrolled and sworn men to vote for their candidate, Jerome B. Bailey, and the other counties about the same proportion, and that one half of these men are in Democratic ranks, I think I shall be acquitted of acting wrong. It is due to the candidates who remain in the field, Joseph R. Flanders, and the Hon George A. Simmons, that I should say that in my opinion, neither of them are connected with the Know Nothing movement. Their views on the great political questions of the day, are well understood by the electors of this District, so that they can vote understandingly, but they should beware of that party whose action endangers civil and religious liberty, who persecute men on the account of their birth place, and who act assassin like in smiling in your face, while they have the hidden stiletto concealed. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Very truly yours,
GORTON T. THOMAS.

Keeseville. Nov., 3 1854

Choose ye,—Either Myron H. Clark or Horatio Seymour will be next Governor of this State. Choose ye, Clark, the Canals enlarged, the will of the people respected, and Slavery and Pierce rebuked, or Seymour, the Canals arrested, the State bankrupt, the will of the people annulled, and Pierce and Slavery exultant. Choose Ye!

We give the following a place, although the writer's name appeared by mistake, and has since been corrected.—[Ed. Rep.

Schroon, Oct. 16th, 1854.

Col. Tarbell,

Dear Sir:—In looking over your paper of last week, I saw my name placed to an article headed, "Local Correspondence." Now, sir, I never wrote any such scandalous article, nor I do not know who did. I think it was no democrat, or friend to our Col., who I appreciate as a gentleman of briliant talent, a good citizen and worthy man, I think it due to me to give this a place in your columns.

Your Ob'd't Serv't,
JOEL F. POTTER.

In this mammon-worshipping age, it is rare to find a man place his usefulness to the public, before his interest. During a late visit to the "City of Spindles," we were presented by a professional friend, to the celebrated Chemist, Dr. J. C. Ayer, whose name is now perhaps, more familiar than any other, at the bed-side of sickness, in this country. Knowing the unprecedented popularity of his medicines, and the immense sale of them, we had expected to find him a millionare, and rolling in wealth. But no, we found him in his labratory, busy with his laborers, among his crucibles, alembics, and retorts—giving his best personal care to the compounds, on the virtues of which, thousands hang for health. We learned, that notwithstanding his vast business, and its prompt returns in cash, the Doctor is not rich. The reason assigned is, that the material is costly, and he persists in making his preparations so expensively, that the nett profit is small.—American Farmer, Phil.

The democrats of Franklin County, are running two tickets. We hope to hear of a whig triumph in that county.

Barnum has sold his auto-biography which he has lately prepared for publication, for $75,000. Quere? Is'nt that a "sell?"

[Correspondence of the Editor.]

Natchez, Miss., October, 1854.

Col. Tarbell:—

Dear Sir:—I have the pleasure to hand you enclosed, the amount due you up to January 1st, 1855.

Letter writing is entirely out of my line of business, however I might say, that I left Willsborough in October, 1849, since which time I have been a resident of this place. Have been here nearly five years, and during that time have enjoyed good health, with the exception of the yellow fever last season. I am delighted with the climate—the sociability of the people—and the best evidence of my sincerity is, that I intend to make it my permanent home.

I was once on the point of having the "Republican" discontinued, because your anti-slavery sentiments, to one that has seen, and is somewhat familiar with the Institution of Slavery, was very distasteful indeed. Northern men have a very erroneous opinion of slavery, as it exists in the south; but the only way to convince you that such is the fact, is, for you to pay us a visit. Come out to the "sunny south,' Col., and we will show you the best fed, the best clothed, and the happiest lot of darkies you ever saw? and my word for it, you will go back with sentiments and feelings entirely opposite of what you now see fit to advocate in the "Republican"

Respectfully yours,
J. L. WALLACE,

Remarks.—We are sure our friend will excuse us for publishing his letter, though not intended for that purpose. It will be interesting not only to our Willsborough readers, but to our readers generally. We are glad our friend allowed his good sense to prevail, and did not finally discontinue the Republican, for the cause alledged. He thus sustains the freedom of private opinion, and we will not pursue this point further. A word, however, on the merits of slavery. Our objection is not to the treatment of the slaves, but it is to the right to enslave a human being. As to the treatment of slaves as to labor, food, raiment and morals, accounts differ, and so we have never discussed these points, but base our objections to slavery, on the system as a whole, and to the right of man to enslave his brother man. Northern sentiment is very much divided on this question.

1. The Garrisonian Abolitionists, numbering only a few thousand, who are a crazy set of fanatics, denouncing alike, God, the Bible, the devil, human slavery, and all who do not agree with them. They are about the same account as a bee, a wasp, or a thorn—regarded only for their sting.

2. Abolitionists proper. These men are a rank higher in the scale of being, than Garrisonians. They scorn to be ranked with the latter and to avoid the odium of their name, are adopting the party nomenclature of Free Democrats. They number about 15000 votes in this State. They differ with the Garrisonians, they hold all law, human or divine, authorizing slavery, as void; in this, they adopt the Bible as their rule of faith, profess to be purer, and better, and holier, than other men, or christians; in short, there is no end to their professions of honesty and purity, and in this respect, they excel the pharisees of old, while at the same time the leaders are bigotted, pugnacious, impracticable, and to forward their party interests, are not at all scrupulous, as to means, or the political character of those with whom they co-alesce.

The rest of the people are variously divided on this question, some verging towards the south, others to the north, while the position of the great body of the voters north, may be summed up thus: No more Slave States, no more Slave territory, restriction of Slavery by all constitutional means, no invasion of Slavery in the Southern States, surrender of fugitiv slaves by a just and proper law, and protection of the south, in all constitutional rights.

This we say is the position of the great body of the Northern people. At the same time many are acting with the great political parties, who individually entertain opinions as radical as those of Gerrit Smith, but knowing them to be impractical, they keep along with their old political associates, hoping for the good time coming, when these sentiments will become those of the majority. We are one of those who believe there is no law, human, or divine, by which man can be held in bondage, and we yield our opinions in practice only, from a great public necessity—the same necessity that vests the title to real estate in England in the Norman conquerors: to declare their title invalid, would create more trouble, produce more misery, and do more harm, than to sanction it, although originating in war, piracy and stealing.

We take it for granted, our remarks will not give offense, though frankly uttered. On the contrary, we hope they will prove interesting, and may be, useful. We assure our friend we should be delighted to visit Natchez, and the time may soon come when we shall do so. We do not, like the patriot Mitchel, "sigh for a plantation, well stocked with negroes," but really we should not like to have our principles tested by the offer.

Godey's Lady's Book for November, has made our household smile, as it always does—a smile of welcome. Its fashions, and its patterns, to say nothing of its varied reading, could not be spared.

What Folly.—Just as the Whigs were about to rush into the complete control of the State, by the irresistable tide of public opinion, they must needs open their arms and take in the State—first this one, and then that one. The result is they are distracted,—this one pulling this way, and another that way, while the common enemy is likely to step in and steal the inheritance. There is yet a few days to election, and we hope the time will be improved, in a general and united rally upon the whole ticket. Will Whigs just stop for a moment, and consider what fools they must be, to be whcedled out of any part of the ticket this fall.

The trial of Nicholas Beehan, at Riverhead, L. I. for the murder of the Wickam family, has terminated in his conviction, and a lame attempt was made to set up an alibi, but it failed utterly. The hardened scoundrel, on being sentenced by the court, exclaimed, "Thank you Judge, I'll be dead in a week, and leave you my hair for a wig." If death was ever righteously inflicted, through the instrumentality of the law, it will be in his case.

☞ The Administration has purchased an Organ in the City of New York, and appointed a Custom-House Officer as Organist. One Newspaper, therefore, in the great City, speaks for the Administration.

☞ Baker, of the Sandy Hill Herald, in noticing the robbery of the mails by Nelson and one or two other postmasters recently, says it is enough to make any man dishonest to hold office under the administration of President Pierce, and begs his friends not to tempt him any more by mailing money letters. His successors has been appointed, but has not yet taken possession.

Awful Calamity and Singular Coincidence.

Early in Sept, Geo. W. Farr and Wm. Stone, of Bucksville, (formerly from West Moriah, N. Y.,) started for Grand Rapids for the purpose of buying pine lands, calling at Cleaveland, Ohio. They left some business transactions in the care of Geo. H. Wyman, Esq. They went to Grand Rapids bought some pine lands,' and on Saturday, Oct. 7, left Grand Rapids to return home. On Sabbath evening, Oct 8, they took passage on board the ill fated Steamer, E. K. Collins, for Cleaveland. About 11 P. M., after most of the passengers had retired, the boat was discovered to be on fire—the alarm was given, and Farr and Stone (sleeping in the same room) jumped from their berths and endeavored to make their way through smoke and flame to the cabin door. Stone was heard to say, "Farr where are you;" Farr replied, "here I am," Farr succeded in reaching the door, jumped into the lake, and was saved by a propeller which came o the rescue of the burning Steamer.—Stone has not been heard of since.

This was Sabbath night at 11 P. M., on Monday Mr. Stones relatives called at the office of Geo. H, Wyman and reported that Mrs. Stone was very much prostrated, and dangerously sick, in consequence of an "awful dream she had had the night before, about her husband; She dreamed that her husband was on board a Steamboat and died by an awful death."

While communicating the above fact, Mr. Farr came into the office and reported the details of the burning of the boat—the death of Mr. Stone, and his own rescue.

The above facts are beyond doubt. Will you give them a place in your columns for the benefit of the friends of the parties living in Essex and Warren counties.

New Army Drill.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from West Point, under date of the 16th instant, states that for several weeks, a Military Board, composed of Colonels and Captains, had been engaged in producing a new drill for the Infantry. As soon as it shall be mastered by the Cadets, who have been employed upon it, it will be introduced into the army. The drill is identical with the one which originated in France many years ago, under the name of Chasseurs de Vincennes, originally Chasseurs de Orleans, which the Duke de Orleans and his chosen tacticians invented and introduced. Its superiority to anything known or used, has been admitted by all the military powers of Europe, and earned for it a wide celebrity. It is impossible to give here any description of this drill. But it seems to me that as we have a militia fond of drilling and manœuvreing, and representing the real military force of the country, nothing could be more in harmony with its orgauization than this new method. It simplifies and makes easy the forming of lines and columns—indeed, it renders all military movements among platoons, companies and battalions as simple as could be desired, and the charging and firing of arms is made precise and regular. Besides, it requires but little time to drill a novice into it. And, being adapted to the Light Infantry, it must answer for the militia, who in case of need, may be used as a light portion of an army for offensive and defensive purposes. Any intelligent officer of a militia company may easily master this new drill in a fortnight, and in turn, instruct those in his command.

Battle of Plattsburgh.—On the 12th September, 1812, Gen. Alexander Macomb wrote to the War Department, giving an account of the repulse of the enemy from Plattsburgh on that day, with the loss of nearly two thousand five hundred men, (in killed, wounded prisoners, and deserters,) among whom was Col. Wellington, of the Bufls. In his despatch Gen. Macomb says:

"We have buried the British officers of the army and navy with the honors of war, and shown every attention and kindness to those who have fallen into our hands."

The American loss was only thirty-seven killed and ninety-nine wounded, and twenty missing.

Washington, Tuesday, Sept. 14.

The father of young Holland still clings to the hope that by some such miracle as saved Capt. Luce, his son has also escaped the perils of the Arctic's wreck. Conversing with him to-day, he exclaimed, "My boy is not lost; I will not give him up". "But," he continued, "better a thousand times that he should perish in the manly discharge of his duty, than have saved a craven life by such cowardice and selfishness as marked the conduct of many of the crew." That sentiment will find an echo in every manly breast; and the proud consciousness that his son went down standing at his post, his head still wreathed by the smoke of the signal gun he had fired for the last time just before the wreck sank to its gloomy grave, will afford the father's heart no little consolation when he realizes at least that his boy had finished his duties on earth.

Is that So?—The N. Y. Times gives the following:

We heard a statement yesterday which seems worthy of attention. A gentleman of this city was coming down on the Hudson River railroad train, and upon the seat behind him sat two rough brawny, swearing men,—one of whom was rehearsing to the other in a confidential tone, the manner of his escape from the wreck of the Arctic. He said among other things, that they did not mean to let them upper fellows get the start of them with the boats;—and added that he himself pitched two or three of them out to make room for his friends. It is greatly to be feared that we have but an imperfect idea of all the scenes enacted on board that sinking ship.

The Goblin Snob; with nearly fifty comic engravings, imagined and illustrated, By Henry L. Stephens, Author of the "Comic Natural History," "Vidkins," &c., with illuminated cover. Price 50 cts.

To laugh or not to laugh, that is the question,
Whether it is better in us to suffer an outrageous side-ache,
Or throw up our arms, and, with a tremendous guffaw,
Say,—thus we end it.

Well, truly, that Goblin Snob and his son were funny fellows, and decidedly rich are the capers they cut, and capitally comic are the illustrations of their tricks, with poetry to match. Well, who would have thought there was so much fun yet left to be brought out? That Stephens must be a capital fellow. It is just the book to make ourselves and our children laugh in the long nights that are coming on. Buy it; it is worth twice the money asked for it.

The Crop.—A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser writing from Pittsfield, Mass, says: I have passed through all sections of Massachusetts, from the north east part of the county of Essex to the Berkshire Hills, in every direction, and my opportunities of acquiring information from personal inspection and from conversation, have been almost unlimited—and I feel a confidence in the following statement. The hay crop was a full average crop; rye was never better, and oats an average crop.—Corn, which is one of the important crops, will be full average. In many parts of the State it is very fine, on some of the light soils and in some very wet soils where the planting was delayed by the heavy rains in the spring, the crops will be small.

☞ The Bank Fever has begun to rage in Vermont with great severity. The first bill presented to the Legislature was for the charter of a bank at West Randolph, and this quickly followed by bills for banks at Bennington, Johnson, Hydepark, Watersville, Hinesburg, Winooski, &c, &c. Some of the applicants, and very possibly all of them, are doomed to disappointment.

To the Electors of Essex County.

Schroon, October 25, 1854.

We, Electors of the town of Schroon, Essex County, N.Y., having observed in the Elizabethtown Post, the Democratic organ of Essex County, the name of J. F. Potter Esq., of our town, in nomination for Justice of Sessions, soon to be voted for; do protest against his name being made use of for this purpose; he, (said Potter,) having so conducted himself, as to be no longer worthy of our confidence, or support; especially in the line of his office, as Justice of the Peace. We further recommend Absalom P. Morse, Esq., of Minerva, to be a very competent man for the office of Justice of the Sessions, he being a prompt Temperance man, and of his ability we need not to speak, as most of the Electors of Essex County, are acquainted personally, or with his general good character, sufficient for this or any other purpose.

Signed,—Thomas Leland, Ransom Seamans, Dan Foster, Wm. C. Potter, George W. Ford, James L. Huntley, Joel Tyrrel, Benj S. Warner, W. M. Foster, Benajah Tyrrel, Henry Hall. Thomas D. Mortgage Sale.—Default having been made in performing the conditions of a certain indenture of Mortgage, executed on the 12th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty three, (1843) by David Russell, of the Town of Salem, in the county of Washington, and State of New York, as mortgagor to James Brown, of the Town of Providence, in the county of Saratoga, and State aforesaid, as mortgagee, to secure the payment of the sum of five thousand dollars, in five years from the date of said mortgage, with the interest thereon annually, and which mortgage with the power of sale contained therein was recorded, and the power of sale registered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Essex, on the 13th day September 1843, in Liber L. of mortgages pages 19, 20, and 21, at 7 o'clock P. M. and there is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of three thousand eight hundred and ten dollars and sixty-five cents.

The said mortgage was duly assigned and transferred by the said James Brown to Robert Speir, of the Town of Milton, in said county of Saratoga on the 27th day of June 1849, and by said Speir was assigned to Marvin Freeman, of the town of Salem in said county of Washington, on the 13th day of October 1854, which said assignments respectively are recorded in the said office of the said Clerk of the county of Essex, and the said Marvin Freeman is now the assignee and owner of the said mortgage.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgaged by said indenture of mortgage as hereinafter described will be sold at public auction and the said indenture of mortgage foreclosed by such sale at the Hotel kept by James Tefft, in the town of Ticonderoga, in the said county of Essex, on the seventh day of February 1855, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

The said mortgaged premises described in said mortgage are as follows; "all that certain tract or patent of land situate, lying and being in the towns of Crown Point and Moriah, in said county of Essex, and State of New York known as Legge patent in said county of Essex, and bounded and described as follows to wit; Beginning at the south west corner of a tract of one hundred and fifty acres land granted to Alexander McKenzie and running thence along the west bounds of the said tract north eleven degrees, east seven chains; thence west two hundred and fifty one chains; thence south one hundred and ninety eight chains thence east two hundred and three chains thence north seventy five chains; thence east one hundred and five chains to lake Champlain; thence north along the lake as it runs to the above mentioned tract of land, granted to Alexander McKenzie; thence along the south bounds of the said tract west to the place of beginning, including within the bounds aforesaid a tract of fifty acres of land called the Grove granted to the said Alexander McKenzie, containing exclusive of said last mentioned tract, five thousand acres of land and the usual allowance for highways &c.

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagees.

Mortgage Sale—Whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents, & the interest thereon from the 1st day of April, 1853, which is claimed to be due on the day of the first publication of this notice upon a certain mortgage, executed by David Hinds, Jr, then of Keene, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Thomas A. Tomlinson, of Chesterfield, county and state aforesaid, of all that certain piece, or parcel of land, lying and being situate in the town of Keene, Essex county, and state of New York, bounded as follows—On the north by lands formerly owned by Stephen Patridge, now owned by Ira Marks, known as the forge lot, on the east and south by lands owned by Franklin and Hills Sherburn, and on the west by the middle of the river, containing about ten acres of land, being the same premises conveyed by warranty deed to Joseph Hillman, bearing date the 29th day of November, 1849—said mortgage is dated the 31st day of August, 1852, and was recorded with the power of sale therein contained in the office of the clerk of Essex county, on the 2d day of September, 1852 in Book R. of mortgages on page 95, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof;—Therefore notice is hereby given, that said premises will be sold at public auction, and the said mortgage thereby foreclosed, pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, on the 12th of December, at 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the Adirondac Hotel [so called.] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex. Dated the 9th day of September 1854

SAMUEL AMES, Att'y for mortgagee

Mortgage Sale—Default has been made in the payment of the sum of seven thousand three hundred and eighty-four dollars & fifty two cents, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of June, 1842, executed by Martin Pope and Euretta, his wife, of the town of Chesterfield, in the county of Essex, and state of New York, to Ebenezer Proudfit, Jacob L. Van Schoonhoven, and David T. Vail, of Troy, in the county of Rensselaer, and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Essex, on Liber K. of mortgages on pages 222, 223 and 224, on the 9th day of July, A. D., 1842, at 4 o'clock. P. M. which said mortgage was on the 29th day of May, 1854, duly assigned to Alvin Colvin, Charles P. Allen, and Isaac Nye, The interest of Charles P. Allen in which said mortgage, was on the day last aforesaid duly assigned to John K. Converse.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, to wit—ALL that certain lot of land, known and distinguished as lot number fifty five of the Adgate tract or patent of three thousand, six hundred acres, situate in the town of Chesterfield in the county of Essex, and state of New York, supposed to contain about one hundred and sixteen acres, and having thereon a dwelling house and including a wharf in Douglass bay on Lake Champlain, together with all other buildings and erections on the said premises hereby conveyed now standing, will be sold at public auction, at the Adirondac Hotel, [so called.] in Chesterfield, in said county of Essex, on the 12th day of December, 1854, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Dated the ninth day of September, 1854. 540:13

THE POCKET ÆSCULAPIUS!

The fortieth edition with 100 engravings showing diseases and malformations of the human system in every shape and form. In which is added a treatise on the Diseases of Females, being of the highest importance to married people, or those contemplating marriage, by WM. YOUNG, M. D. Let no father be ashamed to present a copy of the Æsculapius to his child. It may save him from an early grave. Let no young man or woman enter into the secret obligations of the married life, without reading the Pocket Æsculapius. Let no one suffering from a hackned Cough, Pain in the Side, restless nights, nervous feelings, and the whole train of Dyspeptic sensations, and given up by their physicians, be another moment without consulting the Æsculapius. Have the married, or those about to be married any impediment, read this truly useful book, as it has been the means of saving thousands of unfortunate creatures from the very jaws of death.

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method,

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made, by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. DR. CURTIS'S Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED.
BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; bad pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No. 149 Chambers Street; C. H. RING, corner of John street and Broadway, N. Y.—Price $3 a package.

N. B.—Any person inclosing $3 to BOYD & PAUL, or Curtis & Perkins New York will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor, one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler in a neat box, by express, free to any part of the United States; or four packages for $10. 522-1y

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists' throughout the country, (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AYER'S PILLS,

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Bilious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c., &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the eminent gentlemen to whom we are allowed to refer for these facts, are

PROF. VALENTINE MOTT, the distinguished Surgeon of New York City.

DOCT. A. A. HAYES, Practical Chemist of the Port of Boston, and Geologist for the State of Massachusetts.

IRA L. MOORE, M. D., an eminent Surgeon and Physician, of the City of Lowell, who has long used them in his extensive practice.

H. C. SOUTHWICK, Esq., one of the first merchants in New York City.

C. A. DAVIS, M. D., Sup't and Surgeon of the United States Marine Hospital, at Chelsea, Mass.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these eminent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies, extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realised by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their regular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third and Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia Pa.

INVALIDS

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr KINKELIN, [Author of a work on Self Preservation] to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not relieved in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted infirmities, and devastating affections.—Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences until they find the nervous system shattered by strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is timid and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in his sport with less energy than usual.

If he emancipate him elf before the practice has done its worst, and enter matrimony his marriage is unfruitful and has sense tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be healthy the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization restored, revivified and strengthened

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr Kinkelin's treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance that the secrets of Dr. K's patient will never be disclosed

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can cordially befriend you

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Ask how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has sailed from the earth

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K We witness a thousand cases annually promptly cured, and full vigor restored

COUNTRY INVALIDS.

Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all their symptoms, per letter inclosing a remittance) Dr. K's medicines, a proportionate according.

To be warded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

Read, Youth & Manhood!!

A vigorous life, or a premature Death. Kinkelin on Self-Preservation—Only 25 Cents

It is a work eminently required as a means of reforming the vices of the age in which we live. Also,

Mortgage Sale.

LEWIS Sprague, of the town of Schroon the county of Essex and State of New York by deed of mortgage duly executed under his hand and seal and dated the 15th Jan, 1853, duly mortgaged to Abraham B. Van Benthuysen, of the same place, all that certain piece of land situated in said town Schroon and known and described as the north half of lot No. 47 Hoffman Township more less, excepting and reserving two acres land on which now stands the house and buildings occupied by Heart Burbank—for a more particular description reference may be had to a deed bearing even date, running from the said Van Benthuysen to the said Sprague of the same premises, and recorded in the Clerks office of the said county of Essex. The said mortgage with the power of sale therein contained was duly recorded in the Clerks office of the said County of Essex, on the th day of February, 1853, at o'clock P. M in volume R. of mortgages pages 252, 253, and 254. Default has been made in the payment of the moneys and interest secured to be paid. according to the terms of said mortgage and the bond accompanying bearing even date and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said moneys and interest secured thereby or any part thereof—and there is now due the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of two hundred and twenty six dollars and twelve cents. Said mortgage will therefore be foreclosed by a sale of the said premises at the Schroon Lake House, kept by Hamon L. Weatherhead. in the town of Schroon Essex County New York. in the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1854, at ten o'clock the forenoon.

ABRAHAM B. VAN BENTHUYSEN;

Mortgagee,

CYRUS L. BLANCHARD, Atty.

Dated Schroon. July 12th, 1854. 533.

MORTGAGE SALE—To secure the payment of the sum of $182 87 and interest in one year from August 2d, 1850; Moses Fulton, then of the town of Ausable, in the County of Clinton, and State of New York, by deed under his hand and seal, did on the 2d day August, 1850, by a deed of mortgage of that date, duly mortgage unto Heman O. Matthews of Chesterfield, in the County of Essex and State aforesaid. all that certain piece parcel of land lying and being in River Street so called, in the village of Keeseville, in the County of Essex aforesaid and bounded as follows, to wit: "Beginning in the north-west corner of the lot of land heretofore deeded Albert Conro by William W. Hartwell, the same being the south east corner of a lot land deeded by James W. Taggard to Sabrina Forsyth and others; thence south or near so on River street aforesaid, seventy-one and a half feet, to the lot now in the possession Doctor Blaisdell; thence east or nearly one hundred and twenty feet to the west line of a lot of land lately owned by Peter Brando's lot, to the south line of said lot so as aforesaid deeded to Sabrina Forsyth and others, ing fifty-four feet; thence east or nearly so, the said last mentioned line to the place of beginning. Which said mortgage with a power of sale therein contained, was recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Essex aforesaid on the 6th day of August 1850, at 9 o'clock A M. in volume P., of mortgages, pages 273 and 274. Said mortgage was on the 11th day of September, 1854, duly assigned by said Matthews to Oliver Angier.

Default has been made in the payment the money secured to be paid by said mortgage and there is claimed to be due on the first publication of this notice, the sum of $236,00 No suit or other proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the said money or any part thereof. Now THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and of the Statute in such case made and provided, the said premises will be sold at public auction at the office of the "Essex County Republican" in the village of Keeseville, in said County of Essex. on the 11th day of December next at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated September 16, 1854.

Loan Commissioner's Sale.

Essex County Loan Office,
October 28th. 1854.

THE undersigned commissioners for loaning certain moneys of the United States deposite fund, will sell at public vendue, at the Court House, in said county of Essex on the first Tuesday in February next, at one o'clock P. M. the following described lands and tenements to the highest bidder, by authority of the act, authorizing the loan of certain moneys belonging to the United States deposited with the state of New York for safe keeping passed April 4th 1837, to wit:

MORTGAGE, No. 49—All that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the said town of Lewis (formerly Willsboro,) which is contained in Patent granted to Platt Rogers, being the south east corner of lot number twenty-three (23) in the subdivision of the said patent, and is bounded as follows: Beginning at the south east corner of said lot, number twenty-three (23) (being also the south corner of number twenty-two) at a tree marked 22, 23, and running thence west, thirty-four chains seventy-eight link; thence north twenty-eight chains and seventy-five links; thence east thirty-four chains and seventy eight links to the west bounds of said lot number twenty-two; thence south along the said west bounds twenty-eight chains and seventy five links to the place of beginning; containing one hundred acres, Mortgaged by Noah Lee, of Lewis, for $270,00.

ALSO, Mortgage No. 68.—All that certain piece of land in the town of Moriah, in a tract of land known as Small's patent, it being the south west part of lot No. 17 of said patent; Beginning at the south west corner of that part of said lot No. 7, owned by Washington Lee, distinct from that part intended to be described which said corner is situated 28 chains from the original, north west corner of the whole lot No. 17, and running south 16 chains and 53 links to the original south west corner of the whole lot No. 17; thence east on the south line of said lot No 17 to a stake 35 chains and 11 links; thence north 25 chains and 83 links to the public road; thence along the middle of said road north 30° west 13 chains and 50 links to the south east corner of said Lee's land, owned by him, of said lot No 17 which said corner is 12 chains and 50 links from the united corner of the lands owned by Samuel Adams, and said Lee, and Cyrus B. Adams; thence in a direct line to the place of beginning 32 chains and 50 links and containing ninety six acres of land. Mortgaged by Lot Hadaway, of Moriah, for $387, (three hundred and eighty-seven dollars.)

ALSO, Mortgage No 80—All that certain lot of ground, situate, lying and being in the town of Ticonderoga, in the County of Essex, State of New York, and is more particularly known and distinguished by being lot number Five in the allotment of forty village lots, at the Lower Falls, on the outlet of Lake George, agreeable to a map made of said lots by Silas D. Kellogg, Surveyor, in May, 1822, bounded as follows, viz: Beginning at a stake standing in the centre of a lane, laid fifty links wide, being also the south-west corner of lot number two, thence along the centre of said lane, North eighty degrees West, one chain and twenty-five links to a stake and stones, marked No. 5, thence south ten degrees West five chains and sixty-four links to a stake and stones, marked No 5, and the line continued fifty links to the centre of Highway, thence along the same, south eighty degrees East one chain and twenty-five links, thence North, ten degrees East, sixty chains and fourteen links to the place of beginning, containing one half acre and twenty-eight rods of land, exclusive of highways and lanes, mortgaged by William Spencer, of Ticonderoga, for one thousand dollars. ($1,000.)

ALSO, Mortgage No. 135.—All that certain piece or parcel of land, situated in the town of Wilmington, in the county aforesaid and is known as lot number 31 in Mallory's grant and is bounded as follows: Beginning at the north east corner of lot number 32; thence southwardly on the highway 100 rods to the south east corner of lot No. 30; thence westwardly to the centre of the river; thence down the centre of the river 25 rods north of the north line of lot No. 30; thence south 60 degrees east to the south east corner of a piece of land sold to Reuben Sanford off lot No. 31; thence running northerly along said Sanfords east line until it intersects the south line of lot No. 32; thence easterly along the said line to the place of beginning, containing 59 acres be the same more or less, Mortgaged by Wendell Lansing and Eliza H. his wife of Wilmington, for $400.

Goodrich of Crownpoint for $454,00.

ALSO Mortgage No. 141.—All that piece, parcel or lot of land situate, lying and being in the town of Crownpoint, in the County of Essex and State of New York known and distinguished as subdivision lot, number sixteen, on the Grant Patent, and is bounded and described as follows, to wit:— Commencing at an Iron-wood stake and stones on the north boundary line of the Patent, at the south-eastern extremity of lot number seventeen, formerly in the possession of Roswell Barnum, and runs thence southeasterly, fifteen chains and thirteen links to an Iron-wood stake and stones, thence southwesterly along land, in the possession of Henry Haile, thirty-four chains and sixty links to a hemlock stake, in the easterly or original bed of Putnam's Creek, thence along the same to the northern boundary line of the Patent, at a cedar stake and stones, thence westerly, along the same, forty-seven chains and twenty-one links to the place of beginning, containing sixty-three acres and twenty-five hundreths of land, be the same more or less: mortgaged by J. R. Goodrich, of Crownpoint, for $279.60.

ALSO, Mortgage No. 170.—All that certain tract piece or parcel or lot of land situate, lying and being in the town of Moriah, county of Essex, known and distinguished by the name of lot No. 412 in the Paradox tract containing 160 acres of land be the same more or less as the same has been surveyed and described in the map and field book of the said tract, filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Also all that certain piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Moriah, aforesaid, and bounded as follows, to wit: Beginning at the north east corner of lot No. 3, in township No. 49 Totton and Crossfield purchase, in the subdivision of lot No 2 and distinguished and known as lot No. 4, and running thence north 31° 30 minute west 44 chains to a stake and stones; thence north 58½° east 25 chains and 89 links to a stake and stones; thence 31 1-2° east of south 37 chains 75 links to the river; thence down said river as it winds and runs to the place of beginning containing 100 acres of land be the same more or less excepting and reserving one half of all the pine timber that was standing on said lot, one year ago for the benefit of Daniel Tarbell, and the School House and 3-4 of an acre of land on which the School House now stands, which said 3 4 of an acre was deeded by Daniel Wetherhead to the trustees and their successors in office of the school District to which said school house belongs. Also, all that piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Moriah, aforesaid, and being a part of lot No. 19 in the 49th township of Totton and Crossfield purchase; beginning in the east line of the state road in the division line between lots No. 19 and 20 in said 49th township, running thence north 32° east 20 links; thence south 47° east 19 chains and 50 links to the northerly bank of Schroon River; thence westerly along the northerly bank of said River about 6 chains and 30 links to the aforesaid division line between lots No. 19 and 20; thence north 31° and 30 minutes west 15 chains and 29 links to the place of beginning, containing 5 acres of land be the same more or less, Lot No. 412 Paradox Tract, all of lot No. 3, excepting 25 acres the other part having been sold to Benajah Thompson are not to be incumbered by this mortgage, having been put in through mistake. Mortgaged by Jacob Parmerter of North Hudson for $232.

The interest money and the expenses of sale of the above lands, will be required to be paid in cash. The principal can remain on a new mortgage for a term of years, provided the security is deemed sufficient.

H. H. ROSS, 2nd.
JNO L. MERRIAM,
Commissioners for loaning certain Money's of the United States Deposite fund for Essex Co.

Sheriff Sale,—By virtue of several executions issued out of the supreme court, to me directed and delivered against the property of James Ferguson, I have levied upon all the title which the said James Ferguson had on the 1st day of May 1854, or which he may have since acquired of, in and to the following described real estate.

Part of lot No. 31, in North Hudson in road patent, containing 46 3 4 acres, and 30 rods of land.

Also a certain other piece of land situate in the northeast corner of lot No 29, being a piece sold to Randal Farr, by Jared Rowe, being a gore between lot No 31, and the highway, containing three acres more or less.

Also a piece of land known as G 7, bounded on the north by lot H. 8., on the west by lot No. 31, east by lot No 180, south by lot 182, particularly described in field book, containing 36 acres, excepting and reserving from above described premises of lot No 31, road patent, all that part thereof which lies west of the centre of the highway, called the State Road. Also, excepting all the rights and privileges heretofore granted and conveyed by George W. Farr to Amos Harvey. Also, all that certain parcel of land described as follows, being part of lot No. 40, in road patent North Hudson, which lies east of highway aforesaid, containing one acre. Also, the north half of lot No. 132 in Paradox tract containing 93 7 10 acres of land. Which said real estate I shall expose for sale at public auction, at the Inn of Jacob Tappen, in Moriah in said county of Essex, on the 18th day of December next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

C. W. ENSIGN, Sheriff.

Dated, October 23th, 1854. 543w7

Sheriff Sale.—By virtue of several executions issued out of the Supreme Court, of the State of New York, to me directed and delivered against the property of William J. Ireland and Orson P. Morse; I have levied upon all the title which the said Ireland and Morse, or either of them had on the 9th day of September 1851, or which they or either of them may have since acquired of, in and to all of the following described real estate.

Lot No. 13, containing 240 acres; Lot No. 14 containing 160 acres; Lot No. 35, containing 160 acres; Lot No 36 containing 240 acres; making in all 800 acres. Said lots being situate in the North half of the 14th township of Totten & Crossfield's purchase in the town of Minerva, county of Essex and State of New York.

Also, another parcel of land situate in the town of Schroon, in Essex county being part of Platt Rogers's Road Patent, described as follows: Beginning in the south east corner of a lot of land now owned and occupied by A. P. VanBenthuysen; from thence south along the centre of the state road 21 degrees west one chain and 89 links, to the corner of a lot now occupied by A. P. Rawson; from thence north 61 degrees west five chains to a cedar post for corner; from thence north 21 degrees, east one chain and 89 links to the corner; from thence south 61 degrees east, along the south line of the VanBenthuysen lot 5 chains to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty rods more or less.

Also, lot No 5, Township 25 Totten & Crossfield's purchase, surveyed by Stephen Thorn, containing 100 acres.

Which said real estate I shall expose for sale at public auction, at the Inn of Jason Tappan, in North Hudson in Essex county, on the 13th day of December next, at one o'clock P. M.

C. W. ENSIGN, Sheriff.

THE REPUBLICAN.
KEESEVILLE:

Friday Morning, November 11

The Union of Lakes, the Union of Lands,
The Union of States none can sever,
The Union of Hearts, the Union of Hands,
The Flag of Our UNION—Forever."

Adieu.

With this number, very much to our surprise, closes our connection with the Essex County Republican. It is as much of a surprise upon us, as it can be upon our readers and friends. Negotiations were opened about two months ago, and fell through, as we supposed, forever; but they were again renewed in the early part of last week, and promptly closed. Our reasons are various, and need not be repeated here. Our successor, we doubt not, will be eminently popular in this, as in all his relations in life. He is honest, capable, and faithful, and we commend him cordially to our friends. We trust he will receive a more undivided support, and meet with far better success in every respect, than we have. We, however, are under a lasting debt of gratitude to all those faithful friends, who have stood by us in all circumstances. We have been as successful as we expected, but not as much so as a more undivided support would have secured to us. As is to be expected in all enterprises of life, we have had our friends and our enemies, our likes and dislikes,—but on the whole, we have formed attachment for the people, within the field of our labor, and to the paper, over which we have had the supervision for four happy years, which it is hard to sever. We believe, however, the change is wise, and will prove to the mutual advantage of all. We leave the Republican in a prosperous condition. It has gradually increased in circulation, in our hands, and added largely to its friends and business. It has also been improved by us and is now far more valuable than when we took it.—Its jobbing facilities are the best in any country office north of Albany and it is as widely known and patronized as any country paper in the state. It has also, on all occasions, exerted an important influence on the elections. The great majorities of 1852 were obtained in those towns, where the campaign Republican circulated in packages of from 50 to 150.—Our friends may be assured, we look upon it with pride, and leave it with regret.—We commend it and our successor to the pride, and favor, and united support of our friends.

In thus taking our final leave we part with friends we could wish we might reward, but no enemies to punish. We have had selfish, unscrupulous, and unprincipled opponents, as well in as out of the whig party, but time will set us right.

Our friends will notice that we have kept out of our paper, every element of political discord—have treated all alike without regard to their relations to us—have endeavored to allay discord and division—and with what success, let the imagination picture, in contrast with the hitherto undivided front and uniform success of the party, the divisions and strifes, if the Republican had lent itself for the four years past to either faction. When the passions and the prejudices of the hour shall have passed away, the whigs of Essex county will look back upon our Stewardship with cordial satisfaction. We hope they will ever find a man as self-sacrificing and disinterested, and one with whose management they will have as little cause for real complaint.—Overlooking personal aggressions and impelled by a sense of duty to the party, we have frequently done good to those who have systematically despitefully used us, and we only wish now for their happiness and prosperity. We forgive all, and wish them well.

Our "task is done," * * * * * what is writ is writ—
"Would it were worthier! * *
And now,
"Farewell, a word that must be, and hath been,
"A sound which makes us linger—yet—farewell! Farewell!!"

THANKS.—The following gentlemen will please accept our thanks for early election returns:

J. J. Seaver, of the Palladium, Malone, A. G. Carver, of the Clinton Co. Whig, Plattsburgh, C. E. Everest, Esqr, Champlain, J. Hazleton, Wilmington, S. Wells, Jay, W. H. H. Hull, Keene, M. F. Nicholson, E'town, J. W. Steele, Lewis, Gen. Ross, Essex, P. Butler, Moriah, H. H. Havens and W. H. Dyke, Crownpoint, Col. Calkins, Ticonderoga, D. D. Osgood, North Elba, Jacob Parmerter, North Hudson, and F. J. Potter, Schroon.

COMMENTS.—Accompanying our election returns were generally a few comments, some of which were amusing. We append such as we think will be taken in good part by all.

One friend sending us rousing figures, says, "We have had hard work to day—no aid and comfort to any bolters!!"

Another sending meagre majorities, and a temperance man too, says, "The Maine Law question thus cost the whig ticket in this town, 45 to 20 votes."

Another, where a single vote was cast for Mr. Blish, appends the following postscript:

P. S.—I understand that a committee has been appointed to ascertain who gave the vote for Blish, and a small reward will be given to the person who will properly authenticate the same by affidavit.

Yours, &c.

Another sending majorities with which the most ambitious might be satisfied, and such as made us involuntarily give three cheers, still grumbles thus:

"My opinion is, the whigs, by taking the Maine Law, have lost here, 50 votes, and may have saved 6 votes, and perhaps 6½."

We have some quizzical things, at which no exceptions would be made in manuscript, but in print they might be taken in dudgeon.

☞ We have frequently been asked where we are going and what we shall do next.—We can only reply, we are afloat—with no place in view. We shall devote the winter to visiting and settling, and in the mean time decide upon the future. We are strongly inclined to the west, but as heretofore, so now, we may be restrained by a father and mother who are getting in years, and desire us to remain near them. It is sufficient to say, we are afloat with the world before us.

HUNTINGTON,
VERMONT, OCTOBER 23d, 1854.

FREE STATE POLITICS.—It certainly might be supposed by any candid, discerning mind, opposed to the Slavery propagandism, involved in the Nebraska act, of Douglass and his clique, that we, people of the Free States, one and all, who are opposed to that said nefarious scheme, and wish to see it checked and headed off, might be reasonable and conciliatory enough every where to overlook and waive their party distinctions, and unite with each other in their State electioneering organization, so as to present an effective, unbroken phalanx against the invader, as the interest of the common cause demands they should. True, to a good and effective degree, the main body of the Whigs and Free Soilers, have thus united in organizing, nominating and voting the same ticket, and thus achieved, rousing anti-Nebraska victories, the grand one desideratum at this time; but I am sorry to see, at the same time, too much party spirit and selfishness on the part of Whigs, Free Soilers, and anti-Nebraska Democrats, to be willing to unite thus, party prejudice operating to prevent them. Hence, it is that in New York and Massachusetts, the parties organize and nominate separately, as heretofore. Now this is not right; not showing the proper spirit; for even, where the Whig or Free Soilers are strong enough to think of carrying the State alone, it is still better to join together, where each is agreed, or professes to agree on the main point. The inhabitants of a place, threatened with invasion, who, in view of such danger, won't unite in defence, deserve to be conquered. The Free States, if they would be united, would outmatch the slave power, but they can't if they do not be.

Examples and victories to be followed up.

The result of the elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana, held the present month, have been gratifying to the friends of freedom, having swept those states clean of Nebraska slave propagandist influence, and thus presented an example for those states to follow who are yet to vote, which it is hoped they will improve to good purpose.

Vermont Legislation

Our neighbors in other States, who read and note proceedings of the Vermont Legislature, will see that it has so far, this year, redeemed its character, as to wasting any time, and being likely to prolong the session by obstinate prolonged contests, in trying to choose officers. Not only did the people save them the trouble of electing the Government and other State officers, but they proceeded with the choice of Speaker, and Clerk and U. S. Senators, without trouble. The only strife of any consequence, was on Secretary of State, and resulted in the election of the acting incumbent, Thompson, so that it is hoped they will get through by the close of the first week in November.

Conformity to popular fashions, Custom and faith not a moral duty.

Reason and justice teaches us, (if we will hear to their dictates) that while a scrupulous respect for the personal rights and civil privileges of our fellow creatures around us is a duty due from us to them, as essential to the mutual friendship and peace of society, so that we neither infringe upon and violate the one, or interfere by intolerance and persecution with the other, it is not essential to this peaceful order of society, to conform to the customs, fashions, and prevailing faith of the community around us, since a differing from them in this respect, not interfering with the exercise of the right of conformity on the part of others, it involves no war on the peace of society to dissent and differ from the custom, fashion and faith cherished by the majority. Justice nor charity cannot exact of us the outwardly conforming to what in our minds we do not approve or believe to be our duty, because a conformity under such circumstances, must be hypocritical or slavish. The fact is, we owe no such duty to popular fashion, custom or creed, as a slavish conformity to it, when we don't believe it to be a duty. For people therefore to exact such conformity from all who comes among them whether or no, and laugh at or frown upon, or in any way persecute, reproach, or treat those coolly who do not conform or assent to the prevailing fashion, or custom on such and such occasions, or assent to and recognize the prevailing religion, do but show bigotry, narrow mindedness and self-conceited folly, and intolerance. What then, tho' a man don't choose to relinquish the old fashioned cut away coat for a straight bodied one, (the present) what though he don't throw away quill pens for steel ones, or plain paper for ruled; what though he don't believe in the christian religion, and the boasted authority of the christian religion, and in its ceremonies in the ostensible way of worship, and of course not attending them on any occasion, and withal makes bold to speak and write accordingly, as did Hume, Paine, Ethan Allen and others? I say, what though a man be independent to have an act, a mind of his own, in these matters? Ought he to be proscribed and treated coolly, because hereof, or be told he must be more conforming, though at the expense of sincerity? No. Justice, reason and honesty, all forbid it. Let us be bold and independent enough to act according to our views in these matters. It involves no interference with the rights of others.

Once more I tender a debut to the Essex Co. Republican, through the Autograph and Remarker, with the hope, that the publisher will remember to exchange promptly on its reception, mailing one paper only, and then stop till they get another from me, ere they send again.

SCHUYLER FALLS.

Govr.—Ullman 107, Clark 43, Seymour 92, Bronson 25.

THE STATE.—There is no doubt of a whig Legislature, but of what stripe, is not known. Governor is in doubt at latest accounts. Ullman has been ahead at times, and last night, Seymour's election was reported as sure, but this morning, (Friday,) Peter Comstock, who left Troy at half past 2 yesterday, P. M., reports Clark as elected. Doubtful.

The several towns of Clinton County, gave majorities for Member of Congress, as follows:

	Simmons.	Bailey.
Clinton,	6
Ellenburgh,		33
Mooers,	289
Champlain,	143
Chazy,		77
East Beekmantown,		83
Plattsburgh,		373
Saranac,	5	5
Schuyler Falls,		83
Peru,		6
Ausable,	41
Black Brook,	33	660
	512

Majority for Bailey, 148, with West Beekmantown to hear from, which may increase it to 175. The whole whig ticket is elected in that county, by large majorities. Hon. Josiah T. Everest, Member of Assembly.

ESSEX COUNTY—THE RESULT.—Essex County never falters. Unlike many men, she is true when aid is needed most. Notwithstanding alarming disaffection at home, and dishcartening news from abroad, her noble sons rallied in their strength, and behold the result. Is it not glorious? Probably 900 majority for Gov.—over 1500 plurality on Congress, and the county ticket elected by majorities, ranging anywhere from 1000 to 2000!! 'Essex County—behold her—there she stands!!'

FRANKLIN COUNTY.—Letters from the Palladium Office, Malone, inform us, that that County is 1000, to 1500 for Mr. Simmons, with a whig Member of Assembly.

☞ We delay our paper so as to give the result in the State, and more complete returns in the county and Congressional district.

THE COUNTY.—Our returns are still incomplete. From a large share of the towns we have had the entire vote for each candidate and this is as it should be, while from others we have only majorities and these only on candidates in which the individual writing took the most interest. One town sends Governor, another Congress, another Assembly, another Clerk, another Treasurer, and so on. We foot up, however, as follows, and we think our estimate will not be far out of the way:

Govr.	over	900	Majority.
Congress	"	1500	Plurality.
Assembly	"	750	"
Clerk	"	1400	Majority.
Treasurer	"	900	"

"Enough is as good as a feast," though we have got a feast here. These majorities are sufficient for all practical purposes certainly. Any man that finds fault with them would find fault if he was to inherit a gold mine.

Further Election Returns.

Clinton co. gives about 300 whig majority, for Governor.

Franklin co. gives a small majority for Governor,

Mr. Simmons will have from 2000 to 2500 plurality in the district.

Horatio Seymour, we fear is Gov. of the State of New York by temperance votes cast for Daniel Ullmann.

ALL HAIL.—Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan are all Anti-Nebraska.—All hail!

☞ Graham for November has not been received at this office. It is seriously missed and as we faithfully notice its reception will the Editors remember us and supply the omission?

WANTED.—No. 462 of date of March 12 1853, and No. 405 of date of Feby. 7, 1852. of the Essex County Republican, for which 50 cts. each will be paid.

☞ The Free Democratic ticket for Essex co., was printed at the office of the Northern Standard, and distributed all over the County without any candidate for Congress therein. Following the card of Mr Thomas's declining to be longer a candidate, and within an hour after, and which was also printed at that office, came another handbill from the same office, warning the electors against the tickets thus distributed and advising them that others with the name of Georgo A. Simmons inserted had been forwarded.

This has been an exciting election, in this village in particular, especially so as to member of Congress. Does any body suppose Mr. Lansing omitted the name of Mr. Simmons, (who he named as his Candidate) in the printing and distribution of tickets for the entire county, by mistake? Never. These facts in connection with those of last week, leave no doubt of treachery. It is of no consequence, only as exposing the man If duly appreciated, Mr. Lansing and his paper will be left "alone in their glory."

☞ The long advertisements which have so long been in the way of many of our readers, will be issued in a supplement by our successor, and the Republican otherwise improved in appearance and contents.

We have only partial returns from Jay, and St. Armand, with Minerva and Newcomb to hear from. The vote thus far, indicates the results as stated elsewhere.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in performing the conditions of a certain indenture of Mortgage, executed on the 12th day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty three, (1843) by David Russell, of the Town of Salem, in the county of Washington, and State of New York, as mortgagor to James Brown, of the Town of Providence, in the county of Saratoga, and State aforesaid, as mortgagee, to secure the payment of the sum of five thousand dollars, in five years from the date of said mortgage, with the interest thereon annually, and which mortgage with the power of sale contained therein was recorded, and the power of sale registered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Essex, on the 13th day September 1843, in Liber L. of mortgages pages 19, 20, and 21, at 7 o'clock P. M. and there is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice the sum of three thousand eight hundred and ten dollars and sixty-five cents.

The said mortgage was duly assigned and transferred by the said James Brown to Robert Speir, of the Town of Milton, in said county of Saratoga on the 27th day of June 1849, and by said Speir was assigned to Marvin Freeman, of the town of Salem in said county of Washington, on the 13th day of October 1854, which said assignments respectively are recorded in the said office of the said Clerk of the county of Essex, and the said Marvin Freeman is now the assignee and owner of the said mortgage,

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case provided, the premises described in said mortgaged by said indenture of mortgage as hereinafter described will be sold at public auction and the said indenture of mortgage foreclosed by such sale at the Hotel kept by James Tefft, in the town of Ticonderoga, in the said county of Essex, on the seventh day of February, 1855, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

The said mortgaged premises described in said mortgage are as follows; all that certain tract or patent of land situate, lying and being in the towns of Crown Point and Moriah, in said county of Essex, and State of New York, known as Legis patent in said county of Essex, and bounded and described as follows, to wit; Beginning at the south west corner of a tract of one hundred and fifty acres of land granted to Alexander McKenzie and ran thence along the west bounds of the said tract north eleven degrees, east seven chains; thence west two hundred and fifty one chains; thence south one hundred and ninety eight chains; thence east two hundred and three chains; thence north seventy five chains; thence east one hundred and five chains to lake Champlain; thence north along the lake as it runs to the above mentioned tract of land, granted to Alexander McKenzie; thence along the south bounds of the said tract west to the place of beginning, including within the bounds aforesaid a tract of fifty acres of land called the Grove granted to the said Alexander McKenzie, containing exclusive of said last mentioned tract, five thousand acres of land and the usual allowance for highways &c.

ASTHMA CURED
BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma ; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
NEW-YORK Dec. 27th. 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph ; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick ; when I reached this city, my health was very poor ; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood ; had pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package, which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it. JOHN WOOD.

Sold by BOYD & PAUL, No. 149 Chambers Street ; C. H. RING, corner of John street and Broadway N. Y.—Price $3 a package
N. B.—Any person inclosing $3 to BOYD & PAUL, or Curtis & Perkins New York will receive a package containing a bottle of Hygean Vapor and one of Cherry Syrup and an Inhaler in a neat box, by express, free to any part of the United States ; or four packages for $10. 522 1y

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma and all diseases of the lungs We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health ; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks :—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of COLDS, COUGHS, HOARSENESS, &c.; and for CHILDREN it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—

Are apprised that Dr. Kinkelin continues his practice to a particular branch of medicine which engages his undivided attention. He cures the venereal virus against the abuse of mercury; thereby all unusual mercurialized matter is entirely eradicated out of the system.

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In the treatment of a class of diseases little understood, he is enabled to offer KINKELIN, (As he is often styled,) a sure preservation from the fatal consequences of nervous debility, local and constitutional weaknesses, and physical sufferings, arising from abuse or indiscretion in habits, forming the most perfect yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There is an evil habit so frequently indulged in by boys, in solitude, so deeply growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not relinquished in time, not only becomes seriously obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to diseases of a more horrible and destructive character, rendering the sufferer a burden to himself, and even to society. Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences until they find the nervous system shattered to a frightful and unaccountable degree, and vague fears in the mind.

The male to whom the afflicted becomes feeble is unable to honor with success, medicine ought to apply his mind to study; he is still irresolute, and engages in the sport with less energy than usual.

He can anticipate him either in the practice has done his work, and even in matrimony his marriage is unfulfilled and unpleasant, but this is caused by his early follies.

These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated.

MARRIAGE

Requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be easily borne, and of not all marriages could the veil which covers the ruin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and in true source in every state one finds in how many cases it is buried to avoid physical disgrace, and their attendant disappointments. Apply then while it is yet time, in order to have your undone and relaxed organization retraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER.

He who places himself under Dr. Kinkelin's treatment may rely implicit, confide in his honorable gentlemanly conduct, as he is upon the assurance that the secrets of Dr. K's patient will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who from education and respectability, can never only efficiently but

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own breasts, and cure themselves. Awful how often is this fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society, has sunk from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly overcome by the application of a new and improved agent, discovered only by Dr. K. We know a dozen individuals lately promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

Tax Sale.

Essex County, Treasurer's Office. }

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the powers in me vested by law, I shall on the first Tuesday of December next at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the Court House in the town of Elizabethtown, commence selling, at public vendue, so much of the several and respective lots, tracts, pieces, or parcels of land in the annexed list described, as shall be necessary to pay all state, county, school, highway and road taxes assessed thereon in the year 1851, or prior thereto, that may then remain due on them respectively, together with the interest, costs and charges, which have arisen or accrued, or that may arise or accrue thereon, and shall accordingly sell, and continue from day to day to sell, until the whole shall be completed.

The purchasers are required to pay the purchase money within forty-eight hours after the last day of the sale, and will thereupon receive certificates of their purchases. And after the expiration of two years from said last day of sale, will be entitled to receive conveyances for the lands so purchased by them respectively, unless the same shall have been duly redeemed.

Dated at Elizabethtown, this 1st day of September, 1854.

SAFFORD E. HALE, County Treasurer.

Medicated Inhalation—A New Method.

A MOST WONDERFUL discovery has recently been made by Dr. CURTIS, for the cure of Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Complaints, by Medicated Inhalation. Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, has accomplished the most wonderful cures of Asthma and Consumption in the City of New York and vicinity for a few months past, ever known to man. It is producing an impression on Diseases of the Lungs never before witnessed by the medical profession. (See certificates in the hands of Agents.)

ASTHMA CURED

BROOKLYN, N. Y., DEC. 20th, 1853.

For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; month at a time I have not been able to sleep in a bed, getting what rest I could sitting in my chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected each hour would be my last. During the past six years I have had the aid and attendance of some of the most celebrated physicians, but have received no permanent benefit, and but little relief. I at length had the good fortune to procure Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup. At the time I first obtained it, I was suffering under one of my most violent attacks, and was in great distress, almost suffocating for want of breath. In less than ten minutes from the time I applied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a great measure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfortable night. I have since continued it with the greatest possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. God only knows the amount of suffering this medicine has relieved me from. My advice to the suffering is—TRY IT.

MARGARET EASTON.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK Dec. 27th, 1853.

I came to New York in the ship Telegraph; my native place is St. John, New Brunswick; when I reached this city, my health was very poor; had a very bad cough, raised a good deal of matter, which was frequently mixed with blood; bad pain in my left side, and was very weak and emaciated. My friends and physician pronounced my case Consumption, and beyond the reach of medicine. I accidentally heard of Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup, and obtained a package which I verily believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaler, I found it relieved the pressure on my lungs, and after a while the disease made its appearance upon the surface under the Inhaler. I took the Cherry Syrup as directed, and continued to do so, my cough gradually growing better, until it entirely left me and I now consider myself cured. I still wear the Inhaler, as the use of it is rather pleasant, and believing it strengthening and purifying to the lungs, I feel unwilling at present to dispense with it.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis's Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks [illegible] inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at all the druggists throughout the country. (From the New York Dutchman of January 14th.

PROCLAMATION.

THE Citizens of Essex, Clinton and Franklin Counties, are requested to leave off, their BAD HABITS!!

And in doing so, we would not have our friends subject their bodies to the inclemency of our

NORTHERN WINTER,

But with the warmest feelings that fill our philanthropic breasts, we would modestly beg leave to say that at

CARDWELL'S

Can always be found the best

HABITS

That adorn our citizens. He sells the Cheapest Habits,

THE BEST FITTING

HABITS! HABITS!

That please the Ladies, the FINEST HABITS,

THE LONGEST HABITS!

The SHORTEST HABITS!

The LARGEST HABITS!

THE SMALLEST

HABITS!

And in view of the approaching

COLD WEATHER

AND HARD TIMES,

After leaving off your

OLD HABITS,

If you want to go into

ECONOMICAL HABITS,

You must get into the good

OLD HABIT

Of purchasing all your, CLOTHING at

CARDWELL'S,

For it is said, (and of a truth) that he is dreadfully in the habit of SELLING CHEAP, and I guess that is so, for almost every one you meet will tell you that he is in the habit of buying all his READY MADE CLOTHING at CARDWELL'S CHEAP CASH CLOTHING STORE.

The New York Tribune.

DAILY $6
SEMI-WEEKLY $3 WEEKLY $2

ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

THE Weekly Tribune commences its XIV h annual volume with the month of September—commences it with a circulation (115 000) larger than was ever before accorded to any general newspaper whatever. The circulation has been gradually and laboriously attained by concentrating upon The Tribune the best efforts of many editors and correspondents and by a greater liberality of outlay in each department than was probably ever before risked on any journal. It has striven, and by calling smoothly in the current of Opinion before the Wind and basking in the smiles of majorities, but by an earnest, fearless devotion to Truth and Progress as above all partisan expedients, all temporary interests, all momentary illusions of popularity and power. It has sought an advocacy of Temperance and Liquor Prohibition, of Justice to the degraded and downtrodden and of the equal and attainable Rights of the Human Race, irrespective of race or Creed or Color, have from time to time repelled many sunshine friends, whose prejudices or seeming interests were with the duty contravened, but have contrived to form a character which I will endeavor to maintain as a design for a position among journals which we feel that it will be henceforth a success not to impair.

The leading ideas to which The Tribune is devoted may be briefly set forth as follows: 1. Freedom, to do whatever is equally right—not alone for white Americans, or Anglo-Saxons, or Christians even—of no one Race to determine whether they will or will not hold as other Races in abject bondage—but for every Race and Nation and every adult rational human being. This Freedom is rightfully absolute in the broad domain of Opinion and involves the equal and imperative right to Public Franchise; 2. Order, or the necessary right of the Legally Indicted majority to indict in the sphere of Action all practices which it deems immoral, inexpedient or prejudicial to the common weal; 3. Beneficence, or the wisdom and policy of employing the resources and credit of the community to accomplish works of general and unquestioned utility to which individual means are inadequate or which, though eminently conducive to the public good, do not promise to reimburse by their direct income the outlay required for their construction; 4. Industrial Development, as the cornerstone of a true and benign and National Policy, counting the main dependence of a new and valuable art of production of the soil as more important than the acquisition of a foreign province or island, and equally within the legitimate sphere of National concern and paternal effort; 5. Peace, as a vital condition of the Progress to be established by the mutual assistance study to offer and readily forgive we are prone to redress for every wrong, and never to be sure a hatred accepted as he call us evil names. Liberty.—Such are the chief landmarks by which the Tribune directs its course.

But a small portion of the Tribune is allotted to what is commonly distinguished light reading; but Reviews of New Books of decided interest, with choice extracts illustrating their quality, are freely given, while the great body of our paper is devoted to lucid and careful discussions of the News of the Day, with editorial comments thereon. We have reliable Correspondents in each quarter of the globe, and in many of the principal places of Europe and America, and their letters will add our readers to a clear understanding of the causes which are now gradually converting the Old World into one gigantic arena for the death struggle of rival interest, passions and ambition.

The Tribune contains reliable reports of the Markets—Our Cattle Market reports are more than the price of the paper to those who are engaged in raising and selling Cattle.

No paper involving a great expense as our Weekly and Semi-Weekly could be afforded at the price of these but except in connection with a Daily, but could our daily be sustained at its price without the aid of our country circulation. Large as our circulation is it would involve us in ruinous costs if the receipts for Advertising. We believe that in the Tribune is realized the largest variety and extent of solid information ever contained in a sheet of the day which has been or can be combined with extreme cheapness; and in that faith we commend it to the favorable regard of the reading public. We offer no premiums for subscribers, tempt none to take it by gambling prospects of winning farms or mansions in a lottery in which tickets are furnished to its patrons gratis, by no traveling agents to importune people into taking it, and waste none of our room in dunning our subscribers for pay.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY has recently been Made by Dr. Curtis, of this city, in the cure of Consumption, Asthma and all diseases of the lungs. We refer to Dr. Curtis's Hygeanic or Inhaling Hygeian Vapor, or Cherry Syrup." With the new method Dr. C. has restored many thousand ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—so simply breathing an agreeable, healing Vapor, the medicinally operative must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus expose the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeanic Inhaler can be obtained throughout the country, (from the New York Depot) on and after the first of January 16th.

A pamphlet containing a treatise on Inhalation, to accompany the Inhaler, as above, may be had gratis.
